However, according to Dr. Emanuel Schwartz, cortisons should be given only after all other treatment has failed to give relief. Only the elimination of the offending factor or factors and hyposensitization where elimination cannot be carried out will offer complete success, he said. Dr. Schwartz, an allergist, is associated with the Long Island College Hospital and the State University of New York Medical Center, New York.

Dr. Schwartz gave the results of a study of 22 patients suffering from intractable bronchial asthma who were treated with the drug. They ranged in age from five to 67 years; 12 were females and 10 males, and the duration of asthma varied from four months to 35 years.

Orally administered cortisone relieved the symptoms in 26 of the 31 courses of treatment given 22 patients, Dr. Schwartz reported. Five courses in five different patients had no beneficial effects; four of these five had emphysema, a condition in which the air spaces of the lungs are dialated abnormally. One patient died during treatment, but an autopsy showed no relationship between treatment and the cause of death.

Eighteen of the patients obtained relief within 5 to 12 hours, six in 24 hours, one in 48 hours and one in 72 hours, the report pointed out.

"There seemed to be an increase in the sense of well-being with most of the patients, and in several a sense of euphoria (mental buoyancy) developed," Dr. Schwartz stated. "Several of the patients showed a marked increase in physical activity while taking cortisone. The increased physical activity was mainly due to symptomatic relief . . . As a rule the appetite was increased."

"The results justify the use of orally administered cortisone for symptomatic relief in intractable bronchial asthma after the usual therapeutic measures have failed," Dr. Schwartz concluded.

Auto Accidents are Leading Nation's Increasing Mishaps

During the five year period of 1946 through 1950 motor vehicle accidents claimed as many lives among the millions of industrial policyholders of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company as the next six most frequent causes of accident fatalities combined.

A study of 34,037 accidental death claims paid during the five years to determine where and how injuries occur, revealed the following:

The 14,198 motor vehicle fatalities accounted for more than 2 out of every 5 deaths from all accidents

Second only to motor vehicles as a cause of accidental death was falls, with 5,997 fatalities, of which 3,749 were in homes, 1,457 in public places, and 791 at places of employment.

Next leading causes were drowning, burns and scalds, and conflagrations

"This study gives evidence that accidents, which cause 90,000 accidental deaths yearly in the general population of the United States, occur wherever the activities of daily life are carried on—at home, in public places, at places of employment—and hence there is no simple answer to the problem," the company's safety experts declare. "Little can be accomplished toward reducing this heavy loss of life without the support of the safety movement by the general public The American people have an obligation to make this country a safer place for themselves, their families, and their fellow citizens."

Compound Fractures

The treatment of compound fractures, among the most frequent and most important injuries that man is heir to in peace or war, has been beneficially influenced with the introduction of antibiotics The principal benefit, according to Dr. J Albert Key of the Washington University School of Medicine, St. Louis, is the ability of the surgeon to perform immediate closure or primary delayed suture on most wounds and to cover others with split-skin grafts The result, Dr. Key said, is prompt healing of many wounds that in the past would have been doomed to months of chronic infection with resultant loss of function of the part He stressed, however, that the antibiotics do not perform miracles in compound fractures and that the successful treatment of these injuries demands the same high degree of surgical judgment and skill that it did before these agents were available "With the aid of antibiotics," he said, "we are permitted a little more leeway as regards the elapsed time during which a given wound may be closed and are able to use internal fixation more freely than in the past."

Busy Shop

Hand-made items are being turned out daily on the lathes and work benches of the Woodworking Shop at Walter Reed Army Medical Center. Convalescing patients make up 75 per cent of the soldiers who are making coffee tables, bookcases and table lamps. Scrap lumber from nearby Army posts and the Center's engineering department are used as basic building materials.

Liberty Methodist Church Setting For Marriage Rites

MISS COLLEEN FARMEN BRIDE OF LAURENCE POLSDOFER AT LIBERTY

Miss Colleen Farman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert W. Farman of Corydon, Iowa, became the bride of Laurence Polsdofer of Allertown, Iowa son of Mr. and Mrs. Art Polsdofer of Klemme, at the Liberty Methodist Church on Sunday, April 6, 1552, at 2:00 p. m. Rev. E. Morris Egeland performed the ceremony.

The bride wore a pink street length dress and had a corsage of white carnations. Her matron of honor, Mrs. Art Hanson of Lineville, Iowa, a sister of the groom, wore a dusty-rose dress and a corsage of pink carnations. Duane Polsdofer attended this brother as bestman. Bob Hiscocks and Bueford Polsdofer were ushers.

A reception was held at the Art Polsdofer home after the ceremony, for about fifty relatives and friends.

Mrs. Virgil Rice of Rockwell cut the cake and Mrs. Ben Ridder poured. Mrs. Lyle Hanson assisted in serving.

The bride is employed in the Corydon bank and expects to continue her work there. Mr. Polsdofer is engaged in farming and they will make their home at Corydon, Iowa.

Out of town guests at the wedding were: Mr. and Mrs. Bill Ruth and son; Mrs. Sofie Dahlstrom of Janesville, Iowa; Mr. and Mrs. Bill Polsdofer of Eagle Grove, Iowa; Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Polsdofer of Mason City; Mr. and Mrs. Emery Schaefer of Forest City; Mrs. Bertha Moorehead and son; Mrs. Hank Van Blaricom and Joy, and Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Rice, all of Rockwell.

Delwyn Brede Wins National Recognition In Calf Club Work

Brattleboro, Vt.,—Having done satisfactory Holstein calf club work during 1951, Delwyn D. Brede, Klemme ,Iowa has been awarded a Certificate of Merit and granted a Junior Membership in the Holstein-Friesian Association of America, Brattleboro, Vermont. He was recommended for these awards by the State 4-H Club Leader.

All privileges of the Association except voting have been given to him until he is 21 years of age.

He is the 13,765th member of The Holstein-Friesian Calf Club Association of America to achieve this national recognition.

DAIRY PRICES WILL GO UP THIS YEAR

WASHINGTON—The Agriculture Department warned housewives Wednesday that prices of dairy products will go up this year.

It also forecast that per capita milk production will be the lowest on record.

The department said for the first time in history the number of milk cows in the country has declined while the number of beef cattle has increased. As a result, dairy products are one of the few groups of farm commodies that are bringing farmers higher prices today than a year ago.

The department pointed out that until recently the high prices paid for beef cattle presented a tempting offer to farmers engaged in the expensive dairy business. As a result, it said some farmers shifted entirely to beef cattle raising and others sold lots of cattle from their dairy herds to get in on high beef prices.

The shift, along with an increased consumer demand for milk and other dairy products has reversed the picture.

Last month, at-the-farm prices for dairy products were up nine per cent from a year ago while urices received by farmers for beef cattle were down seven per cent.

Retail milk prices recently have shown a seven per cent gain from a year ago.

the Highway Story

IOWA DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC SAFETY

BY RAY EASTMAN

A group of highway patrolmen, gathered at a district office for the grim business of refilling their first aid kits, sounded these low notes on the scale of things.

One patrolman said he was called one night by a man who was so drunk that he dropped the phone twice while he was talking. What did he want? He wanted to report a drunken driver who had just passed him on the highway. The patrolman got two that night.

Another officer covered an accident in which two drunk drivers had exchanged compliments by smashing into one another on a hill. The first drunk was sitting in a ditch making an outraged speech and the second man was picked up four miles away, grinding along in second gear, with two bent fenders wearing his tires to the threads.

One patrolman had stopped a weaving car. The driver jumped out shouting, "I'm not drunk." He wasn't. "I just like to scare people," he grinned.

Another patrolman thought he had the statement of the year. He arrived at an accident just as a perfectly sober driver was stepping out of his smashed car.

The man looked around thoughtfully and observed, "I was just thinking this would be a perfect place to have an accident."

Then the patrolman told of stopping a car traveling 87 miles an hour down the middle of the road. The driver had been doing a mile for every year of his age. He was 87.

HANCOCK SOIL GROUP PLANS FOR ELECTION

Hancock County soil conservation commissioners have fixed Tuesday, May 27, as the date for the annual election. Two commissioners will be elected at this time, one for a six year term and one for a two year term.

S. A. Barber Twin Lake Township, will be a candidate to succeed himself for a six year term and Henry Swanson of Orthel Township will be a candidate for the two year term. Swanson is currently serving as a member of the board to fill the vacancy caused hy the resignation of W. J. Rasmussen, who resigned recently because of poor health. The election will be to fill the unexpired term of Mr. Rasmussen.

The election will be held in connection with a field day on the W. W. Christenson farm located in Ssction 32, Twin Lake Township. A conservation plan is being prepared for this farm by Vernon Moss, SCS farm planner for the district. All farm equipment dealers have been invited to participate in the field day.

The commissioners met recently at the REA building in Garner and reviewed and approved requests for assistance from Grant L. Anderson, C. E. Larson, Orville Hall, Lloyd Neswold, Sam VanDerPloeg, J. H. Strate, and Alfred Jurgemeyer.

Conservation farm plans for Robert Kudej, Harry Horecka, Ed Malek Jr., Syl Malek, Rudy Urich, William Hoeft and John Jakoubek were reviewed and approved.

Father & Son Banquet

There will be a Father and Son Banquet at 6:30 next Wednesday evening, April 23, at the Methodist Church in Klemme. It is sponsored by the Klemme Methodist men and is being served by the Mary and Esther Circles. Guest speaker will be Mr. Alan Stroh, Supt. of the Garner schools. All men of the community may buy tickets.

"THIEVES, LIARS, CROOKS AND SCUM"

To the Editor: Most people are not willing to work nowadays. The rotten government we've had for the last 20 years has taught them the world owes them a living and has encouraged them to try to get it without effort on their part.

See what this "give everybody everything" has produced. A lot of thieves, liars, crooks and generally immoral people. While the taxes on the property of hardworking decent people go skyrocketing to keep such human scum.

Millions feel as I do and are afraid to open their mouths and let their views be known for fear of the "smear" directed against them by editors like you.Now you can smear all you want to, and it won't change facts or bother be one bit.

All one has to do is look at the mess we have today from the application of your kind of rotten New Deal reasoning and philosophy and see who's right.

—One who knows, Monroe County, Iowa.

PRODUCTION OF HANCOCK DAIRY HERDS SHOWN

Dairy cows tested in the Hancock Dairy Herd Improvement Association last year averaged 9,819 pounds of milk containing 403 pounds of butterfat per cow. The production is 4,619 pounds more milk and 196 pounds more butterfat than the average for all Iowa dairy cows.

These facts were among many brought out in the annual summary of production records of 413 cows tested in the Hancock DHIA. At a record analysis meeting held in Garner, the association members compared the records of their herds for the results of feeding according to production, careful culling in the herd and other dairy practices they follow in the DHIA program.

The herd of 12 registered Holsteins owned by Huling Brothers of Britt, recorded the highest average production per cow, 14,527 pounds of milk and 577 7 pounds of butterfat. The next highest ranking herd was 12 regisered Holsteins owned by Fern Huling & Sons, of Britt, which averaged 13,873 pounds of milk and 551.5 pounds of butterfat per cow. Seventeen grade Holsteins owned by Mitchell Bock of Klemme, ranked third with average production of 12,538 pounds of milk and 495.4 pounds of butterfat per cow.

A comparison of the five high herds in the association with the five low herds showed the following differences. The average production per cow in the high herds was 12,905 pounds of milk and 503 pounds fat; in the low herds, average production was 4,444 pounds milk and 334 pounds fat.

SUPERVISORS APPROVE REPORTS OF OFFICERS

Hancock County Supervisors Wednes. approved the quarterly reports of County Auditor Maynard Schoneman, County Recorder, Edith Sonquist, and County Clerk of the District Court Ruth Hughes Katter.

The auditor's report listed total fees in the sum of $2,595.25, of which $2,534 was for dog licenses collected.

The recorder's report listed total fees in the sum of $1,327.70 for the quarter and the clerk's report listed fees totaling $1,978.50 of which total $500 represented fines paid.

The board also approved the quarterly report of Daniel E. Williams, Britt Township justice of the peace and of W. F. Pavey, Ell Township justice. The report of Williams indicated total fines collected in the sum of $235.50 for the quarter and Pavey's report listed fines collected in the sum of $40.30.

IOWA GIVEN PART OWNERSHIP OF DUBUQUE BRIDGE

DUBUQUE—The states of Iowa and Wisconsin Tuesday were given ownership of the ice-damaged Black Hawk Bridge across the Mississippi River at Lansing.

After eight years of litigation, Federal Judge Henry N. Graven ordered the receiver for the bankrupt Iowa-Wisconsin Bridge Co. to accept the $70,000 joint offer the two states made for the bridge.

The structure, built in 1931 at a cost of $750,000 has been closed to traffic since March, 1945, when floods and ice floes damaged its east approaches.

Reopening of the bridge would link Iowa Highway 9 with Wisconsin Highway 35.

EASTER PARADE WAS SNOWED UNDER THIS YEAR

A wet snow started falling on Saturday and continued most of Easter Sunday which discouraged the ladies from appearing in their Spring finery on Easter morning.

By Monday morning most of the slush and snow had again disappeared. The late snow again delayed farm work in North Iowa for several more days.

Teachers Resigned

Mrs. Kay Andreae, Home Economics teacher in the Klemme Public School has resigned her position affective at the end of the present school year. Mrs. Andreae has taught in the local school for the past five years. She does not plan to teach next year.

Miss Delores Schiek has resigned her position as Kindergarten teacher effective at the end of the present school year. She plans to continue teaching.

MR. AND MRS. LLOYD SHERWOOD WERE HONORED AT SUPPER

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Sherwood observed their 25th wedding anniversary on Easter Sunday, April 13 at their home in Klemme.

That evening they celebrated the occasion by having a nice supper and had as their guests, their children and families: Mr. and Mrs. Erwin Ausborn and daughter, Lavonne, of Klemme and Mr and Mrs. Francis Sherwood of Mason City; and Mr. Sherwood's sisters, the Misses Opal and Ena Mae Sherwood of Mason City. Other guests were Mr. and Mrs. Fay Thompson of Mason City; Mr. and Mrs. Albert Ausborn and family and Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Haefner and daughter, Margaret of Klemme.

The table was beautifully decorated and centered with a lovely three-tired wedding cake. After the meal the evening was enjoyed visiting.

Mr. and Mrs. Sherwood received a number of nice gifts in remembrance of the happy event.

SPRING IS HERE??

Spring must be here as Harold Kothenbeutal and the boys over at the Coop. Oil Station painted the gas pumps and accessories a nice bright color Monday and then Tuesday they washed off and cleaned up the drive.

Up at the Klemme Hardware Bill Fuss was cleaning up his office...getting rid of "winter crud" as he called it, by the basketfull.

Yep, spring is here. Even Fred Klinge was casting longing looks at fishing tackle at Eddie Josten's store. Ernie Gerardi was having his storm windows taken off and screens put on. Garden seeds and grass seeds are appearing in display windows.

Yep, spring is here we hope.

Notice To Patrons

We close our fiscal year the end of April and respectfully solict your co-operation in bringing our accounts receivable to as low a figure as possible by the time we close the books on April 30th.

If you have an open account here at the Elevator, we would certainly appreciate your coming in and making payment within the next week or two.

We know that you are just as interested as we are in having your company issue a strong financial statement and, by getting accounts receivable down this month, it will help us toward that end.

We Thank You For All Past Favors

Klemme Library Opens Saturday To The Public

SEVERAL HUNDRED BOOKS NOW AVAILABLE TO THE PUBLIC

Good Books May Still Be Donated To The New Klemme Library

Mrs. J. C. Thomas announces that the new Klemme Library will be open to the reading public starting this week Saturday.

The library is located in the Wellemeyer Building in the rooms on the east side where there is a walk and a side entrance.

Several hundred books are now available. A great many new books became available through the State Traveling Library, while many volumes have been donated.

Library hours are on Saturday from 2:00 to 5:00 p. m., and again from 7:00 until 9:00 p. m. The library is again open on Wednesday from 2:00 until 5:00 p. m. During the summer months the library will also be open on Wednesday nights from 7:00 to 9:00.

There is now available a good selection of books for both children and adults. The library will be run on a membership basis, $1.00 per individual member and $2.00 for a family membership.

You are invited to call at the Library and see the selection of books now ready.

Herbie Smacked His Foot With A 20-Pound Sledge

Herb Pearson was limping around Saturday afternoon with an extremely sore left foot. Herb had been helping break up a cement wall at the C. A. Larsen farm and was swinging a 20-pound sledge hammer when something slipped and he smacked his foot with full force, not only once but twice!

No bones were broken but Herb couldn't get a shoe on for a couple of days.

CORRECTION IN ADVERTISMENT ON FEEDS

Last week The Times had the wrong name on one of the display advertisements. In the Staley Milling Co. advertisement on "Pig Mama" we had the Klemme Coop Grain Co. name on the advertisement, when it should have been the Schmidt Stock Yards. The latter concern handles the Staley line of feeds. We are sorry that the error accured and was not noticed until most of the papers had been run through the press.

SIDNEY RENNER AND MRS. IDA MATHEWS MARRIED AT CODY, WYOMING

On Saturday, April 5th, 1952 Mrs. Ida Mathews of Powell, Wyoming became the bride of Sidney Renner of east of Klemme at the Methodist parsonage. Mrs. Mathews two sons and their wives were the witnesses. Only immediate relatives were present.

On Sunday a family dinner attended by about 27 relatives was held at the Mathews home at Powell. The bride is a sister of the late Mrs. Sidney Renner.

Mr. Renner and his bride are now at home on the farm east of Klemme. They arrived here last week and had to come via Omaha in order to cross the flooded Missouri River,

Mrs. Renner is acquainted with a number of people in this comunity having visited here on several occasions in the past.

CHILDREN'S PICTURES TAKEN FREE AND PUBLISHED IN THE TIMES

Wonderful Prizes For The Cutest Children

It is an undisputed fact that the responsibilities of tomorrow's world, our Nation and community will rest upon the shoulders of the children of today. Since this is true, the publishers of this newspaper would like to give you a good look at these future "World Builders."

The only way we can do this is by publishing pictures of them in a feature series. To assure the latest and best reproduction pictures - - they must all be of uniform size and quality - - we have invited the Woltz Studios of Des Moines, Iowa, nationally known children's photographers, to take these special pictures for us.

An expert children's photographer for the studios, with all the necessary equipment for this specialized work, will be here Thursday, May 1st. The special studio will be set up at the Wellemeyer Building, east entrance, and will be open from 1:00 p. m. to 6:00 p. m.

Contest An Added Feature

To add interest and fun in this event, the Studio will award $500. in CASH prizes - - - $250. to the cutest girl; $250. to the cutest boy. Each child or children photographed in this community will automatically be entered in the contest, The contest covers the Mid - West states only. Beauty alone does not count - - the studio judges will base their selections upon the personality and charm as portrayed in the pictures. Every child and family group are elegible,

No Charge To Parents

There is no charge to the parents. There are absolutely no strings attached to this invitation. It is bonafied in every sense of the word. Parents do not have to be subscribers, nor even readers of this newspaper to take advantage of this feature. Neither are they obligated to purchase pictures after they are taken. Those who want some additional prints may obtain a limited number by arrangement with the studio representative when they select the pose they want printed in the paper and entered in the contest. It is entirely up to them.

The More Pictures, The Better

The Times simply wants pictures of all the youngsters and the more the better. So mother and father of the community in which this paper circulates should remember the date, May 1st, at The Wellemeyer Building, east entrance and not fail to bring their children to the photographer.

You will be mighty glad, afterwards, if you did, and very, very sorry if you do not permit your children to participate in this event. The kiddies will have much fun and both dad and mother - and the youngsters too - - will be very proud to see their pictures in print later. And remember, your child may win one of these wonderful prizes to be awarded.

North Iowa Conference For W. S. C. S. Workers

Thursday, Mrs. Kenneth Medin left with other Christian Service workers for Waterloo, where a two day convention was held with 998 registered. Dr. Lewis B. Carpenter, president of the National College for Christian workers, Kansas City, Mo. was the main speaker of the day. Miss Dorothy Nyland, Secretary of Student work, says, "One of the greatest mission fields is the American College campus." Election of District officers was held with Mrs. Robert Smyth, Fort Dodge, elected to her 4th term as conference president. Mrs. Kenneth Medin was elected as Secretary of Promotion for the Algona District. Others from Klemme who attended Friday were Mesdames: Elder, White, Mace, Anderson and Thomas.

SYNDICATE SERVICE FOR THE TIMES HAS FOLDED UP

Our readers have wondered what happened to the funnies, and other feature articles that have been running in The Times for many years.

The Western Newspaper Union which had supplied a syndicate service to thousands of weekly newspapers throughout the U. S. since Civil War Days, has abandoned the service because of a shortage of newsprint and increased costs of labor and production to a point where that if the price had been raised to meet the costs that not many newspapers could afford the service, so the W. N. U. has closed shop on the syndicate service.

The Times is in the same boat with thousands of other small town newspapers and are trying to adjust the lack of the regular syndicate service. The problem has not been solved and may take a few weeks to work out a solution to give the readers a bigger and better newspaper with feature articles.

That, in a nutshell, is the reason you have been getting 4 to 6 pages each week instead of eight. However, the entire paper is being printed in the shop, and all of the pages are strictly home news. A number of readers have stated that they do not miss the syndicate service, as all they read was the home-printed section of The Times. The problem will be worked out with time.

Linquist Reports 1½ Million In Jars

Clear Lake—Ten quarts of walleyed pike eggs were being held at the Iowa Fish Hatchery Wednesday as a result of the the first full scale seining operation of the season Tues. night when five two-men crews were out.

About 160 male and 20 female walleyes were taken. The females accounted for the 10 qts. of eggs. Walleyed pike eggs average 150,000 to the quart so a million and a half eggs were gathered. Muhrl Linquist, superintendent, stated Wednesday that the harvest is not yet at its peak. The heaviest run was in the island area.

Linquist reports that the hatchery is open to visitors. In the aquarium are specimens of yellow bass, walleyes, northerns, suckers and silver bass taken the past two nights.

Engineer Named

Ralph H. Wallace of Mason City was appointed engineer to make a preliminary survey to determine the necessity and feasibility of a cleanout to grade of lateral No. 11, of Hancock Co. drainage district No. 1 and 2, petitioned for by Charles McLaughlin et al. The contemplated improvement and repair is located in Crystal Township.

THE FARM OUTLOOK

By Paul Henderson, County Extension Director

Farmers producing early spring lambs probably should push them for rapid gains. Topping out lambs for market as they reach prime condition also looks wise. These are the conclusions of Francis A. Kutish, Iowa State College farm economist.

He expects little weakness in lamb prices during May—but substantial declines could develop during late June.

Here is Kutish's reasoning: The period of unusually heavy marketing of old crop fed lambs is over. A few new-crop spring lambs will continue to show up at the market. But receipts will not be heavy for another 45 to 60 days.

The Bureau of Agriculture Economics estimates that the early spring lamb crop is 5% lower than last year—and that it is delayed because of later lambing and poor feed in some parts of the nation. But we have more breeding ewes in total this year, and so we can look for more lambs on the market later in the summer and fall.

Farm Costs Up

Farm costs will average higher this year than they did a year ago, the Bureau of Agriculture Economics believes. The prices paid by farmers during the first 3 months of this year were up 4% over a year earlier. Only prices of building materials and of feeder livestock were below the previous year.

Turning to hogs, marketings last week were the lowest since last October. Federally inspected hog slaughter at the 32 main packing centers from August 1 through March was up 11% over the previous year. This about equals the increase in the pig crop of last spring and summer, plus the increased sale of gilts resulting from the cutback in 1952 spring farrowings.

Since farrowings after September 1 are below those of the year before, Kutish believes that were are about over the worst of the hog market. Prospects look even better for the late spring and summer months.

Butter Output Down

Butter output to date this year totals 6% under comparable figures for 1951, for the nation as a whole. Iowa butter output is down even more sharply—latest figures show it running 15 to 17 percent below last year's production.

With consumer incomes larger, Kutish expects butterfat prices to continue above those of a year earlier. For butter supplies per person are at a record low level.

HONOR LOCAL DAIRYMEN

Local Dairymen were honored at the R E A building in Garner when they were presented honor roll certificates for high producing herds. Hancock county extension director, Paul Henderson, made the presentation in behalf of the Purebred Dairy Cattle Association.

The 16 dairymen were chosen for the awards by the purebred association because their herds averaged 350 pounds or more of butterfat in a year of testing with the Dairy Herd Improvement Association. Awards go to owners of grade cattle as well as purebred herd owners.

Hancock county dairymen receiving the honary diplomas and the average butterfat per cow were:

MRS. LOUISE SMITH, WODEN, NEW COUNTY AUXILIARY PRESIDENT

County Auxiliary Donated Money To Flood Relief And To New County Hospital

The County American Legion Auxiliary met at Corwith Tuesday afternoon, April 22nd, with about sixty women present. Mrs. Nadine Hefty of Crystal Lake, president, presided at the meeting.

The organization voted to send $20.00 to the Flood Relief, and also voted to give a like amount to the Hancock County Memorial Hospital.

New Officers Elected

An election of officers was held and the following officers for the coming year were then installed: President, Mrs. Louise Smith of Woden; Vice President, Mrs. Rose Oxley of Corwith, and Secretary and Treasurer, Mrs. Mae Tweedt of Woden.

Special music was enjoyed, provided by two Klemme high school students: Miss Shirley Beier on the horn, and Maurice Jacobs with a piano solo. Both had recently won first place ratings in the district music contest.

Mrs. Hastings of Garner gave an interesting talk on her recent visit to Cuba.

After the program a nice lunch was served by the Corwith Unit.

Those from Klemme who attended the meeting were President Mrs. Herman Back, Mesdames Stille, Chambers, Coobs Schwichtenberg, Sherwood, Etchen, Hess and V. Lewis.

THEY'RE BOUFFANT OR SHEER, TWEEDY OR CRINKLED—

YOU'LL "COTTON" TO THE NEW COTTONS

With the advent of lovely new synthetics with their magical qualities, don't make the mistake of breezing by the cotton counter without a look. For exciting things have been happening to cotton, too, taking it all the way from a better-than-ever standby to a happy fabric choice for dress-up styles.

If you're cleaning and oiling your trusty sewing machine for a stint on summer clothes, don't overlook the new weaves and finishes that have moved cotton up into a versatile high-fashion bracket. Take a cue from some of the country's top designers who are featuring these new cottons in everything from a faultlessly tailored little suit to a house dress that rates an admiring glance at the grocery store.

Iowa State College clothing specialist Opal Roberson tells us that the finishes and textures now perfected for cotton give it new roles to play in our wardrobe You'll find a tweedy textured cotton that will make up nicely into a coat, suit or skirt For a suit fabric that will take precise tailoring, you might choose a worsted chambray with a glazed finish and firm crisp hand. And there are light weight cotton suitings for very softly tailored styles.

Even denim has been styled up, given a wrinkle-resistant finish, and made worthy of a little suit that can take you fashionably into town for a shopping or visiting spree. You should be able to find water-repellant denims in bright checks, stripes or plaids for a pretty and practical raincoat.

Sheer And Airy

There are sheer, airy-looking cottons. There are taffeta-like cottons, and satin-weave cottons with a stiff finish. Embossed designs give anywhere from a delicate to matlasse or quilted impression, and quilted cottons with a three-dimensional look make up nicely into square-dance skirts, and dresses.

A fine fabric for house dresses, sportswear or the youngsters play—clothes is a permanently crinkled cotton that's easy to wash and needs no ironing. It comes in bright colors, has a wrinkled texturey look. Just smooth it out while it's wet and drip-dry it on a hanger.

Terry cloth in many designs and colors is also ideal for play clothes, and a "pillow ticking" cotton can be used for overalls, playclothes or an about-the-house and garden dress.

Wrinkle Resistance

One of the often-found finishes on these cottons is a wrinkle-resistant one. Besides helping the fabric keep fresh looking and discourage wrinkles this finish makes the cotton even easier to sew. It will lie flatter on the cutting table, and is less apt to shift, which means truer cutting. Since little or no raveling occurs, seams usually don't need to be pinked or overcast.

A glazed finish gives a taffeta-crisp, bouffant quality to cotton. It can be applied either on the right side for luster or on the reverse side of the fabric for body. It helps the cotton hold its shape and resist spotting. Other worthwhile finishes that make for easier care and longer wear are: insect, mold and mildew resistance; colorfastness and dimensionable stability—which means neither shrinkage nor stretching will occur to alter the fit and size.

And, when you shop for fabrics, suggests Miss Roberson, pick material that will be easy to care for—that will launder with ease, require little or no ironing, will keep their crispness without starching and will hang out wrinkles overnight.

CHECK MACHINERY NOW FOR HAZARDS

Many Accidents Caused By Bailing Wire Repair

Checking farm machinery now for hazards is a good way to insure safety, says Dale Hull extension agricultural engineer at Iowa State College.

First on the list is the tractor. Hull says that "good housekeeping" with this piece of machinery is essential to farm-safety.

He reports that bailng wire repairs often cause accidents. In the spring, busy farmers sometimes try to save a minute by this method— with an accident resulting.

A bolt holding a tractor seat, for instance, oftens breaks out a section of the seat. Makeshift repairs to fix this are dangerous says Hull.

Need Right Tools

Bent control levers, or levers not adjusted properly is another source of accidents. The specialist recommends removing the lever, and straightening it into the correct shape. If needed, have it repaired at a machine shop.

Having the right tools and equipment is one of the first steps in practicing safety. Many small repairs can be made with a supply of machine bolts and the right tools. You can safely repair many minor machinery breakages that don't involve part failures.

Some farmers have found that an electric welder pays for itself in time and money saved for repairs.

Poor hitches, broken or cracked drawbars often cause accidents. Atempting to remedy this by hooking the implement with a chain is dangerous, says Hull. It's too easy to hook a wheel in a chain when turning or to hook the chain to high on an axle which may cause a tractor to overturn.

Use Saftey Shields

Another good safety precaution is to keep the tractor seat clean. Don't carry tools, log chains or a grease gun on the tractor platform.

Check other machines for adequate saftey shields. It's often tempting to start a machine with the safety shields off if they aren't handy the day it's time to go into the fields.

Many accidents are caused by carelessness or misjudgment by the operator. Some may occur because the operator isn't familiar with the mechanics of a machine. Giving a machine just a "once-over" inspection will cut down the chances of an accident from carelessness. This way, an operator can become more familiar with the machine and more conscious of the problems n its operation.

COUNTY TUBERCULOSIS AND HEALTH ASSOCIATION HELD ANNUAL MEETING

The annual spring meeting and banquet of the Hancock County Tuberculosis and Health Association was held at Hotel Allison in Britt on Monday evening, April 14, 1952, with 30 members and guests present.

The business meeting was conducted by Dr. H. R. Morgan of Britt, president of the Association. Minutes of the 1950 spring meeting were read by Miss Grace E. Hartzell, Secretary. The treasurer's report was read by L. L. Marchant of Britt.

Miss Judith Edes, Area Representative, was called upon for a few words at which time she informed the group that sometime during the year of 1953 a county-wide X-ray program would be conducted in Hancock County. She stated that this would be the first time such a program has taken place in Hancock County. Miss Edes reported that chest X-rays will find tuberculosis if you have it. There were 851 new cases of tuberculosis reported last year and it is estimated that there are about 2,185 unknown cases of tuberculosis in Iowa. Every person in the county should realize the importance of the chest X-rays and start planning for the county wide program.

C. E. Barnes of Garner was elected president for 1952-53. The nominating committee, composed of Rev. Gibson of Garner, Rev. Kitterman of Kanawha and Gilbert Guenther of Britt, presented the following officers for 1952-53:

Mrs. H. R. Morgan, Britt, Vice President; Miss Grace E. Hartzell, Britt, Secretary; L. L. Marchant, Britt, Treasurer; Mrs. J. Stole, Garner, Health Education Chairman; Mrs. Paul Elling, Garner, Social Service Chairman; Mrs. L. L. Marchant, Britt, Christmas Seal Sale Chairman.

Mrs. Paul Elling, Rehabilitian Chairman, reported that no persons from Hancock County are at Oakdale at the pesent time.

A report of the 1951 Christmas Seal Sale was given by Mrs. L. L. Marchant who reported that the gross sales amounted to $2,963.88.

As a matter of comparison proceeds of past seal sales were read and increases were quite amazing as can be seen by the following data:

1929	1311.95
1941	1042.12
1951	2963.88

Of the total amount of the 1951 seal sale, 74% was retained in the county to be used in major projects such as research, case-findings program and film strips for schools. Mrs. Marchant wishes to take this means of expressing her appreciation to all who participated in the 1951 seal sales thus helping to make it a success.

Start Food Preservation Classes For WOI-TV Homemakers

It's class-time again for you WOI-TV homemakers. This time extension foods and nutrition horticulture experts of Iowa State College are going to help you plant those gardens, can and freeze the fruits and vegetables you harvest or buy, and load your shelves and freezer or locker space with good food for next winter.

Class-time starts at 2:30 p. m. Thursday, April 24, and will continue each Thursday through September. Elsie Mae VanWert, county extension home economist, reports that all you need to do to enroll is print your name and address on a postcard and mail it to "Your Home Hour", WOI-TV, Iowa State College, Ames, Iowa. You will then receive a list of gardening, freezing and canning booklets from which to choose those you do not already have on hand.

The program, April 24 will get you off to a good start in planting your garden to get the most for your space. Ben Vance, extension horticulturist, will be your advisor. Sharing "The Home Hour" Thursday program will be Naomi Shank, home management specialist, who will tell you how to get your canning or freezing center organized for easiest work.

Foods to be frozen or canned on the Thursday programs will coincide with periods when these foods are just ready for harvest or are in greatest supply on the market. You'll get a market report of when these foods are due for best harvesting or buying, and then foods demonstrators will give you step-by-step procedures for handling them to get the best results. Also you'll receive tips on how to turn these canned or frozen foods into tasty dishes for the family table.

Each homemaker who enrolls will receive a complete schedule of the summer classes. Question periods will give viewers an opportunity to pose any canning or freezing problems they have.

There are only four perceptible tastes, sweet, salt, bitter and sour.

CONTROL PROPAGANDA BEING CRAMMED DOWN OUR THROATS

The American people are being propagandized by thousands of government bureaus, which are using the people's money for that purpose.

A striking example is the way the Office of Price Stabilization is flooding the country with literature, radio messages, billboards and phamplets trying to convince the American people they should have a controlled economy.

With that in mind, Republicans at the state presidential convention passed a resolution calling for the abolition of OPS and immediate termination of emergency controls, deploring the "continuation of "so-called" emergencies for the sole purpose of retaining controls over the various segments of our economy by the evecutive branch of our federal government."

The 43,000 full-time and part-time government propaganda agents, which YOUR tax money supports, continue to bombard the people, trying to convince them that every governmental function should be continued and increased.

Here in Iowa, the OPS is infiltrating into the schools with propagenda designed to continue controls although many groups have gone on record opposing them.

In a recent letter, enclosing OPS pamphlets, the OPS said: "We'll be happy if you would supply copies of this pamphlet to members of your Vocational Agriculture classes or any other farm group you may be directing. If you think the pamphlet is good, let me know how many copies you desire. An addressed, franked envelope is enclosed for your convenience."

Please note the offer of a "franked envelope" for your convenience.

That's using YOUR money to SELL YOU. That's propagandizing people with THEIR money.

It is estimated that 69 million dollars of TAX money is being used in this current fiscal year by the OPS to SELL the program to the people. The people want it, but the OPS through 64,000 billboards, messages on 1,7000 radio stations, one million posters and 300,000 car cards are trying to convince the people that "what we have is good for you." There is no effort to get the facts to the people.

Iowans know that the OPS district office is manned by defeated Democrats, crammed full employees who were named to their jobs not because of ability but for political pay-offs. Calling the roll of top OPS officials in Iowa is like calling the roll of those who were defeated in the 1948 and 1950 election campaigns.

We don't know why the OPS office in New York needs 23 public information officers, or why 619,457 pieces of mail were sent out from one office in a month.

Perhaps it is just to keep the OPS staffs busy, or having the appearance of being busy. As a former OPS employee in Pittsburgh was quoted as saying, "it is completely superfluous operation and a political football headed by guys who do little or nothing, but have been on the political gravy train for years and are at such "nothing" jobs."

The time has come for government economy. The place to start is with such bureaus as OPS. The agency hasn't retarded inflation, it has helped fan the flames by wasting government funds. Abolishment of OPS would be a start in the right direction if we are to have a free and competitive market and rid our nation of political gravy train riders who propagandize the people with the people's money!

TAKE A LOOK AT YOUR NUTRITION REPORT CARD—

HOW DO YOUR FAMILY MEALS RATE

There's plenty of good food here in Iowa, but according to a recent study Iowans are missing out on some of the foods they need most for good health, tip-top vitality and longer, happier lives.

If Iowans were scored on their food habits and preferences the way Junior is graded on his arithmetic, there'd be a lot more C's than A's on their report cards.

Results of a recent study tell us Iowans are short-changing themselves on three important kinds of foods: milk; citrus fruits; and green, leafy and yellow vegetables. It's all because they eat what fills them up and satisfies their appetites instead of what assures the best of health.

This important study, made by Iowa State College in cooperation with the Quartermaster Food container Institute for the Armed Forces, concerned the eating habits of two groups of Iowans from 17 to 19 and 46 to 58 years old.

Measuring Stick

Quality of their diets was judged against the regulation daily food plan recommended by nutritionists, The measuring stick was this: The day's three meals plus snacks should include the following number of servings from six main food groups— (1) one pint of milk; (2) one serving of meat, fish or fowl or two servings of eggs, cheese, peas, or beans; (3) one serving of citrus fruits, tomatoes, raw cabbage, melons or raw green vegetables; (4) one serving of green, leafy or yellow vegetables; (5) three servings of another fruit or vegetable, including potatoes; and (6) cereals, sweets or fats, the amount varying with energy needs of the indivdual.

Iowa "Report Card"

Iowans were found to be eating enough cereals, sweets and fats, but almost 6 out of every 10 people weren't getting enough green, leafy and yellow vegetables. Approximately 4 out of every 10 were not eating enough in the citrus fruit group Half of the diets in the older age group were short on milk, and more than 2 out of 10 in the younger group weren't getting enough either. Close to 2 out of 10 weren't eating enough "other" fruits and vegetables. As for meat, fish, fowl or meat substitutes, everyone seemed to be getting his needed share.

Common Deficiencies

According to this study, then, the most common nutrient deficiencies of the diet are calcium, ascorbic acid, carotene and vitamin A. These are important in the formation of teeth and bones, the prevention of early aging and resistance to disease.

Middle-aged folks, as a rule, seem to eat too few vegetables and fruits, need to cut down on the amounts of potatoes, bread, rich gravy, cake and pie they eat.

Whose Responsibility?

And so,a great many Iowans, living in what's been called the "bread-basket of America," are not eating enough of the types of foods that could help guarantee better health, more vitality and perhaps even a longer, happier life.

Who shoulders the responsibility for meals and healthier families? It's mostly up to a homemaker's skill in planning and preparing meals, says nutritionists, but it's everyone's job to make a good selection from the food that's set before him.

WHAT ABOUT SWINE ERYSIPELAS?

Q: How serious a problem is swine erysipelas?

A: It's one of our worst swine diseases. It has now spread to every state and causes animal losses of millions of dollars.

Q: Why is erysipelas hard to control?

A: Because it is very contagious and easily confused with other diseases.

Q: Does it affect only hogs?

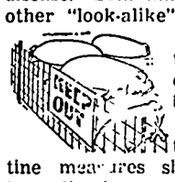
A: No. Erysipelas has been reported in colts, calves, turkeys, sheep, and even parrots. Human beings can also contract it, so every precaution should be taken in handling infected animals In man, the disease is called erysipeloid

Q: What are the symptoms of swine erysipelas?

A: They may include scaly and sloughing skin, swollen joints, arched backs, lameness, high fever and unwillingness to move unless forcibly aroused In the acute disease many pigs may die In the chronic disease, pigs which survive are unthrifty, and unprofitable for market.

Q: If the herd is infected, what can be done?

A: An accurate diagnosis should be obtained at the first sign of this disease. Sometimes it resembles other "look-alike" diseases



Q: Once identified, what precautions should be taken?

A. Strict sanitary and quarantine measures should be applied immediately to keep it from spreading Immediate vaccination, isolation of affected hogs, prompt disposal of carcasses, cleaning and disinfection of pens are important.

Q: What steps can be taken to avoid future outbreaks?

A: In areas where the disease has become a problem, many authorities recommend that pigs be vaccinated as soon as possible after farrowing.

GIVE YOUR UPHOLSTERY A HOME SHAMPOO

If you're ready to roll up your sleeves and treat your upholstered furniture to a thorough home shampoo, here's some advice from experts.

First, say home management and home furnishings specialists at Iowa State College, the fabrics you can clean at home should be fairly flat and absolutely colorfast. Rep, denim, tapestry, frieze, washable glazed chintz and linen are some of the possibilities. Test soap lather on an inconspicuous area first to see whether it affects the color in any way. Leave pile fabrics such as velvet, velour and others to professionals. Mohair, however, is one pile fabric you can shampoo successfully at home,

Clean the upholstery well with your vacuum cleaner attachment. To make "shampoo;" dissolve ⅛ cup mild soap in 1 quart of boiling water.Cool the mixture until it is jellied. Then beat it to a stiff dry lather with a rotary egg beater.

With a soft brush, scrub the lather over a small area of the upholstery fabric. Use a circular motion and don't get the fabric too wet. As soon as the lather looks soiled, scrape it off with a spatula or table knife. Remove every bit of lather with a clean piece of cheesecloth or a sponge wrung out in clean lukewarm water.

Repeat, going from the cleaned area to an adjacent soiled area. Change both rinse water and cloth as soon as soiled. Mohair pile fabric should be brushed with a whisk broom while still damp, in the direction of the pile, Drying can be speeded up by an electric fan or the blower attachment on your cleaner. If greasy spots remain, sponge them with carbon tetrachloride.

There are special soaps and dressings on the market for cleaning and treating leather upholstery. A word of caution—never use furniture polish, oils, varnish, shellac or wax on leather upholstery.

Cornmeal Flapjacks

Use ½ cup cornmeal, 1¼ cups scalded milk, 1¾ teaspoons salt 1 tablespoon sorghum or molasses, 1 egg well beaten, ¾ cup cold milk, 1 cup flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder and 3 tablespoons melted fat.

Combine the cornmeal, salt, and scalded milk; cook over hot water until it thickens, cool and add egg, sorghum (or molasses) cold milk and melted fat. Sift flour and baking powder together. Stir the moist ingredients into the flour. Dip out in small portions and bake on a hot greased griddle. The cakes should be small and will need slightly longer cooking than wheat-cakes. Brown well on both sides.

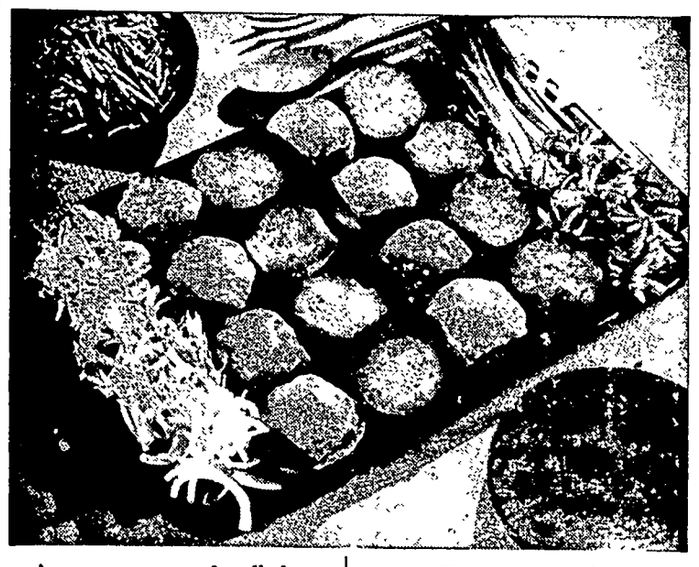
CHEESEBURGERS FOR SNACKS!



A savory sauce of well-chosen seasonings combine to make a taste-tempting variation to plump, juicy cheeseburgers. The unusual combination of the piquant sauce, well-seasoned meat and full-flavored cheese put these at the top of the list for informal snacks.

If you want the ground meat extra juicy add a small amount of milk with the seasonings. Panbroil the meat in butter, transfer to split buttered bun, top with sauce and a thick slice of golden cheese—pop under the broiler just long enough to melt the cheese. Place three or four inches from the heat when broiling for too high heat will toughen the cheese.

Next time you have a crowd in for an informal evening or for Sunday night supper serve a large tray of cheeseburgers with assorted relishes, shoe-string potatoes, and tall glasses of milk there is very little work involved in the preparation and your guests will relish the combination.

Cheeseburgers with Piquant Sauce

2 pounds ground beef; ⅓ cup milk; 1 teaspoon salt; dash pepper; ¾ pound American cheese; ¼ pound butter; 8 buttered buns.

Mix ground beef with milk, salt, and pepper. Form 8 patties of meat about 3 inches in diameter. Cut 8 slices of cheese slightly smaller than size of meat patties. Melt butter in skillet and fry patties slowly for about 10 to 15 minutes, turning several times during the cooking period. Place on buttered toasted buns, spread with piquant sauce and top with a slice of cheese. Broil until cheese begins to melt. Serve immediately. Serve 8.

Piquant Sauce

½ cup chili sauce; ¼ cup pickle relish; 1 tablespoon prepared mustard, or 1 tablespoon horseradish.

Mix all ingredients together well. If a more highly seasoned sauce is preferred a teaspoon of Worcestershire sauce may be added.

Iowa Goes On TV

Has your town been on television yet?

Better get ready. Those cameramen from Iowa State College may decide it's your turn next. They pick a town each week, and everyone gets on the air and has his say on community problems.

You should see some of those meetings! Of course, each person believes 100% in his own views. But there isn't any name calling. Each person is respected for his right to his own opinion.

From where I sit, that's real democracy in action. The only time a person's opinion becomes dangerous is when he tries to force it onto someone else. We'll always have little cliques that want to run things just their way, or force others to their manner of living or thinking. But if we'll just stick to the rules followed on that TV program, we'll be all right. I respect your tastes and preferences, you respect mine. We both stay friends, and live a lot happier lives.

OVER FOUR HUNDRED LOADS OF GRAVEL HAULED ON STREETS OF KLEMME

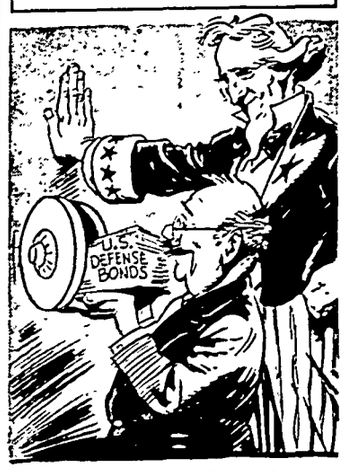
All Streets In Klemme Receive New Coat Of Gravel

The task of hauling gravel, mixed with crushed rock, was completed in Klemme after 410 truck loads were hauled in and dumped on the streets. Each truck load consisted of 6 cubic yards of road material.

The gravel was obtained from the Greiman pit and was mixed with crushed rock. The gravel is the best that has been hauled into town for road purposes in many years.

The new gravel has yet to be spread and worked into the surface of the streets,

Uncle Sam Says



The purchase of U. S. Defense Bonds is a method whereby you can make your dollars work for America, just as they work for you. Our country must be strong economically. It should be apparent to everyone that defense is everybody's job. Your part is to buy Defense Bonds. Every employee in a plant or business establishment should be enrolled for the Payroll Savings Plan or the Bond-a-Month Plan at his bank. A few dollars here or there will accomplish little, but with everyone doing his or her job, America will be economically secure.

Eye-Aiding Color Improving Schoolroom Looks, Grades

The increasing use of cheerful, bright colors on the walls of classrooms is making John's and Mary's education much more enjoyable than it was in the days of the little red schoolhouse or the old time city school. These attractive, pastel-painted interiors are not based on somebody's whim. Educators, eye specialists, color experts and illuminating engineers have all helped to develop this new idea which results in better marks for the pupils. combined with adequate lighting, Carefully selected wall colors, minimize restlessness and provide a good environment for successful attacks on reading, writing and 'rithmetic, school authorities maintain.

Even the exteriors of many recently constructed school buildings reveal this interest in color. Gay hues are making their appearance in the trim colors used on entrance doors and windows as well as in the glazed brick, terra cotta, cement or painted surfaces. Frequently, exterior walls are largely of glass.

Where the ground area permits, all classrooms are placed on one floor to eliminate stairs. Classroom doors opening from the corridors may each be in a color different from the others so the entrance is easily identifiable The walls of corridors are often painted a sunlight yellow

If the walls are too brilliant or too dark in a classroom, the constant adjustment of the eyes—as the pupil looks up from his work, then returns to it—induces eyestrain, according to eye specialists. The consequent loss of efficiency is prevented when all of a room's surfaces are similar in brightness. Light, pleasant hues on the walls rest a pupil's eyes and provide him with a momentary and stimulating change.

Among the newer colors chosen for classrooms on this basis are a grayed blue-green, peach, rose, lavender, as well as several of the light blues, pale yellows and aqua greens.

Marriages in America Continue Downward Trend

There were 1,580,000 marriages in the United States in 1951, which is a decline of five percent from the 1950 figure.

This continues a downward trend which has existed since the all-time high of 1946 established in part by returning World War II veterans During these years the downswing was interrupted only by a nine-month spurt—July of 1950 through March of 1951—following the outbreak of the Korean war. After March the decline was resumed.

In October and November of 1951, the statisticians note, the marriage rate was at a lower level than in the like months of any year in more than a decade.

"The most marked declines in 1951 were in the West North Central states—Minnesota, Iowa, Missouri, North Dakota, South Dakota, Nebraska, and Kansas—and in West Virginia, Kentucky, Montana, Arizona, and Oregon," the statisticians observe. "Each of these states shows a drop of 10 percent or more. On the other hand, marriages increased by about six percent in Delaware and Georgia, and by a smaller margin in Massachusetts, Arkansas, Mississippi, Virginia, and Indiana."

Such popular marriage centers as Las Vegas, Nev., Miami, Fla., and Elkton, Md, also recorded fewer marriages in 1951 than in 1950, whereas in Reno the number increased by a small margin, the statisticians report.

Alexander Bell

The shooting of President Garfield in 1881 and the suspense of the ensuing 79-day vain struggle to save the Chief Executive's life prompted Alexander Bell to invent an electric probe for locating bullets or other metal in the human body. It was used in surgery until supplanted by Roentgen's discovery of the X-ray in 1895 In 1882, Bell suggested a device to restore breathing that embodies the principle of today's iron lung. Until his death at 75 on August 2, 1922, Dr. Bell's active mind continued its searchings. He delved into distilling fresh water from salt, high-speed motorboating, sheep breeding, human longevity, the metric system, and air conditioning To beat oppressive Washington heat, Dr. Bell installed a refrigerator in the attic of his Connecticut Avenue home, and filled it with large blocks of ice covered with salt An asbestos-covered duct led the cold air down to a room, which was kept as nearly sealed as possible at the bottom to retain the sinking cold air, while its windows were opened at the top. While diplomats and legislators sweltered, the thermometer in this air-conditioned chamber registered a cool 65 degrees.

Nary A Bleached Blonde

A bleached finish on wood is often confused with a blond finish. The bleached finish, such as the familiar Harvest Wheat Mahogany, Amber Walnut or Lime Oak is produced by bleaching out the color of the wood, using chemical solutions A blond finish, on the other hand, is obtained by skillfully tinting the surface with a slightly colored wash coat, a pigmented sealer, or an exceptionally light amber stain that does not raise the grain. Its application is limited to woods that are naturally light, such as Avodire, Prima Vera, birch, maple and beech

WASHINGTON AND "SMALL BUSINESS"

By C. WILSON HARDER

There is a strong movement in Washington to pass a Fair Trade law, to replace the one invalidated by the Supreme Court.

Chief opposition comes from the huge financial-merchandising organizations now trying to spread public confusion. Here is the background of the Fair Trade law movement.

C. W. Harder

First, bear in mind that cheap imported Japanese goods are never fair-traded. Actually, few products are ever fair-traded.

But if an American company makes a consistently superior electric mixer, for example, and invests thousands of dollars advertising, in time that product becomes the standard of value.

Naturally, imitations, even Japanese and other cheap foreign imitations, are put on the market to sell at whatever price the market will bear. Lately, it has been State Dept. policy to encourage flooding the American market with cheap imports.

But the company making the superior item enters into price.

Nothing in these agreements makes it impossible for other brands to be sold at any price.

However, the big retail outlets opposing this law, such as giant Macy's, finds the public usually rejects cheap imitations for the standard brand.

So Macy's and the others want to sell the recognized quality brand at below cost, if necessary, to promote traffic to their store. They can lose heavily on the item making up losses on long profit items. But the small dealer is forced into bankruptcy.

Macy's and the others of this type could accomplish their purpose just as well by advertising a limited number of $20 gold pieces for $9.95.

But there is one big barrier to that idea.

The government would not allow anyone to so destroy the value of gold.

But some in government feel that it is proper for a giant merchandiser to destroy all value of a superior quality product.

The Socialistic schemers in Washington would like to see quality values destroyed in the American market so cheap foreign cartel goods could flood the market such as the shoddy goods sold in Moscow stores.

The most ridiculous opposition to a new Fair Trade law was voiced to Congress by Matt Trigg, spokesman for the American Farm Bureau Federation. He termed such a law "inconsistent with free economy", "an umbrella for the inefficient".

However, Trigg's organization has been most active in getting billions in tax dollars spent on price supports for grain, eggs, hogs, peanuts and other foods.

No tax money is involved in Fair Trade laws. Neither are prices pegged on a commodity; just on certain quality brands.

The fight for Fair Trade laws is a fight to keep the entire American market from being taken over by shoddy merchandise, and to protect independent merchants from vicious price wars.

Fertility of Japanese A-Bomb Victims Reborn

No prolonged loss of fertility or incidence of abnormal offspring has resulted from atomic bomb attacks on Japan during World War II, according to a report to the Council on National Emergency Medical Service of the American Medical Association. One of the questions which arose after the bombing was its possible effect on the fertility and future children of the victims.

The results were made known in a joint report by Drs Charles L. Dunham, Eugene P. Cronkite, George V. LeRoy and Shields Warren. Dr. Cronkite is attached to the U.S. Naval Medical Research Institute, Bethesda, Md.; the others are connected with the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission, Washington, D.C.

"It is too early to write of the eventual outcome of the Japanese who recovered from radiation injury," the report said. "There is enough information available now to warrant the statement that the survivors have regained their fertility and that, among the progeny of the survivors at Hiroshima and Nagasaki, no unusual incidence of abnormal offspring has occurred."

However, the report disclosed that radiation cataracts of varying severity have occurred in an appreciable number of those close enough to receive significant amounts of radiation, and that the incidence of leukemia (a usually fatal disease of the bloodforming organs) will be higher among the survivors than in the Japanese population as a whole

"Treatment of radiation injuries from the very beginning should be directed at minimizing the effects of the tendency to hemorrhage and inability to combat infection," the report stated. "The value of antibiotics has been substantiated by a number of experimenters."

According to the report, approximately one-half of the initial nuclear radiation is delivered in the first second after an atomic explosion, and 98 per cent by the end of one minute.

Poll Proves Shoe Buyers Seek Comfort, Not Style

The theory, held dear especially by the male sex, that most women will endure willingly any discomfort as long as vanity is served, received a setback in a recent survey conducted by the University of California Laboratory of Performance Physiology.

In the course of this study, some six hundred co-eds were questioned as to what influenced them most when buying shoes. To everyone's surprise, some ninety-eight percent considered comfort the most important single factor. To top it off, a smaller percentage of male students placed primary stress on comfort!

Price was a very minor consideration in purchasing new shoes, with only one-third of the female students rating it first. Results of the survey revealed that the average American girl realizes that foot fitness is a requisite for general body health and comfort. She has learned that well-fitting shoes that are equipped with flexible leather soles and supple uppers are not only smart but do wonders for a graceful stride and good posture.

Consulted in this connection, a leading foot specialist expressed little surprise at the outcome of the poll. He corroborated the close connection between foot care and body health, and cited medical histories of women patients who had been freed of a variety of foot complaints after being fitted with comfortable laced oxfords that had low heels and resilient leather soles and uppers.

With an estimated eight out of every ten older women complaining about foot ills, there is evidence in the University of California poll that young people are saving themselves the bone-twisting punishment suffered by their elders. Chances are these youngsters will go through life on sound feet.

Sleep Well

In a recent survey Dr George Gallup, director of the American Institute of Public Opinion, discovered that "very happy" people sleep best of all, and the unhappy suffer most from insomnia. It is logical of course, because the happiest people have the fewest worries and cares to torture them into becoming insomniacs. It stands to reason that the reverse of this statement could easily be the basis of Dr Gallup's findings If people sleep well, they are more inclined to be happy and carefree. Their daily worries are forgotten and dissolve from problems of enormous weight to mere trifles after a good night's sleep. It is logical, too, that the people who sleep on the most comfortable bedding are the most rested and therefore the happiest.

Magic Glass

From Pliny's tale of seafarers finding glass beneath their campfire on the sandy shore of a river in Asia Minor, to the thousand of known formulas for different types of glass today, runs the history of this magic substance By it man can obtain light, focus a pinpoint of matter, see far into space; insulate against heat, cold, electricity or noise; contain food, perform scientific experiments, change weather or health. Through the glass eye of the camera, he can record the present for a curious tomorrow

Mental Disturbances Cited As Factors in Deafness

Mental disturbances may be a factor in deafness, according to an article in the "A.M.A. Archives of Otolaryngology," published by the American Medical Association.

Written by Drs. Frederick Harbert and Joseph Sataloff of Philadelphia, the report described some of the less obvious forms of functional hearing loss which have been recognized and treated recently. Functional hearing loss is a nonorganic deafness in which the patient does not fully utilize his residual hearing because of psychological reasons.

Functional hearing loss has been recognized for many years in gross forms such as hysterical deafness with dimness of vision and loss of feeling and sensation, the article said. Recent studies have shown it may also occur from psychological reasons, such as frustrations, malingering caused by a personality disorder, and psychoneurosis caused by such emotional conflicts as anxiety, hypochondria or hysteria.

"Malingering is the deliberate fabrication of symptoms in whose reality the patient does not believe," the article continued "A malingerer characteristically maintains his capacity for play and abandons his symptoms when not under observation by those whom he wants to impress by a disability. The neurotic, on the other hand, is personally convinced of the reality of his symptoms, and they interfere with his pleasures as well as his work.

"The normal person usually uses a short-lived symptom, such as a headache, as an escape mechanism and if caught shows a typical shame reaction. The person who undertakes to feign such a symptom as deafness for a protracted period is probably abnormal and should be considered to possess an inadequate personality structure. This type of person characteristically seeks an easy way of accomplishing his ends and has no qualms about adopting socially reprehensible methods to attain them."

Disciplinarian Role for Pa Endangers Family Affection

Too many American fathers are just something American mothers threaten their children with, in the opinion of one of the country's leading child psychologists

The psychologist, Dr Martin L. Reymert, Ph.D., writes in Your Child's World, monthly child guidance publication of The Book House for Children, that he wishes American mothers would stop telling their children:

"Just wait until Daddy gets home! You'll get a good spanking from him!"

Dr Reymert, who is Director of The Mooseheart Laboratory for Child Research at Mooseheart, Illinois, protests against this type of thing as being "extremely unfair to fathers." He calls it "an indication of the extent to which our culture has established the father primarily in the role of disciplinarian while rserving the more tender and gentler role of the loving parent for the mother."

Pointing out that "Mothers' Day antedated a similar day set aside for Father by a number of years," he adds:

"If this were simply a matter of seeing to it that Father got his 'just desserts,' it wouldn't be important. It is tragically important, however, because it reflects the lack of understanding in too many American families today of the responsibilities of the father as a companion, friend, and counselor to his children Resigned to the role of family breadwinner and disciplinarian, how can the average American father ever hope to achieve a warm and close relationship with his children?"

About Names

The many different spellings of one name have legal backing, for "idem sonans"—centuries-old doctrine of law, recognized as valid in almost every court in the land—states that "in documents, a spelling of a material word which is wrong but sounds essentially the same as the word intended—thus, 'Keen', 'Conly' have been held idem sonans with 'Keene' 'Conolly'" Records show that Bannister is spelled as Banister, Bauneister, Baumesiter, Baumeister, etc , Bentley as Bendley Bently Bundly, Buntly, etc ; Booth as Both Boothe, Buth, Buthe, etc , Bryan as Brian, Brien, Brion, Bryon, etc Many persons legally change their names to Americanize them Berkowitz becomes Burke; through accident, Brandt becomes Brand; through preference, Baird becomes Bard, and through illiteracy, Brady becomes Brody And illegible hand writing and transcribing errors continue to cause many disturbing mistakes when it comes to "filing and finding"

Kitchen With Character

An attractive kitchen-dinette combines gleaming white enameled walls, ceiling, woodwork and appliances with natural wood cabinets, a rose-red brick section surrounding the stove, and a copper stove-hood The linoleum floor covering simulates random-width flooring while the round table, with a built-in "Lazy Susan," is surrounded by Windsor chairs The furniture is finished with a walnut stain that is slightly deeper in tone than the floor covering Counter tops are a rich green and copper utensils serve as useful decoration

Every homemaker who sews needs a good pair of shears. According to clothing specialists of Iowa State College, these shears should have a bent handle, should cut cleanly the full length of the blade. Blades should be screwed together rather than riveted and need to be from 7 to 9 inches long. Get shears made of good quality steel and save them for cutting fabric only, they say,

CHEMICAL BANISHES SNOW FROM HIGHWAYS

Hamburg, Germany— A German highway engineer claims he has discovered a chemical combination to keep highways free of snow and ice.

Wilhelm Rademacher, 65, calls his solution "Electroswa Olorcatrinat 999-A." He maintains a short road test-strip near here. Not far off is a main highway. It has been coated with ice and snow, while Rademacher's strip has been bare and dry. A handful or two of snow, when thrown on it, melts in an hour.

Rademacher claims his chemical combination will mix with any road ingredient. His chemicals in liquid form cost about 20 cents a quart. He says a little more than a quart is enough for a square yard of road material.

Material thus treated will remain snow and ice-free for 8 to 10 years and will not cause deterioration in the highway surface, Rademacher says.

EXPECT RETURN OF CORN BORER HERE

DES MOINES— Iowa farmers were cautioned to expect a return of the European corn borer if the state has good weather for corn.

Dr. Tom Brindley, Ames, coordinator of the federal-state corn borer research laboratory at Ankey, told a meeting of the agricultural committee of the Des Moines Chamber of Commerce the cool, unfavorable crop seasons of the last two years gave the borer a setback in Iowa.

However, he said, "good weather for corn is good weather for borers and the 1952 crop season could be a time when we again have an abundance of borers and heavy damage to corn unless farmers use DDT to destroy them."

He cautioned againsts putting too much reliance on weather or parasites in keeping borer numbers at a low level and urged destruction of over-wintering borers through double disking, chopping or shredding stalks, clean plowing and other cultural practice which make for good farming.

HERMAN BARZ PLANTED FIRST CORN OF SEASON FRIDAY

Herman Barz jumped the gun by about two weeks when he planted 4 acres of corn just west of his farm yard and along the road on Friday, April25th.

Mr. Barz has farmed for about forty-six years and he says this is the earliest that he has ever planted any corn. He said he just wanted to see what it would do and if it turns out alright he will use it for hog feed. He expects it to mature in Aug. as the variety he planted was a 90-day corn.

It will be interesting to see how Mr. Barz's early corn turns out.

HARDWARE STORE AT GOODELL SOLD

GOODELL — A deal was closed last week in which Harley Urbatsch sold his hardware business, which includes the brick building, fixtures, stock, and truck to George Weese of Collins. The invoicing has been done and possession given.

Mr. Weese is not a stranger in this line as he has been in the hardware business before but the past two years lived on his farm at Collins.

Mr. and Mrs. Weese moved into the Dominy property and have living with them, their 7-year-old granddaughter, Janet Merck, and his aged parents.

The Urbatschs will continue to live in Goodell for the present as Mr. Urbatsch's plans are indefinite.

Auxiliary Meeting

The regular monthly meeting of the auxiliary will be held on Tuesday evening, May 7th at the home of Mrs. Albert Etchen at 7:30 o'clock.

RISES IN RANK— Mr. and Mrs. Lee Robbins of Goodell received word from the Air Force Base at Lubbock, Tex., that their son, Lee O. Robbins (above) was recently promoted to the grade of technical sergeant. A letter to the parents from his captain states "you may be proud of his achievement since the grade of technical sergeant is one of the highest that an airman can attain." The promotion came as a result of his "performance of duty, leadership and initiative."

the Highway Story

IOWA DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC SAFETY

BY RAY EASTMAN

The most useless danger to which highway patrolmen are exposed is caused by the driver who knows he's about to be stopped for a minor violation then tramps on the gas in an attempt to "get away."

Here's a fairly typical example. A patrolman met a car on the highway that appeared to have red light mounted on the windshield.

He turned around to stop the car but the driver apparently noticed the maneuver in his rear vision mirror and started heating up the highway at 90 and 95 miles an hour.

The patrolman had no choice but to think the driver had something serious to hide so he gave chase. The pursuit went on for six miles, most of it down a gravel road with the patrol car moving at top speed in a cloud of dust.

Time and again both cars careened toward the steep ditches on either side of the road curves. When the patrolman finally drew close enough to read the license on the car ahead, he stopped. The fleeing driver roared on, not knowing that the chase was actually over.

For the patrolman simply checked the license number through radio and, in five minutes, had the name and address of the driver of the car.

He drove to the address and found the boiling car in the garage. The "red light" turned out to be a red paper Christmas bell hung in the windshield.

The driver, instead of friendly advise to remove the bell, got a summons for reckless driving.

SOME OATS FIELDS STARTING TO SHOW UP GREEN

Some fields of oats which were sowed earlier are now beginning to show up quite green. The ideal weather of the past week was just made to order for the farmers of the community.

Farm work is already a few weeks ahead of the past two seasons and right now it begins to look like that North Iowa farmers are really going to get a good break in crops this year.

New seedings of grassland is coming along good. Farmers are now preparing the ground for corn and it looks like they are going to get on schedule by planting between May 10 and 15 this year, which is considered just right for North Iowa corn.

FORTY-SEVEN YEAR OLD NEWSPAPER FOUND BY IRVING HAUPT

Recently when Mr. and Mrs. Irving Haupt were taking an old chair apart to re-upholster it they found an old Chicago Sunday American newspaper tucked under the upholstering.

The paper was dated February 26, 1905. The paper contained a lot of patent medicine advertising . . . mostly medicine for "weak and middle-aged men" rheumatism cures, blood poison remedies and Cascarets for the bowels. Men's dress shirts were 69 cents; ladies hand bags 69 to 95 cents; false teeth $5.00, iron beds $4.98 up; wash goods 5 cents a yard; men's suits $4.75; shoes $1.75, etc.

There was one news story with a bold heading "Ban Is Only On Gaudy Stockings." It seems one of the large department stores had a pair of wooden legs in their store window which were ornamented with a pair of "ladies" gaudy stockings, with gaudy garters 4 or 5 inches above the knee." This display was considered too "bizarre," and the police made the proprietor remove this conspicuous display. (Wonder what they would think of the scanty 2-piece bathing suits now so popular at the lakes?)

If you want to see the old paper, call at the Times offices.

LOCAL TELEPHONE OFFICE REMODELED PAST WEEK

Manager Gilbert Jones did some remodeling in the local telephone office the past week. First he had the office repapered with a nice pattern of wall paper. Then he built up a sort of high counter partition across the office, giving more privacy to the switch board and his desk will also be behind the counter.

For the convenience of those who want to place long-distance calls from the office there is a booth in one of the front corners of the office.

The office will be locked after 6:00 p.m. and anyone who needs to place a long distance call can do so from a telephone at the fire station.

The apartment at the telephone office has also been all freshly re-papered and cleaned up for Mrs. Vivian Wilson and her family.

Goodell Girl Weds Klemme Soldier In Ceremony At Belmond Church

DONNA BOLLER, GOODELL, BRIDE OF PVT. MAURICE BUCKLEY OF KLEMME

Donna Marie Boller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Dempsey, of Goodell, became the bride of Pvt Maurice E. Buckley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Buckley of Klemme, in a double ring ceremony at the St. Francis Church in Belmond, with the Reverend R. A. Armsby officiating.

Mrs. Clifford Johnson, organist, accompanied the choir in nuptial music.

Miss Betty Dempsey, sister of the bride was maid of honor, The bestman was Elmer Buckley, brother of the bridegroom. Paul Dempsey, brother of the bride and Bill Chizek acted as ushers.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She was attired in a white satin, lace gown and carried a white rosary along with a bridal bouquet of red roses and sweet peas. The bride's only jewelry was a 3-strand pearl necklace, a gift of the groom.

The maid of honor's gown was a floor length orchid lace with a net skirt. She carried a colonial bouquet of sweet peas and carnations.

A breakfast reception was held at the Dempsey Cafe following the ceremony. Those present beside the bridal party were: Mr and Mrs. Wm. Chizek and family of Britt, Mr and Mrs. Ray Buckley & family of Klemme, Rev. R. H. Armsby of Belmond, Josephine and Howard Dominy of Goodell and Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Dempsey and family of Goodell. Josephine Dominy cut the wedding cake. Catherine Halfpop and Eileen Langlitz served the breakfast which was prepared by Mrs. Wm. Ayers and Mrs. Joseph Cambell.

After a short wedding trip the bride will be at home with her parents in Goodell and the groom will resume his duties with the U. S. Army. For going away the bride wore a navy blue suit with white accessories.

Cancer Society Scholarship Awarded Goodell Girl

BETTY DEMPSEY ONE OF 50 TO RECEIVE AWARD

Will Attend Mercy Hospital In Des Moines

Miss Betty Lou Dempsey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. H. Dempsey of Goodell has been awarded one of the 50 three-year nurses' scholarships given this spring by the Iowa division of the American Cancer Society. Miss Dempsey has indicated that she will attend the Mercy hospital in Des Moines. Announcement of the award, which grants tuition, fees, books, and uniforms for three full years of nurses' training (but not to exceed $500) at any accredited school of nursing in Iowa, was made by Mrs. Arthur Ross of Garner, chairman of the Hancock county chapter.

Primary considerations in the selection of Miss Dempsey from among more than 100 young Iowa high school seniors or graduates who submitted applications were: rank in upper third of class scholastically; satisfactory results in pre-nursing tests and acceptance by accredited Iowa nursing school; need of financial assistance; and personal qualities essential to becoming a good nurse as attested by character references.

First in the nation to set up such a program, the Iowa division now has 131 nurse trainees attending 23 nursing schools in Iowa. Aimed at relieving the critical shortage of nurses in Iowa, the scholarships are part of a long range program to expand the Society's service for needy cancer patients.

Miss Dempsey will be graduated from Goodell high school this month. She has been active in all curricular activities in school.

In an essay on "Why I Want To Be A Nurse," submitted with her application, Miss Dempsey wrote: "As far back as I can remember I have talked about and wanted to become a nurse. As the years went by the yearning to be a nurse became stronger and now that I am completing my last year of high school I am certain the nursing profession is the only career for me."

EIGHTH GRADE EXAMS WILL BE GIVEN IN KLEMME MAY 9

The eighth grade examinations will be given in Britt, Garner, Klemme, Forest City, Kanawha and Woden (for Ellington 1-2-3) on Friday, May 6. All eighth grade pupils are required to write, but County Superintendent Chas. Whitney encourages all seventh graders to take the exam.

Supt. Whitney asks that all pupils be at the centers in plenty of time to start writing at 9:00 a. m. They must furnish their own transportation, provide for their own lunch and should bring two sharp pencils.

SCHOOL OF INSTRUCTION HELD FOR RAINBOW GIRLS

A school of instruction was held Monday afternoon at the Masonic Hall in Garner for the Rainbow Girls. Mrs. Florence Erickson of Spencer, was the instructor. Klemme officers of the Rainbow attended.

In the evening work was put on in the initiatory degree with Miss Graska Gerardi receiving the degree.

Will Talk About Israel At Class Meeting

The May social meeting of the Fifty-Fifty Class will be held in the church Friday evening at 7:30. Richard Lomen, of Decorah who spent last summer in Israel as an exchange student will tell about his experiences and show pictures of the land he visited. The public is invited to attend. A free will offering will be taken to defray expenses.

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED

Mr. and Mrs. K. O Schiek of Clarion announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Delores Mae, to Melvin M. Waldon, son of Mr. and Mrs. O. S. Waldon of Clarion. The wedding will take place in August. Miss Schiek has attended Eagle Grove Junior College and Iowa State Teachers College. She is now teaching Kindergarten in Klemme. Mr. Waldon is a student at Iowa State College at Ames and is a member of the Sigma Phi Epsilon social fraternity.

BACCALAUREATE WILL BE HELD AT SCHOOL AUDITORIUM

Both the Baccalaureate and Commencement will be held in the high school auditoroum in order to accomodate a larger crowd.

The decision was made by the School Board at a recent meeting. In the past it had been customary to have the Baccalaureate at one of the churches. However, with larger classes and many more people attending, more room was needed. Last week the Times stated the Baccalaureate would be at the Methodist Church, but this was an error.

BONDS OF DRAINAGE ENGINEER APPROVED

SCHOOLS GET MAJOR SLICE OF '51 TAXES

Hancock County schools get by far the largest slice of the 1951 tax dollar according to a report released by County Auditor Maynard Schoneman recently. Of the total 1951 tax payable in 1952 in the sum of $1,259,245, tax paid for schools account for $783,203 or approximately 62.19 per cent of the total.

In rural areas schools receive approximately 57.54 per cent of the total tax while in independent districts the total increases to 78.38 per cent.

Highways account for the 2nd largest slice with $205,845 or approximately 16.25 per cent of the total. The county fun with $71,385 accounts for the third largest portion with 5.6 per cent and the fourth largest item on the tax budget is the county hospital with $36,617 or approximately 3.53 per cent.

Next in line is the county poor fund with $32,943 or 2.62 per cent; state institution with $19,987 or 1.59 per cent; soldiers' bonus with $16,777 or approximately 1,33 per cent; court expense with $15,989 or 1.27 per cent.

Other funds which receive lesser amounts include soldier's relief, emergency, T.B. eradication; Bang's disease, county assessor, county board of education and miscellaneous, including fire equipment, township hall, cemetery, library, etc.

STEAMER

Residents of Owasa, in Hardin county, thought the clock had turned back 40 years or more recently, when Horace Nichols drove down town in a Stanley Steamer. He purchased it in Spirit Lake two years ago and has been putting it into condition. "Old Timers" will recall that the Stanley Steamer was a familiar name in the earlier days of automobiles, operating with a steam engine in the same manner as a steam locomotive. Mr. Nichol's car is a 1912 model.

U. S. Trend Is Toward Larger Families

American parents are putting out the welcome mat for more children these days. According to the National Office of Vital Statistics, second, third and a truly surprising number or fourth children joined thousands of families last year. More than seven babies arrived every minute of 1951, addding up to an all-time high of 3,333,000 total births.

Forty years ago, larger families were taken for granted. In 1910, every mother was credited with close to five children, while today the figure stands at a fraction over 3 children.

April 26 to May 3 is National Baby Week, and the nation has lots to celebrate this year in a continuing marked decline in infant deaths. In 1940 there were 47.4 deaths per thousand live births. Last year's infant mortality rate, which dropped for the fifteenth straight year, was 28.8 per thousand live births. Reason for the steady drop: improved nutrition and health standards, new techniques of prenatal care and a larger proportion of hospital births.

GOOD PASTURE AID TO DAIRY FARMER

May Save 8 Pounds Of Grain Per Cow Daily

Dairymen can save up to 8 pounds of grain fed daily to each cow—depending on pasture quality and management, reports Robert Pincham, extension dairyman at Iowa State College.

Cows grazing on excellent pasture—one that's 6 to 10 inches high and has twice as much legume as grass—will require only 6.5 pounds of grain a day if she is giving 40 pounds of 4% milk.

But turning your herd out on poor pasture—such as unimproved bluegrass—means a cow will need 14.5 pounds of grain a day.

Watch Cow's Weight

The specialist cautions not to give grass too much credit for early butterfat increases after your cows have been turned out on pasture.

He says that the extra sport is largely from stimulation of pasture forage. This increase may be at the expense of weight loss to the cow and if continued, it will cause a drop in production.

Although pasture is an ideal dairy feed, grain still must be added to a cow's ration. The amount of grain fed varies with a cow's capacity for production and the pasture quality. Generally grain isn't recommended for cows producing less than 20 pounds of 4% milk daily, according to Pincham.

The grain mixture may be low in protein—12 to 14%—as long as your pasture is good. But as it gets poorer it's best to increase the protein to 16%.

Rotate Pastures

Following a good pasture rotation plan also will lower grain requirements, says the specialist.

Divide the pasture into four sections, so that each section will average about 5 cows per acre. Then turn your herd into one section at a time. This way they'll eat down the forage quickly and evenly. After that, move them to the next section.

Clip the used pasture, then harrow to spread manure. Let it come up again.

Clippings or any pastured sections that get too tall may be turned into grass silage.

At Farley, Rev. P. E. Donnely was honored recently, on the 50th anniversary of his entry into the priesthood. He was ordained April 4, 1903.

Candidates

Lyon County will have plenty of candidates for supervisor, next June. Fourteen candidates have filed for the positions as members of the county board.

Razed

The Presbyterian Church building at Paullina has been razed, to make room for a new and larger church. Volunteer workers razed the old building in less than two weeks time.

Storm

When he heard a series of loud reports one night last week, Audubon's Joe Shaw called the police. The sheriff arrived and found that the "shots" were coming from an electric transformer, which was popping madly as the results of the storm.

Trees

A Spencer, the Clay County Garden Club, since 1950, has been planting flowering crab trees in each block of the city. Over 300 trees were planted, and more will be added until there are at least two in each block of the city.

Big Boy

Tiny Lindsey Derl Morris, of Belmond, was one month old on April 7 and is quite a big lad now — 38 ounces. When he was born on March 7, he weighed only 24 ounces.

Baccalaureate Services Is Sunday Evening At School

FIRST OF GRADUATION ACTIVITIES FOR THE 1952 SENIOR CLASS

Sunday evening will mark the "beginning of the end" of school activities for the 1952 graduating class with a Baccalaureate service which will be held in the high school auditorium. This will be the first time that the Baccalaureate service has been held at the high school auditorium. Previously the annual event had been held at one of our churches, but the crowds have become larger each year so it was decided that this year the service would be held in the auditorium.

Rev. Vernon E. Jaberg will deliver the baccalaureate sermon, and will be assisted in the service by Rev. E. Morris Egeland. Special music will be provided by the music department of the high school.

Commencement Next

The graduating excercises for the Senior Class will be held on Friday evening of next week, May 16th.

Another event of importance on the Senior's calendar is the Junior - Senior Banquet which will be held at the gymnasium this week Saturday evening. The theme this year is a Gypsy Camp.

School After Commencement

Although the Seniors will complete their school work next week, the balance of the high school and grade school will continue into next week, because of having to make up time for the days school was closed in the winter months.

The annual school picnic will close the school year on Thursday, May 22.

THREE HANCOCK MEN TO BE INDUCTED MAY 12

The Hancock County Local Board has received an induction call for May 12, 1952. The following registrants who have been found to be qualified for general military service will be delivered on this date:

Elmer K. Livingston -- Corwith
William A. Wood ---- Woden
John T. O'Rouke -------- Britt

MISS NADINE CARVER, DES MOINES, BRIDE OF WILLIAM FINN, KLEMME

Miss Nadine Carver of Des Moines, and William Finn, of Klemme, were united in marriage at Britt, Iowa, on Thursday, April 24, 1952. The ceremony was witnessed by Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kelly of Jefferson, Iowa.

Friends and neighbors of the couple gave them a charivari on Monday evening, April 28th at their farm home.

Mr. and Mrs. Finn are at home on their farm east of Klemme, which Mr. Finn purchased seceral months ago from Edmund K., Josten.

Mrs. E. J. Arnold Attended Grade School Operetta At Humboldt

Mrs. E. J. Arnold spent all day, last Wednesday visiting her daughter, Miss Evelyn Arnold in Humboldt. Miss Arnold is one of the 6th grade teachers in the grade schools.

Mrs. Arnold went to Humboldt especially to be present at the Operetta given by Evelyn's 6th grade that evening. Some sixty pupils took part in the operetta. "The Cobbler Of Fairyland" The pupils of the fifth grade also presented a pageant" America The Beautiful." Both presentations were very beautiful and interesting.

Mrs. Arnold and Evelyn returned to Klemme after the entertainment.

the Highway Story
IOWA DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC SAFETY

BY RAY EASTMAN

With School Safety Patrol Day Day coming up Saturday, May 10, we looked around for a story of heroism that yould illustrate the worth of the youngsters in the white belts who pass future generations across busy streets with out mishap.

The only story we found was of a little girl who went to school late one morning and found the school patrolman gone from his corner. She went home and told her mother she would not go to school that day because the patrolmen wasn't there to help her across the street.

It was a story and it showed the importance youngsters attach to their patrolmen, but it seemed too slight for a column. Surely, we thought, there must be some outstanding story from Iowa's 7500 school patrol members and the 100,000 children they protect each day.

So we thought until a man whose daily job is contacting school patrols pointed out the obvious fact.

"If the school patrol is doing its job," he said, "there's no reason for a patrolman to be running into the street to save a youngster. The situation just doesn't come up.

Accepting that we decided that the real story of school safety patrols in Iowa is in the lack of a story. For the last 7 years, no Iowa child has been killed by a car at a crossing protected by a school safety patrol.

And, as far as we could learn, there have been no incidents where a patrol member had to save a child's life by some unusual act.

Governor Beardsley has proclaimed May 10 School Safety Patrol Day. It will be a good day to remember this quiet, efficient record of school safety patrols in Iowa - a good day to honor and recognize their members.

Cub Scouts Hold April Meeting

The April Pack meeting of the Cub Scouts was held Wednesday evening April 30 in the Reformed Church basement. The meeting was opened with the Flag Pledge led by Den I. The "parade of foods" by both Dens followed. Den I sang the song they had made up to the tune of "The Farmer in the Dell" A film on animals was shown. Den II had the closing, using the Livng Circle. Den I and Den II had an exhibit on "Things That Grow" and many other achievements. In keeping with the April theme both Dens visited a greenhouse this month, Den I went to Forest City and Den II to Belmond. Lunch of cup cakes, coffee and cool-ade was served.

Board of Review Will Meet At Courthouse

Klemme Will Field Soft Ball Team For Summer Season Entertainment

VIRGIL CLABAUGH WILL MANAGE SOFT BALL TEAM

At the Civic Club meeting held Wednesday evening Virgil Clabaugh was named team manager for the season, and "Pete" Kilgore will again act as business manager.

John Eenhuis managed the team the past year and did a good job of it, but pointed out that it was not desirable for a player to act as manager. John will continue to play with the team, as will Pete Kilgore.

The soft ball provides a lot of good entertainment and the fans here are glad to know that the team will play under the lights again this year.

Anyone interested in playing should contact Clabaugh at Josten's Hardware, or Kilgore at the service station. The team would like a full roster of players and substitutes and is planning a full series of games for the season.

Watch this paper for announcement of the first game and the schedule.

Klemme Soldier Back In States

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Etchen received a telephone call the first of the week from New York from their son, Pvt. Elwyn Etchen who told his parents he was back in the U. S. A. from Germany. Elwyn was spending a few days in the city waiting for his jeep to arrive on another ship, and he would drive it home from New York. He purchased the jeep while in Europe so that he could do some traveling before coming home.

LIBRARY HAS SUPPORT OF KLEMME CIVIC CLUB

At the meeting of the Klemme Civic Club Wednesday evening is was voted that the Club assist and support the Legion Auxiliary in any way possible to help along their library project. A committee was named with Rev. Egeland and Rev. Jaberg, co-chairman, and on the same committee named were Bert Jones and Walt Lemke.

THE AMERICAN WAY

"... which the taxpayer doth deny!"

THE FARM OUTLOOK

By Paul Henderson, County Extension Director

Ample supplies of slaughter cattle combined with a dull wholesale beef trade in the East and still another low ebb in hide and tallow values, jolted that late-April fat cattle market.

Francis A. Kutish, farm economist at Iowa State College, says that best information available continues to indicate rather liberal supplies of fat cattle for the weeks just ahead. Farmers in Iowa, Illinois and Nebraska plan to market more fed cattle than in April. And they intend to sell slightly more in June than in May.

Furthermore, more of the cattle on feed are heavy cattle and fewer are calves and lightweight cattle than a year ago.

Psychology Different This Year

The total number of cattle on feed is up only about 3% from last year. That's not much. But the psychology of the market is a lot different than a year ago.

Last year, OPS had just rolled back fat cattle prices. The possibility of further price advances if Congress tossed out these roll backs was recognized. Bullish sentiment was rather general.

Right now, it is hard to find much bullish sentiment. Under these circumstances even a modest boost in fat cattle maretings is of importance. Thus, Kutish looks for steady to slightly low fed cattle prices during May and early June.

Summer Prospects Better

The outlook still points to a strong summer and early fall market for long-fed cattle. In the past, the summer and early fall market for choice steers was strong, the next summer after a short corn crop. In contrast, a summer fat cattle price usually failed to develop in years after the harvest of a large corn crop.

Explanation of this probably lies in the fact that farmers lack the feed to carry many fed cattle into the summer in years following small feed crops according to Kutish. But in years after large feed crops, farmers carry enough fed cattle into the summer to prevent a significant price rise.

Fewer Spring Pigs

Last December, farmers were planning an 8% cutback in spring farrowings. But thus far, the cutback has been much sharper than that. Total farrowings during the first five months of this year fell 25% below a year earlier.

Of course, 70% of Iowa's sows farrow in April and May. But the way things look now, the spring pig crop will be down 12 to 15 percent, Kutish believes. This should insure a better hog feeding ratio next winter—if we get any break on the 1952 corn crop.

Walleye Season Opens May 15

May 15 adds northern, Walleye and sauger pike, perch, white or silver bass and yellow bass to the list of fishes already open in Iowa. The nesting species of game fish, on which the season does not open until May 30, include smallmouth, largemouth and warmouth bass, sunfish, bluegill, and rock bass. The frog season opens May 12 with a catch and possession limit of one dozen.

Eastern Star Box Social

The O. E. S. Relief Chapter No. 391 is sponsoring an old fashion box social May 13 following the regular meeting.

All Stars and their husbands and Masons and their wives are invited to come.

Ladies please bring a box and gent's your pocketbooks and join the fun.

The social will start at 9:00 p. m. Do come!

Candidates Listed For The June 2 Primary Election

PRIMARY ELECTION BALLOTS READY FOR DISTRIBUTION

County Auditor Maynard Schoneman has the primary election ballots printed and ready for use of absent voters. If you are going to be away from home on June 2 (primary election day) you can make application for an absent voters ballot, vote it and deposit it (or send it) with County Auditor Schoneman. Then it will be delivered in a sealed envelope to the precinct where the applicant votes and will be counted the same as had the voter been there to vote.

The candidates this year are not so numerous in this county but on state offices there is plenty of opposition. Following is the list by parties:

REPUBLICAN

For Governor: W. H. Nicholas of Mason City; Wm. S. Beardsley, of New Virginia; Kenneth A. Evans, of Emerson.

For Lieutenant Governor: Alden L. Doud, of Doud; Leo Elthon, of Fertile; R. J. Oltman, of Storm Lake; Ralph B. Slippy, of Waterloo.

For Secretary of State: Melvin D. Synhorst, of Orange City; Edward J. Kallamyn, of Fort Des Moines; David B. Long, of Des Moines.

For Auditor of State: Chet B. Akers, of Ottumwa.

For Treasurer of State: M. L. Abrahamson of Boone; John Hamilton Cruickshank, of Sioux City.

For Secretary of Agriculture: Harry B. Thompson, of Muscatine; Francis Johnson, of Arnolds Park; Clyde Spry, of Bronson.

For Attorney General: Robert L. Larson, of Iowa City; Chester C Yeaman, of Sioux City.

For Commerce Commissioner: R. O. Youngerman, of Clear Lake; Lewis Jolley, of Adel; Carl W. Reed, of Cresco.

For Commerce Commissioner to fill vacancy: Otis DeVoll, of Sanborn; Peter A. Jesson, of Exira; John M. Ropes, of Des Moines; John A. Tallman, of Clarion, A. J. Anderson, of Oskaloosa.

For Congressman: James I. Dolliver.

There is not a single candidate on the democratic ballot from representative on down through the county

QUITE A LOT OF BUILDING ACTIVITY IN THE COMMUNITY

With the arrival of good weather there is again quite a lot of building activity in this community.

Mr and Mrs. Dale Brede have raised their farm home southeast of Klemme, excavated a basement and had new walls laid up. They are also building a large living room with picture window to their home, and other remodeling work.

Everett Guth is having the Northern build an overhead corn crib on his farm just north of town. The Guth's have a new home completed last year.

Last week Jeff Bell had a basement excavated on the lot near the Frank Ward home.

The cement footings are now run in and will soon be ready for the basement walls. Jeff is moving a house in from the country.

C. A Larsen recently completed a large barn on his farm west of town. It is a rather novel construction & the frame work is the "Pole type" and covered with sheet metal with the exception of the ends, which are car siding. This type of barn features a lot of storage space at a minimum of cost.

Mr. Larsen also plans to build a new barn on his place northwest of Klemme and occupied by the Wiley Weaver family. Construction will not begin for a couple of months, however.

The County has a crew and a lot of power machinery at work in Klemme starting the construction of a new county shed just southeast of the Coop. Grain Co.

HELLO FOLKS

Mr. and Mrs. George Netland are the parents of a 6 lbs. and 12 oz. baby girl born at their home in Klemme on Tuesday, April 29.

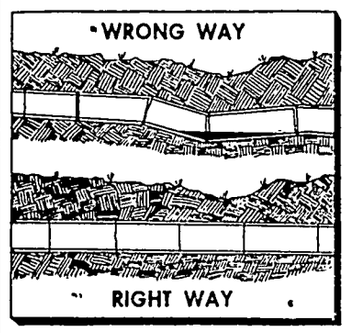
Proper Drainage Means Better Crops

Under Drainage System Quickly Pays for Itself

It is a well-known and established fact that more crops and better quality crops are grown on land that is properly drained than can be grown on undrained land. More and better crops mean larger incomes, and for this reason alone every farmer should investigate the benefits of drainage to his land

A farm underdrainage system may easily pay for itself in from one to five years. Often the loss of a single crop that could have been prevented by proper drainage will amount to more than the entire cost of the system.

The actual cash return comes from the basiic benefits They include: It deepens the soil bed; it conserves the top soil; it lengthens the growing season; it raises soil temperatures; it permits uniform cultivation of fields; it permits earlier cultivation after rains, it protects crops from frost damage; it increases value of fertilizing; it reduces labor and machinery costs; it tends to make crops drought-resistant, and it increases value of any farm.



The right and wrong way to lay tile line. Be sure that grade is even at all times.

Sheep Become Popular With Midwest Farmers

Sheep are seen more and more on midwest farms. Many of these farmers are finding that the "woolies" make good use of soil-conserving crops and can be produced with less labor than other livestock.

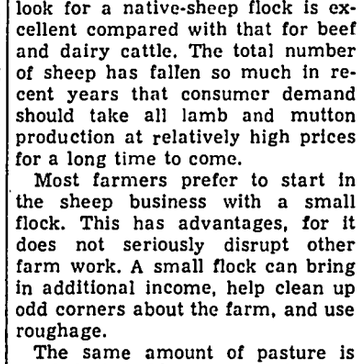
According to Successful Farming magazine, the long-time price outlook for a native-sheep flock is excellent compared with that for beef and dairy cattle. The total number of sheep has fallen so much in recent years that consumer demand should take all lamb and mutton production at relatively high prices for a long time to come.

Most farmers prefer to start in the sheep business with a small flock. This has advantages, for it does not seriously disrupt other farm work. A small flock can bring in additional income, help clean up odd corners about the farm, and use roughage.

The same amount of pasture is needed for five ewes and their lambs, as for one cow and calf. A cow needs a half-acre of hay during the winter—a ewe needs about one-quarter acre The carrying capacity of a good alfalfa-brome pasture is around five ewes and their lambs per acre.

What will it cost to go into the sheep business? Compared to beef the cost is lower. For instance, one beef cow will cost from $300 to $375. One calf from this cow per year will be worth about $160. Five ewes will cost anywhere from $125 to $200. Five ewes probably will give you seven lambs worth about $170.

Drench Bottle



To simplify drenching a sick cow or horse, as well as preventing the animal breaking the neck of the bottle and swallowing a piece of glass, fit the bottle with a rubber hose extension.

American Diets Improve During Past 15 Years

Americans as a whole are better fed than they were 15 years ago, nutritionists report. Compared to the period before World War II, people in the U.S. are eating 19 per cent more meat, poultry and fish; 42 per cent more eggs; 11 per cent more fruits and vegetables; and 20 per cent more dairy products except butter. They are eating 24 per cent less potatoes and 17 per cent less grain products.

Study Shows Relatives Influence Mentally Sick

People do not become mentally sick spontaneously Someone provides the immediate reason. And very often the emotional knots which result in mental illness are tied by husband, wife, mother-in-law, neighbor or boss, says Howard Whitman in a recent Woman's Home Companion article "Who's Driving You Crazy?"

Whitman, who toured mental health clinics and counseling agencies where some of the best mental health work in the land is being done, was told by several health authorities, "After we meet the relatives we often know why the patient is sick."

For example, there was the man who was only five-feet-three and whose wife would never let him forget it. Hit any weak spot frequently enough and hard enough and you will produce drastic results.

In men a basic weak spot is comparison. Psychologists at the Washington Institute of Mental Hygiene have found that case after case of marriage muddle results from a wife comparing her husband to her father, brother or the fellow she almost married When a wife says "If I had married Dick I wouldn't have to worry about getting a new washing machine," or "Well anyway, my daddy was a success," her husband interprets such comparisons as a challenge to his own feeling of masculinity and even his sexual prowess.

Husbands are equally guilty of an unnerving chipping away at their wives' weak spots. Often in the form of teasing Dr William G. Hollister, U S. Public Health Service mental health consultant for the Southern states, calls it "torture for fun." Fun for the husband. Torture for the wife.

How can we keep people from getting us down? and vice versa?

Mental health clinics recommend several methods One is tapping the motive (finding out what the other fellow is trying to do).

Brazil's Uaymiris Proved Not Hostile Aborigines

A collection of bows and arrows of one of the world's least-known peoples, the Uaymiris of the jungle-covered Amazonia province of Brazil, has been presented to the Smithsonian Institution The donor is Mrs. Maurice Bernard, to whom the objects were given by these mysterious Indians themselves She may be the first white woman who ever has come in contact with them.

The Uaymiris were discovered in 1941 by Maj Eugene Chauvin of the Brazilian service, chief inspector of Indian tribes for Amazonia. On one of his inspection trips he found an unknown tributary of the Rio Negro which he named the Camanau. Attempting to reach its headwaters he stumbled on this tribe of Indians, probably never before seen by white men. They had been mentioned previously by other Indians, however, as Uaymiris, or "bad people," and were allegedly extremely hostile.

Major Chauvin, however, had no trouble with the Uaymiris. He left with them a heavily armed detail of men, equipped with tools, supplies, and a two-way radio, to build a blockhouse. On his second trip to the Camanau with a party of 12, including Mr. and Mrs. Bernard, he did not reach the first Uaymiris village, but shortly after entering the river the party encountered a group of naked aborigines, including women and children, who were on a hunting and fishing trip. Plenty of gifts created a friendly atmosphere for about an hour, during which the bows and arrows were presented to Mrs. Bernard by the Indian leader.

Early Invader

The Koryo state, which gave Korea its modern name, was dedicated to peaceful Buddhism and Chinese precepts of scholarship. Soldiers dropped to a social position one step above beggars. To protect themselves against the savage Kitan people across the Yalu River to the north, the Koryo kings built a great wall 25 feet high across the entire peninsula, from the Yellow Sea to the Sea of Japan. The wall was inadequate. In 1231, the Golden Horde of Genghis Khan swarmed across the Yalu. His Mongols swept south to Songdo, and the Korean king fled to an island bastion at the mouth of the Han River. Invasion has followed invasion throughout Korean history Seven centuries after the Mongols, Japanese overlords came to the same rocky hills overlooking Kaesong They renamed the city Kaijo, meaning "the opening of the castle or fortress." On the road to the west was Panmunjom, "gateway of the rafts," the small village destined to hold the world's hope for Korean peace.

Tailored To Modern Living

Just as the men who formulate the finishes for fine furniture remember how it will be used, the designers of the furniture consider the way it will be placed. Theirs is the problem of suiting furniture to homes with large window areas, to television seating and home entertainment. One manufacturer is offering modern end tables fourteen inches wide instead of the usual eighteen to overcome the problem of insufficient wall space. Buffet sideboards, once 66 inches long, are down to 54 now Even reproductions of 18th century dining room pieces are being scaled down.

U.S. Musk Ox Project Thriving on Small Scale

The United States' effort to reestablish the musk ox in its former Alaskan range is proving successful on a small scale.

Latest census of the nation's only herd of the shaggy polar beasts on Nunivak Island in the Bering Sea off Alaska shows a head count of 76. When the herd was taken to Nunivak in 1935 it numbered 27 animals, all that were left of 34 captured in Greeland in 1930 and kept on the Alaskan mainland for five years.

Skeletons found in northern Alaska prove that musk oxen ranged there less than 150 years ago. It is believed they were killed off by the Eskimos, as were large numbers in northern Canada and Greenland. Now there are less than 15,000 of the species in a range running across the top of the western world from Canada's Great Bear Lake to Greenland.

The musk ox is not really an ox at all, but a member of the sheep family. It is known also as ovibos and polar ox. The average full-grown animal weighs 600 pounds, is 90 inches from nose to stumpy tail and stands 55 inches high at the shoulder.

Musk oxen are admirably equipped for polar life. They have an outer coat of long, coarse dark brown to black hair and a warm undercoating of wool that is shed every spring. They feed in winter on dormant grasses found beneath the snow.

They are armed against their natural enemies—wolves and polar bears—with long curving horns shaped somewhat like a walrus mustache that curves up at the tips

When a herd is threatened by animal enemies the older bulls form a protective circle around the cows and calves. The bulls stand shoulder to shoulder, presenting their formidable horns to the enemy.

Animals attacking the musk-ox circle find it almost impenetrable, but it is a perfect target for man's gunfire, spears and arrows.

More Babies Born in 1951 Than In Any Previous Year

More babies were born during 1951 in the United States than in any previous year in the country's history, Insurance Company statisticians report.

The total for 1951 exceeds 3,900,000, and the highest previous figure was 3,876,000 in 1947. The past year was the fifth in succession in which the total exceeded 3,500,000.

"The new birth record reflects, in part, the increase in the marriage rate after the start of the war in Korea," the statisticians observe, "but even more important is the break away from the 1 or 2 child family pattern that prevailed prior to World War II. The improved economic conditions of recent years have apparently created a favorable attitude toward larger families."

The births in 1951 correspond to a rate of 25 per 1,000 population, including the armed forces overseas.

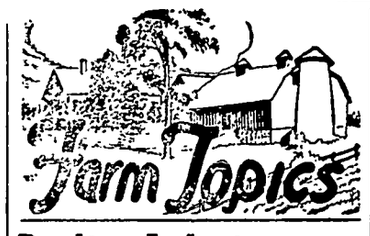
"The baby crop of 1951, moreover, has an exceptionally good survivorship record," the statisticians comment. "Infant mortality in 1951 may establish a new low; in any event, it appears likely to be at least as good as in 1950, when the rate was 29 per 1,000 live births. Thus, 1951 will mark the second year in succession in which the infant mortality rate was below the 30 mark. Only 10 years ago, it was 45 per 1,000 live births, or more than 1½ times as high. If the 1941 rate had prevailed in 1951, the toll of infant deaths in the year would have been more than 65,000 in excess of the actual number. The steady downward trend in infant mortality over the past decade has meant an aggregate saving of about 400,000 infant lives during this period, truly a magnificent achievement."

Climbing Figures

In the decade, 1910-19, there were 62,969 automobile fatalities They climbed to 209,894 in the twenties, and in the following years, 1930-39, reached the peak of any decade to date, with 342,588 traffic deaths recorded. Travel restrictions of the war years lowered to 308,827 the toll of the 1940-49 decade, but as the second half of the century started, fatalities in 1950 rose 3,500 over the previous year and for 1951 were estimated at 37,500, some 2,500 higher than in 1950 These big increases in deaths have given an ominous start to the second half of the century with hespect to motor vehicle fatalities. This decade's fatalities so far total about 72,500 for the first two years, compared with 66,600 for the first two years of the "terrible thirties," or approximately 6,000 higher.

Inviting Dining Room

A small dining room with its wall and ceiling painted a pale tint of a warm gray has a sense of spaciousness supplied by the light tint Against it, the well-designed mahogany furniture shows to excellent advantage. Draperies and place mats are a clear yellow Woodwork, glass curtains and dishes are white, while chair seats are upholstered in a red-orange tone that is repeated in decorative accessories and in floral prints on the wall. The rug is deep green—a color that also appears in the floral prints.



Poultry Industry May Set New Record

Output in 1952 May Hit Fourfold of Decade Ago

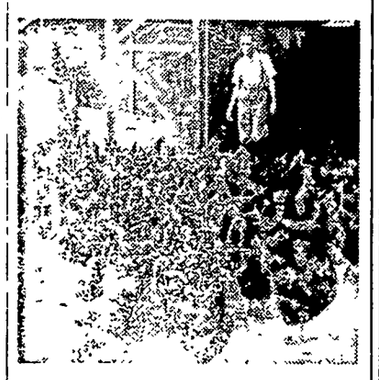
The poultry industry may break all production records during 1952.

Production of broiling chickens, for instance, which makes up over half the chicken population, is expected to jump this year to more than 850 million birds. Last year's production was 784 million. Just a decade ago, fewer than 200 million broilers were raised in a year.

Turkey productions is forecast at 11 per cent higher than the record 53 million of last year, about 80 per cent above the pre-war 1941 output.

Egg production is expected to stay about the same as last year when some 60 billion were produced. That was 40 per cent above the production of 1941.

Poultry production gains have far outdistanced the U S. population increase. That means some huge jumps in per-capita consumption.



More and more flocks like the one above will be seen on the nation's farms this year.

Last year, the average American downed over 400 eggs against less than 300 yearly in the 1935-39 period Chicken eating per person was nearly 30 pounds in 1951, against a 1935-39 average of under 19 pounds. Turkey consumption more than doubled in the same period

Spreading Manure Aids Wildlife, Specialists Say

Farmers who spread manure on their fields in late winter and early spring are helping wildlife as well as crops, extension specialists report.

Value of manure spreading for plant food is recognized, but few people realize that good farming practice also is a wildlife conservation help. Most manure contains weed and crop seeds that make good winter feed for pheasants, quail and other birds

February, March, and sometimes April, are lean months in many northern states for the wildlife population. Pheasants and quail are weakened by lack of cover during earlier winter months.

Since much of their winter food supply has been exhausted, many birds will not survive lean pickings and rough weather during the last months of winter

Agronomists always have emphasized that prompt spreading of manure saves plant food that might otherwise be lost through leaching From now until full spring, manure should be spread when field conditions permit. Spreading now will put nutrients in fields instead of down barnyard drains, extension specialists say

A Notion Honors The Homemaker—
HER BUSINESS IS GOOD LIVING

Each year a special week is set aside to pay tribute to thousands upon thousands of Iowa homemakers. These homemakers study all phases of home and family living under the guidance of the Iowa State College Extension Service. End result is more charming surroundings for work and relaxation, better run homes, up-and-doing communities, and—most important—happier, closer knit families.

All around the state this spring, rural homemaker groups are proudly staging their annual county rural women's day to acquaint folks with their accomplishments for the year.

You study their colorful exhibits, listen to their illustrated talks, watch their demonstrations, pass your plate at their delicious potluck luncheon. Gradually a composite picture emerges of some of the things they've learned about simplifying their work, modernizing and beautifying their homes, bettering their communities, sharing their experiences with the menfolks and youngsters, and becoming better informed and happier people.

All this learning has its roots deep in a unique on-the-job educational program sponsored by the Iowa State College Extension Service. This program is carried to homemaker-students by the college extension staff, the extension home economist located in each county and voluntary local leaders among the women themselves. The women choose their own program of study, apply what they learn in their own homes.

Nationwide Program

Clear across the nation, the extension service of each state land-grant college— under the auspices of the U. S. Department of Agriculture— sponsors the same type of education program. For the psat 7 years a special National Home Demonstration week has been set aside to pay tribute to these homemakers, local leaders, and extension folks. This year it's this week, April 27 -May 3.

Let's take a look at what some 93,000 Iowa homemakers have been learning at "school" this year.

All in all, 68,755 families look forward to more delicious and healthful meals because Mom went off to extension meetings on food buyman-ship, meal planning, food preservation, family entertaining and many more food-centered subjects.

Better Homes

Extension folks reached just about 50,000 Iowa families with information and practical work shop eperience on furnishing and managing their homes. Homemakers studied how to create a color scheme, plan a convenient kitchen, arrange, reupholster and refinish their furniture, plan attractive landscaping, how to make their work easier They came into a clearer understanding of legal matters affecting the family, became more adept at managing the family income, and studied wise buying of household equipment and furnishings.

Over 26,000 dads and youngsters were prouder than ever of a homemaker who learned more about sewing and making good clothing buys. Recreation and community living came in for a great deal of interest, too, as over 16,000 families felt the benefit of studies in music, community problems and good times, and world affairs. Close to 6,000 homemakers were specifically interested in learning about family goals and fun, child guidance, and the big and little things that make a family happy, vibrant and very much together.

Beyond Iowa's Borders

Once these groups of extension sponsored homemakers were known just as "those women who get together to cook and sew feed sacks." Today their influence goes far beyond the borders of their home and state. Through their organizations and associations across the country and the world they speak for rural women everywhere.

Little Cattle Feeders Hold Meeting

Sixteen members were present at the regular meeting of the Grimes Little Cattle Feeders 4-H Club held at the Dick and Don Gilpin home Monday evening April 28. After our Pres. Carroll Morris called the meeting to order we talked about sending in our entry blanks and discussed the progress we are making with our projects. We received additional record book fillers. Larrie Hindman and Lois Helps were chosen as our delegates to attend District 4-H camp at Clear Lake. It was decided to have a skating party at Lake Cornelia. At the close of the meeting a delicious lunch was served by Mrs. Gilpin.

WHAT ABOUT BLOAT LOSSES?

Q: Which farm animals are most susceptible to bloating?

A: Cattle and sheep, especially when on early pasture.

Q: What causes bloat?

A: All forage and feed taken in by cattle or sheep goes through a process of fermentation in the rumen or storage paunch with formation of various types of gas. Under certain conditions, as yet not fully understood, excess amounts of gas become trapped in the paunch and cause bloating.

Q: What happens then?

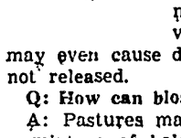
A: The cow's rumen swells up like a balloon. These gasses will make the cow very sick and may even cause death if they are not released.

Q: How can bloat be prevented?

A: Pastures may be sown with a mixturo of half grass and half legumes. This combination will usually give the cow enough roughage to help prevent bloating.

Q: What other preventive measures are there?

A: If pasturing legumes only, farmers should feed their cattle hay before putting them on pasture. This rougher feed will help forestall bloating. Otherwise, animals should be kept off pasture until the legumes reach the bloom stage. There should also be a gradual change-over from barn feeding to pasture feeding. Keep free-choice salt and other minerals before animals at all times.



Q: If a cow bloats, what should the owner do?

A: If the animal is to be saved a veterinarian should be called immediately. There are several emergency measures, but none are of value if too much time has elapsed.

Hawaiian Botanist Studies An Island in the Sky

HOUOLULU, Hawaii—Like a modern Gulliver, Hawaii botanist Otto Degener is exploring an island in the sky.

He'll go flower-picking by helicopter on the isolated top of Namolokama peak, a plateau surrounded by cliffs so sheer that there is no record that man has ever reached it.

"It's a veritable island in the air," Degener told reporters here. "I have no idea what plants and flowers I'll find. Because of the height and isolation, vegetation should be entirely different from the countryside about the plateau."

Namolokama is 4000 feet above sea level, about one and a-half miles long and a third of a mile wide, on the Hawaii island of Kauai near here.

Degener, island representative of the New York Botanical Garden, is spending a month on Kauai. His trip to the sky garden must be timed to cloud conditions.

"Clouds hide the plateau much of the time," he said. "I'll be landed when it's clear, then do as much exploring as I can before they close in again. I expect to stay at least overnight, but it may be longer if the helicopter can't get back to me through the clouds."

Growth is luxuriant over the rest of Kauai, known as the Garden Isle of the mid-Pacific resort chain, so Degener expects to find the untouched plateau a botanists' gold mine.

In addition to giant tropic plants, the scientist may find traces of a lost Hawaiian civilization. Anthropologists now believe that the menehunes, the fairies and gnomes of Hawaiian legends, actually were a race of aborigines who lived on Kauai before the present Hawaiian people landed from Tahiti.

If anyone could get up to Namolokama, the menehunes could, Hawaiians agree The little people were known for their stupendous feats of engineering.

Hospitals for Large Animals Increasing in Popularity

America's trend toward more hospitals for human patients is also being extended to added hospital facilities for animal patients.

In addition to the already large number of hospitals for pets, hospitals for large animals are becoming increasingly popular where farms and ranches are located long distances apart, the American Veterinary Medical Association reports. Farmers haul their animals by truck or trailer to the hospital for diagnosis and treatment, instead of having the veterinarian come to their farm or ranch. Such hospitals usually have two or more veterinarians on their staff, and are equipped to treat all species of livestock and pets.

Interest in establishing hospital facilities for livestock is especially great in areas where there is a shortage of veterinarians, or where veterinarians have to spend so much time traveling to their patients that they cannot handle all the calls they get.

There is no likelihood, however, that such hospitals will reduce the need for country practitioners who make private calls at farms, the AVMA pointed out. In areas of intensive livestock raising, the veterinarian who attends to his patients right on the farm is as irreplaceable as the family physician, the association said.

Color-Blind Hunters

A Reading (Pa.) physician sent this query to the Journal of the American Medical Association. "Should hunting licenses be issued to color-blind persons?" The following reply, prepared by a medical consultant of the publication, appeared in the AMA magazine: "To refuse hunting licenses to color-blind persons would be an undeserved discrimination. There is no color or combination of colors that will do more than call attention by contrast when visibility and visual acuity permit. Color-blind persons distinguish difference in contrast and brightness that suffices for their lack of ability to name color and adequately answers their need for general living conditions. "The custom of using red as identification by a hunter has become well established in the minds of the people, as is the use of white canes by blind persons. The same identification could be established about any color that gives equal contrast with the usual surroundings. No color worn by a hunter will be more readily discerned or more quickly interpreted by the vast majority of hunters than the accustomed red The color blind among hunters are no greater in proportion than in civil life.

Constant Paint Research

Twenty five million dollars is a very conservative estimate of the amount of money spent by the paint and allied industries every year for research alone. More than 53,000 chemists, working in the laboratories of the paint companies and the raw materials suppliers, are putting in literally millions of man-hours to produce paints with better protection, better colors and wider selections. Not only are new and better basic materials coming from the laboratories, but every effort is being made by the industry to protect the flow of raw materials necessary to the paint industry

Soft roads made it necessary for Gregory Herrig of near Bellevue to take the children to school with a farm tractor, with several riding on an attached manure spreader. As the machine crossed deep ruts, it was jolted into gear and the moving crossbars carried a daughter into the sharp, steel-pronged reel of the spreader. He stopped the machine in time but Karen required 200 stitches to close the wounds on her left leg.

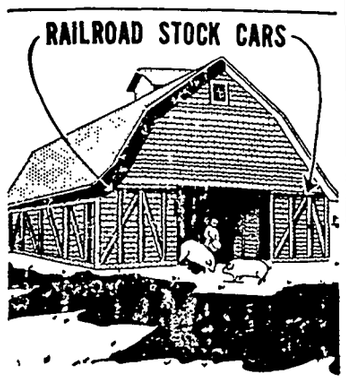
Corn Crib



To solve a building problem, one farmer came up with this idea of using two railroad stock cars in the construction of a double corn crib and overhead granary. The cars were set on a concrete base for use as corn cribs and the space under the roof served as a granary.

U.S. Farms Have Fewer Phones in '50 Than 1920

According to the 1950 census only 38.3 of America's farms have telephones as compared to 38.7 per cent in 1920. Twenty-eight states reported fewer farm telephones Those showing declines contain 80 per cent of the country's farms Among the states suffering sharpest declines were Texas, Missouri, and Illinois. Connecticut leads in percentage of farms with telephones. Iowa is second

DIRECTIONS FOR FREEZING ASPARAGUS

This is the time of year when those tender young asparagus sprouts in your garden are ready to be harvested and tucked away in your freezer or locker.

Use young, rapidly grown stalks and freeze them the same day you cut them, says Jewel Graham, Iowa State College extension nutritionist. Discard any short, stubby, white stalks. Wash asparagus in several waters and sort for size. Eliminate the tough portions of the stalk. Cut into ¾ to 1 inch lengths or to fit your freezer container. Scald small stalks in boiling water for 2 minutes, medium stalks, 3 minutes, and large stalks, 4 minutes. Cool by plunging into cold running water.

You may use either a dry or brine pack for asparagus. Some homemakers prefer to use a brine pack. The brine exhausts all air in the container and prevents possible oxidation and drying out due to fluctuation in storage temperatures.

If you prefer a brine pack, use a 1½ percent brine solution made by dissolving 1 tablespoon salt in 1 quart cold water or 4 tablespoons to a gallon. Pack asparagus in freezer container and add enough brine to cover. Leave 3-8 inch space in pint containers, ¾ inch space in quarts.

WASHINGTON AND "SMALL BUSINESS"

By C. WILSON HARDER

There is probably no bureau in Washington that gets out as much press material as the Office of Price Stabilization, better known as the Office of Plenty Screwy.

* * *

With reports of slow business from all over the country, OPS officials, either unwilling or incapable of working in private employment, are seeking every possible means to justify existence on the public payroll stabilizing prices which are now so far below the arbitrary ceilings, that no one pays any attention to them.

C. W. Harder

A short while ago, with lots of fuss and feathers, and great expense of tax money, OPS started a test in three cities, requiring all food stores to post their ceiling prices. This was supposed to be the start of a national food price posting orgy. However, it died a-borning.

The reason? No one gave a hoot, least of all the consumers. The grocers themselves are selling so far below ceiling prices, that posting the price ceilings was pure comedy.

But in a time when month after month, Federal Reserve figures show retail trade declining, the OPS is plenty busy.

The facts are that the Office Plenty Screwy has filed more suits for alleged violations of price ceilings during these months of declining business than ever before.

And while so far no huge combine has been proceeded against, the OPS has confined itself to the small businesses of the land.

In fact, many businessmen would be happy if OPS could sell their goods for them at OPS ceiling prices, because competition for the consumer's patronage doesn't permit them to get such prices.

One of the latest suits filed by OPS could very well be the boomerang that could knock the office out of existence.

The Zack Metal Company of Michigan is charged with selling copper to Kaiser-Frazer at over the ceiling price of 24½ cents per pound.

Actually, the suit does not charge that Zack sold the copper for more than the ceiling. But in exchange for this copper, it took from Kaiser-Frazer some coil steel, on the basis of 10 cents per pound, which was under the OPS ceiling price for coil steel. Note, under OPS ceiling price, not the prevailing market price.

Therefore, the OPS reasons, the metal firm made an extra profit on the copper because it took steel in trade for less than the OPS ceiling price, and worse sin of all, the company apparently found a buyer who wanted the steel and was willing to pay them a price that resulted in a profit.

It does not seem to enter OPS reasoning that perhaps Kaiser-Frazer was overloaded with this type of steel, and was unable to find a buyer for it, and rather than let it rust, was willing to liquidate at any price.

* * *

But the biggest sin so far developed by OPS was that a small metal firm did make a profit out of the transaction. And that, according to OPS, is illegal, because nobody should make a profit. After all, who ever heard of a profit in Russia?

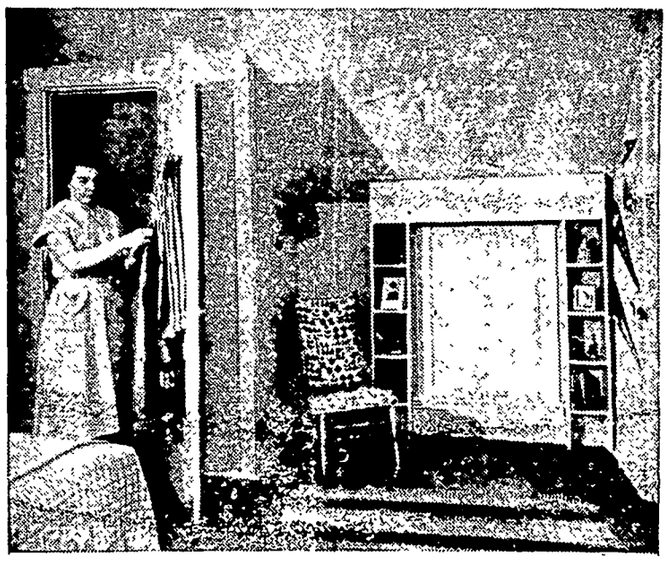
Summer Project For A Teen-age Girl—

A ROOM THAT SPELLS "YOU"



Fixing up a room so that it sings with color and comfort and a liberal smattering of her own personality doesn't have to cost a girl much money. But it will cost planning, study and all the time and energy she can give to create a room that's unmisakably hers. Here's one teen-ager who has turned an unused corner of her room into a charming, colorful nook for reading and visiting.

No matter how hopeless you feel that room of yours is—no matter how small or drab or odd-shaped or just plain uninspiring—there's beauty hidden there just awaiting your touch. Even your attic room with its sloped ceiling and funny-shaped walls has the makings of charm and cheerful hominess. It all depends on you.

First of all, you want that room to be unmistakably yours. That means tuning it to your hobbies, your favorite colors, your love of fuss and femininity or modern simplicity, and things you plan to do there. So while you're taking a good look at your room, take a good look at yourself too, suggests Emelda Kunau, extension home furnishings specialist of Iowa State College.

What Do You Like?

As you look at your room, ask yourself what you like about it and what you want to change. Of course, you can't change its size and shape. But you can make it look a different size and shape by clever use of color, window treatment and the way you arrange your furniture. You may have an attic room with steeply slanting walls and just a patch of ceiling. You could play them up with colorful paint or wallpaper that goes up one wall, across the ceiling and down the other side.

Here are a few important points to remember about the use of color, says Miss Kunau: It can be a great harmonizer of nondescprit, unmatched furniture. A dark or bright color can make a wall "come toward" you, while a soft-colored, lighter one makes it seem to recede into the background. Bright color will make an eye-catcher of your bedspread, window, lamp, rug, wall or picture, and a room shouldn't have too many eye-catchers to confuse folks. Some colors, like red, yellow and orange, give an illusion of warmth—while blue greens and violets are known as cool colors.

Enough Storage Space?

Perhaps you haven't enough storage space. Then that's one of the first things to plan, for you just can't keep a room neat and uncluttered and lovely if you haven't a place to put things. You'd be surprised how easy it is to build in more storage It takes a plan to go by, some lumber, second-grade lumber will do just fine, household tools and perhaps a dad or brother to help you put it together. Ask yourself if you're making the best use of storage space you already have, too.

Useful or Beautiful

Is everything in your room either useful or beautiful? If not, cart it away, says Miss Kunau. Because if it's not useful or beautiful, what good is it? Think what a coat of paint might do, or refinishing. Perhaps you can even use your saw to give modern lines to an awkward, ornate piece.

When you pick your fabric and paint, it's a good idea to choose your fabric first. It's easier to match paint to fabric than the other way around.

Ideas and color combinations are everywhere. You'll find them when you look out your window at grass, trees, rocks and flowers. You'll find them as you leaf through magazines and walk into other rooms. But remember, when you borrow an idea here, a color there, just be sure you put together to make a room that's unmistakably yours.

the Highway Story

IOWA DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC SAFETY

BY RAY EASTMAN

The patrolmen who tells this story still shakes his head when he thinks of "what might have happened."

"One afternoon on patrol," he relates, "I moved up behind a car that seemed familiar. I checked the wanted list and there was the description and license number of the car ahead. It had been reported stolen late that morning.

"The car wasn't moving too fast and I thought the driver hadn't spotted me yet. I passed and blocked the highway as quickly as I could and the car stopped."

Since you never know what or who you'll meet in a stolen car, I walked toward it with my gun in my hand. I found two scared kids - a young man and a girl - sitting in the car staring at me. They could hardly talk."

"Then things got confusing. The name on the boy's license and the name on the registration were the same. The kids didn't look like thieves and they were dressed up like it was Sunday. But I had to take them in to the nearest police station. A long distance telephone call and a little conversation cleared things up."

"The car belonged to the boy. He and the girl had been married that morning. When they left on their honeymoon, one of the guests at the wedding had called the police and reported the car stolen. He must have thought is was a great joke."

"But when I spotted that car on the highway, I had every reason to think it was stolen. When I walked up with my gun in my hand, I had every reason to think I was facing criminals. I hate to think what might have happened if those kids had made a panicky move. It was some joke."

Girl Scout News

Our meeting was called to order by our patrol leader, Eva Theimann at 7:00 on May 5. Everyone was present. We said the Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag, the Girl Scout Promise, the Girl Scout Laws, the Motto and the Slogan. The minutes of the last meeting were then read by Barbara Thompson.

Our subject for the evening was Badge Work. All of us are going to do the Basketery badge at our next meeting. Froststicks were served by Eva Theimann. Our group sang songs and our meeting was closed. Our next meeting will be held on May 12 at 7:00.

Jack Muenchrath, 13 year old Earling youth, is recovering after being shot in the left thigh with a .22 rifle. The gun was accidently discharged as it was being held by a play-mate.

Fatal

George Bolte, 59 year-old Fenton farmer, died last week as the result of injuries received when he fell from his tractor. A disc was pulled over him.

Farmer's Question Corner

PREPARED BY American Foundation For Animal Health

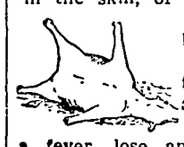
WHAT ABOUT BLACKLEG?

Q: Are all farm animals subject to blackleg, or just cattle?

A: Principally young cattle between six months and two years of age. Goats and sheep are also susceptible, but other animals are apparently immune.

Q: What causes it?

A: Blackleg is caused by a spore-forming germ which can live in the ground for years. It may enter an animal's body through small cuts and punctures in the skin, or through grazing.



Q: How does blackleg act?

A: First symptoms are dullness and lameness. Victims develop a fever, lose appetite, show depression. Swelling caused by the disease have a crinkling, tissue-paper feeling if they are touched.

Q: How serious is blackleg?

A: It is usually fatal, though some infected calves may be saved if treatment is started in time.

Q: How can the disease be prevented?

A: All calves in blackleg areas should be vaccinated when three or four months old In some areas, where 'complicated' blackleg is a hazard, veterinarians may use a combined vaccine for best protection. Complicated blackleg is caused by two different germs.

Q: When is blackleg likely to occur?

A: The worst danger season is during the spring and summer months when cattle are on pasture. Farmers may wrongly blame blackleg losses on lightning or poisonous plants.

Q: What should be done with carcasses of animals which have died from blackleg?

A: They should be burned or buried deeply under lime to prevent the infection from spreading.

ONE LAYER OF WINTER'S MUD AND SAND REMOVED FROM PAVEMENT

After the rain Friday, which soaked up the mud and sand on the Main Street pavement, quite a few of the business men used shovels and scraped the mud off the cement and pushed it to the curb.

That evening the town hired some more help and cleaned and hauled away the mud from more of the pavement. It was just the first layer. Another soaking, and some more shovel work and hauling should leave the pavement much cleaner.

Most towns have had a problem getting rid of the mud on the streets as more than usual was brought in during the past winter.

Ell Midgets Hold Meeting At Dean Henderson's

The Ell Midgets Boys 4-H Club met at the home of Dean Henderson Monday Night April 28th. BEVERLY PRINGNITZ AND RAYMOND KLEIN ARE WED AT GARNER

MR. & MRS. RAYMOND KLEIN

Candelabra and baskets of orchid colored snapdragons and white Easter lilies formed the background for the wedding of Miss Beverly Ann Pringnitz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Pringnitz, Garner, and Raymond Glen Klein, U. S. Air Force, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Klein, Ackley, at the Methodist Church in Garner, Saturday evening, April 26, 1952.

Miss Charlotte Fiero played nuptial music and accompanied Mrs. Willard Romp, who sang "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer". The double-ring service was read at 7:30 P. M. by the Rev. Willard S. Cunningham.

The bride who was given in marriage by her father, wore a white slipper satin gown with a long train, with a yoke of nylon lace with rhinestone and seed pearl trim. Her finger tip veil was attached to a head band of seed pearls and silver lace. Her only jewelry was a double strand of pearls a gift of the bridegroom. She carried a bouquet of white carnations and red roses.

Miss Pearl Moore was maid of honor. She wore an orchid colored gown and carried a bouquet of yellow carnations. The bridesmaid were Miss Esther Nedved, who wore a yellow gown and carried a bouquet of white carnations and Miss Charlotte Klein, who wore a green gown and carried pink carnations.

The bride groom wore his Air Force uniform. Earl Klein, brother of the bridegroom, was bestman. Alvin Klein and Harry Pringnitz were candlelighters and ushers.

Mrs. Pringnitz, mother of the bride, wore a navy blue dress with navy blue accessories and Mrs. Klein, mother of the bridegroom, wore a gray suit with navy blue accessories. Each wore a pink and white carnation corsage.

A reception was held in the church parlors for 175 guests following the ceremony. Miss Shirley Klein was in charge of the guest book. Miss Mary Ann Blumer, Miss Margaret Buckley and Miss Lois Kallenberger had charge of the gifts.

The serving table was centered by a three-teired wedding cake topped by a miniature bride and groom. Mrs. Kermit Stille and Mrs. Kermit Schlei poured and Mrs. Kenneth Gast cut the wedding cake assisted by Mrs. Robert Blumer.

The waitresses were Miss Georgetta Daniels and Miss Shirley Pannhoff.

Parents At Fault, Too

HILLSDALE, Mich. — Louise Hawks, librarian, thinks maybe the experts who say children overdo their TV viewing should direct attention to the parents. She said borrowing of children's books have increased 5,780 in the past year and are running ahead of adult borrowings.

LARGE CROWD ATTENDED BACCALAUREATE SERVICES SUNDAY EVENING

The Baccalaureate Services, held in the Klemme high school auditorium Sunday evening was attended by about three hundred people.

Rev. Vernon Jaberg delivered the annual sermon to the seniors, using as his subject "Building For Tomorrow." His text was Matthew 7:24-27. He was assisted in the service by Rev. E. Morris Egeland.

Special music was provided by Mrs. Ernest Gerardi, the Girls Glee Club and a vocal solo by Miss Shirley Wilson.

The Clarion-Webster Soils Group Buys 80-A Farm

SOIL PROBLEMS TO BE BE GIVEN STUDY

Total Cost Is $32,000; $26,00 Now Raised

The board of directors of the Clarion - Webster Soil Experimental Association met recently at Kanawha and purchased an 80-acre tract of land from Carthage College, Illinois. The tract cost $32,000. The association has approximately $26,000 and will need an additional $6,000 to make final payment on the farm before July 1, 1952.

There are 18 counties in the Clarion-Webster soil area co-operating in raising funds for this research farm. They will be asked to help raise the needed funds. Hancock County will be expected to raise $1,000 for the final payment on the farm. So far Hancock County has paid $1,577.12 in memberships and certificates of interest to purchase the farm. The soil conservation district commissioners and technicians, Farm Bureau and extension leaders and personnel are asked to make the final clean-up drive before the 1st of July.

On County Line

The farm is located 1 mile south of the North Iowa Experimental farm at Kanawha, on the county line of Hancock and Wright counties. The tract is the west 80 of a half section and cost the association $400 per acre. Over 30 farms have been examined and surveyed by Iowa State College soils department officials for suitability for research and the 80 acres which was finally purchased was the only one that had uniform subsoil and was suitable for research needed in this soil area.

The major purpose of the farm will be to study experimentally the many and varied problem concerning soil care, drainage, erosion, fertility, crop production practices, rotations and other problems of the Clarion-Webster soil in central Iowa. The major objective will be that of studying drainage. Iowa State College Experimental Station will co-operate with the association and conduct the necessary research on this land. Cost of all experimental work will be taken care of by the experiment station.

Farmers, businessmen and interested commercial companies have subscribed to the association by paying $25 for a membership. Larger or smaller amounts are accepted on a certificate of interest. Membership certificates are the voting members. Certificates of interest members are non-voting.

Loan Eliminated

The board of directors of the association, W. K. Powers, president; J. C. Skow, vice president; Sam Barbers, treasurer; Wm. Youngclass, secretary; Clarence Goodell, director, and Jake W. Bram, executive secretary, felt that immediate action to raise the necessary funds would eliminate the problem of obtaining a loan on this farm and the difficulty of financing. The board felt that even though the asking price was high, farmers who have already subscribed for a membership wanted a farm purchased. An indication of faith and desire lies in the fact that only seven persons have requested their membership fee be returned out of over 800 members since the funds were raised in 1949.

Those interested hope all the counties in the association will have a clean-up drive in the near future to raise sufficient money to make final settlement for this research farm which is designed to benefit everyone in the Clarion-Webster soil area of Iowa.

CIVIC CLUB WILL PUT ON SPRING BANQUET MAY 23

Carl Conway, Famous Humorist Of Osage Will Be Speaker; Other Entertainment

The Klemme Civic Club is sponsoring a banquet for business men, their wives, employees and their wives or friends, to be held at the Klemme high school gymnasium on Friday evening, May 23rd at 7:30 p. m.

This is expected to be one of the biggest affairs staged by the Civic Club in years. There will be a variety of entertainment of local talent and for the speaker of the evening the Club feels very fortunate in securing Carl Conway, Osage attorney, who is noted for his humorous talks, and who is in wide demand as a speaker. Hearing Conway is worth more than the price of admission, which is very nominal: a very fine meal and lots of entertainment, all for $1.75 each.

Get your tickets in advance as they may have to be limited.

MUSIC MOTHERS WILL HOLD MEETING TUESDAY

The Music Mothers have set their meeting date ahead one day from Wednesday, May 21st to Tuesday, May 20th, because of so many other conflicting meetings on Wednesday.

All music mothers are urged to attend and be at the school house at 2:30 p. m.

KLEMME HIGH SCHOOL MUSIC DEPARTMENT SCORED AGAIN IN CONTEST

At the State Music Contest held at Sheffield, the Klemme High School Band won a Division I rating, while the Girls Glee Club and the Boys Glee Club each won a Division II rating.

The band has won a number of high ratings in the past few years, also winning a Division I rating last year.

Vocal training had not been too prominent in the Klemme school prior to this year, but that department is rapidly coming to the front. This is the first year the school has had a boys glee club.

Mr. Charles Whitford, music director, is to commemnted for the showing his pupils have made in the recent contests.

WHAT ABOUT CALF SCOURS?

Q: Is there more than one type of calf scours?

A: Yes, there is an infectious type, and a non-infectious type.

Q: What causes infectious scours?

A: Infectious scours, often called white scours, is caused by germs that are common to many farm lots and buildings.

Q: How fast does calf scours develop?

A: A calf which seems to be well in the morning may be dead before night. First, the calf is listless and has no appetite. The next symptom is scouring. After that, the animal may collapse within a few hours.

Q: Is this primarily a problem of young calves?

A: Yes, chiefly animals less than one month old The older calves may scour, too, but the chances of survival are somewhat better

Q: What can an owner do if an outbreak of scours starts?

A: A veterinarian should be called promptly The calf should be isolated, and the stables disinfected to safeguard other calves

Q: What about treatment?

A: It is a waste of money to give drugs unless the basic cause is first determined. The veterinarian may recommend serums, sulfa drugs, or penicillin depending on the diagnosis.

Q: What preventive measures can be taken?

A: Feed cow balanced rations to help her produce a strong, healthy calf See that the calf is born in clean, well-ventilated quarters on clean bedding and obtains colostrum milk. On infected farms have serum administered soon after birth Be sure that young calves are fed properly, but not overfed.

Missouri Dairy Stud Outstanding

Planes Used to Speed Delivery of Semen

Artificial insemination of dairy cows has received such wide acceptance in the highly developed Ozark dairy section that the Missouri Farmers Association has established a shipping schedule by three planes which cover approximately 66 counties daily.

The association's stud at Springfield is composed of 55 of the nation's finest dairy bulls.

The semen is collected in early morning and the airplanes take off with it at 5 a.m. the same day. It takes the planes approimately 3½ hours to cover three routes of 350 miles each.

The semen is parachuted to the inseminators by a pilot parachute attached to a half-gallon bucket insulated and protected from shock by foam rubber on the inside.

Association's stud includes Jersey, Guernsey, Holstein, Milking Shorthorn, Brown Swiss and Angus.

Ozark dairymen report they are highly pleased with the quick and more efficient service.

'Wet Water' Valuable New Weapon to Fight Fires

A valuable new weapon for fighting smouldering fires in stored grains and other farm products—"wet water"—now is available for the use of rural fire departments, a fire safety expert revealed in a recent report.

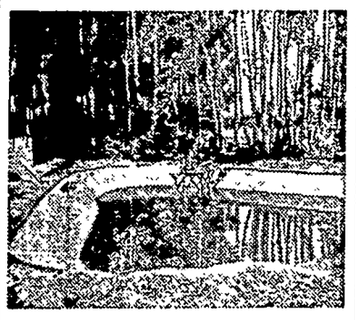
The new "wet water" for fighting fires incorporates a small percentage of a detergent, the cleaner so familiar to housewives on laundry day. However, the detergent solution, about 2 per cent, is of the non-sudsing variety for use in pumpers and extinguishers.

Dale K. Auck, fire prevention engineer for the Federation of Mutual Fire Insurance Companies, said the detergent breaks through greasy surface oils and gets water to the heart of a fire immediately where ordinary water merely runs off many burning substances.

"Many stored hay or baled cotton fires have smouldered internally until entirely consumed, despite tons of water poured on the surface," Auck said. Experiments have shown, however, that only 40 gallons of the new "wet water" will do the work of 300 gallons of ordinary water in fire fighting.

Rural fire fighting organizations are being urged to make "wet water" a part of their regular equipment because water damage can be lessened considerably and fire destruction held to a minimum with the use of "wet water."

New Product



A new product designed to control seepage and erosion in ditches and canals is now on the market. The material is a fiberglas - reinforced prefabricated asphalt membrane lining and is easy to install. On the Frank P. Rodrigues ranch in California (above) it was used as a lining for a pond in which irrigation water was stored.

Corn, Grain Draining Nitrogen From Soil

High yielding hybrid corn and improved small grain varieties are draining nitrogen from midwestern soils faster than it can be replaced by legume crops, Dr. E. H. Tyner, University of Illinois agronomist, says. If crop yields are to be maintained, nitrogen supplied either by commercial fertilizer or manure will be needed in addition to the nitrogen added by legume crops, agronomist report.

KLEMME FOOD MARKET

THE FARM OUTLOOK

By Paul Henderson, County Extension Director

In mid-April, this outlook statement, which presents thru the cooperation of the Iowa State College Extension Service had forecasted better days ahead for Hancock hog farmers. It pointed out that hog sales soon would be falling behind the levels of a year earlier—and that prices would then rise, probably between mid-April and mid-May.

Francis A. Kutish, Iowa State College extension farm economist, says that the late April hog price rise started out as expected. But the early May sharp advance to over $20 at Chicago was faster than he anticipated.

What happened apparently is this: Farmers let up on selling hogs; they were spending full time with field work. With lighter receipts, small killers in the East bid for hogs. The resulting strength from these eastern sources showed up in sharp price advances at the terminal markets. Packers resisted first, then followed in order to get hogs to kill.

Iowa packers especially resisted, and the interior hog market, which had been up to or ahead of Chicago, dropped well behind.

May Get Temporary Reaction

While Kutish expects the general trend of the market to be upward for the next few months, he says we could get a reaction from the sharp price advance of early May. There still are a lot of hogs in the country to come to market. And packers' coolers are bulging with pork in storage from the past winter's heavy kill: Pork loins have shot up in price—but most of the other cuts have not advanced.

If hog runs pick up, Kutish believes the market could settle back a bit from the early May advance. But looking farther ahead, he thinks that hog prices this summer will be up to what OPS ceilings permit.

Fall Pig Prospects

The 1952 fall pig crop is likely to be smaller than the one of last fall. The downward adjustment in hog production which started last September is not yet over, Continued active business conditions are expected to continue into 1953.

So it would appear that pigs from sows bred to farrow this fall should move at prices that would make the hog enterprise reasonably profitable, barring a 1952 short corn crop.

Electric Milk Cooler Is Cheaper Than Water

It costs more now to operate a water cooler than an electric milk cooler, say extension specialists at Iowa State College.

A. W. Rudnick, extension dairyman, and Ken McFate, associate agricultural engineer, report that Iowa dairymen can no longer depend on water to cool milk and cream as cheaply cleanly and easily as an electric milk cooler.

At present prices, a 12-gallon electric milk cooler cost only 3 cents a day to operate. That's cheaper than present water coolers on most farms.

Milk coolers are required for producing Grade A milk, because they are more sanitary. Since they cool milk automatically to 33 degrees within an hour, this lowers the chance of rapid bacterial growth.

Two present types of coolers are on the market-all with different capacities. One type opens with a side door. In the other, cans are lifted through an opening at the top. Either will do a good job according to the specialist.

To determine the size for your milk cooler, just figure the amount of milk produced from each cow, and buy accordingly but be sure you are counting the maximium number of cows you plan to milk.

Coroner Of Hancock County

Dear Voter:—

Please consider this a personal letter.

It is my privilege to come before the voters of Hancock County agian as a candidate for Coroner. With my past record of service as Coroner and my broad experience, the public records indicate that almost every known type of case has come to my attention.

My continuation in office has been endorsed by physicians, funeral directors and county officials. I am supported now, as in the past, for having been efficient, thorough, prompt and economical.

As the law now stands, the office of Coroner is filled by election, and will not be changed in any way until some action is taken by a future meeting of the Iowa Legislature—both House and Senate, and enactment into law of features not now contained in the Coroner's statutes.

It has been my privilege to employ a Coroner's physician, whenever necessary, to make detailed investigations and bring any unusual matters to the attention of the Sheriff, County Attorney, State and Federal Bureaus of Investigations.

The expense of the operation of the Office of Coroner has been very small, and you will find in the Auditor's Office of Hancock County that all expenditures, including Coroner's fees, mileage, etc. for the past five years has been less than $900.00, or an average of less than $180.00 per year. YOU MUST ADMIT THE ECONOMY!

Dr. MacGaffey, one of the greatest crime authorities of Scotland Yards recently said at Schenecady, New York, "The position of Coroner in most states is a political one and often the individual elected is completely unqualified. If the Coroner does a good job, he added, he should be kept in office and not have to worry about every election. He should be permitted to acquire the necessary experience."

To assure prompt and efficient service to the people of Hancock County, the Board of Supervisors approved the appointment of Merle G. Finer as Deputy Coroner. Mr. Finer, like myself, is a Veteran of World War II, he having served in the U. S. Navy Hospital Department.

To the hundreds who signed my nomination papers, prior to filing, may I thank you sincerely, for your endorsement.

It would seem impractical to make a house to house and farm to farm campaign prior to election, and may I add that you shall not be bothered by me in handing out cards at the polls on election day. It is my belief that you have made up your mind as to which candidate you will support, else you would not make an attempt to cast a ballot for anyone.

Thanking you most kindly for your attention in this matter. If you see fit to cast your vote for me I shall continue to serve you most faithfully.

Krilium Will Not Replace Fertilizer

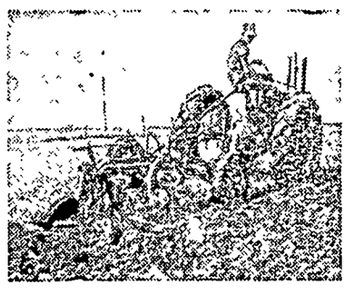
Chemical Increases Soil Needs for Plant Foods

Krilium, the newly discovered chemical powder that can rebuild soil structure on rundown crop land within a few hours, will not take the place of fertilizers.

Midwestern agronomists who have tested this new soil conditioner, say that its use on farm land would actually increase the soil's need for plant food.

Prof. Emil Truog, of the University of Wisconsin's soils department, points out that Krilium does not add any nitrogen, phosphate or potash to the soil. But by improving tilth, increasing the soil's water-holding capacity and helping the soil "breathe" in more air, it promotes bigger crop yields per acre. More bushels mean a heavier drain on the plant nutrient supply

Mixed with the soil, the new water-soluble chemical loosens tightly packed clay and clay loams and makes them fluffy and porous. It does this by "glueing" tiny soil particles together into crumb-like granules, ranging in size from a pinhead to a pea. More water can enter and be held for crops; more air gets in.



To build soil's organic matter supply, the best method is still plowing under well-fertilized sod crops.

Prof. Truog points out that present manufacturing costs make the new product too expensive for farmers who work big acreages. He estimates that reconditioning an acre of soil would take 200 pounds of Krilium. At $2 per pound, that would cost $400.

New Cottonseed Oil Extracting Method Told

A new process for solvent-extracting oil from cottonseed and other oilseeds has been developed, the U.S. Department of Agriculture reports.

The process, which is especially adapted to use by small mills, is called "filtration-extraction", because it involves the use of a continuous vacuum filter as the major operating unit. It worked successfully with cottonseed, and with certain modifications also proved to be suitable for the oil processing of rice bran and soybeans, on a pilot-plant scale. Experiments with other oilseeds are under way.

USDA reports the investment required for applying the process for equipment and the cost of operation are relatively low

Additional data is available by writing E A. Gastrock, Engineering and Development Division, Southern Regional Research Laboratory, U.S. Department of Agriculture, New Orleans, La.

New Hormone

Dr. Walter J. Gibbons, left above, professor of animal surgery and medicine at Alabama Polytechnic Institute, is shown injecting the new hormone, ECP, in a cow. The hormone makes possible doubling the annual lamb crop in the U.S. and has proven highly successful in treating sterility in cattle, swine and other domestic animals.

Electric Incubator Was Invented 30 Years Ago

Thirty years ago, in a cluttered storeroom in the tiny cross-roads town of Gettsyburg, O., the hen was forever replaced as mother of the chicken by an invention perfected by Ira Petersime and his son, Ray. The Petersimes completed on that blustery winter day the first successful electric incubator. Their invention was the foundation of today's 4 billion dollar poultry industry.

The time soybeans are planted has a lot to do with the amount they yield, Iowa State College agronomists say. For best yields they need to be planted early.

Getting the right kind of tree for the location is one of the most important points in planting trees for a windbreak, forestry specialists at Iowa State College say.

Use 2,4-D and 2, 4, 5,-T To Kill Leafy Spurge

Leafy spurge can be controlled in sections of Iowa where it's found, says Otto Hoffmann, extension weed specialist at Iowa State College. He says the weed is hard to get rid of.

It is listed as "primary noxious" under both the Iowa weed law and the Iowa seed law. This means any seed sold in Iowa cannot lawfully contain leafy spurge seeds. The weed is found mainly in the northern section of the state.

Leafy spurge is persistent in growth, easily surviving 4 corn cultivations. This is partly due to a strong lateral root system which is deeper than norman corn cultivation. It takes 2 years of steady fallowing to kill all leafy spurge—and even after this treatment, hard seed left in the soil will grow later.

Well fertilized sorghum or soybean crops, drilled in heavily about the middle of June after ground has been plowed and fallowed, will compete with infested areas of leafy spurge. Nearly all growth of the weed is complete by Memorial Day, when it blooms in a normal year. Mowing at this time or cutting by hand will prevent seed production.

Most economical chemical for killing leafy spurge is a mixture of 2,4-D and 2,4,5-T, sprayed on grass sod at 2 pounds per acre. This won't kill every plant, but two sprayings usually get about 80percent, Hoffmann says. Follow-up sprayings will be needed in succeeding years.

Spraying is most damaging to leafy spurge when the weed is in bloom, May 15-30, followed by spraying again in August when regrowth reaches bloom stage again.

For small patches of spurge, a non-selective spray is probably best, Hoffman says. Ammate can be sprayed at 2 pounds per square rod for almost 100 percent kill. This kills the soil for about 2 months after which it's normal again.

Best total kill comes with applications of Borascue, applied at from 25to 30 lbs, per square rod. Soil will usually be unable to support plant growth for about a year after this chemical is applied.

Fertilized Soils Drink Hard Rains

Unfertilized Soils Break Down Under Hard Rains

Does your farm land "drink" in pelting rains? Or do those rains break down the surface soil, seal the top like a lid, puddle and then run off?

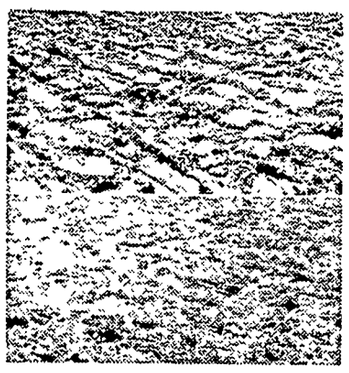
The answer depends on soil care, say Missouri University agronomists.

The accompanying photos show what happened after a beating rain fell on two freshly plowed fields adjoining each other at the Sanborn Experiment Field at Columbia, Mo.

Both fields had been in corn since 1888. The top field was fertilized; the lower one not. For the test, all crops were removed and then the soil was plowed.

Soil in the top field took the rain in stride. The water drained quickly down in. There was practically no runoff; no soil damage, or loss of water or topsoil. The plowed clods are intact and the surface looks loose and porous.

On the lower field, the beating rain broke the bare surface soil into tiny particles Clods were dissolved.



The tiny particles quickly filled the pores of the surface soils, forming a hard, lid-like crust. Water could not get down in, so it ponded on the surface. This field suffered a double loss. It lost needed moisture for crops and it lost valuable topsoil due to runoff.

Farm Wife May Equal Spouse in Crop Know-How

The hand that rocks the cradle is regaining its traditional skill in agriculture.

Prof. Grant B Snyder, head of the Department of Olericulture at the University of Massachusetts and rural youth leader, predicts that modern farm wives will soon be growing out of the kitchen into full working partnership with husbands.

He bases his opinion, he said, on records of the National Junior Vegetable Growers Association, an organization that offers rural youth in 46 states "apprenticeship" training in the best methods of commercial gardening This training program is a year-long production-marketing contest sponsored by A&P stores, which provides $0,000 annually in scholarship funds.

In the 1951 contest, Prof Snyder pointed out, "more than 40 per cent of the 148 winners who split the $6,000 melon were girls."

"Many of these future farm wives," he added, "are college students taking agriculture, and I am sure they will put their education and their NJVGA experience to good use on their future farms."

Prof. Snyder, co-founder and chief adult adviser of NJVGA, said the 1952 contest, which is open to boys and girls 12 to 21 years of age, "is expected to be the biggest in NJVGA history."

Windows

Large windows of double-pane insulating glass, admit an abundance of sunshine and daylight into the poultry house. Pictured above is the poultry house on the Henry Zumstein farm near Fairview, Ill. Agricultural engineers say this design helps to reduce moisture and sanitation problems.

Minnesota Farm Receipts, Expenses Hit New Highs

Both cash receipts and expenses of Minnesota farmers reached new high marks in 1951. Receipts from the sale of farm products reached a peak of 1,391 million dollars, topping 1950 by 14 per cent and the previous record, in 1948, by 4 per cent. At the same time, cash expenses in 1951 rose nearly 12 per cent above 1950. The actual increase in net cash income over 1950 was only moderate.

Iowa's Foreign Names

Look at the towns on an Iowa map and you'll see one reason for Iowa's great...s.

Towns named Norway, Wales, Holstein, Glasgow, Oxford, Luxemburg . . . fine names like that, straight from the old country.

The pioneers who named those towns have long since departed. But their principles live on.

Folks from many lands came here seeking American democracy, and they meant to make it work. The German settlers had their way of life . . . but they didn't try to force it on their neighbor settlers from Sweden . . . nor the Norwegians on the Hollanders, or any of the others.

If Erik preferred his German food and temperate glass of beer, that was his way. And if Ole liked Swedish food and coffee, that was fine, too. The mingling of these many cultures, varied tastes . . . and the wonderful tolerance that respected every person's right of free choice, built this true Iowa brand of democracy.

It's one of our finest heritages . . . something every Iowan wants to hold onto.

THE PORCUPINE

©1951 National Wildlife Federation

Porcupine

Some people have the idea that a Porcupine can shoot its quills, but that isn't true. While the animal uses it's bristles to drive away enemies, it doesn't send the weapons winging through the air.

Instead a Porcupine under attack arches its back, raises its quills, and awaits the foe. At the moment its body is touched, the Porcupine swings its broad tail and swats its opponent. The stinging blow leaves a patch of quills stuck in the enemy's flesh.

The stiff, slender spines are hard to remove, too. Covered with sharp barbs, like the ends of fishhooks, they sink in and cling to the flesh which they stab. An animal wounded in a fight with a Porcupine may try for days, without success, to get rid of the quills.

The Porcupine is lucky to have this unusual way of defending itself, says the National Wildlife Federation, for it is a slow, stupid animal. It cannot move rapidly, either on the ground or in trees. If it did not have barbed quills, it would be an easy victim of mountain lions, bobcats, and other preying animals.

While it does not run from a fight, the Porcupine tries to keep to itself. It likes the life of a hermit, and does not even seek the company of other Porcupines.

It may prowl by day or by night, but usually it spends most of the daylight hours in its shelter. Its den may be in a cave, beneath a large rock or a pile of brush, or in a hollow log.

When it comes out of its hiding place, the Porcupine roams the lands in search of food. It eats some fruit and vegetables, but it is most fond of bark, twigs, buds, and leaves. The worst thing it does is to feast too long in one place. Many a tree has died because a Porcupine has chewed away the bark in a circle around the trunk.

When cold weather comes, Porcupines make preparations to raise their families. In each den, one baby Porcupine is born in the late winter. It is about eleven inches long and weighs slightly more than a pound, but it is strong enough to waddle in six hours and to climb when it is two days old. Right from the start it has a set of sharp quills.

Though they are soon taking care of themselves, the young do not reach full size until they are about three years old. By that age they are three feet long, with six-inch tails, and weigh between fifteen and twenty pounds. Their quills are yellowish white, mixed with black hairs, and their front teeth are bright orange.

Most North American Porcupines live in the deep forests of Canada and the northeastern Uuited States. They are also found in scattered parts of the north and far west.

FELLOWSHIP AT CARNAGIE INSTITUTE AWARDED TO DONALD A. SCHAEFER

Donald A. Schaefer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Emery Schaefer of Forest City, 1945 graduate of Klemme High School, and for the past 3 years teacher of math and science at West Union high school, has been awarded a fellowship at Carnagie Institute of Technology in Pittsburgh, Pa.

Each year, Westinghouse awards 50 all expense fellowships to teachers of science from states in the eastern half of the United States. All teachers will spend 6 weeks at Carnagie Institute between June 30 and August 8, during which time they will study about recent advancements made in Nuclear and atomic physics, low temperature physics and a study of best methods in presenting these things to high school students. They will hear lectures by leaders in each field of science, conduct experiments during regular laboratory periods and tour many of the industrial and manufacturing centers in Pittsburgh. For this work they will receive 6 hours graduate credit toward a Master's Degree. Applicants are chosen for the fellowship on the basis of their college and high school experience and originlity in their teaching of High School physics.

Mr. and Mrs. Schaefer have taken the advanced science classes on two different trips to Chicago during which time they spent 3 or 4 days touring the Museum of Science and Industry, the Museum of Natural History and other points of interest in Chicago. Each year they made the trip via school bus. This year, two advanced science students built a Oathode Ray Oscilloscope and an electronic switch for the school as a project in the science classes.

During the past year Don has been chairman of the high school teachers committee in the "in service training program" being carried on by the West Union Schools. A project completed by the teachers this year was a survey which was sent 300 graduates of the West Union Schools, in which each graduate was asked questions about the value of his high school education, how is could have been made more valuable to him, and any suggestions for the improvement of the high school curriculm or extra activities. Don was the only classroom teacher appointed to the executive committee of the Co. Council and has for 2 years worked as explorer advisor to the older Boy Scout group. Last summer he worked as Dining Hall Director and Mrs. Schaefer as Dietician at Camp Ingawanis Boy Scout Camp near Waverly, Iowa.

Mr. and Mrs. Schaefer now have 2 sons; Randy who is2½ and Steve who was born March 25. The Schaefers will return to West Union next year where Don has again signed his contract to teach the courses of Math, Physics and Chemistry.

KINDERGARTEN NEWS

This week we worked on Mothers Day presents and cards for our Mothers.

Twenty-one dental cards have been turned in this year. Saturday May 10th all the people who returned their dental cards were treated to a free movie at Garner.

This week we have had eight people absent. Most of these people have the three day measles.

SECOND GRADE NEWS

Twenty-two boys and girls from our room have returned their dental cards and are going to the show given for them in Garner Saturday.

The following people had perfect scores in spelling this week: Jimmy Bock, Karen White, Keith Christians, Judy Swanson, Janet Murray, Junior Baack, Joyce Hummel, Clarice Arnold, Douglas Medin, and Billy Clabaugh.

We finished our Arithmetic books this week.

—Mrs. Proper

THIRD GRADE NEWS

Darrell Osborne from Rock Falls, Illinois visited Marcelle Bachman in our room Monday afternoon.

Tuesday May 6th was Jerry Stokesbary's birthday. He treated us to candy.

We are finishing our Geography books this week. The last unit has been Airplanes. We have colored and talked about many kinds of airplanes. Next week we will make a booklet of our work.

Claudia Neuberger has been absent all week with measles.

—Mrs. Barkema

FOURTH GRADE NEWS

Edna Heginger, Miriam Hartbeck, and Craig Wilson returned their dental cards signed last week. We now have sixteen people in our room that have had their teeth checked.

Jane Renner's and Miriam Hartbeck's mothers visited our room Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. Arnold Blau, Sharon's mother, visited our reading, spelling, and arithmetic classes Friday morning.

WATER...WATER EVERYWHERE

...when "Reddy" does your pumping!

Your Farm is SAFER... MORE VALUABLE... Your Stock gets to Market QUICKER... Dairy Herds produce MORE... and you enjoy Better Living when an Automatic Water System Goes to Work.

THERE'S a lot of talk about lower farm profit margins these days. And wise farmers are figuring how they can improve their methods, produce bigger crops of all farm produce with less cost. That means more profits for the pocket. We find competent help scarcer every month as world conditions allow less man power for the farm. Yet Americans are eating more and better... and that demands more production per unit on the farm.

Less than 50% have adequate water

Even in top income counties in Iowa, where as many as 73% enjoy electrically pumped water, less than 50% benefit from an adequate, automatic pressure water system. An automatic water system carries gallons of water to the places where it contributes most to better production. It is one of the best investments you can make in more profitable farming today.

More Time for Management

Gone is the old-fashioned water bucket when Reddy Kilowatt takes on the job. You save time that can be put to more profitable use in planning and management. Dairy cattle produce more when constant supplies of drinking water are available. Studies indicate that similar results appear in feeding beef cattle and hogs. Plenty of water helps produce more money from your feed outlay.

Greater Fire Protection, Too!

Besides increasing the valuation of your farm property, you'll feel more secure because there's water on the spot to put out any fire before it gets a start. And you'll enjoy lower insurance rates because the fire risk is reduced with plenty of water handy.

And how the Family loves it!

What farm wife wouldn't we[l]come opportunity to enjoy the w[a]ter equipment made possible by an automatic water system? Water softeners, hot water heaters, dishwashers, plumbing fixtures... all open the way to more enjoyable farm life. And you'll find it an added attraction for getting better help. When you turn your water carrying job over to Reddy Kilowatt, you free your entire family for more productive farm operation. Everyone will enjoy better living and better health which better production provides.

To Rid Lawn Of Weeds Spray, Mow, Fertilize

Keep ahead of weeds showing up in your lawn by spraying, mowing and fertilizing.

Spraying with the amine form of 2,4-D now will kill only broadleaf weeds now present, according to A. E. Cott, extension horticulturist at Iowa State College.

But without regular mowing and fertilizing, you're inviting the weeds to grow back again. Regular mowing—when grass is 3 inches high—and fertilizing encourages lawn growth in bare spots left by dying weeds.

Leave the clippings on the lawn — they provide organic matter.

And for a good fertilizer program, the specialist suggests applying 4 pounds of high-nitrogen fertilizer every 1,000 sq. feet before June 1. Then follow up September 1 with 6 to 8 lbs. of 10-20-10 per 1,000 square feet.

Reseeding bare and thin spots every fall also will help.

Hurt—

75 Per Cent Farm Fires Preventable

Inspection is Answer To Farm Fire Prevention

Two University of Illinois researchers believe that farmers could prevent 75 per cent of farm fires if they would inspect for hazards and eliminate them.

The two researchers, Dean Winter and Gilbert Sauer, of the University's agricultural engineering department, reached their conclusion after inspection of 53 farms in that state.

"It's lightning, faulty wiring and poor heating systems that are burning down most Illinois farm buildings," they report. "On the farms we visited, we often found the wiring or the furnace in poor condition. Lots of farmers didn't have lightning rods.

"Most of these conditions could be corrected by farmers themselves. Our survey found that probably 75 per cent of farm fires could be prevented if fire hazards were pointed out to farmers and they would remove them."

The only answer is routine inspection by the farmer every few months and quick elimination of the hazards.

Farm Wife to Encourage Building, Remodeling

A group of researchers are convinced there's some truth in the warning, "never underestimate the power of a woman."

The real impetus to home building on the nation's farms will probably be generated by Mrs Farm Wife herself, they say

Farm women, explain Minneapolis-Honeywell researchers, have 51 per cent more children than city women, and obviously larger families—50 per cent of farm children under 18 are in families with four or more children. Therefore, they see the big building push coming from this annual farm family baby crop. These births create a demand by the farm wife for roomier quarters

Secondly, the expected manpower shortage on farms means that many a farmer will remodel his home to make housework easier for his wife who will have to shoulder more of the chores The researchers see more automatic equipment, ranging from heating systems to dishwashers, being widely installed to help her keep pace with her new labors,

And if that's not convincing enough, the diligent researchers further point out that the signs are that farm incomes will be up some 5 per cent over last year's record estimate of $37.5 million, indicating that farm families will have the money for construction or remodeling purposes.

Blue Ribbon

The 1951 and 1952 grand champion of the Denver stock show and 1952 grand champion of the Phoenix show, was purchased by Roy A. Kropp for breeding purposes at his Chardon Farm at Grayslake, Ill. He purchased the prize animal from Jack Howley of Minneapolis for $50,000.

200,000 Farm Tractors Operate on Butane Gas

More than 200,000 farm tractors, either factory designed or converted, now run on liquefied petroleum gas. Many farmers report that by using liquefied petroleum gas, engine maintenance can be reduced up to 50 per cent. Known also as butane, propane, tank and bottled gas, the fuel also has many household applications such as cooking, house heating, water heating, refrigeration and incineration.

Farmer's Question Corner

PREPARED BY American Foundation For Animal Health

WHAT ABOUT COCCIDIOSIS?

Q: What causes coccidiosis in farm animals?

A: This is an intestinal disorder which is caused by tiny, internal parasites called coccidia.

Q: What farm animals does it affect?

A: Almost every domestic animal, including cattle, sheep, goats, swine, pet stock and poultry. Young calves are especially susceptible.

Q: Is the disease fatal?

A: It varies. However, it does kill a great many animals. Many calves die within a week after they show first symptoms.

Q: Does the same parasite attack all species of animals?

A: No, each livestock species has its own type of coccidial infection. Lambs, for instance, may graze on pastures where calves are actually sick with coccidiosis and still not pick up the disease.

Q: How do animals get this infection?

A: Various factors may lead to an outbreak. Perhaps animals and poultry are overcrowded, or grouped with infected herds or flocks. Outbreaks may occur among feeder animals in congested yards. Neglect of sanitation may be a cause. Parasites may be picked up from stagnant ponds or bayous.

Q: What are the symptoms?

A: They include straining, red dish scouring, rapid loss of weight and extreme weakness

Q: Is there any treatment?

A: Yes. Early treatment usually is followed by good results. Careful sanitation, clean quarters, and segregation of birds and animals by age groups, will help prevent outbreaks.

IOWA DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC SAFETY

BY RAY EASTMAN

Harry's first mistake was in under-estimating the power of a woman - his wife. That, joined with another error in judgement, was enough to put him in bed for a month.

Harry had built a new home beyond the city limits and when he took the car to work in the mornings, that left his wife "stranded in the sticks," as she put it. "I need a car of my own," she annouced.

Now Harry loved his wife, loved a joke, and loved to keep the budget in some reasonable balance. These things led him to pick up "an old clunker" that a high school owner had painted a brave color.

"Wait till you see the wife driving that old wreck around town," he burbled to the boys. He gave the old car to his wife and she accepted with a strange, calm smile.

The next morning it was Harry who drove the "clunker" downtown and the wife who kept the family car at home on the errand run.

All Harry could do was carry the whole thing off as a joke. He took to turning up the brim of his hat when he drove the old car through town and told the boys he had turned "hot-rod" in his old age.

The more things that went wrong with the old car, the bigger the joke, or so Harry pretended. The horn failed, the windshield wipers wouldn't work, and the lights dimmed with age. Harry made no effort to have the car put in safe condition, that would have spoiled the joke.

So it happened that when the brakes finally failed, Harry spent the next month in a hospital with both legs raised to the ceiling.

May, being motor vehicle inspection month, is a good time to remember that nothing on wheels is a joke.

One Tree, One Boy, One Spill, Adds Up To Broken Arm

When small boys see a nice climbing tree things sometimes happen. Last Wednesday evening, Jerry small son of Mr. and Mrs. John Clements was exploring around in a tree when he slipped and fell to the ground below. The fall fractured his left arm above the wrist.

However, Jerry was in school the next day and was proudly showing the results of his accident to all his schoolmates and assorted small fry who cast envious eyes in his direction. 'Taint every boy who can carry his arm in a cast!

HAWKEYE PRESS CLUB ENTERTAINED BY BELMOND INDEPENDENT

A large group of publishers and their wives, members of the Hawkeye Press Club were entertained by the Belmond Independent Saturday evening

The group toured through the General Mills soy bean plant at Belmond and learned a great deal about processing beans. The major projects of the Belmond plant is producing soy bean oil of various kinds, and soy bean oil meal. Some other chemicals, used in medicines are also processed at Belmond.

A fine banquet was enjoyed at a tea room following the trip through the plant. After a short business session the group then visited Belmond's new community hospital, which is rapidly nearing completion and will be open for patients about the middle of June.

The cost of the new Belmond hospital, 26 bed capacity and all modernly equipped will be $254,000 The people of Belmond are quite proud of the fact that they built their hospital without government aid.

Farmers Day To Be Held Near Kanawha May 27

POPPY DAY

Saturday, May 24th

The Saturday before Memorial Day, May 24 th, the red crepe paper poppies, handmade by disabled veterans, will blossom forth on streets all over America under the guiding hand of members of the American Legion Auxiliary.

Contributions made by those who wear the patriotic symbol, support the vast rehabilitation and child welfare work carried on by the American Legion and the American Legion Auxiliary

The money is used to make our hospital veterans more comfortable; clothes and helps to educate their children and raises the standard of living or war orphans.

A greater percentage of the contributions stays right in the communities where it is given A small part goes into the state organization to be used for educational loans and scholarships, and to financially support needy cases that cannot be taken care of through local units.

NEWSPRINT SLATED FOR ANOTHER $10 PER TON ADVANCE JUNE 15

If Price Is Approved Some Dailies And Weeklies Will Fold Up

NEW YORK, N Y.—Faced with another $10-a-ton boost in the price of Canadian newsprint—the second such increase in less than a year—American newspaper publishers find themselves in an increasingly difficult cost squeeze

The latest increase — it's scheduled to take effect June 15—is expected to add more than 50 million dollars a year to costs of publishing in this country.

Newsprint, the paper that the newspapers are printed on, accounts for up to 50% of the expense of getting out a big metropolitan daily. Figuring in the new $10 increase, the price of newsprint has climbed 152% sinc V-J Day. It has gone up more than 200% since the great depression.

Truman Appeal

The Truman Administration has asked the Canadian government to reconsider and rescind its approval of the price increase.

Price Director Ellis Arnall, informed C. D. Howe, Canadian minister of defense production, that 749 American daily newspapers have disappeared within the past 20 years through consolidations, mergers and failures.

Newsprint prices continue to rise, Arnall said, the trend will continue and—in the end—the Canadian newsprint industry itself would ultimately be injured.

The increase will boost the price of Canadian newsprint delivered in New York to an all-time high of $126 a ton.

In the depression years of the early 30's newsprint cost $40 a ton. It was $50 a ton at the time of Pearl Harbor.

The cost of print in Iowa is somewhat higher and purchased in less than carload lots the cost is about $200 per ton. This adds extra hardships to small weekly papers who buy in small quanities of a ton or less.

Birthday Party At Wessels

A group of relatives came to the Henry Wessels home Friday evening to help Mrs. Wessels celebrate her birthday. The evening was spent visiting. Mrs. Wessels received some nice gifts and a delicious lunch was served.

RALPH KRENZEN TO ASSIST WITH FIELD DAY, MAY 27

Ralph Krenzen, Iowa State College Agronomist with the Extension service, will assist the County Extension Director Paul Henderson, with a Pasture Renovation demonstration at the Field Day, May 27. The Field Day is in conjunction with the annual meeting of the Hancock County Soil Conservation district. The election of 2 commissioners will be held. The place is at the Christianson farm in Twin Lake Township. Bob Reed is the operator of the farm. The farm is located 4½ miles west of Goodell, and 1 mile south and 4½ east of Kanawha.

RALPH KRENZEN

Vernon Moss, Soil Conservation Service district Farm Planner for Hancock County, has completed a plan on the farm and all of the demonstrations will be done according to this plan. Other activities are corn cultivating on the contour, establishment and the seeding of grassed waterways, making long grass silage, sub-soiler, rotations-gully filling, and the use of a rotary hoe.

Farmers, machinery dealers, and educators from 14 counties in North Central Iowa are expected to attend this field Day. Activities will begin at 9:00 in the morning and continue thru to 3:30 p. m. Machinery dealers will bring equipment to the farm to demonstrate the face lifting job. Ordinary farm machinery will be used in these demonstrations. These practices can be put on farm with regular farm equipment. Every Hancock County farmer is urged to see these demonstrations. Your farm may need one or more of these practices. Establishing them is not difficult. See how simple they are.

GROUP 3 July 15, 1952, for field bindweed, wild carrot.

GROUP 4 July 30, 1952, for horse nettle, perennial sow thistle, butter print, puncture vine and cocklebur

2 That each person and owner in the possession or control of any lands in Hancock County infested with any primary noxious weeds including quack grass, perennial sow thistle, Canada thistle, field bindweed, horse nettle, leafy spurge, perennial peppergrass, Russian knapweed, shall adopt a program of weed destruction prescribed by the weed commissioner, which in five years may be expected to destroy and will immediately keep under control such infestations of said primary noxious weeds.

3 That all weeds other than primary noxious weeds on all county trunk, primary and local county roads, and between the fence lines thereof shall be mowed by the adjoining property owner to prevent seed production on or before July 15, 1952.

4. That if the owner or persons in possession or control of any land in Hancock County, Iowa, fail to comply with the foregoing orders, the weed commissioner shall cause this to be done and the expense of said work including costs of serving notice and other costs, if any, to be assessed against the land and the owners thereof.

5 That the County Auditor be and he is hereby directed to cause notice of the making and entering of the foregoing order by publication in each of the official newspapers of Hancock County, Iowa.

The foregoing resolution was offered and read by Supervisor Bird, who moved its adoption, was seconded by Supervisor Daniels. Whereupon the chairman pro-tem, Clint Daniels placed the motion of its adoption and upon roll call the vote thereon is Clarence Bird and Clint Daniels, aye. Nays, none. Whereupon the chairman declared the resolution duly adopted.

On motion and second the resignation of Ray E. Hunsley, Hancock County Weed Commissioner, is hereby approved.

BASS SEASON OPENS ON MAY 30

The open season on largemouth, smallmouth, warmouth, rock bass, sunfish and bluegills begins May 30 and on that date all species will be open to fishing in Iowa with the exception of rock sturgeon and paddle fish on which there is a continuous closed season.

Legal minimum length of large and smallmouth bass is 10 inches with daily catch and possession limit set at 5.

There is no minimum length requirement on warmouth bass, rosk bass, sunfish and bluegills, and the daily catch and possession limit on these fish is 15.

GOOD NEIGHBOR POLICY PUT TO WORK HELPING NEW FARMER

F. W. Danger and family, who reside on the Gauger farm west of Klemme, which was vacated by Mrs. John Cutshall and son March 1st, think they live in one of the best neighborhoods in Iowa.

Because Mr. Danger could not get on the farm to do fall plowing, he was behind in his work this spring and had about 170 acres to plow before he could put in all his crops.

Monday noon six of his good neighboring farmers pulled onto his place each with a tractor and went to work in the fields, discing stalks, grubbing rocks and other work, and by Tuesday noon they had 65 acres all plowed.

Mr. Danger's good neighbors who came to help him with his work were Art Polsdofer, Bob Hartzell, Clarence Lemke, Melvin Schlei, Curt Waddingham and Fred Pringnitz. A picture of this group was taken by C. C. Kilgore and will be printed in the Times next week.

Mr. Danger was perhaps the happiest and most surprised man in the county when he saw all the tractors coming into his farm yard.

One of the best weapons against flies is DDT.

KLEMME PUMPING STATION IS DANGEROUS FIRE HAZARD

It's about time that the citizens of Klemme wake up to the fact that we have a very serious fire hazard that should be remedied, and soon, and of all places, is the Klemme pumping station and our only source of water supply in case of fire.

Some three or four years ago the writer appeared before the Town Council and called attention to the bad situation, and they all agreed that something should be done about it. At that particular time they were planning to build a brick building to house the fire trucks and the tentative location was on the lot to the south of the pumping station.

The writer suggested that in the construction that they run a fire proof wall due north and thus seal off the well and electric pump from the rest of the wooden building.

We pointed out further that the power line comes in on the west end of the old wooden building, runs to the east end to the pump. We pointed out that a fire orginating in any part of the wooden would burn off the power line and stop the pump. That would mean . . . . . no water! We recommended that a new power line be brought in from the east, underground if ncessary to the motor as a safety measure.

A number of years ago a like situation happened at Bode, Ia. Fire started in the wood building housing the fire truck. As a result most business buildings in town burned to the ground. It could happen here.

We understand that at least one councilman is interested in cleaning up the fire hazard at the Klemme pumping station Let's put some pressure on the town dads as need be ta see that 3 or 4 more years do not pass without something being done.

Let's have the pumping department made fire-proof, and let's have the power lines changed to come into the building underground to the motor. The cost would not be great. The cost would be great if a strong wind came up from the south and the pumping station was afire. It would mean the loss of a couple of residences, the fire could then jump across the alley to the business section . . . and then what?

—R. A. Jorgenson

Law Catches Up

CAMBRIDGE, Md. —It took the law nine years to catch up with Aubrey D. Moore, but Moore got too talkative. He was taken in on a speeding charge and volunteered the information that he had had a driver's license only a week after driving nine years without one.

At LeMars, the first donor to the Red Cross flood relief drive was Mrs. Mary McManus. She is 99 years old.

KLEMME BALL CLUB DOWNED THE HAYFIELD HORNETS HERE

The Klemme softball club got off to a flying start Sunday evening and wrapped up a victory against the Hayfield Hornets, 9-2.

John Eenhuis went all the way on the mound and Buseman & Hartzell caught. High-light of the game was a home-run hit with two men on bases by "Slick" Greiman. The local club welcomed some of the younger boys of the community who are working out with them for positions on the team.

There was a fairly large crowd present at the game Sunday night.

MASTER SWINE ENTRIES TO CLOSE ON JUNE 1

Market hog producers interested in taking part in the Iowa Master Swine Producers Project should send their names to the Hancock County Extension Service Office before June 1, according to Extension Director Paul Henderson.

Any market hog producer who has 10 sows farrowing by June 1, who has raised hogs on his own for five years and who has not been a winner in the project is eligible, Henderson says.

Anyone with an average of 8 or mort pigs weaned per litter also should take part. More entries of good swine producers are desired.

GOOD NEIGHBORS AT WORK AGAIN

Some more of the "Good Neighbor Policy" has been displayed again in the Klemme community, this time at the Dorance Day farm southeast of Klemme, when John Waddingham, Lyndon Kilgore, Carl Wille and Lindy Kaduce came nad helped prepare the ground for planting, which was appreciated very much by Mr. Day as he got behind in his farm work when his wife entered Mercy hospital for surgery.

Goodell Memorial Day Program At Cemetery

The Robbins-Christenson Legion Post of Goodell is planning their Memorial Day Program, which will be held at the Amsterdam Cemetery east of Goodell on Friday morning at 10:00 o'clock.

The American Legion and the Boy Scouts will assemble at the entrance at 10:00 a. m. and march to the grave of the Unknown Soldier where services will be held.

Program

10:00 a. m. - Legion and Boy Scouts Assembly at cemetery entrance and march to grave of Unkown Soldier.

The usual program will be held as in former years. Rev. Miller of Belmond will deliver the Memorial Day address.

The Goodell Legion invites all to attend the annual Memorial Day service.

DR. DAVID WESLEY SOPER SPEAKER FOR PREACHING MISSION TO BE HELD HERE

Dr. Soper will be the guest speaker in a Preaching Mission to be held here June 15 through June 22 under the sponsor-ship of the Methodist Church and Immanuel Evangelical and Reformed Church.

For three summers Dr. Soper has been Guest Speaker at the American Cathedral in Paris. In 1947 he delivered three addresses and sixteen in 1950, under the sponsorship of Wesley Memorial Chapel in Oxford. He is one of the few Americans who have preached at Speakers' Corner in Hyde Park, London. With Mrs. Soper he visited the 1950 Oberammergau Passion Play, saw the new King into office in Brussels, toured western European captials, was privately entertained at tea by Mrs. Winston Churchill and the Duchess of Marlborough at Blenheim Palace, Churchill's birthplace, and saw princess Margaret as guest of the Mayor of Oxford. During the summer of 1948 he gave a number of addresses at the invitation of the Congregational and Methodist Churches in Czechoslovakia, and attended the World Assembly of the World Council of Churches in Amsterdam.

He has personally interviewed more than thirty major theologians throughout Europe, including Karl Barth, Jacques Maritian, Charles H. Dodd, Nicholas Berdiaoff, Emil Brunner, Arnold J. Toynbee, T. S. Eliot, C. S. Lewis, Christophr Dawson, Dean Inge, Joseph Hromadka, Etienne Gilson, Hendrick Kraemer and W. T. Vissor 'T Hooft. He has published these interviews and numerous other essays in "The Christian Century," "Christendon," "Theology Today," "Religion in Life," "The Personalist," and other journals. His essays on Sorokin, Dostoyovsky, Kierkergaard, Paul Elmer More, Augustine and Taynbee have analyzed the entire published work of these men. Dr. Soper's first book, "Studies in Romans," was published when he was eighteen years of age.

In addition to his teachings and writings, Dr. Soper delivers each year an average of two hundred addresses in preaching missions (a special love), in pastors' schools, in women's and men's clubs, and in the pulpits of many Protestant denominations. He was Guest Professor of Modern Theology at Garnett during the summer of 1948, and is a regular lecturer on Contemporary Christian Thought at the Ministers' Summer Schools sponsored by the Commission On Ministerial Training of the Methodist Church.

Auxiliary Meeting

The Auxiliary will meet Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Franklin Buseman. The meeting is called for 7:30

ABOUT ONE HUNDRED PERSONS ATTENDED THE CIVIC CLUB DINNER

There was a large crowd out Friday evening for the spring dinner and program put on by the Klemme Civic Club at the high school gym. The Music club served a very nice dinner.

A good program had been arranged and Pres. Ernest Gerardi welcomed all to the dinner. The invocation was given by Raymond Barz and all joined in singing "America," led by Allen Barz. Other numbers on the program included two accordion numbers by Buford Polsdofer and the state contest piano solo number by Maurice Jacobs.

High-light of the program was the speech given by Attorney Carl Conway of Osage. Mr. Conway has a great sense of humor and he kept the crowd laughing with clever dry humorous situations, and his advise on how to handle "weighty" problems of everyday life. He had announced that he would talk about the Atomic Bomb, World Problems and two or three other deep subjects. However he did not get around to that. He is a second Bob Burns when it comes to entertaining.

Those who did not attend the banquet and program certainly missed big time. It is planned to have another dinner and program in the early fall.

Foxy Young Man Digs Out Pair Of Fox Pups

Gene, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Albers, farmers northwest of Klemme, dug out a fox den of foxes about two weeks ago and captured two puppies.

Gene has the young foxes penned up and is spending a lot of time trying to tame them. Sunday afternoon he brought one of the little foxes to town and could lead it around on a light chain. The little fellow is still not too friendly, but Gene hopes he will turn out to be a good pet.

FORMER KLEMME SCHOOLMAN GOING BACK TO TEACHING

A. L. Kingery of Humboldt, former Klemme high school principal under Henry Galbreth, and then Superintendent for several years, is again going back into schoolwork this fall.

Mr. Kingery has accepted the superintendency of the high school at Ellsworth and will begin his preliminary work there about July first.

Since leaving Klemme, Mr. Kingery has been fieldman for the State Rehabilitation department. He is married and has 2 boys and 1 girl.

"GOOD NEIGHBORS" WHO PLOWED 65 ACRES OF LAND

THE HIGHWAY STORY

Marv spent the evening before Memorial Day talking his wife out of going to the cemetery. "We've decorated the folk's graves every year, but now I've got three days off and we ought to take a trip. They'd want us to.

Later that evening he called a local florist and arranged to have flowers delivered to the graves. Then he sat up late with a road map, planning a route, judging distances and short cuts. He would have to make time to get where they planned to go for a full weekend.

The next morning, boring along the highway 50 miles from home, Marv was still fuming over the hour they'd lost in getting started. "You could have packed the things last night," he informed his wife. You could have made the lunch last night. You could have pressed your dress last night."

When his wife started to wonder if she'd turned off the gas in the kitchen, when one of the youngsters started pounding on the windows with a toy gun, and the other started getting car sick, Marv decided he had too much to bear.

Traffic was bunching up and slowing down. He started to fight it. "Where are all these slow jokers going." he snarled. "Will you kids shut up! Don't you usually turn off the gas? Don't you suppose you turned it off this time? Then forget it."

Passing five cars at a clip brought Marv a little relief. He settled down to the business of pushing through traffic, of forcing his way through on luck and margin. When he wasn't edging out of his own lane, he was trying to shout down the kids and the worries of his wife.

He was trying to do both when the pitiful family confusion ended in the screaching impact of a sideswipe. Marv, a driver on edge, had edged out of his own lane too far and once too often.

He spent the evening talking his wife out of going to the cemetery and spent Memorial Day driving himself into it.

NEW YORK

Not everyone knows that there was once a "New York" in Iowa. It was founded 100 years ago by Ovrey and Micajah Cross, who said there was more room to grow in Iowa than on Manhattan Island. A white church, 10 miles north of Corydon, is now all that is left of Iowa's "New York."

KLEMME LOCAL NEWS

CONFIRMATION AT THE METHODIST CHURCHES

Confirmation was observed at the Klemme-Liberty Methodist Churches last Sunday when a class of 23 was examined by the Pastor, Rev. E. Morris Egeland. Following their confirmation members of the class were received into Church membership. Those being confirmed and received into the Church at Klemme were: Harlan Elmer Anderson, Harry LaVern Anderson, Ila Mae Anderson, Leila Jane Anderson, Connie Bisom, Charles Dennis Bacon, Berleen Beryl Bridges, Arthur James Carlson, Norma Lorraine Draves, Margaret Ann Haefner, Cecil Eugene Jacobs, Robert Dean Larson, Sandra Kay Medin, Alan Neuberger, Janice Eileen Stokesbary and David Ralph Waddingham.

The Liberty class was composed of the following: Daryl Dean Hansen, Gloria Ann Hansen; Herman Richard Meyer, Lorraine Ethel Meyer, Ruth Marie Pringnitz, Douglas Joseph Roul, Winola Ann Zwald. In the Klemme service Mr. Egeland baptized Sandra Medin and Cecil Jacobs prior to their reception into Church membership.

At next Sunday's services there will be infant baptism and reception of adult members. At Liberty the installation of the officers of the Woman's Society of Christian Service will be a part of the morning Worship Service.

Carl Wille, Alvin Goll, Raymond Barz, August Josten, Albert Priebe, Howard Baack, Clarence Swalve, Walter Lauden and Rev. V. Jaberg attended a Tri-County Brotherhood Federation meeting at Latimer on Monday evening.

IOWA DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC SAFETY

BY RAY EASTMAN

About 10 o'clock that evening something happened to the senior class picnic. The fire on the river bank burned low and, for the first time, the boys and girls began to feel a mood of departure and change. This was the last class gathering before graduation.

For many of the youngsters watching the fire darken, the "future" they'd heard so much about became a real thing for the first time - a real thing with years and uncertainity in it. For a while, the chatter was stilled.

Then Wilson, a crack young athelete, jumped up and started kicking dirt on the fire. "Who wants to see the sun come up?" he said. "Let's stay out all night."

The idea had the appeal of a challenge, the appeal of one more irresponsible night before everything changed. Two carloads of boys and girls left the picnic grove. Three hours later, both cars pulled into an all-night gas station nearly 60 miles east of the starting point.

The attendent heard two of the girls pleading to be taken home. The boys, led by Wilson, seemed to be stubborn and quiet. "When the sun comes up," Wilson said.

Two hours later, a night marshal watched the two cars flash in and out of a sleeping little hamlet like raiders. Later, a wakeful farmer saw the cars passing one another at high speed on a gravel road. Somewhere along that road, the two cars locked bumpers as one passed and cut in too sharply.

For 30 minutes, the highway patrolman leaned against the jammed door of the wreck, reaching through the shattered window, holding the slashed artery in the girl's arm, waiting for help. Beyond her, Wilson leaned quietly against the broken steering wheel. A dim light touched his hair. The sun was coming up.

Avery Sunbeams

The Avery Sunbeams held their annual Mother's Day Tea, May 17 at the Elizabeth Lemke home. 14 girls and 20 guests attended. Corsages were presented to the guests.

Jo Ann Burgess and Maxine Stille were chosen to go to 4-H Camp at Clear Lake. Pauline Kramer will go to the convention at Ames.

We are going to have a Bake Sale May 24 in Wellemeyer's window.

"A Gracious Hostess, A Welcome Guest," a talk given by Elizabeth Lemke. Kay Jacobs gave a talk, Quality of Eggs.

Games were played after the meeting.

Elizabeth, Darlene, Della Mae, Diane and Marlene served a delicious lunch.

THE FARM OUTLOOK

By Paul Henderson, County Extension Director

More businessmen have viewed the future with gloom the last few months, than any time since the start of the Korean war. Yet, despite this gloomy attitude the outlook points to continued high business activity for the rest of the year, Francis A. Kutich, Iowa State College farm economist, believes. But no great amount of inflation seems likely during the rest of the year.

There is no questiom but what we have had a slump in the consumer goods industries. Business has been cutting down the inventories which were built up during the two sharp waves of spending after the Korean war broke out.

These two waves of scarce buying by customers and businessmen coupled with a rapid expansion of credit drove prices up sharply. Government spend was not a source of inflation in this period, Kutish points out.

The Slump Came

Then about a year ago we entered a new stage. Consumers became more hesitant in their buying. Inventory buying stopped, permitting that portion of output which had been goingin-to stocks to satisfy consumer demands. Hand in hand, we had a tightening of credit and a rise in taxes.

Thus, while textiles, shoes and household equipment are slow, retail trade as a whole has been steady. Retail inventories have been considerably reduced; department store stocks run 12 to 15% under last year. Merchants are finding better buys in the markets and are passing them on to their customers.

These are the remedies by which past slumps in consumer goods industries always have worked themselves out, says Kutish. The surprising thing is that the present slump has lasted this long, in view of the high level of consumer income and the mounting defense program. But then, the boom that preceded it that first year after Korea was a whopper in buying, output and prices.

Prospects Improved

The improved building outlook has stiffened prospects for heavy industries: more materials have been made available and restrictions liberalized. Commerical and public construction will go ahead more vigorously than expected. The automobile industry is getting more materials and larger quotas.

Then there is the immense backlogs of the machinery and equipment industries. And behind all this the annual rate of spending for defense is scheduled to rise by $14 billion between the first and fourth quarter of this year.

With credit restrictions removed, Kutish sees prospects for improved retail trade during the second half of the year. Hog prices are rising. And if we have a good crop this year, business should look better to Iowans. For the short crop last year made the national business lull even tougher on Iowa farms and Iowa stores.

But a return to the sharply rising prices of 1950 and early 1951 are out of the picture—unless the international picture turns black.

Although wood charcoal is about a quarter of the weight of wood from which it is derived, it has about two-thirds of the bulk of the wood.

LARGE CROWD PRESENT FOR MUSIC RECITAL

The music recital sponsored by Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Gerardi, Tuesday evening at the high school auditorium, drew a very large crowd from far and near.

There were 64 numbers on the program given by Mrs. Gerardi's piano pupils and Mr. Gerardi's accordion pupils.

This was perhaps one of the largest music recitals given in Klemme, or in North Iowa, and was greatly enjoyed by all who attended.

HERMAN M. KNUDSON IS A CANDIDATE FOR RE-ELECTION

Incumbent Senator Holds Important Committee Posts

Senator Herman M. Knudson, Clear Lake, has announced that he will be a candidate for renomination to the office of state senator in the Forty-third district, comprising the counties of Hancock, Franklin and Cerro Gordo, in the Republican primaries to be held June 2nd.

Senator Knudson is a former member of the house of Representatives and has served 2 terms as member of the state senate.

The senator has always been interested in the problems of agriculture as is evidenced by his background. He was born on an Iowa Farm, has served as president of the Iowa State Horticultural Society and was a director of the North Iowa Fair at Mason City for 20 years.

He also has had extensive business experience and served as a member of the Mason City Council for eight years. He is a member of numerous fraternal organizations and the Congregational church. His three sons are all veterans of World War II.

Senator Knudson has served on the more important committees in the senate and is chairman of the Ways ahd Means Committee. At the present time he is one of the six Republican members of the important Budget and Financial Control committee having charge of the emergency financial affairs of the state.

In making his announcement, Senator Knudson stated: "Win, lose or draw, I shall not be a candidate for re-election to the Senate after this next term: I firmly believe that younger people should be trained and given an active part in party and state affairs."

Services Held Tuesday For Wm. F. Stille 87, Pioneer

LIVED IN THIS COMMUNITY THREE-FOURTHS OF A CENTURY

Was Retired Farmer; One Time Was In Business In Klemme

Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon at the Klemme Methodist Church for Mr. Wm. F. Stille, age 87, who had been a resident of the Klemme community for 76 years and retired farmer since 1926.

Mr. Stille was one of our pioneers and during his early lifetime saw the first school house and church built in Liberty township and was a resident of the township when it was organized.

For a brief period in the 90's Mr. Stille was in the general store business with his brothers in Klemme, after which he returned to life on the farm and operated his own farm west of Klemme for 32 years and raised his family.

For a man of his years, Mr. Stillewas remarkably active until the past year or two when his health began to fail.

Funeral services were conducted by Rev. E. Morris Egeland and arrangements in charge of the Wellemeyer Funeral Service.

Burial was in the Ell Township Cemetery and Mr. Stille was laid to rest by the side of his wife. Pall bearers were his nephews: Glen Terhufen, Wesley Suckow, Gerald and Kermit Koerner and Wilbur and Paul Haefner.

The obituary appears elsewhere in this issue of the Times.

EIGHT BABIES BAPTIZED SUNDAY AT METHODIST CHURCH

During the morning services, Sunday, June 1, 1952, Rev. E. M. Egeland baptized the following babies:

Brenda Lou, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bram.

Michael James, son of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Lemke.

Duana Gregory, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kermit Schlei.

Don Royce, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Arnold.

Rickey Robert, son of Mrs. and Mrs. Robert Hartzell.

Jeffrey Alan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Schlei.

Peggy Elaine, daughter and Arnold John, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Blau.

GOOD NEIGHBORS HELP WITH WORK AT JOHNSON FARM

Robert Johnson, who is farming the Art Johnson farm this year was well pleased when some of his good neighbors came to the farm about a week ago to help him get caught up with his work.

Those who helped "Bob" were Merle Schoenwetter, Bob Hinman and John and Jesse Schwichtenberg. The neighborhood ladies served a nice lunch in the afternoon.

TO WED JUNE 17 — Mr. and Mrs. Roy I. Schaefer of Klemme announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Iris Mae, to Frank M. Rayhons, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank M. Rayhons of Garner. Miss Schaefer is a graduate of the Klemme High School. Mr. Rayhons was graduated from the Hayfield High School and has since been farming with his brother-in-law. The wedding will take place June 17 in the St. Boniface Catholic Church in Garner.

ALBERT KEHLS IN SERIOUS CAR ACCIDENT LAST WEEK

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Kehl, who had been visiting at the home of their son-in-law, Victor Greiman and family of Dayton, Ohio, Were returning home last week Tuesday. They were accompanied by the Greiman children, Vicky and Sherry.

About 12 miles from Independence, Iowa, a heavy rainstorm hit making visibility bad and they failed to see in time a highway maintance truck parked on the highway ahead of them. They swerved their own car to try to avoid a collision, but side-swiped the parked truck.

The Kehl car was badly damaged and the occupants injured, and were taken to an Independence hospital where is was found that Mr. Kehl suffered fractured ribs and shoulder blade; Vicky Grieman had a broken collar bone and her sister, Sherry was bruised. Mrs. Kehl escaped with minor cuts and bruises.

Victor Greiman drove out from Dayton and took his children home on Friday. Mrs. Kehl was able to return to Klemme, but Mr. Kehl is still hospitalized but is reported to be making a good recovery.

Sunday School Class To Meet

The Fifty-Fifty Sunday school class of the Methodist church will have a picnic in the Klemme Park on Sunday evening. Members will bring a pot-luck picnic lunch. Coffee and cream will be provided by the class. In case of bad weather an indoor picnic will be held in the Church basement.

KLEMME TIMES PRINTED IN NEW SIZE LAST WEEK

The Klemme Times came out in a new size last week, 8 pages tabloid or magazine size, instead of the standard 4 to 6 pages we have been printing.

Most of our readers say they like the new size, that it is convenient to read and gives the advertisements a better display. A few said they liked the old style better. However, as more features are built into the new size, we think our readers will like it better, at least we are going to give it a fair trial.

Compared to the former size of seven columns, 20 inches long, printed on four pages there was a total of 560 column inches. The new tabloid size of 5 colums 16 inches deep, 8 pages, gives a total of 640 column inches, or 80 column inches more space for reading material and advertising, so even if the paper looks smaller, there is a substantial increase in reading space.

We hope to gradually increase the size from 8 to 12 or 16 pages per week.

Quite a number of the small town newspapers are having difficulty in producing their newspapers as for the past 50 years they had been receiving a printed syndicate service all ready printed with four pages, and then the other four pages were printed at home, giving an eight page paper. But the syndicate service went out of business due to advance prices in paper, labor and material, and if the syndicate service had advanced their price, it would've been prohibitive to the average small town publisher who would not be able to pay the price. So a great many of the smaller town papers are trying to make up their own features from other sources.

KENNETH BOUGHTON, MRS. DORIS YOUNG WIN CONTEST IN COUNTY

225 Ballots Cast in Ell Township, For Near Normal Vote

RISING COSTS WARRANT A SLIGHT RATE INCREASE

Rates Have Been Decreased Since World War I In 1917

A small increase in electric rates is being requested by the Iowa Electric Light and Power Company. This was revealed when H. O. Sandberg, district manager appeared before the city council and proposed a rate increase which will average about 8% for residential consumers.

Mr. Sandberg said that the last rate increase made by the company was a temporary surcharge added to rates back in 1917, during World War I. At the close of the war this surcharge was removed and since that time three general rate decreases have been made which have brought the cost of a kilowatt hour to the average residential consumer to about 3c.

Electric use in this area is expanding rapidly, Sandberg said, and this has forced the company to plan a $30,000,000 building program to expand their facilities between now and 1955. In order to attract new captial from investors to meet this building program a small rate increase is necessary Sandberg said.

"We have postponed this request as long as we could," Sandberg stated, "But our costs continue to rise. Wire costs more, coal costs more, wages are higher, taxes are skyrocketing to a point where out 1951 taxes amounted to all our residential revenue for 10 and 1-3 months. The Company's total tax bill for 51 was $3,245,035."

The increased rate, which the company is asking at this time, amounts to about 8% and for the average residential customer will mean an additional cost of about 10 cents a week, Sandberg stated.

"While it means little to each customer, in the aggregate it means being able to keep on giving good electric service, which is more important to most people than the difference of a few cents on the bill."

New rate schedules are available at all offices of the Iowa Electric Light and Power Company. Residential, commerical, and small power rates are to be raised. Rates for municipal street lighting are not included in this general rate increase.

The town council passed the rate adjustment as requested by the Power Company. This rate increase is in comparison with present rates of various towns of comparable size.

Here's To A Happy Summer Of PICNICS IN YOUR OWN BACK YARD

Their own back yard is the favorite picnic spot for this Iowa farm family. It's a home-grown picnic spot, too. The table is a big barrel with a large circular wood top. The seats are nail kegs turned on end, painted white with green hoops. The fireplace is made of stones, and the lantern hung on a post is wired for electricity.

"Mom, let's us go on a picnic today." Children love a picnic and so do most grown-ups. But if your favorite outdoor eat spot is miles away, those wonderful family picnics may be few and far between.

A good many Iowa families make their own back yard a favorite picnic spot with fireplace, picnic table and chairs awaiting them every time the picnicking notion takes hold. Fixing up your own yard might be a good project this summer, suggests Iowa State College nutritionist Jewel Graham. And give one of the youngsters the important job of getting rid of ants and chiggers and discouraging mosquitoes.

Fun for Mom, Too

Just to make sure those backyard picnics are as much fun for Mom as for the rest of the family, plan on having "pick-up-and go" foods that don't take a lot of preparation. After all, part of the fun of a picnic lies in cooking your own. Dad and the children will have fun and you will have less work to do if you make them official fire-maker, chief cook, and cleaner-upper.

It helps to have all your picnic needs gathered together on a shelf or in a picnic basket so that there's no straggling back and forth to the house for the salt or napkins or ketchup. You might like to use plastic or paper plates instead of your regular ware, too. The metal plates that come with some picnic sets aren't too good an idea, since they heat up quickly from hot foods.

Aluminum Foil Cookery

Aluminum foil comes in handy for outdoor cooking. Wrap food in an airtight package of heavy foil and cook it right on the glowing coals of your fire. Here are a few suggestions of food to cook this way.

1. Season a slice of ham, a slice of pineapple and a few slices of sweet potato. Roll up in aluminum foil and bake in coals 7 or 8 minutes on each side.

2. Season hamburger and form into a ball. Roll in foil with sliced potatoes, carrots and onions. Cook about 7 or 8 minutes on each side. Or spread two thin hamburger patties with mustard, sandwich in a slice of onion, seal the edges. Roll in aluminum foil and cook 7 or 8 minutes on each side.

3. Season chicken, wrap two or 3 pieces in foil and bake 10 minutes on each side.

4. Cook corn on the cob about 10 minutes, whole potatoes about 45 minutes.

5. For baked apple, core the apple, leaing the bud end. Stuff with brown sugar, cinnamon and raisins. Place apple in the center of the foil. Twist foil on top to seal. Bake top side up for about 15 minutes.

Meals on a Stick

It's fun to fix a meal on a stick, too. Wrap or spear combinations of meat, vegetables and cheese on the end of a stick and roast over coals. Fix biscuit dough around end of a thick stick. Make the layer of dough even and not too thick. Cook slowly over the coals with constant turning. Remove from stick by twisting, fill center with butter and jam, or a meat or cheese mixture.

Other picnic ideas: chile con carne, chop suey, spaghetti or stew fixed ahead of time; steak, chicken or spare ribs roasted on an outdoor pit and basted with barbecue sauce; sandwiches, canned baked beans.

Here's to a happy summer of family picnics in your own back yard.

EARLY

At Lake Mills, the Milford Helgeson farm tractor is occasionally hard to start. But it offered no problem to 3-year old David Helgeson, who climed to the driver's seat, adjusted the throttle and suddenly found himself speeding across the yard. The tractor ran into the family car, halting its progress.

SELLING OUT

One of Villisca's oldest business firms will soon pass from the hands of the founding family. The Tyler Ice and Coal Co., founded by F. P. Tyler in 1882, will be auctioned off by his daughters, who have operated the firm in recent years.

NO CHILDREN

When Frank Hohensee of Marengo was graduated from the Marengo public schools last week, it was the first time in 35 years that his parents have not had a child in public school. The parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hohensee, saw their first two children, Fred and Charlotte, graduated in 1930.

Visiting around Iowa

by Joe Marsh

Let's Cool Off

One hot day last week, Edna and I drove out in the country with Doc Munson, the veterinarian.

"Look at those dirty pigs," Edna said as we passed a farm lot. The pigs were in a pond, their noses just above water.

"Those pigs aren't dirty," Doc said. "They get into that pond to keep cool. Pigs can't perspire like human beings. They haven't any sweat glands."

Well, that stopped Edna. It goes to show you how ignorance can lead to fixed ideas that are all wrong.

In fact, the wisdom of looking on all sides of a subject is a good thing for all of us to remember. Some folks like to keep cool with an air-conditioner. Others claim it gives them sinus trouble.

I like to cool off with a temperate glass of beer. Cousin Joe prefers his ice tea. That's fine all around. Let's remember — the other fellow has as much right to his tastes and preferences as we have to ours.

Next game is Friday night, Alumni benefit against the Belmond Bean Plant.

Esther Circle Met

The Esther Circle met at the home of Mrs. Kermit Schlei on Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. C. C. Kilgore had the lesson. 13 members, 5 children and one visitor were present. Mrs. Gerald Koerner assisted Mrs. Schlei in serving the lunch.

Mr. and Mrs. John Clements and sons drove to Estherville Sunday and spent the day with John's mother and his sisters and their families.

By Paul Henderson, County Extension Director

Will Rogers once said that it's a good thing all men didn't think alike—otherwise everyone would have wanted to marry the same girl!

This failure among men to have the same idea certainly is in evidence in the range country today. Francis A. Kutish, Iowa State College farm economist, did a little "bird-dogging" among various contacts in the range country last week. He found that Corn Belt buyers and rancher sellers were quite aways apart on their ideas of fall values on feeder cattle and sheep.

For all practical purposes, no trading basis on contracting feeder cattle and sheep for fall delivery had yet been established as May drew to a close. Generally speaking, buyers are extremely conservative, Kutish found, with sellers still optimistic.

Conservative buyers indicate desire to purchase yearlings at around $27 to $28, Western weights for fall shipment. Some are as bearish as $25 per hundred. Some talk as though they mght go to $30.

One buyer claimed to have had a large string of Wymong yearlings offered at $30.00, with 2-year-olds at $28.50; he wanted to buy them around $28.00 to $28.50, with the 2-year-olds at $25.00. One report was heard that a large string of Texas calves were priced by a rancher at $30.00—but he got no offers.

A Few Sales

However, a few scratch sales have been made. Texas reports a few yearlings sold around $30 to $32.00, fall delivery. Calves were sold at $33.00 and some up to $35.00. One sale of calves for fall delivery was made in Montana at $33 per hundred—this compares with several lots last year around $37.50 before the announcement of the OPS ceilings.

Asking prices are high as $34 to $35 for yearling steers, and some ranchers are still ambitious enoungh to ask upward to $4 for calves.

Feeder Lambs

The most conservative feeder lamb buyers, Kutish found, are talking around $20.00 for fall feeders. Some bids as high as $22 and $23 have been refused. But one string of Montana mixed blackfaces weighting around 75. lbs., sold at for fall delivery.

Lambs are being priced as high as $25 to $27 for fall shipment.

This gives the general picture of the wide margin now existing between buyers' and sellers' views for fall delivery or feeder cattle, calves and lambs, Kutish points out. There seems to be a general strengthening of current delivery prices on lightweight stock cattle and calves through the West, since most areas have now received welcome rains. Kansas City generally reflects this condition in their lightweight stocker cattle price trend during the past 3 weeks.

More cattle will come to market this fall than a year ago—both westerns and natives. The best guess, Kutich believes, is that we will see a normal seasonal price drop in feeder cattle this year. But it is too early to tell whether this seasonal drop will come early or late. Buying ahead of the drop does not seem wise, he believes, unless a "good buy" can be made.

LOOK OUT REDDY... BUMP AHEAD!

High Cost of Material plus Need for Record-Breaking Expansion Threatens his Proud 35 Year Record

DOWN... Down... Down! That's the way Reddy's prices have gone for the past 35 years. Few businesses can claim such an outstanding record as the one Reddy shows in the chart above. While your cost of living was going up 90 percent, Reddy's average wage went down 35 percent.

He Has dodged the Bumps So Far

Through sound business management and by always employing the newest, most efficient methods, Reddy was able to reduce his rates in 1932, 1939 and 1945. To stretch his dollars, Reddy and his helpers have figured out how to generate more electricity with less fuel, how to set poles and string wire faster. Everywhere possible, like in customer billing, he has put automatic equipment to work for him.

Your Use Grows Steadily

The cost of doing business, like your cost of living, shows a steady climb since 1940, and appears to be headed for even higher levels. At the same time, your use of electricity has grown and will continue to grow year by year. Thus Reddy finds himself in the position of doing more and more work, while getting less and less return for that work. That's because the more electricity you use, the less it costs per unit, due to the reduced rates at which additional usage is billed.

$30,000,000 Expansion Program

Reddy is proud of his past record of "never too little or too late." And to assure you plenty of power in the future, he has begun another phase of his expansion program which will see $30,000,000 invested in the next 4 years. It's a big program, calling for additions to present plants, as well as building one completely new centrally located steam plant.

In order to carry on this program, new investors must be convinced that their money will earn a reasonable return. Reddy is doing everything he can to accomplish this. But he wants you to know that it may be necessary to ask you for a small hike in his wages... the first time he has had to consider this since 1917... 35 years ago! You can be sure that if he does, it will be a very modest increase... one that will keep electricity the "Big Bargain" it has been for so many years.

COMPARING COSTS OF MATERIALS-1940 and NOW

the Highway Story

IOWA DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC SAFETY

BY RAY EASTMAN

Various odd items in Iowa newspapers this spring seem to indicate that the sap is really rising these vernal months, not only the usual growing things but in quite a drivers, as well.

One driver has been arrested for speeding 30 miles an hour in a 20 mile zone. The spring note: He was driving backward at the time.

A highway patrolman halted a driver for breezing through a stop sign in a small town. The driver looked back at the sign with innocent concern. "You mean farmers are supposed to stop for those things, too?" he asked the patrolman.

Another man, worried by traffic crossing a public parking in front of his home, went out and scattered a few nails, according to a newspaper report.

Then, with a show of public spirit, he posted a sign which read: "Notice - Nails spread here." It took a police judge to convince the man he couldn't do things like that-sign or no sign.

One Iowa town observes the approach of spring with a water shortage. It seems to happen every April that some driver knocks over the same fire hydrant on a downtown corner. Faucets in the neighborhood go dry, temporarily, and everyone knows spring has come.

Next year, it may be different. The town has now installed a new, bigger hydrant, some what farther back from the curb. Makes a tougher target, they feel.

In another Iowa town, a blind and deaf pedestrain was tapping his way across a street with a white cane - a symbol that demands the right-of-way. A passing driver clipped the cane neatly out of the man's hand and passed on without a backward glance.

Spring, it may be safely said, has come.

Freeze Peas Soon After Harvest

Here come those fresh, tender peas from your garden. And here also come freezing directions from Iowa State College nutritionist Jewel Graham to help you have fresh-tasting peas on the table all year.

Varieties Miss Grahn especially recommends for freezing are: Thomas Laxton, Laxton's Progress, Little Marvel, Pride and Perfection.

Pick peas when ready for the table, when seeds are plump and pods roundish. Freeze them as soon as possible after harvesting, always the same day. Sugar and quality are last rapidly at room temperature. Wash peas before and after shelling. Discard immature and tough peas. Scald ½ minute in rapidly boiling water, and cool by plunging in cold running water for the same length of time.

Pack peas in freezer containers, cover with 1½ % brine or pack dry. Freeze immediately.

To make brine, dissolve 1 tablespoon salt in 1 quart cold water, or 4 tablespoons salt in 1 gallon cold water. Leave 3-8 inch headspace for pint containers. This solution contains enough salt to season the vegetables just right for serving.

Obituary Of William F. Stille

WILLIAM FREDERICK STILLE, age 87 years, a resident of this community for 76 years, died Saturday night, May 31, 1952.

He was born August 10th, 1864, at Detmolt, Missouri, the second of six children born to his parents, Henry Stille and Louisa Stinieker Stille. One sister, Minnie (Mrs. Ernest Schuldt,) and one brother, Herman Stille, preceeded him in death.

In 1874, when William was nine years old, the family sold their mill in Detmolt, Missouri, and purchased the farm where the Liberty Methodist Church now stands. They were one of the first families to settle in Liberty township,

Little by little, with their own hands, they built a small home and other buildings; provided a well, some fences and a shelter belt of willow trees. They were there when the first school was built in 1876, and were there when Liberty township was organized in 1879.

They donated the acre of land for the building site of the Liberty Methodist Church, which was dedicated September 20, 1885. Mr. and Mrs. Stille's names are among the charter members.

The Liberty Township Cemetery is located on their farm.

The Stille Brothers even operated a General Store in Klemme for a few years in the 90's.

It must have been most interesting to this pioneer Wm. F. Stille to help with the development of our community over a period of 76 years, three-fourths of a century.

It was in 1883, nine years after moving to Liberty township that the father, Henry Stille died at the age of 48. Funeral services were held in the Liberty Center Schoolhouse, conducted by the Rev. Gotlieb Haefner, and this was the first burial of record in the Liberty Township Cemetery.

After the father's death, Wm. F. Stille, age 18, and his two younger brothers, Herman and John, continued to operate the farm.

In July 1894, at the age of 30 years, William F. Stille and Sarah Koerner were married. They lived on a farm 2 miles west of Klemme for 32 years, where their four children were born and raised.

In 1926 William and Sarah Stille moved to Klemme in retirement, and 13 years later the wife, Sarah, passed away. Since then Wm. F. Stille continued to live in Klemme with his son, Lester and family, except for a few winters spent with his son Donald and wife in California.

He suffered a stroke some weeks ago and spent his last days in a Nursing Home at Rockwell, Iowa.

Mr. Stille reached the age of 87 years, 9 months and 21 days. Three children survive:

Elvira (Mrs. Lee Anderson,) Charles City,

Harvey and Donald Stille, both of Polson, Montana;

also 6 grandchildren and 1 great grandchild;

One brother, J. E. Stille, Klemme, Iowa, and two sisters, Lizzie (Mrs. F. Gruetzmacher,) of Des Moines, Iowa, and Emma (Mrs. John Terhufen,) of Klemme, Iowa, and other more distant relatives and friends.

TORNADO TIME APPROACHES BUREAU WARNS

DES MOINES— Iowa's normal tornado time of mid-May to early July is close at hand, the Iowa Weather Bureau reminds us.

"Tornadoes occur in Iowa on an average of five to six each year and are most likely to occur between the hours of 3 p.m. and 6 p.m.," the weather bureau said

The bureau furnished additional data on tornadoes as follows:

They usually are preceded by hot sticky weather with southerly winds and a threatening sky and the clouds preceding a tornado often are greenish black in color.

The path of a tornado is usually 300 to 400 yards wide and 10 to 40 miles long although there can be wide variations from these figures.

Tornado damage is caused by spinning winds which may reach speeds of 500 miles an hour and by differences in air pressure which may cause buildings to collapse.

Weather bureau research into tornadoes have now reached a point where warnings can be issued of conditions favorable for their formation although no attempt is made to pin-point the exact location of tornadoes.

Safety rules on tornadoes, as issued by the bureau, include:

1. In open country move at right angles to the tornadoes path and if there is no time to escape lie flat in the nearest depression.

2. In a city or town, seek shelter inside—preferably in a steel building but do not approach windows.

3. A tornado cellar, cave or underground excavation with an air outlet to help equalize the pressure is one of the safest places. In homes, the southwest basement corner of a frame house offers greater safety than in a brick or stone house.

4. If time permits, both homes and industrial places should turn off electricity and fuel lines and windows on the north and east sides may be opened to help reduce damage.

5. School children should stand against inside walls or inside corridors on the lower floor and stay away from windows. Rural school children should lie down in a ravine or ditch.

CUB SCOUTS HOLD MAY PACK MEETING

The May Pack meeting of the Cub Scouts was held May 29th at the Reformed Church. It was to have been an outdoor picnic but the cool weather changed our plans. The Cub Scouts and most of the older "boys" enjoyed playing softball. Bud Montgomery brought his model airplanes to entertain the scouts but they refused to start. Rev. Jaberg cooked the weiners oua-of-doors but the pot luck supper was eaten in the church basement.

After supper the meeting was called to order. Gaylon Bridges and Craig Larson received their Lion Badges. Jerry Stokesbary received a silver arrow point. The meeting was closed by everyone joining in the Living Circle and singing America.

Several achievements made by the boys were on display.

GIRL SCOUT NEWS

Our meeting was called to order on June 2, 1952 at 7:00 o'clock at Mrs. Trumbells. Our patrol leader Eva Thieman opened our meeting by starting the Pledge of Alligance to the Flag, the Girl Scout Promise, the Motto, and the Slogan. The minutes of the last meeting were then given by Barbara Thompson.

We elected a new patrol leader and a new Secretary. Janice Stokesbary was elected Secetary and Berleen Bridges was elected Patrol Leader. We made $9.50 at our Bake Sale. We worked on Girl Scout Badges most of the evening. Our meeting was closed at 9:00. Our next meeting will be held on June 9 at 7:00 p. m. Treats were served by Mrs. Trumbell.

4-H Girls Plan For Rally June 26

The Hancock County 4-H girls are making plans in their 4-H clubs for their annual Rally Day program to be held at the Britt High School on June 26, from 10:00 a. m. to 3:30 p. m.

All 16 clubs are planning their lunch together and it will be a picnic if weather permits.

The morning session will include the County 4-H Girls' business meeting with the election if the new county officers, reports from each 4-H club president, 4-H Building Committee report, and the music appreciation contest.

The afternoon session includes the County Girls' Creed, installation of the new county 4-H officers, a panel discussion on 4-H award trips out of county, the county 4-H chorus and the initiation of Honorary members.

Committees from each club are making plans for a successful Rally Day Program.

R. E. Co-Op. Shows Big Gain During Past Year

OVER 1800 PEOPLE ATTENDED ANNUAL MEETING

TePoorten, Of Wisconsin, Gave Interesting Address

A crowd estimated at 1,800 attended the 16th annual stockholders meeting of the Hancock County Rural Electric Cooperative held in the big tent on the REA grounds at Garner. The crowd consumed 2,000 ham and cheese sandwiches, 90 pounds of ham, 60 gallons of coffee, 55 cases of pop in addition to a quanity of ice cream and cookies.

Victor Lobig, Wesley, president of the Co-op, presided at the meeting and advised that the membership now totals 1,811 members. Total electric service sales for the past year were $253,000 for an average monthly bill per member of $11.63. The Co-op now has 821 miles of line energized. H. L. Bush Jr., manager; George Gaskill, treasurer, and Aaron Stromer, secretary, each gave a report for the year of his respective office.

TePoorten Speaks

J. E. TePoorten, visational and adult education co-ordinator for the state of Wisconsin, gave the address. He advised the membership to take an active interest in their organization and traced the growth of use of electrial energy in the U. S. especially in the rural areas. He said that in 1935 less than 11% of farms in Iowa had electrical serviceand this has now increased to a point where approximately 95% of the farm homes are energized.

Victor Loebig of Wesley, C. J. Eisemnan of Woden and Omar J. Maland of Kanawha, were re-elected as members of the board of directors for a 3-year term. Holdover directors are M. C. James, Meservey; Alfred Boman, Forest City; Aaron Stromer, Garner; I. V. Rasmus, Garner; William Haes, Garner and Geo. Gaskill, Corwith. The board will meet on the third Tuesday of the month to organize for the ensuing year.

Present officers are: Victor Loebig, Wesley, president; Geo. Gaskill, Corwith, treas.; Aaron Stromer, Garner, secretary and H. L. Bush Jr., Garner, manager.

Two Men Honored

M. C. James of Meservey, 1st president of the Hancock County REA and still member of the board, and Wm. Haes of Garner, also a charter member of the board of directors, were honored at the annual meeting by being presented with an engraved gold watch. Both men were active in the organization of the Coop.

The Coop. now employs a total of 14 persons. They are: H. L. Bush Jr., manager; Clarence Niemeyer, Wilbur Niemeyer, Leo Meleny, Arnold Jass, Kenneth Juhl, Harvey Mitchell, Henry Taylor, Ernest Hard, W. L. Hard, as linemen and service employees; DeEtta Hartwig, Marlys Rawson, Irma Bird and Betty Lou Bohn in the office.

Following the business session the crowd was pleasantly entertained by John Shirley with his comedy magic and puppet show, and the Barlendos, a father and son acrobatic team. The Garner High School Band and the Garner Old Timers appeared on the program at various times during the evening.

50 HANCOCK 4-H MEMBERS WILL ATTEND CAMP

The Klemme American Legion is sponsoring a two-day celebration in Klemme for Friday and Saturday of this week.

The Legion has booked the Geo. W. Nelson Shows who carry a complete array of rides for young and old, concessions and other attractions. It's a celebration all for fun and fun for all, so bring in your family and enjoy two days and nights of relaxation and enjoyment.

The Klemme Auxiliary ladies will have a sandwich stand.

Hot Weather Good For Corn

The weather man has been assisting the corn and beans in getting a good start in north Iowa the past week. The later days, the temerature was over ninety. You can almost see the corn jump in the fields, and several nice fields of soy beans are coming along fine. The cold month of May had sort of retarted the development of corn and many fields were showing yellow with the prolonged cold and wet spell. Temperatures dipped to a low of 35 during the later part of May, and frost nipped some of the tender vegetation of lowlands. But this week came right back and gave them the necessary warm weather needed.

Small grains, pastures and meadows continue to look good. Potatoes, sugar beets and vege- Corn and soy beans are all table crops are coming fine. planted and very little replanting is necessary due to cut worm damage.

Klemme Couple Surpised By Large Number Of Relatives On Sunday

MR. AND MRS. ELMER ARNOLD OBSERVE 40TH WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Arnold were pleasantly surprised at their home Sunday, June 8, by a group of relatives invited by their daughter, Evelyn and daughter-in-law, Thelma, to help them observe their fortieth wedding anniversary. All of the guests brought well filled baskets and were present to enjoy the dinner with Mr. and Mrs. Arnold.

Forty years ago on June 6, 1912, Mr. Elmer Arnold and Miss Nellie Lau were united in marriage at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lau. Rev. Schneider, pastor of the Methodist Church, performed the ceremony.

All of their married life Mr. and Mrs. Arnold have resided on their farm southeast of Klemme where they now live. They are the parents of five children, Wilbur and Roy, who operate the farm, Evelyn, who teaches school in Humboldt, Bruce, a draftsman with the Case Company in Rock Island, Illinois and Curtis, who passed away in 1921 at the age of eight years.

Sunday afternoon was spent informally, after which a lunch consisting of a beautiful anniversary cake and ice cream, was served.

Those present to make the occasion so successful were: Dr. and Mrs. C. B. Tice and Mary Griffen, Dr. and Mrs. George Tice and family of Mason City; Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Arnold and Bobby, Asa Arnold, Mrs. Emilie Arnold, Mrs. Ella Schneider, Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Koerner and Kermit, Terry Koerner, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Ridder, Dennis and Maralee, Virgil Ruter, Mr. and Mrs. Glen Bridges and family, Mrs. Nova Stokesbary and family, Mrs. Martha Bredbenner, Leona, George, and Erwin Lau, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Veldhouse and Lynette, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Lau and Cozette, Jane Renner, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Arnold and family, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Arnold, Wilbur, Evelyn and Bruce.

HANCOCK COUNTY CLERK RESIGNS

Ruth Hughes Katter, clerk of the Hancock County District Court, has submitted her resignation to the board of supervisors and it was accepted by the board in session Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. Katter will terminate her employment with the county on July 1 and will move with her husband to a newly purchased home in Oregon. Her successor has not been named but will be selected soon.

Mrs. Katter was not a candidate for re-election and Mrs. Doris Young of Garner, who won the nomination on the Republican ticket at the June primary, will probably be her successor to fill the vacancy caused by her resignation.

University Of Iowa Graduates

The State University of Iowa held there commencement exercises at the college Friday morning. They had 1,234 graduates and A. Craig Baird, professor of speech delivered the address. Alice Mae Anderson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. Jennings Anderson, received a Bachelor of Arts Degree.

CAMPAIGN FAILS TO GET OUT VOTERS

In spite of continued efforts on the part of public spirited civic groups and publicity in the newspapers and on the radio, fewer Hancock County citizens availed themselves of the priviledge to cast their ballot at the primary election Monday.

A total of 3,138 voters went to the polls out of a possible number of some over 9,000 eligible voters. Of this total 2,820 voted in the Republican primary and 318 in the Democratic. Two years ago 3,198 Republican voters cast their ballots and 553 Democrats for a total of 3,751.

Pumping Station Re-Wired

The Klemme pumping station has been re-wired by bringing in power lines from the east and eliminating the inside wiring through the building. The new system has a double protection and is now considered to be quite safe.

It is a good improvement and one that was needed for a long time. Now, if sometime in the future we could get the station rebuilt entirely fire-proof everyone would be happy. The Town Council has made a good start on improvement, keep it going.

AN ORDINANCE FIXING AND DETERMINING THE RATES AND CHARGES WHICH THE IOWA ELECTRIC LIGHT AND POWER COMPANY IS ENTITLED TO COLLECT AND RECEIVE AS COMPENSATION FOR ELECTRIC ENERGY AND SERVICE FURNISHED THE CONSUMERS OF ELECTRIC ENERGY WITHIN THE TOWN OF KLEMME, IOWA AND FIXING AND DETERMINING THE RATES WHICH MAY BE CHARGED AND COLLECTED WITHIN SAID TOWN AND PROVIDING THE TIME WHEN SUCH RATES AND CHARGES SHALL BECOME EFFECTIVE, AND THE PERIOD OF TIME THAT SAID RATES SHALL CONTINUE IN FORCE AND EFFECT, AND REPEALING ALL ORDINANCES IN CONFLICT THEREWITH.

WHEREAS, The Iowa Electric Light and Power Company, acting under and pursuant to the terms of a franchise ordinance passed and adopted by the Town Council of Klemme, Iowa, and approved by the legal electors of said Town is now and has been since the adoption of said ordinance, supplying, distributing and selling electric energy to said Town and to the inhabitants thereof, and has been charging the consumers of electric energy the rates heretofor fixed and determined by the Town Council of the Town of Klemme, Iowa, and

WHEREAS, for over ten years last past the wages of the Company's employees, fuel used in the generation of electricty, all material and supplies necessary for the generation and distribution of electric energy, and all taxes levied and assessed against the Company and its property, having greatly increased, and

WHEREAS, during the said ten year period, the rates and charges for electric energy and service have not been increased, but the Company is now receiving the same rates and compensation as it did before the increased costs of its operations, now, therefore,

BE IT ORDAINED BY THE TOWN COUNCIL OF THE TOWN OF KLEMME, IOWA:

Section 1. The rates and charges for electric energy furnished, sold and delivered to the consumers of electric energy within the Town of Klemme, Iowa is hereby fixed and determined as specifically set out and shown in Section 2 hereof, and the Iowa Electric Light and Power Company is hereby authorized to collect and receive as compensation for electric energy and service furnished the consumers of electric energy within the Town of Klemme, Iowa, the rates and charges as set out and shown in Section 2 hereof.

Section 2.

DOMESTIC ELECTRIC SERVICE RATE

AVAILABLE FOR ALL SINGLE PHASE, REGULAR DOMESTIC ELECTRIC SERVICE THROUGH ONE METER FOR ONE FAMILY WHERE NO INSTALLED MOTOR IS RATED IN EXCESS OF ONE (1) HORSEPOWER.

One dollar (1.00) for the first 14 kilowatt-hours or less used per month.

Five and 5/10 cents (5.5c) per kilowatt-hour for the next 46 kilowatt-hours used per month.

Three and 5/10 cents (3.5c) per kilowatt-hour for the next 60 kilowatt-hours used per month

Two and 6/10 cents (2.6c) per kilowatt-hour for all kilowatt-hours used per month in excess of the first 120 kilowatt-hours.

The minimum bill shall be one dollar (1.00) per month per meter installed.

COMMERCIAL ELECTRIC SERVICE RATE

..AVAILABLE FOR ALL GENERAL ELECTRIC SERVICE OTHER THAN DOMESTIC SERVICE.

One dollar ($1.00) for the first 14 kilowatt-hours or less used per month.

Five and 5/10 cents (5.5c) per kilowatt-hour for the next 46 kilowatt-hours used per month.

Five cents (5.0c) per kilowatt-hour for the next 90 kilowatt-hours used per month.

Four cents (4.0c) per kilowatt-hour for the next 150 kilowatt-watt hours used per month.

Three cents (3.0c) per kilowatt-hour for the next 300 kilowatt-hours used per month.

Two and 6/10 cents (2.6c) per kilowatt-hour for all kilowatt-hours used per month in excess of the first 600 kilowatt-hours.

Minimum monthly bill for lighting only $1.00.

Minimum monthly bill for lighting and power combined $1.00, plus 50c per horsepower of connected power load.

Minimum monthly bill power only, 50c per horsepower of connected power load, but not less than $1.00.

The above Domestic and Commerical rates are net. To avoid discrimination and to cover the extra costs of collecting delinquent bills, bills not paid within ten (10) days after rendition may be increased ten per cent (10%) on the first ten dollars ($10.00) and two per cent (2%) on amounts in excess of the first ten dollars (10.00).

Section 3. That the Company is authorized to make contracts with consumers at other and different rates than the foregoing, provided all consumers desiring service under similar conditions shall have the privilege to make similiar contracts.

Section 4. The rates and charges so fixed and determined in Sections 2 and 3 hereof shall become effective beginning with all meter readings on and after July 1, 1952.

Section 5. Said rates and charges shall continue in full force and effect until changed, modified or repealed by the Town Council of Klemme, Iowa, or such rate making body as may hereafter be established under the Laws of the State of Iowa and given jurisdiction thereof.

Section 6. All ordinances or parts of ordinances or resolutions insofar as they are in direct conflict herewith are hereby repealed.

WHEREUPON, the Mayor declared this Ordinance duly passed approved and adopted this 29th day of May, 1952.

RED CROSS AID TO VICTIMS OF MARCH 21 TORNADOES NEARS MILLION DOLLAR MARK

Then

Now

ABOVE—The refrigerator and washing machine are all that remain in the splintered ruins of G. R. Nelson's newly remodeled home near Lonoke, Arkansas, after tornadoes struck in this and six other southern states March 21. The twisters destroyed 1,044 homes, caused other losses to 4,510 families, killed 214 persons, injured 2,000 others of whom 636 needed hospitalization. The Nelsons' young daughter was one of hundreds for whom Red Cross paid medical bills.

BELOW—Made possible by a $4,023 Red Cross building award, the Nelson's new four-room home now is almost ready for the $693 of essential furniture also bought for the family by the Red Cross. Meeting actual needs, not losses, Red Cross is aiding 775 families in rebuilding homes and additional hundreds are receiving awards—outright grants, not loans—to pay for household goods, medical bills, and other needs. Expenditures now are nearing the million dollar mark.

Died

Montezuma lost one of its veteran attorneys recently in the death of J. R. Smith, who established his practice there in 1900.

SUFFOCATES

Five year old Ruby Dodson, of Derby, was found suffocated in the ice compartment of an old ice-box in the community last week. When the boy did not come home for supper, the entire town joined in the search and found the body in the abandoned ice-box on the west edge of town.

Mother

Newell is mourning the death of Mrs. Ed Sievers, who passed away at a hospital in Storm Lake recently. She was the mother of twelve children, the youngest being a one-week old infant.

Carillon

At New Hampshire university in Durham, the carillon has been dedicated to Oren V. "Dad" Henderson, who had been a member of the faculty there from 1914 until his death last year. Mr. Henderson is a native of Clarke county, Iowa.

Severity of Attack, Not Age Determines Heart Victims

The higher mortality rate from acute myocardial infarction in older age groups is due to a greater frequency of serious attacks rather than to the age of the victims, it was stated recently in Journal of the American Medical Association. Acute myocardial infarction, a common, serious heart condition, is the degeneration of the heart muscle due to the obstruction of a coronary artery.

Five doctors pointed out that although severe attacks are commoner in older persons, the prognosis outlook of a severe or mild attack appears to be unaltered by age.

"The pessimism commonly revealed in the estimation of prognosis in any elderly patient with this disease is unwarranted if based on age alone," it was stated. "Too often the persistence of such pessimism, even after satisfactory recovery, has condemned the elderly good risk survivor to a nonproductive, boring existence.

"Patients in this category, as well as those in younger groups, may be successfully rehabilitated toward regaining a measure of personal, social, and economic independence consistent with their residual capacity."

The doctors based their conclusions on a study of 1,047 persons suffering from acute myocardial infarction, 843 of whom were men, and 204 women. The age range was 30 to 88 years, with the mean age of the men 56 years, and the women 60 years.

The patients were divided into two groups: good risks and poor risks. The latter group included those persons who had suffered previous myocardial infarction, uncontrollable pain, severe degree or persistence of shock, significant enlargement of the heart, gallop rhythm, congestive heart failure, and other serious complicating diseases.

Close Call

It was a close call for Jerry Hogshead, 5 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. S. M. Hogshead, of Indianola, when he fell beneath the family car as it rolled down the driveway. He spent two days in the hospital.

WOUNDED

Jimmy Chism, 6, of Bradgate, was hospitalized last week when he was sprayed with ricocheting slugs from a 20 gauge shotgun. The mishap occurred when an older brother fired the gun into a culvert.

Memorial

The Humboldt Junior Chamber is erecting a memorial to Frank Gotch, in Frank Gotch state park there. Permission was recently granted by the state conservation commission for the memorial to the former heavyweight wrestling champion, a native of Humboldt.

FISHING

Henry Walker, Decorah, reponts the fishing has been good in the Mississippi near Guttenburg. In just five minutes recently, he caught 3 wall-eyes, weighing a total of 20 pounds.

Farmer's Question Corner

PREPARED BY American Foundation For Animal Health

WHAT ABOUT CALF PARASITES?

Q: Are parasites a very serious problem in young calves?

A: Yes. They are considerably more of a problem in calves than in older animals.

Q: Which internal parasites cause the most trouble?

A: Nodular or stomach worms, coccidia, threadworm, lungworms, and hookworms.

Q: How can owners tell if calves have such parasites?

A: The calves look unthrifty in spite of good rations. Scouring, anemia and loss of weight are other symptoms.

Q: What can farmers do to protect young stock against internal parasites?

A: The main steps are: Drain or fence off low wet areas, where parasites are commonly found. Provide clean, fresh drinking water. Avoid overstocking pastures. Practice pasture rotation to break the life cycle of parasites. Keep young animals away from older stock and contaminated pastures. Follow sanitation and good feeding practices.

Q: Is there any medical treatment?

A: Yes, but it depends on the type of infestation and the condition of the affected animals. A veterinarian can best advise what to do.

Q: What external parasites affect young calves?

A: Insects such as mites, ticks, flies, lice and fleas all give trouble. They can best be controlled by cleaning up and treating infested premises, and by using proper insecticides on the animals.

NOTE—Due to space limitations, general questions cannot be handled by this column.

I wish to extend my sincere

THANK YOU to the people of Klemme and community for the splendid vote at the June Primaries.

Visiting around Iowa

by Joe Marsh

Iowa's Big Floods

Those terrible floods that hit Eastern and Western Iowa this spring did more than set new high water marks.

They proved what grand neighbors Iowa people are.

Thousands of people took flood victims into their homes, helped them through their time of trouble, assisted them in getting started again.

That's real Iowa neighborliness for you — neighborliness that believes in treating the other fellow as we'd like to be treated ourselves. Folks didn't ask families which lodge they belonged to, or which party they voted for, when they moved them out of the flood.

No more than I bother whether neighbor Joe next door wears a double-breasted or single-breasted suit . . . or whether he likes coffee, sassafras tea, or a temperate glass of beer.

Iowa neighborliness, tolerance, friendliness is truly more than skin deep. It is based on mutual respect, on belief in the other man's rights and way of life equally with our own.

Yes, when neighborliness and tolerance step in, selfishness and intolerance step out.

Now Is Time To Spray To Check Lilac Borer

Lilac borers are susceptible to sprays during late May and early June, according to Harold Gunderson, extension entomologist at Iowa State College. He Says spraying is a way to control borers without heavy pruning that would normally be necessary to rid of borer-damaged wood.

Spraying stems thorougly on all sides every 2 weeks with a spray made every 2 weeks with a spray made from two tablespoons of 50 percent wettable DDT powder in a gallon of water will usually clear up borers, Gunderson says. Two or three sprayings is usually plenty, he says.

At this time of the year, the borer larvae have finished doing damage to the lilac and are emerging from last year's tunnels as adult beetles. These tunnels are the holes that do the damage to the lilac.

The adult beetles lay their eggs in the lilac canes. The lorvae hatch and eat their way through the bark into the sapwood. DDT, applied to the canes before the eggs hatch, poisons the young borer larvae as they crawl on and chew their way through the bark, Gunderson explains.

Here's How To Cut Tiered Wedding Cake

Traditionally, the bride and groom cut the first piece of wedding cake together. Then serving the cake an expert way to reception guests is left to a favorite friend or relative. These directions are dirceed to that relative or friend by Jewel Graham, Iowa State College nutritionist.

First of all, the bride and groom should cut thein piece from the bottom layer. So coach them in advance. Next step is to cut vertically through the bottom layer — so that you cut in a circle around the cake. Then cut wedge-shaped pieces from the bottom layer.

When the pieces from the bottom layer have been served, do the same with the second layer. (Most wedding cakes will have three layers.) That means cut vertically through the second layer at the edge of the top layer. Then cut wedge-shaped pieces, running knife beneath each slice to separate it from the layer underneath.

For the next pieces, return to the bottom layer, which once more extends beyond the layer above. Follow the same procedure as before, cutting vertically at the edge of the second layer, then cutting wedges.

The three tiers remaining will be the same circumference. Lift off the top layer and save it for the bride and groom. If needed, cut the remaining cake into desired pieces.

Use a sharp, straight-edged knife with a thin blade for the vertical cutting. To make a clean cut, dip the blade into warm water before each cutting and keep the blade free from frosting and crumbs. Then use the silver cake server to cut and serve the individual wedges.

Klemme Keeping Up To Par

Klemme has always been noted for keeping there property nice and clean. The yards are mowed each week, wonderful flower gardens around town, nice gardens, and every year all the buildings that need to be painted are beautified sometime during the summer. Right now, we noticed the following people are having the job accomplished: Jack Etchen is having his house re-shingled and painted, Lyle Neurhing is painting his house, Dr. Missman's house has a nice coat of white paint on, Walter Lemkes are painting their house, Wallace Pavey is dolling up the blacksmith shop up with a real nice coat of red paint, and Mrs. Pavey is painting her pop corn stand.

the Highway Story

IOWA DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC SAFETY

BY RAY EASTMAN

When the young trucker picked up the cup of coffee, his hand shook so badly that he spilled half the contents of the cup on the counter. He glanced apologetically at the waitress.

"You look almost sick," she said, "What's the matter?"

"I don't know how I'm going to drive the rest of the night," the trucker said. "It happened more than an hour ago, but the more I think about it the worse I feel.

"I was following this car about sunset. We weren't traveling more than 40 miles per hour but I was moving up on him to pass. You know how it is. You are just driving along and every thing's all right. You aren't looking for anything to happen. Then, it does.

"The back door of this car in front of me just flopped open. A little girl fell out. Lord, she just dived out and hit right on her head and didn't move. She was right in front of my wheels.

"You don't know how many things you can see in a second until your'e in a spot. I saw a car coming at me on the left so I couldn't pull out of my lane. There was a steep bank on the right and hitting that meant the end of $25,000 worth of equipment and cargo and maybe me, too.

"But going straight ahead meant crushing that little girl, so there wasn't any choice. I still didn't know if I could miss her, but I headed for that bank and set the brakes all the way."

The trucker paused blankly while he relived those seconds of terrible doubt. "Well," he said. "I'm still here and I'm still driving and I guess the little girl is going to be all right, but I don't know how I'm going to get through the rest of the night."

The trucker picked up his cup of coffee - in both hands - and stared at a row of cereal boxes on a shelf behind the counter.

ABELE FAMILY HELD REUNION AT LIBERTY CHURCH, SUNDAY

The sixth Annual Abele Family Re-Union was held Sunday, June 8, 1952, at the Liberty Methodist Church. The seventy-three members attending enjoyed a picnic dinner in the Church basement.

Three members are now in the Armed Forces: Harry Abele in Korea; Leon Griffen in California; and Harlan Carolus at Fort Riley, Kansas.

There were five new members this year: Steven Abele, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Abele; Jerry Zwald, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Zwald; Nile Abele, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Abele; Allen May, son of Mr. and Mrs. Delbert May; and the youngest of the members, Laurel Lea, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Schroeder.

The one marriage in the family the past year was that of Betty Lou Griffen to Harlan Carolus.

Miss Emma Koch of Okoboji, cousin of the Abeles, was a special guest.

New officers for the coming year are John Abele, president; and Kenneth Zwald, Secretary-Treasurer.

We need and appreciate your news so phone it to 12.

Auxiliary Meets

The Klemme American Auxiliary met at the home of Mrs. Franklyn Buseman, on Tuesday evening, June 3rd, with nineteen members present. Mrs. Verner Lewis reported on the clothing that had been sent to our sponsored child. $115.23 was collected on Poppy Day. Our Librarian reports there are six memberships in our newly organized library, and it is hoped that more people will come in and acquaint themselves with the Library.

It was voted to serve the Alumni Banquet on June 20th. A commitee consisting of Carrie Schwichtenberg, chairman, Mrs. Benn Coobs, Mrs. F. Buseman, and Mrs. Roy Arnold assisting in planning the menu.

The Auxiliary Unit will have a stand at the Klemme Celebration June 13th and 14th.

Election was held, re-electing the same officers for another year. President — Mrs. Flora Back, Vice Pres. Mrs. Louise Etchen, Sec. and Treas.- Mrs. Helen Stille, and Chaplain, Mrs. Nellie Arnold. Historian, Mrs. Thelma Arnold, Sergeant of Arms, Neva Ann Anderson, and on the Executive Board, Mrs. Coobs, Mrs. Hartzell and Mrs. Ahrenkiel.

The Holiday cards are to be handed in to Mrs Helen Stille now. Several cards were returned at this meeting. Ella Ward won the attendance prize. A lovely lunch was served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Hartzell and Mrs. Graydon Back.

Farmer's Question Corner

PREPARED BY American Foundation For Animal Health

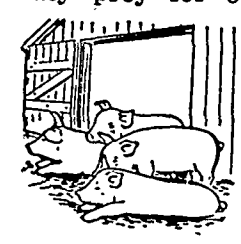
WHAT ABOUT PIG ANEMIA?

Q: What causes pig anemia?

A: This is a nutritional trouble caused by lack of iron. It generally occurs in young pigs which do not have access to soil and vegetation, natural sources of iron. Baby pigs get no iron, through the sow's milk.

Q: How serious a problem is anemia?

A: It is one of the chief causes of unthriftiness and deaths in young swine. Pigs which suffer even light attacks of anemia may never gain well. They are also easy prey for other diseases.



Q: When is this trouble most likely to appear?

A: Within the first two weeks after birth.

Q: How does it act?

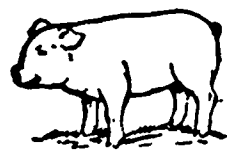
A: At first pigs look well. Then they start to thump, lose weight, become dull and sluggish. Some linger on for several weeks before dying, others go into a coma and die more quickly.

Q: What can be done to prevent this trouble?

A: Baby pigs should be given small amounts of iron and copper.

Q: Does a shovelful of dirt placed in each pen help?

A: Some authorities recommend this, providing the sod is from clean ground. If the dirt is taken from old pastures or lots it may expose the pigs to parasite and germ infection.



Q: What about swabbing the sows' udders with molasses containing some copper and iron?

A: This practice is unsanitary. It's better to obtain a special iron-copper supplement from the veterinarian.

NEW BREAD STANDARDS IN EFFECT IN AUGUST

Some new standards for commercially made bread and rolls will go into effect the middle of August, based on action taken taken by the Federal Security Administration.

Setting of the standards will give bread - shoppers exact knowledge of just what ingredients halve gone into the making of the bread.

Affected by this action will be white bread, enriched bread, mi k bread, raisin bread, and whole wheat bread, and the corresponding rolls.

The standards specify the names under which these five varieties of bread must be sold; list the ingredients which are required to be used; list the optional ingredients which may be used; exclude unauthorized ingredients; and designate that the optional ingredients will also be listed on the wrapper.

Nothing in the standards, however will prevent or discourage bakers from making improvements in nutritional or other qualities of the breads. Any and all new developments that will be recognized as of real benefit to the public can be recognized by amendments to the standards, it was pointed out

Breads not coming under the standardized rulings will be available, carrying complete ingredient listings on the label.

REDDY'S 35 YEAR RECORD NOW IN REAL DANGER

Everything Costs Him More Today . . . Just When Your Greater Use Dictates a $30 Million Expansion by 1955

MOST folks can't even remember the last time Reddy had to increase his rates back in 1917. Reddy is really proud that the price of electricity is one of the very few things that hasn't gone up and up in the past few years. While your cost of living has gone up 90% Reddy's wages have gone down 35%.

Reddy's "Cost of Living" Up, too

The cost of doing business, like your cost of living, has been climbing steadily since 1940 and appears to be headed even higher. At the same time your use of electricity has been, and will continue, growing year by year. Thus Reddy finds himself in the position of doing more and more, while getting less and less return from his work. As examples of how costs are up, Reddy pays 100% more for each ton of coal he burns, and as the chart at the right shows his taxes are up 200%. But by sound business management and by using more efficient methods in generating electricity Reddy needs only ¼¢ an hour raise to do the many jobs you ask of him.

$30,000,000 Expansion Program Underway

Reddy has now started work on a $30,000,000 expansion program that will assure you of a continuous supply of all the electric power you need. Most of the money for this program must come from new investors who are willing to put their money to work for you. They expect, and deserve, a fair return on their money . . . and the proposed rate increase will enable Reddy to offer them a sound investment. So you are insuring your own All-Electric future by granting Reddy's request for higher wages. Reddy is asking for an increase of 8⅓% . . . which is about the same wage he was receiving in 1947. The proposed increase would cost the average residential customer about 10c per week. Electricity is Still your Biggest Bargain!

SHORT STORY

Triangle

By L. MacDONALD

"MISTER, I'm gonna get married. Me, a guy of forty-two. I gotta tell someone. Want to hear about it?"

I was waiting for someone when this guy sits on the park bench beside me and starts talking. He'd singled me out from the others in the park and I didn't want to dissappoint him. I nodded my head. After all, I had some time to kill and I don't like to wait alone.

3-Minute Fiction

"I'm listening," I told him. "Tell me about it."

"I got a radio shop," he began, "Buy, sell and repair. I'm getting married tonight. Forty-two years old and I'm getting married. She's forty, but she looks thirty. Real black hair and dark eyes. She's a wonderful cook; no food in L. A. like it."

I looked at his stocky form and the graying hairs of his round, bare head. I said something about love.

"Love, you say? How old are you?' About thirty, I bet. In ten years you won't be like that. Things change. She and I had plenty of love when we were young. But we didn't have much money. I got a job helping an electrician. It took me years to get a shop of my own. Now I got money, all kinds of business."

He was silent for a moment, squinting at his watch, trying to see the hands with his red eyes. They were tired and strained from delving into thousands of radios. I wondered what kind of woman would marry this little red eyed man who was fast losing his hair.

"During the war," he continued, "people had all kinds of radios to get fixed. I used to work night and day, saving my money to get married. I hired two kids; they had "SAM'S RADIOS" sewed on the backs of their coveralls. They used to make deliveries and stuff. Maybe you saw them down on First street. Just off of Figueroa. I was always in the shop, working constantly because people couldn't get new radios. I never had time to come to the park."

I looked at his stocky form and the graying hairs of his round, bare head.

HE PAUSED to look at his watch and I tried to remember where I had heard 'Sam's Radios' before. It stuck in my mind. But I couldn't remember at the moment.

"While I'm busy fixing radios with no time to come to the park or anything a guy starts rushing Lena. Lena Raeillo is her name, the woman I'm going to marry. We—"

The name struck me and I missed a few sentences.

He went right on talking, "—and all the while he was taking her out. To the park, the movies, the beach and all the places I was too busy to take her. They met here in the park almost every day. He was swell to her".

He paused. I waited quietly. I wanted to know what he really had on his mind.

"His name was Harry. Lena liked him because he was so much fun. I never had the time to spare; Harry was good to her. She said, "Yes, Sam, I'll marry you". But she'd have to break the news to Harry first. She told me who he was and all about it. He was a pretty good guy and she wanted to break it to him easy."

I didn't look at him mut focused on a woman coming across the park. He glanced at me and went on talking, as though he knew I was clutching at every word.

"She was supposed to meet him and tell him, this afternoon. I closed the shop, because tonight we get married, and came over to the park to find this guy. I had to tell someone about getting married and all. Lena said Harry is a nice guy."

"He used to take her—", he broke off as he saw the woman I had been watching. She had seen us and halted. Her hair was black and even from a distance I could see her eyes glisten jet. Sam stood up and took a step, then he turned to me.

"It's Lena," he said, "She didn't expect me here. I better go meet her; it's better that way. Thanks for listening to me."

I sighed in relief.

I said, "So long. Congratulations."

He glanced over his shoulder. "Thanks," he said, "Goodbye, Harry."

Army's Salvage Efforts Save Money for Taxpayers

Army Engineers in Japan have saved American taxpayers more than $34,000,000 (M) in a continuing program of repairing heavy equipment reclaimed from Pacific islands where it was left after World War II.

Seventeen plants in Japan, working under direction of the Army's Yokohama Depot, are reclaiming and repairing equipment that ranges from fire extinguishers, generators, and refrigeration units to tractors, trailers, cranes, road graders, and rock crushers.

During a 12-month period, the depot repaired a total of 10,000 items of heavy engineer equipment at a cost of $6,000,000 (M). The equipment was badly needed as result of the fighting in Korea, and had it been necessary to procure it in the United States the cost would have been approximately $40,000,000 (M).

The reclamation program began on a modest scale shortly after the end of World War II, and in 1948 approximately 1,250 items of mechanical engineer equipment were repaired. Approximately 8,000 items were made serviceable in 1949, and 10,000 in 1951.

During the fiscal year 1951, approximately 60 per cent of the engineer equipment and supplies furnished for the Korean operation by the Yokohama depot came from within the Far East Command.

Temperatures

What are the highest and lowest temperatures which the human body can stand? In an experiment conducted in 1925, at the Cornell University Medical College a scientist stayed for two hours in dry air at a temperature of 201 degrees F and suffered no harm. More recent experiments at Wright Field show that even higher temperatures can, under special conditions, be tolerated for considerable periods of time. Most sturdy young men, it has been found, from the experience of pilots shot down during the Battle of Britain, can survive for as much as half an hour in water as cold as 40 degrees F. Very prolonged exposures, however, result in death from heart failure, presumably due to disturbances of the nerve impulses that cause the heart to beat. In regard to actual body temperatures, there is a record of recovery from a fever of 113 degrees, though most persons would not live if it went above 109 degrees. Generally, a drop to as low as 78 degrees for a short period is not fatal. Below this an increasing number of people will die, although, in a recent case in Chicago, a woman lived after her body temperature had fallen to 60.8 degrees.

The Great Myth

The common belief that marriages increase in leap year—of which 1952, of course, is one—has been exploded as a myth. Since the Civil War period only twice, in 1896 and in 1920, has the marriage rate in a leap year been higher than in the year immediately preceding and in the year following, reports Dr. Louis I. Dublin, chief of statisticians of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company. Despite woman's traditional privilege to propose, prospects of an increase in marriage frequency this year are unfavorable, Dr. Dublin continues, because the supply of available unmarried persons has been depleted by the spurt in marriages following the close of World War II

Cirrhosis Easily Arrested If Caught in Early Stages

Cirrhosis of the liver can be cured or arrested in essentially every patient with early stages of the disease, a Tulane university physician has reported.

Writing in a recent issue of the New Orleans Medical and Surgical Journal, Dr. W. D. Davis, Jr., reported that the disease can be diagnosed early but added that the great difficulty is discovering them among the patients in an office practice.

Dr. Davis' report was based on 50 cases during the past two years, which were selected among patients with liver disease who showed indications that would lead to advanced cirrhosis if not treated.

Therapeutic treatment consists of daily diet containing 150-200 grams of protein and 1200-4500 calories; initial bed rest for those patients with acute symptoms; supplementary vitamins in the form of yeast powder; and one multi-vitamin capsule daily.

All patients were forbidden alcoholic bevarages.

Of the 50 patients, Dr. Davis reported that 41 are well at present and are working fulltime. Only one, a completely uncooperative patient, failed to improve immediately, he added.

Thirty-three of the cases have been under observation for more than a year, and half of the group have been studied for two years. Forty men and 10 women, ranging in age from 30-62 years of age, made up the study group.

Dr. Davis, who is instructor in medicine in Tulane's school of medicine, reported further that only 15 patients in the group "were not classified as more than moderate drinkers." He added that "poor nutrition was an important factor in at least 45 of these patients."

Making Animals Healthy

Miracle drugs, only a short time ago rated more precious than gold because they were so scarce, are now being used to make farm animals healthy and fat. Recently published reports show that $1.60 worth of the new drugs along with $100 worth of regular feed can bring pigs and poultry to market much earlier than formerly. Cost of feeding pigs, it is claimed, can be cut because 30 to 50 pounds of feed per hundred pounds of pork would be saved. Proportionate savings are effected for turkeys and chickens.

This use of antibiotics for farm animals does not affect the availability of penicillin, aureomycin, terramycin, bacitracin, and the like, for humans, the reports indicate. After being used in the production of other antibiotics, broths that formerly went down the sewer are now salvaged for animal treatment.

Uncle Sam Says

Here is some sound advice—in making a regular purchase of U. S. Defense Bonds you help protect America, and help in making your dreams come true. May is Defense Bond Month. This is the month when you get out into the open and dream of those things you would like to have or to do. "If I only had the money" you say! Millions of Americans can give you the answer—"Sign up at your company's pay office for the regular purchase of Defense Bonds today."

HERE'S HOW TO MANAGE A MEMORABLE—

WEDDING RECEPTION AT HOME

Here's one time when your daughter won't be much help. She'll be in the clouds during her very special wedding reception, and it will be up to you to make it a lovely, memorable affair. You'll want things to run along so smoothly that you can enjoy the occasion to the utmost yourself.

The gracious custom of a wedding reception seems a challenging assignment to the mother of the bride, especially if she decides to offer the hospitality of her own home to the wedding party and guests.

A memorable wedding reception is no more than a well-planned formal tea or buffet, kindled to a very special warmth by the happiness of the occasion. That's the way Jewel Graham, Iowa State College extension nutritionist, looks at it.

Set a Lovely Table

Set your table with great care, and dan't be afraid to borrow the neighbor's silver or china, says Miss Graham. Very few women can set a table for a large reception with their own. Use fine china and glassware, no pottery. Spread your loveliest linen cloth—white is perfect, but a soft pastel would be almost as acceptable.

The wedding cake, nestled in a ring of flowers (delicate pink or white roses are fine) is often centerpiece enough. You may want to save those fragrant and colorful bouquets for side table and mantel to serve as "background music."

And having real background music is another suggestion. Use some special wedding peices and good classical records. Appoint kid brother official record player and selector, and be sure he plays the records softly enough to add atmosphere but not interfere with conversation.

Back to the table—if you are using a large central table and a smaller side table, arrange the tea and coffee service, dishes of cookies, nuts, sandwiches and other delicacies on the large table. Place plates, napkins and silver on the buffet or service table. Tall, glowing candles are a nice touch late in the day.

Serve Your Guests

Seat your guests in the dining room and adjoining rooms. If there are not enough chairs, just make certain elderly folks have a place to sit, preferably near small tables. Ask friends and relatives to act as hostesses and waitresses. It's an honor they'll readily accept. You'll need two hostesses to serve, seating one at each end of the central table.

After the bride and groom cut their piece of cake and eat it, hostesses and waitreses begin to serve the guests. Each waitress should take two plates from the side table to the central table to be served. Then she returns to the side table, places a fork on each plate, a napkin under the plate, and carries the plates to two guests. Coffee and tea or punch may be served immediately or with the cake later on, or both. Serve coffee cups from a tray. Another waitress follows with a tray containing cream, sugar and coffee spoons. Then nuts, candies, rolls and relishes are passed.

For a less formal reception, the guests may go to the central table to be served by the hostesses.

If You Serve Dessert Only

If you are simply serving a beverage, cake and ice cream, set the central table with tea or coffee service at one end and the punch bowl at the other. The waitress should place cake and ice cream on the plate, leaving room for the beverage glass or cup; then the hostessses at the table should serve the beverage, and the plate should be served to the guest by the waitress. Or serve the beverage at one end of the table, ice cream and cake at the other.

All of this takes planning—so plan far enough ahead so you can proceed with confidence and gracious calm.

Delinquency May Be Handled Best in Kindergarten Years

There are now two hundred and seventy thousand juvenile delinquents in the United States and more children are being added to the list daily, states an article in a recent issue of Woman's Home Companion.

To try to cure delinquency doesn't seem to work. It must be prevented. But how?

Phoebe Radcliffe, in her article "Criminal in the Kindergarten," tells of a revolutionary new method for discovering the delinquent when he first enters school—so that he might be treated then instead of catching up with him later when he may be beyond help.

The method has been developed by a man-and-wife team of eminent criminologists, Professor Sheldon Glueck and Dr. Eleanor Touroff Glueck, whose pioneering research at Harvard Law School has been published under the title "Unraveling Juvenile Delinquency."

Here's how the Glueck plan would be used in practice: Suppose there are fifty to sixty children coming into the first grade where the study is to be made. During the first few weeks the teacher allows the children a good deal of freedom in their choice of activities. Meanwhile she watches them and gradually sorts out possibly four troublesome ones.

They are given the Glueck tests. First, a skilled social worker visits the boy's home to look into his immediate environment and his relations with his parents. Second, a psychologist, trained in the Rorschach technique (analyzing interpretations of what a person sees in an ink-blot) administers the ink-blot test to determine the boy's basic character traits and deep-seated emotional drives. Third, a psychiatrist who knows and likes children interviews him to find out how he habitually reacts to everyday situations.

Spill

J. C. Lindaman, Cedar Falls fisherman, had a chilly experience while fishing at the hydro plant there. The turbines had just started as he fell into the tailrace, and the forceful current swept him from his feet. He plummeted down the chute into the turbulent tailrace. A companion extended a cane fishing pole and pulled him out.

Nothing butters like BUTTER. No wonder it's the symbol of good living in America. The appetite-tempting taste goodness of BUTTER is one of nature's matchless secrets. It can't be copied, for only BUTTER comes from the golden cream of milk—nature's most perfect food. Four full pints of rich cream go to make each pound of BUTTER. Use it in cooking to make good foods taste better . . . use it generously at the table, for nothing can take its place in food and flavor goodness.

Farm Sprayers

We hove been selling field sprayers ever since it was necessary for a farmer to have one. During this time we have sold a number of different makes, but we have found that the TWINDRAULIC in either the trailer, mounted, or the new boom-jet type give the farmer the most for the price. The lasf information from the factory is that there are still a few available. Don't wait any longer if you need a sprayer.

CUTWORMS THREATEN DAMAGE TO HANCOCK COUNTY CORNFIELDS

Reports of cutworm damage to young corn plants indicate that Hancock County farmers will be wise to keep watch for these pests, says Paul Henderson, Hancock County Extension Director.

Cut worm damage to young corn may or may not cause less yield, he says. If the plants are cut only once before they are 6 inches tall, they appear to recover with little loss.

Two pounds of actual toxaphene per acre--applied with airplane or ground equipment--will control the cutworms, Henderson reports. With a ground sprayer, treat a 12-inch strip right over each row. One treatment is enough.

Before you decide to treat, though, figure how much potential loss you face, how long the cutworms will continue to feed and how much loss of stand you can take. It never pays to treat unless you can expect to more than recover the cost of the treatment, Henderson emphasizes.

Iowa State College entomologists say there are three species of cutworms that may be active in Iowa. The black cutworm is found all over the state. Flooded bottom lands may be infested by the overflow cutworm, and the glossy cutworm is most common in northern Iowa. The glossy species is more nearly subterranean than the others and therefore harder to kill.

SIXTEEN YEAR OLD THOMAS SHOOP VICTIM OF DROWNING

Greiman Sand Pit Southwest Of Klemme Scene Of Tragedy Sunday

Thomas Shoop, 16-year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Sibert Shoop, farmers on the Dr. D. P. Anderson farm southwest of Klemme, died by drowning early Sunday afternoon in the Grieman sand pit three miles southwest of Klemme Sunday.

Thomas, accompanied by his brother, Douglas and Calvin and Marvin Sandrey, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Sandrey, had gone to the gravel pit to swim early Sunday afternoon. The gravel pit had been a popular swimming place for the boys. The recent rains had raised the water level in the pit and young Thomas got into deeper water and was not too good a swimmer. He might have had a cramp which caused him to become panicky when he called for help. His companions had to swim across the pond to reach him and one of the boys himself nearly drowned in the attempt to rescue Thomas.

Help was summoned from town and "Pete" Kilgore and Chas. Whitford were the first to arrive and immediately started searching for the missing boy. They were soon joined by Claude White, expert swimmer and a former life-saver and life guard.

Others who arrived later were Wallace Green of Klemme; Lloyd Anderson and Sheriff Brower of Garner, a life saving squad from the Belmond fire department and a local doctor. Young Shoop was found after about an hour of searching and was brought to the surface by Claude White. He had been under water too long to be revived by the doctor and the pulmotor brought from Belmond.

Coroner Kenneth Boughton of Britt pronounced death was caused by accidential drowning. The body was brought in the ambulance to the Wellemyer funeral service in Klemme.

It was the sixth time that Claude White had taken a drowning victim from the water. Only one of the six, he said was revived after the accident.

Funeral Today At Methodist

Funeral services were held this Wednesday afternoon at the Klemme Methodist Church with Rev. E. M. Egeland giving the sermon. Arrangements were in charge of the Wellemeyer Funeral Service and burial was in the Ell Township Cemetery.

Thomas was carried to his final resting place by Graydon Barz, Doyce Mickelson, Lee Gruis, Harry Anderson, Terry Koerner and Calvin Sandrey.

Mrs. Nels Back Died Suddenly Sunday Eve At Belmond Hospital

Farm Woman Near Klemme Succumbs

Funeral services for Mrs. Nels Back were held today, Wednesday at 1:30 p.m. at the Fulton Funeral Home at Belmond and at 2 p.m. at St. John's Lutheran Church, Belmond, with burial in Memorial Park Cemetery at Mason City.

Mrs. Back had not been in good health for the past 2 years and suffered a severe stroke about 9 a.m. Sunday while alone in the house while Mr. Back was out in the yard. Her daughter, Mrs. Francis Dahlstrom, and family of Mason City came to spend the day and found her unconscious on the kitchen floor. She was taken via ambulance to the Belmond Hospital and died early Sunday evening.

Mrs. Back's original home was Blairstown, coming to Garner where she married Nels Back and where they farmed for years.

Some Twenty years ago they purchased the Roscoe Wiles farm three miles southeast of Klemme which has since been their home. She leaves her husband, daughter, Mrs. Dahlstrom, a sister, Mrs. Frank Hoyt of Garner, and two grandchildren Jeffry and Celane Dahlstrom of Mason City.

PROS AND CONS ON THE NEW SIZE OF THE TIMES

At least the new size which the Klemme Times has used the past three issues is causing comment, some good and some bad. But the majority like the new size.

One lady said she didn't like the small size and asked why she said, "Because after reading the paper I spread it on the kitchen floor so grease won't spatter my new linoleum. I liked the bigger size because it spread out easier." We will be glad to help the lady out, she can have a bundle of old newspapers which we would otherwise burn.

Another person, a farmer, said he thought is was another circular in the mail and threw it away. Anyway it made him mad, so he stopped the paper. (Incidently he was in arrears on his subscription and he hated like sin to cough up the dough.)

One lady said she preferred the big size paper. Asked why she said, "I don't know, I just like the old size better." Several more had the same reason, just liked the old size better.

A great many said they liked the new size better because it was easier to handle, it was easier to read and a few stated they liked the looks of the advertising as it did not clutter up.

Several were glad we are again printing the funny section and the cross-word puzzle each week. They said they really missed the funnies at first.

Most of the advertisers, in fact one hundred percent of the ones we contacted said they liked the new size better, as their ads were better displayed, they showed up better and seemed more attractive.

But, we are telling all you folks, readers and advertisers alike, that you are just plumb lucky to have a newspaper in a town the size of Klemme. Not many small towns in Iowa, or other states for that matter, can boast of having a newspaper.

Here's one more complaint that's a dilly: "I like the bigger size because I used it for cutting out dress patterns. I'm a fairly large woman and need big patterns." If the lady will stop in we will give her a supply of print paper and send her away happy!

America's Three Largest Birds Clinging to Last Wilderness

In wilderness sanctuaries from the Gulf coast of Texas to the Pacific, the United States is fighting to save its three largest birds from the dodo's fate.

Trumpeter swans, their haunting sky song echoing like French horns over Montana's Red Rock Lakes National Wildlife Refuge and neighboring Yellowstone Park, are slowly winning their uphill race against extinction. Closer to oblivion are the nation's few remaining whooping cranes and the last 60-odd California condors still in existence.

These are the B-36's of the bird world. The trumpeter swan is considered the heaviest, the whooping crane the tallest, and the California condor as having the widest wingspread of any North American wildfowl. They are also, with but two possible exceptions, the rarest birds on the continent.

Sixteen years ago, only 73 trumpeters were known to nest in the U.S. Fashion's demand for swan plumage, together with drainage and plowing of frontier nesting grounds, virtually wiped out the 30-pound birds in the latter 1800's.

Last summer, wildlife biologists and refuge managers counted 535 trumpeters in Montana and Wyoming. With two to three times that many believed to be in Canada and Alaska, more of the snow-white, black-billed trumpeters are living today than at any time in the last 50 years.

Flying the continent like long-range bombers from still-undiscovered breeding grounds far to the north, coming high and fast with white bodies o f f s e t by jet-black wingtips and crimson heads, the six-foot-long whoopers are second only to the ivory-billed woodpecker, and possibly the long-unreported Eskimo curlew, in the fewness of their numbers.

Each year they return to Aransas. Last winter, harried by a severe Texas drought, only 32 were counted. The year before there had been 37.

Milk Sheds Supply Cities From Huge Dairy Yields

Enough milk was produced in the United States in 1951 to have filled a river 3,000 miles long, 40 feet wide, and three feet deep.

The river has nearly 25 million sources—the number of cows milked during the year on U. S. farms. It flows at an annual rate of 56 billion quarts, a quart a day for every man, woman, and child in the country.

From farm to housewife's refrigerator, this tremendous flood of milk and milk products moves in channels that could be drawn on a map. Such a U.S. milk map would resemble a series of spider webs spun around each city and town in the country.

Each tangled web would cover an area which dairymen call a "milk shed," much as geographers term the boundaries of a drainage system a "watershed." Around the largest cities of America are the great milk sheds of the world.

Long before cities are awake each day, milk is moving in the supply lines which form the milk sheds. From the slow beat of milking machines to the clink of paper-capped bottles on the nation's doorsteps, one of the world's fastest distribution systems is in operation.

Rigid health and legal standards determine the pattern of milk supply. F e d e r a l marketing orders, State milk legislation and municipal health departments control the manner in which the "most nearly perfect food" is produced and sold, and hence define, to a large extent, the size and shape of the milk sheds.

Chicago, crossroad of the nation's railroads and of much of its food, receives its milk from a dairying area which extends like a giant button hook down the length of Wisconsin to curl around the tip of Lake Michigan.

CHECK EVERGREENS FOR RED SPIDER DAMAGE

Extensive red spider damage on evergreens has been reported from all sections of Iowa, according to Harold Gunderson, extension entomologist at Iowa State College. The spiders are very small, 8-legged, yellowish-red mites that work on evergreens of all kinds.

The mites feed by sucking sap from needles, causing weakened trees that may die when the weather gets hot and dry. Infected needles are brittle and break off easily. Some look white or light green, but in heavier infestations there is a bronzing effect and the mite webbing can be easily seen,

To determine whether an evergreen is infested, Gunderson suggests holding a branch up against the light and looking for mites as they crawl among the webs. Another way is to strike a tip of one branch sharply on a piece of white paper. This knocks the mites onto the paper where they can be seen.

Since damage is most severe in hot, dry weather, some control can be obtained by watering evergreens thoroughly and frequently. A small stream of water directed on the tree several times a week will wash off many red spiders, too, Gunderson says.

Positive control can be obtained by spraying with nicotine sulfate. Two tablespoons of 40 percent nicotine sulfate and 1 ounce of laundry soap per gallon of water will kill red spiders. The same spray repels dogs from evergreens. A tree 3 feet in diameter and 6 feet high will require 3 to 4 gallons of spray.

Other chemicals that give good control are Aramite, rotenone dusts and lime sulfur. Two gallons of liquid lime sulfur in 98 gallons of water is a cheap and effective solution. Rotenone dusts containing 0.75 to 1.0 percent rotenone are effective and easy to use on small shrubs around the home. Aramite, mixed and applied according to manufacturer's directions, also does a good job, Gunderson reorts.

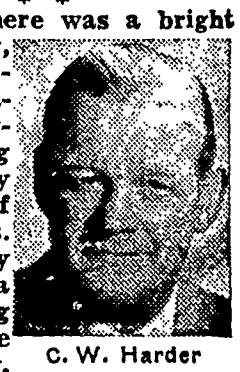
WASHINGTON AND "SMALL BUSINESS"

By C. WILSON HARDER

Let it never be said that the Office of Price Administration, sometimes known as OPS, sometimes known as Office Plenty Screwy, is ever caught napping. No, sir, those people are worth every cent of the $77 million dollars they are costing the nation's taxpayers a year.

* * *

Recently, there was a bright April morning, and not a mimeograph machine was whirring or turning out the daily tonnage of press releases. It was pretty glum for such a bright morning in the Office Plenty Screwy.



C. W. Harder

The situation was critical, but then as in all times of bureaucratic crisis, a genius arose. Orders were relayed, department heads were alerted to spring into action.

* * *

And chaos was turned into victory that recent bright April morn. An order was written.

It is known as CPA 22, Amendment No. 45. What does it do? It establishes price ceilings on Christmas tree lights, and what's more, it freezes the price in use prior to January 25, 1951, effective as of April 12, 1952.

* * *

Then with this tremendous decision reached, and with creative fever still at a white hot pitch, the Office Plenty Screwy ended the day on a note of high level activity.

So out from conferences came the momentous decision that canned Maine soft shell clams are now exempt from price control, provided they are soft shell, and strictly from Maine. And OPS explains this decision with the notation that releasing soft shell clams should have little or no effect on the cost of living.

It is reported that the Office Plenty Screwy made the move on Christmas Tree lights solely because a brother bureau, the MSA, successor to the Marshall Plan, has been getting all the glory for beng Santa Claus' little helper. The OPS wanted Santa Claus to know that they, too, stand strictly with him.

That was because just a few days before, the MSA gave away $29,294,000 worth of materials to Europe, including $700,000 worth of scarce paper to France. In fact, France did quite well, getting slightly more than $14 million for the homeland, another $2-⅛ million for her colonies.

* * *

But of course, other nations weren't left out either. The land of sweetness and democratic principles under Dictator Tito, Yugoslavia, got quite a big load of coal, shipped from the U. S., France got over a million dollars worth of copper stripped from the U. S. limited stockpiles, and Greece got a half million dollars worth of coffee.

But in addition to raw materials, Europe is now receiving millions of dollars worth of U. S. manufactured goods almost every day such as motors, tractors, engines, other apparatus.

And from all over Europe come reports of mounting unemployment in European industrial centers because of surpluses.

It seems the European cartel industries cannot afford to hire labor to build equipment and machinery, when they can get it for little or nothing through the generosity of the U. S. It is becoming more and more apparent that while at home bureaucrats engage their time on trivia such as Christmas tree lights in April, and soft shell clams, the U. S. has yet to come to grips with the crux of both the domestic and foreign problem which is the rapid growth of monopoly and cartel systems.

THE FARM OUTLOOK

By Paul Henderson, County Extension Director

There'll be enough corn on hand this summer to feed cattle and hogs through to heavier weights this fall. But Iowa cattle and hog producers will be in trouble if a lot of corn isn't cribbed by October.

That's the feed picture for Iowa farmers this summer, according to Francis Kutish and Gordon Bivens, extension farm economists at Iowa State College.

The recent hog price has sweetened the hog-corn ratio, says Kutish. And many farmers are wondering if it's wise to carry hogs to heavier weights. Prospects also are good for cattle feeders, and prices this summer and early fall indicate short feeding might be profitable.

Corn On Hand

Nearly 1.5 billion bushels of corn were on hand last April. This included corn stored on farms and that stored in Commodity Credit Corporation bins.

These holdings, however, were the smallest since 1948 for the half-way point in the feeding year. A little over 1.7 billion bushels had been used before April, which is about 150 million bushels more than that used the year before

From this reserve of 1.5 billion bushels stored, Kutish reports farmers will feed about 1 billion between now and Oct. 1. This means a 400 to 500 million bu. carry-over the smallest carry-over since 1948.

The supply of corn received by individual farmers will depend on the CCC's policy of selling corn to farmers who need feed. CCC has been the chief supplier of commercial corn in recent weeks.

Situation Tight

The situation is tight enough that bad weather could drive up the price of corn this summer. But if we have good weather, corn supplies now on hand seem ample enough to encourage feeding livestock to heavier weights this summer and early fall.

For cattle prices, for example, continue to be under downward pressure. Higher grade, heavier cattle now are in a price squeeze, with lower price margins between prime and commercial grades.

When the numbers of fat cattle marketed begin to fall off, Binvens expects a widening of the margin between grades—with higher grades showing strength. This means a short cattle feeding operation is possible, but the economist recommends marketing short fed cattle early this fall.

the Highway Story

IOWA DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC SAFETY

BY RAY EASTMAN

Three miles out of town, just as the first dishwater light of dawn was mixing in the west, a young man driving home from an all-night dance, closed his eyes and went to sleep.

Ten minutes later, a highway patrolman awakened to the ringing of his telephone and listened to the night marshal's quick report of a "bad one about three miles out."

"Call Doc and tell him to grab his bag and be on his corner in five minutes." The patrolman said. "I'll pick you up coming through town." Five minutes later, a racing patrol car skidded to two quick stops in town and roared out onto the highway.

The patrolman had hardly finished his radio call for an ambulance and a wrecker before they sighted the scrambled wreck of the car, piled against a bridge abutment.

The driver was alive and conscious but horribly injured. The Doctor reached through the broken window and gave him a shot in the neck, then the patrolman and the marshall started breaking into the twisted wreck with crowbars.

They had just cleared a way to the driver when the ambulance pulled up and the doctor and the victim were on their way to the nearest hospital. Two more patrolmen arrived just ahead of the wrecker and took charge while the first patrolman sped back to town.

Then he roused the minister of the victim's church and took him to the home of boy's parents to break the news. Since he had blood on his uniform, the patrolman stayed in the car.

When the dazed parents stumbled out of their house and into their own car, the patrolman led them quickly through early morning traffic to the hospital. They were there a half hour before their son died. The patrolman drove on home to change clothes and get ready to go on duty for the day.

Hancock Board Okays Gravel Letting Plan

Hancock County Supervisors this week approved the report of County Engineer Charles F. Merten recommending a letting on the surfacing of certain Hancock County roads to gravel.

The project is to include those miles of local and trunk roads from the 1951 program which were not completed last year because of bad weather and the roads on the 1952 program.

The letting will be held at the courthouse in Garner at 1:30 p.m., July 2 and entails the crushing and loading of approximately 25,000 cubic yards of gravel and 350,000 units haul. The surfacing and resurfacing will be done on approximately 60 miles of local and trunk highway.

Klemme Women Attend Mason City Junior College

The following four ladies from Klemme are among the record breaking enrollment of 84 in the Mason City Junior College summer school for teachers:

Miss Helen Albers, Mrs. Noreen Barkema, Mrs. Aileen Burgess and Mrs. Helen Stille.

All of the courses offered in the Junior College summer session are required for the standard elementary certificate. Teachers who are enrolled are working toward raising the rating of their certificates and to renew certificates.

This is the fifth summer session for the teachers-in-service which has been held in this institution.

The Mason City Junior College is fully accredited by the Iowa Department of Public Instruction, The Iowa Board of Educational Examiners and the North Central Association of Colleges to offer these courses.

LEE RIDDER'S NASH NOW 29 YEARS OLD, RUNS GOOD

L. A. Ridder's snappy looking old Nash Touring car was 29 years old on Tuesday, June 10th and to celebrate the event Lee got the old car out of the garage and drove it around town.

The car still has the original paint and looks mighty bright. The engine runs perfectly and the car is in good mechanical condition throughout.

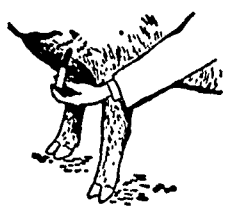
WHAT ABOUT BRUCELLOSIS?

Q: Are swine brucellosis and cattle brucellosis caused by the same germs?

A: No, though the germs are closely related.

Q: Can swine brucellosis appear in human beings, too?

A: Yes, in humans it is called undulant fever. Farmers can get the disease when handling infected animals at farrowing time or by contact with infected meat at butchering time.



Q: How does swine brucellosis act?

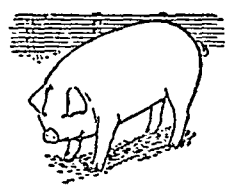
A: It may cause brood sows to farrow stillborn or weak pigs. The germ may also cause damage to boars.

Q: How can the owner be sure the trouble is brucellosis and not some other breeding disease?

A: The only way is to have a veterinarian check the herd and take blood samples for laboratory tests.

Q: If brucellosis is found, what can be done?

A: If the infected herd is a commercial one, infected breeding stock should be finished and sent to slaughter. In cases where the owner wants to preserve breeding lines, the pigs should be segregated at weaning time. Pigs from infected sows can be kept on clean ground and given periodic blood tests to weed out diseased animals.



Q: How can pig raisers keep this disease out of their herds?

A: Breeding stock should be bought only from herds known to be free of brucellosis. If in doubt, owners should isolate newly purchased animals and have them blood tested.

Q: Can brucellosis be cured?

A: No known drug or combination of drugs will cure brucellosis in swine.

MORE IOWA DAIRYMAN PRODUCE GRADE A MILK

Demand for milk for beverage purposes is increasing as more and more Iowa dairyman qualify as producers of grade A milk, complying with state and Federal standards, according to A. W. Rudnick, dairy industry specialist at Iowa State College. month of June as National Dairy Month in recognition of the achievement of goals of the dairy industry.

More producers in the surplus milk-producing areas where there are large dairy herds but few cities, are showing an interest in finding ways to ship grade A milk to distant markets. use of dust-proof enclosed trucks to pick up cream and

Nearly all Iowa creameries are picking up cream in dust-proof trucks, Rudnick says. The milk has been increasing for the last 4 or 5 years, and is adding to the satisfaction of consumers of dairy products.

Creameries are recognizing, Rudnick says, that a truck used to haul other material must be throughly washed before it is used to haul milk. Even though the milk is in closed cans, there will be more sediment in it if it is hauled in an unscrubbed truck. The creameries are insisting on sediment-free milk, Rudnick reports.

A creamery at Sanborn, Iowa, has met the demands of the high producing grade-A dairyman in its area and the demands of city customers by carrying milk from the producer's farm in a clean tank-truck directly to processors in the Sioux City area. It is a long haul, but it is paying the creamery and the dairyman. The grade A milk finds a ready market with city processors, Rudnick says.

Creameries at Cresco, Guthrie Center and Hampton are among those which have similiar plans under consideration.

The tank-truck delivery plan is moving ahead, as more farmers line up as grade A producers and the city demands increases accordingly.

Obituary Of Thomas Earl Shoop

On Sunday, June 15, 1952, just after dinner, four young men went for a swim in the gravel pit on the William F. Greiman farm in Twin Lake Township, southwest of Klemme. They were Douglas and Thomas Shoop and Calvin and Marvin Sandrey.

Because of the recent heavy rains, the water was deeper than usual, and Thomas Shoop got into the deep water, went down and failed to come up. His companions tried to reach him but failed. None were experienced swimmers.

They called to a passing motorist for help, who drove to the Wm. Lacey farm home and used the phone to summon help from town.

A number of men from Klemme hastened to the trouble spot. Included were Dr. Dulmes, "Pete" Kilgore, Charles Whitford, Claude White, Fred J. Arnold, Bert Jones, Wallace Green and others. Dr. Ruska and a life-saving squad from the Belmond Fire Company also arrived. Later Sheriff L. M. Brouwer and Lloyd Anderson from Garner and Coroner Boughton from Britt and the ambulance arrived.

It was an hour and a half that the young man lay under water seven feet deep.. When retrieved the doctors and helpers used the pulmotor and other means, but the victim failed to revive.

And thus, the life story of Thomas Earl Shoop came to an untimely end.

He was born November 21, 1935 in Maywood, California, the second of four children born into the home of Sibert E. and Rose Howard Shoop.

The family moved to Clear Lake in 1938, and then for a half dozen years they lived in Central Heights, Mason City. Since 1947 the family has lived near Klemme on the Dr. D. P. Anderson farm.

Thomas was a pleasant young man; had a smile for everyone. He will be missed at the fireside of the Sibert Shoop home; he will be missed by the Freshman class of the Klemme high school; and will be missed by his classmates and teachers in the Klemme Methodist Sunday school.

He reached the age of 16 years, 6 months and 24 days. and leaves besides his parents one brother and two sisters: Douglas, Blanche and Barbara, all at home;

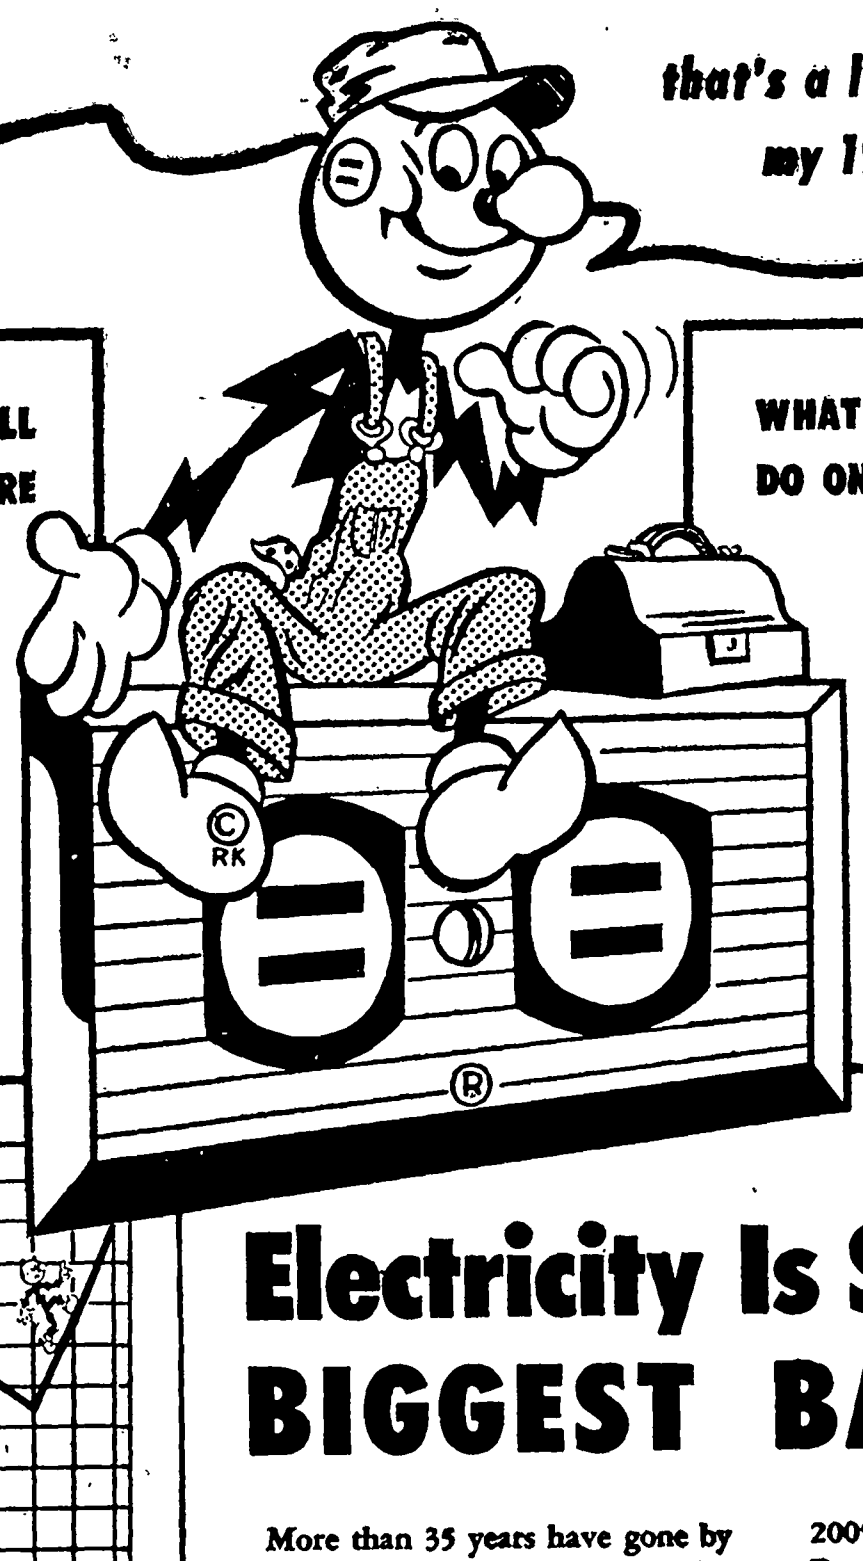
Three grand parents: Mr. and Mrs. Claude Shoop, and Mrs. Minnie Howard, all of Clear Lake;

Four aunts. Ardella Yule, Mason City; Mrs. Orton Olson, Wisconsin; Mrs. Ralph Ott, Clear Lake; and Mrs. J. L. Duncan, Clear Lake.

Four uncles: Harold Shoop, Klemme; Cecil and Harry Shoop, Clear Lake; and Ray Howard, Wisconsin, and other more distant relatives and friends.

I'M ABLE TO DO THE BIGGER JOB YOU NEED WITH A 1/4¢ AN HOUR RAISE

that's a little less than my 1947 wage

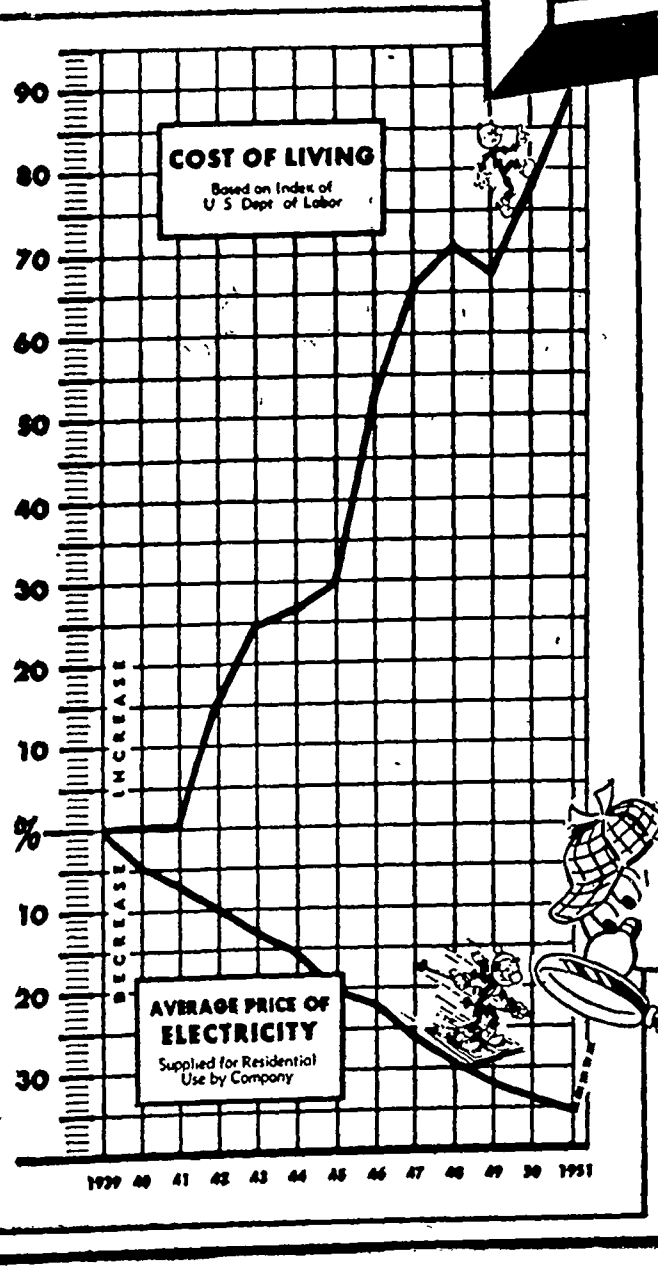


WHAT THE NEW RATES WILL DO TO PROTECT YOUR FUTURE

They will enable my boss to show prospective investors that their money will earn fair returns. By granting Reddy higher wages, you assure a $30,000,000 expansion program that is in motion. It will mean more comfort and convenience in your All-Electric future.

WHAT THE NEW RATES WILL DO ON YOUR ELECTRIC BILL

Reddy is asking only for the same wages he was receiving in 1947...an increase of about 8⅓%. That is still lower than the cost of electricity in 1940. The proposed new rates will cost the average residential customer about 10c per week over the present price.



Electricity Is Still Your BIGGEST BARGAIN!

More than 35 years have gone by since Reddy was forced to ask for his last rate increase in 1917. Since then, he has been able to reduce his rates in 1932, 1939 and 1945. Reddy has fought hard to hold his prices down...but his "cost of living" has gone up even higher than yours. His fuel bill is up over 100% and his taxes are up 200%, just to mention two items. But by sound business management and by using more efficient methods in generating electricity, Reddy needs only a ¼c an hour raise to do the many jobs you ask of him. Yes, Reddy is proud that electricity is Still your Biggest Bargain...the one bright spot in your family budget.

OFFICIAL COUNTY PAPER | KLEMME, IOWA, JUNE 25, 1952 | Volume No. 57 Number 32

Two-Dollar Bills Demostrate How Important Dairy Industry Is In Iowa

Residents of the Klemme area who have noted the unusual supply of $2.00 bills now beginning to circulate in ,Iowa will be interested to know that these are "Lucky Dairy Dollars," brought into the state as part of the program sponsored by the Iowa June Dairy Month committee.

According to John Brockway, chairman, dairy processors through-out Iowa are paying both employees and milk and cream producers in two-dollar bills, in order to provide concrete evidence of the importance of this major industry to all Iowa business. Through the efforts of Brockway and the other members of the state advisory committee - John Quist, Frank Barker, Earl Mason and Win Hanssen—the majority of the state's processors have agreed to cooperate during one or two weeks of June Dairy month.

The committee estimates that about one-third of the $39,000,000 monthly income received from Iowa dairy products will be distributed this June in the form of two dollar bills. These bills are expected to pass quickly from the hands of employees and producers into the cash registers of retailers and other business men throughout the state providing a dramatic illustration of the importance of Dairying to every resident of Iowa.

Retail Value Of Iowa Milk

Brockway's estimate of the total monetary value of Iowa's dairy industry is based upon the 1950 retail value of dairy products manufactured in Iowa:

Butter	$140,000,000.00
Milk	82,175,000.00
Cheese	4,000,000.00
Ice Cream	25,000,000.00
Dairy Products for Farm Use	16,593,000.00
Spray Dried Milk	1,419,010.00
Rolled Dried Milk	979,200.00
Dried Buttermilk	652,160.00
Evaporated Milk	6,135,450.00
Dairy Cattle and Calves sold to Packers (retail)	192,300,500.00
Cottage Cheese	3,000,000.00
Plastic Cream	500,000.00
Total	$472,754,320.00

Cash Farm Income Still High

Out of the total dairy income shown above, approximately $159,555,000 went into the pockets of Iowa farmers as cash receipts for milk, cream and butter sold, while about $16,593,000 worth of dairy products were consumed on the farms where they originate, for family use and livestock feed.

A conservative estimate shows that approximately one of every 15 dollars of Iowa cash farm income can be traced to operation of the dairy industry. Iowa farmers have a big stake in the continuation of this income.

Aonther important factor in the dairy industry which Iowa farmers cannot afford to overlook, is the place of the dairy cow in modern conservation efforts. Agricultural experts agree that dairying is the most profitable way to use many forage crops. Substantial acreages of grass or hay, in turn are essentials to a sound land-use program which protects and preserves the fertility of farm lands.

The dairy cow is the most efficient machine yet discovered to convert grass into nutritiaus tasty, low-cost food. For that reason alone, Iowa will continue to be a leading dairy state.

ALUMNI BANQUET LARGEST EVER HELD HERE

The Annual K. H. S. Alumni Banquet was held at the school gym Friday evening with a record attendance—over 150 persons being present.

A good variety program of musical numbers and comedy skits was enjoyed by the large crowd. Ernie Gerardi acted as master of ceremonies for the evening.

An election of officers was held with Kenneth Kluckhohn named as president for the coming year; Harold Kothenbeutel, vice-president and Mrs. Donald Bacon, secretary and treasurer.

BURNED

Marvin Van Sickler and Roy Schewmake were badly burned near Guthrie Center recently. They were filling a tractor with gasoline from two barrels, when the gas caught fire and the barrels exploded. Both men were drenched with burning gasoline.

Ventura Lutheran Church Chosen As Setting For Wedding Ceremony

ALBERS AND MEYER CEREMONY HELD AT VENTURA JUNE 15

One of the prettiest weddings ever to be held in the Redeemer Lutheran Church was performd June 15th at 2:30 P. M., when Miss Marilyn Mae Meyer daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Meyer of Ventura, became are bride Carrol Lyn Albers of Garner. The double ring ceremony was performed by Rev. W. T. Wolfram.

The church was beautifully decorated with palms, huge baskets of white gladiola, white blue and yellow dasies and carnations at the altar. The isle was decorated with baskets of flowers and the pews were tied with bouquets of blue and yellow daisies. A white carpet was laid the full length of the isle.

A prelude of nuptial music was played and before the ceremony, Mrs. Herbert Nichols sang "At Dawning" and "Because," at the close of the ceremony she sang, 'The Lord's Prayer," Miss Gwen Johnson accompaning.

Miss Bonnie Meyer, sister of the bride was maid of honor and the bridesmaids were Miss Janice Meyer, Miss Mary Jo Hoel and Miss Connie Albers.

The bride entered on the arm of her father, who gave her in marriage, wore a white satin gown trimmed in imported Chantelly lace, fitted bodice, long sleeves, yoke of Nylon net, and a long senior train. Her veil was of Nylon net held by a crown of Chantelly lace trimmed with seed pearls and rhinestones. She carried a bouquet of pink roses and wore a double strand pearl necklace.

The Maid of Honor, Miss Bonnie Meyer, wore a strapless blue Nylon net ballerina length formal over blue satin with a blue nylon stole and blue nylon hat.

The three bridesmaids wore orchid Nylon net ballerina length formals over orchid satin with orchid net hats. All dresses were identical and each attendant carried a colonial basket of gladioli, white, blue and yellow daisies. Each bridesmaid wore rhinestone earrings, a gift of the bride.

Gene Albers, brother of the groom was best man, with Wavel Schaefer, Leland Hummel and Alvin Meyer, Jr. as attendants.

The ushers were Darwin Wille and James Meyer.

The groom, attendants, and ushers wore white dinner jackets, black trousers, white shirts and black bow ties. Each had a carnation boutonniere.

Mrs. Meyer, mother of the bride, wore pink linen and lace with white accessories.

Mrs. Albers mother of the groom, wore gray Chantelly lace over pink taffeta with white accessories. Each had corsages of white gladiola and red roses.

Mrs. Geisler, grandmother of the bride wore blue silk print with pink and white carnation corsage.

Mrs. Frances Swalve, grandmother of the groom, wore blue and pink print with pink and white carnation corsage.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the church parlors. The brides table was decorated with baskets of flowers. The 3-tiered wedding cake was trimmed in pink and white topped with a minature bride and groom. The cake was surrounded with white and yellow roses and fern leaves. A dainty luncheon was served during the reception.

Mrs. Vic Meyer, aunt of the bride and Mrs. Walter Lauster, aunt of the groom poured. Miss Helen Albers had charge of the guest book. Each had a pink and white carnation corsage.

The brides classmates were in charge of the gifts..

For going away the bride chose a white Panama Linen Suit, blue and white linen shoes, gloves and purse with a corsage of pink roses.

The groom wore a light tan sport coat, copper trousers and beige shoes.

The bride is a graduate of the Ventura High School and the groom a graduate of the Klemme High School.

A group of 400 attended the reception.

After they return from their honeymoon they will be at home in their own house on the Alvin Meyer farm.

Dairy Month Proclamation

WHEREAS, this state is profoundly interested in the health and strength of all its citizens and the economic welfare of the state itself, and

WHEREAS, milk, which is recognized as nature's most nearly perfect food, is of vital and increasing importance to the universal well being of persons of all ages, and

WHEREAS, America's vast dairy industry constantly strives, through the cooperation of science and the medical professions, to do an even better job of directly raising the standards of the health of all of us, and

WHEREAS, the dairy industry, with 10 million Americans wholly dependent upon it and its allied industries for livelihood, is of dominant interest to all United States citizens and indirectly is of priceless interest to the people of all other lands, and

WHEREAS, the dairy industry annually observes the month of June as the time when the superlative health and life-continuing values of milk and dairy foods may be stressed, because June is the month when the abundance of Nature is emphasized and our dairy herds achieve their most plentiful and best production,

NOW THEREFORE, I, Wm. S. Beardsley, Governor of the State of Iowa, in full appreciation of the opportunities herein presented for constructive public service, do hereby proclaim the period of June, 1952, as and do urge civic business associations to cooperate in its observance, both in public and in private, in order to increase our appreciation of milk and dairy foods to the end that our health may be improved, our financial well-being increased, and our gratitude to the Great Giver expressed.

In Testimony Whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused to be affixed the Great Seal of the State of Iowa. Done at Des Moines this fifth day of May in the year of Our Lord One Thousand Nine Hundred and Fifty-two, of the State of Iowa the One Hundred-Fifth, and of the Independence of the United States the One Hundred and Seventy-fifth.

SEAL

WM. S. BEARDSLEY, Governor.

THE FARM OUTLOOK

By Paul Henderson, County Extension Director

On this year's corn crop will hinge the profits Iowa cattle feeders will receive this fall and early winter, according to Francis Kutish, extension farm economist at Iowa State College.

This year's crop has come along in good shape, so let's look at what's likely to happen if Iowa farmers crib plenty of corn.

The last time that we had a big corn crop following a short one was 1948. At that time, Kutish reports, short term cattle feeders got into the game. Although it looked risky at first, it turned out that those who sold by September made quite a profit.

By mid-winter of 1948, lots of cattle were handled on short feed. But short feeders who marketed cattle in late 1948 were caught in a price squeeze. The average price of choice feeders at Omaha, for example, fell from $29.25 in the first week in October to $22.25 by mid-February, 1949.

Picture This Fall

Turning to this fall's picture, the economist reports we have more cattle in the country now than a year ago. Beef numbers are at an all-time high. Numbers are high enough that we are bound to get more feeder cattle on the market than last fall. And if pastures are poor this fall, we may get a lot more.

If feeders flood the market with short-fed steers, slaughter may not be as large in December and January as in the past year. This, combined with an expected lower pork consumption this fall and winter, might help beef prices some at that time.

Corn Will Boost Demand

A good corn crop this year probably will boost feeder cattle demands. Kutish says if we have a good corn crop, farmers probably can count on corn selling at loan level—which is around $1.50 per bushel. If the crop is poor, demand for feeders will lag, and this could produce a sharp drop in feeder cattle prices this fall.

Summing it up, Kutish predicts a normal seasonal drop in feeder cattle prices this fall. It's too early to tell whether it will come early or late. Buying ahead of this expected seasonal price decline does not seem wise. But if the seasonal drop comes early, we might get some late seasonal price recovery—especially if business is strong, the corn crop is good and there isn't a glut of short-fed cattle on the market.

MILK PRODUCTION REMAINS STABLE

Decrease 1 Per Cent From 1950

Milk production in the United States during 1951 showed a slight decrease of 1 per cent from 1950 figures, continuing a trend toward relatively stable production since the end of World War II. Although the number of cows milked declined steadily in the five years preceding 1949, the average production per cow showed a 27 percent increase. The result has been comparatively stable production at an annual rate of a little under 120,000,000,000 lbs.

Production Per Cow Still High

In spite of such adverse conditions as relatively high prices for meat animals and other farm cash crops, and the availability of non-farm opportunities for dairy farm labor, this high level of production has been achieved by generally high rates of concentrate feeding and close culling of dairy herds to improve the quality of stock.

As a result of these various improvement factors, vast numbers of dairy cattle are no longer the answer to maximum milk production. Production per cow currently is running in the neighborhood of 5300 pounds—as compared with a 1948 average of slightly more than 5000 pounds per cow, and a 1934 figure of approximately 4100 pounds. Iowa cows have always topped the nation's average per cow production.

It's time to start thinning out the vegetable seedlings in your garden, say extension horticulturists at Iowa State College.

You get
MORE TRUCK FOR THE MONEY
when you buy on the plain hard facts!

Fact No. 1

Model for model—costs less

Stack up a Chevrolet truck against any other truck with comparable specifications, capable of handling the same payloads. You'll find the Chevrolet truck lists for less and brings you great features.

Fact No. 2

Mile after mile at rock bottom cost

Truck users everywhere have proved that Chevrolet costs the least of all to own and maintain. Valve-in-Head economy, in the Loadmaster or Thriftmaster engines, saves on gas.

Fact No. 3

Right truck for the job saves money

Chevrolet trucks are factory-matched to your payload requirements. You don't waste money by buying "too much truck"—you don't risk work interruption by buying "too little truck."

Fact No. 4

Lower, slower depreciation

Records show that Chevrolet trucks traditionally bring more at resale than any other make which costs about the same new. The market value of Chevrolet trucks stays up because the value stays in.

(Continuation of standard equipment and trim illustrated is dependent on availability of material.)

CHEVROLET

FAMOUS NEGRO TEAM TO PLAY SOFT BALL HERE SUNDAY

The Klemme soft ball team has scheduled a game with the Famous Des Moines Hot-N-Tots Negro ball team for a game here this week Sunday starting at 2:30 o'clock.

The colored boys feature such stars as Johnny Bright, Drake's All-American and the Nation's best ground gainer in football last year. They also feature Bill Green, Reggie Williams, softball's greatest showman, as well as several others.

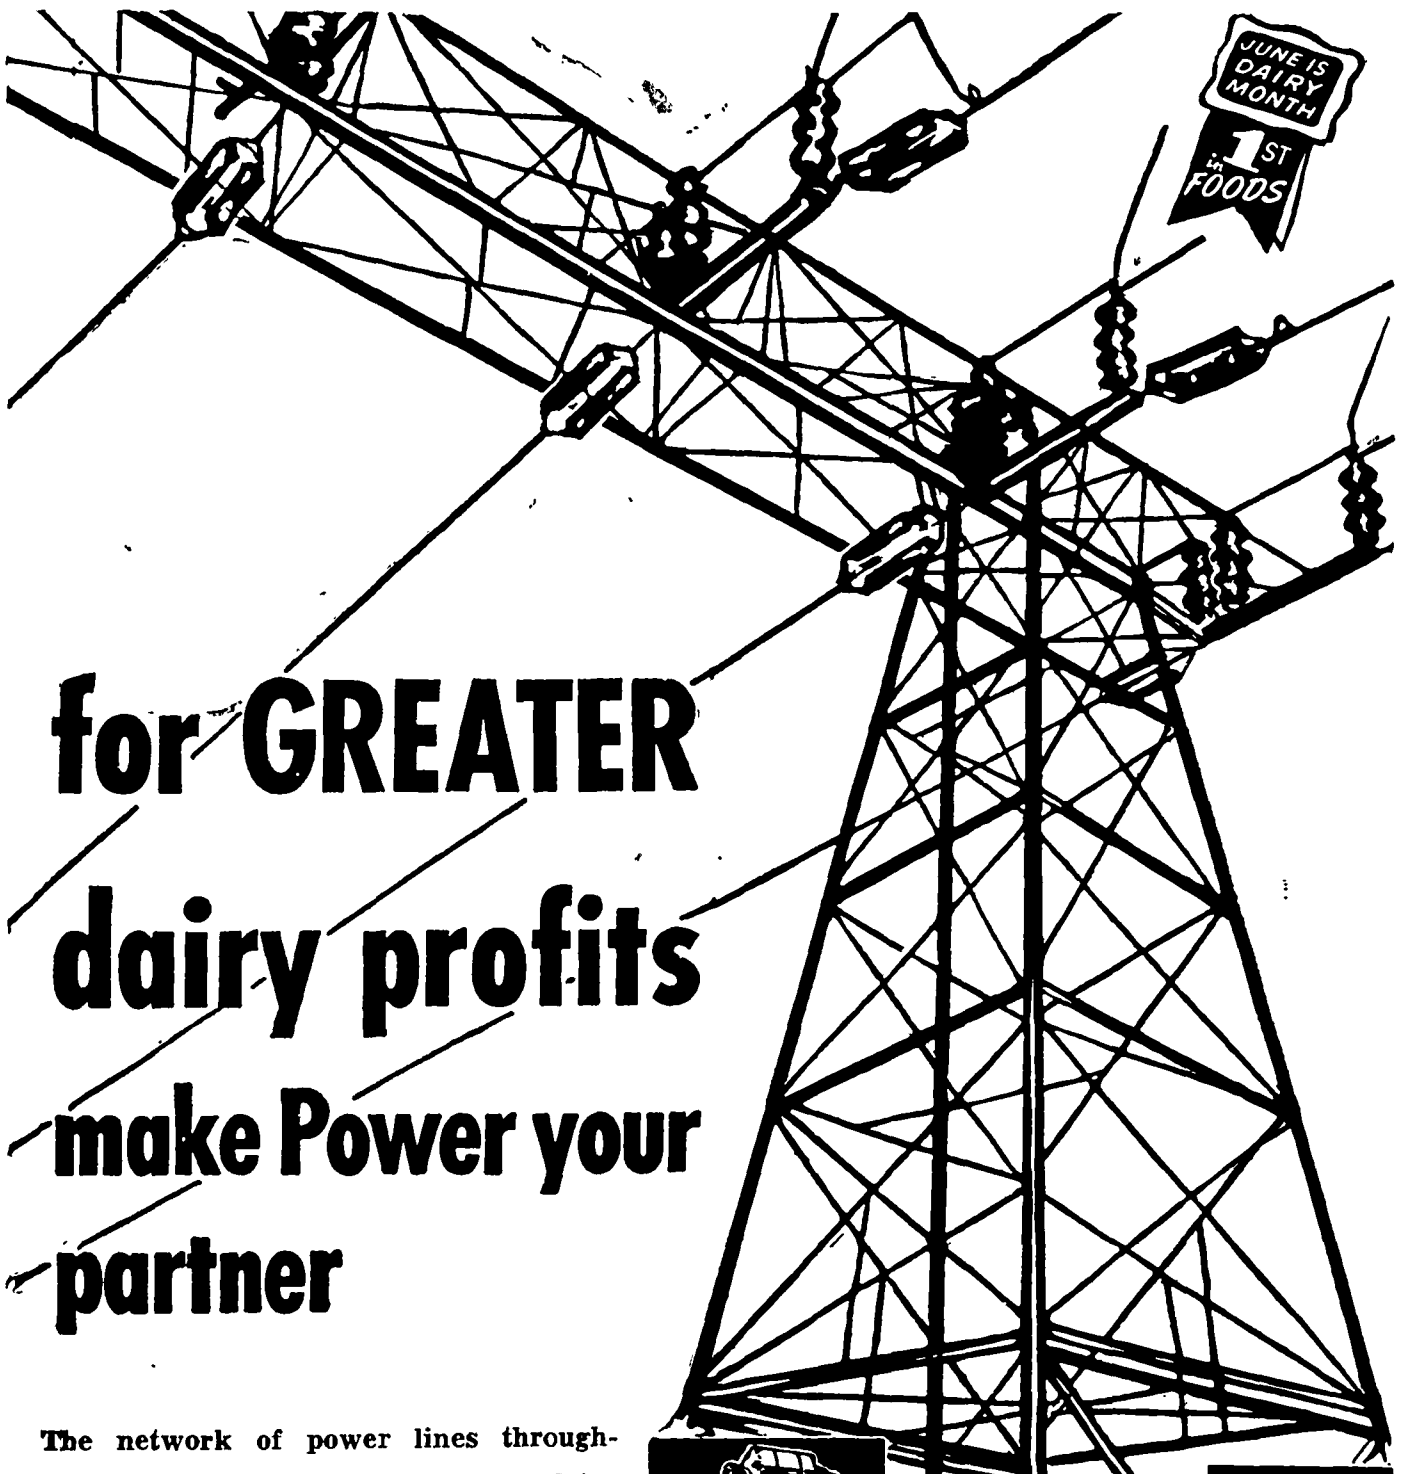
Here's your chance to see some top ball playing, along with some good clean comedy and fast ball handling.

The game is this Sunday, starting at 2:30 o'clock. Better get there early as a large crowd is expected.

FIRE DESTROYED BUILDING ON BOB ROTHS FARM

The Klemme Fire Department made a quick run to the Bob Roths farm southeast of town Sunday morning where a combination garage and tool shed was ablaze.

The car was saved, but the building was consumed by the flames. No other building was damaged.



for GREATER dairy profits make Power your partner

The network of power lines throughout Iowa has helped make today's dairy farms as modern as today's factories.

Yes, Electricity is always on the job—ready to serve the dairy farmer economically—at the flick of a switch. Milkers coolers, separators, cleaners, ventilators—these and many other electrically-operated items help build greater dairy profits.

To Iowa's Dairy Industry, we say "More power to you!" Let's all observe Dairy Month by using plenty of Iowa's fine dairy foods.

Petition OK'd

Hancock County Supervisors this week approved a petition for a drainage improvement in Twin Lake Township, Secs. 23 and 24. The petition was submitted by William Janssen and Mrs. Waneta Doerr. Vern Miller was appointed as engineer to make a preliminary survey on the proposed improvement which is to be the construction of a new tile line.

SALADS CAN SIMPLIFY SUMMERTIME MENUS

Salads make good meals come easier—particularly in the summer when your garden is just a stone's throw away and the weather dictates a cool, simple menu.

If you plan to feature salad as the main dish, Iowa State College nutritionists suggest you include protein foods along with those crisp, fresh vegetables. This could be cheese chunks, bite size pieces of luncheon meat cold turkey, chicken, leftover roast or fish. And try adding a bit of raw spinach or mustard greens torn into pieces, too.

Combinations might be: (1) Roast beef, radishes, onions, potatoes lettuce or cabbage, horseradish dressing. (2) Cold cuts of meat or flaked fish, raw spinach, onions, potatoes, stuffed olives or pickles and maybe some cheese (3) Whole sardines American cheese, lettuce, radishes, hard-cooked eggs, cucumber, sweet pepper and onions. (4) Chicken or ham, unpeeled apples and celery, served on a bed of endive.

To get the most from the meat, poultry or fish, marinate it for several hours before you put it with other foods. And remember: serve cold salads icy cold and hot salads hot.

Another choice of a nutritious salad might be icy cold fruits in a bed of crisp greens. Top with your choice of salad dressing or none at all; serve with nut bread. Cottage cheese is also a good protein addition. Fruit combinations you might try are: (1) Figs, cottage cheese, nuts, pineapple rings and peach or apricot halves. (2) Apples, dates, oranges and cheese. (3) Bananas, oranges, strawberries and pineapple. And, there are many delicious combinations that can be worked out with canned fruit, Tokay grapes and cream or cottage cheese.

Minerals and vitamins come made to order in the fruits and vegetables that salads add to meals.

Like so many other foods

Visiting around Iowa

Iowa's Corn Train

Ever hear of Iowa's "Corn Train"?

Back in 1904 Iowa farmers were pretty careless about testing seed corn. Many fields didn't germinate 60%.

So Iowa leaders assembled a "corn train", toured the state for 3 years, demonstrated how to test corn properly.

Result—5 years later Iowa corn growing improved 33%.

If Iowa farmers hadn't been open-minded on corn testing, we might not top the nation in corn today. That same broad mindedness brought us hybrid corn, modern corn pickers, a world of other benefits.

And that same type of open-mindedness is an asset, too, in our daily living. There was a time when some folks argued about alfalfa versus clover, and they argued about coffee, or beer, or even pop. Now most everyone recognizes coffee's fine qualities, and beer as the beverage of moderation.

Yes, open-mindedness is a virtue we all want to hold to . . . even in little things like corn growing or our favorite refreshments.

Evangelical And Reformed Ladies Visited Hospital

The following Klemme Evangelical and Reformed Church ladies visited the hospital Tuesday at Marshalltown: Mesdames Harvey Barz, Wm. Fuss, Raymond Barz, Milvern Barz, and Walter Rosendahl

They enjoyed the tour thru the hospital and visiting with the nurses. They especially enjoyed visiting with Mrs. Alice Crosshuesch, who is employed at the hospital.

The ladies took home-made cookies with them for the patients. They will have a most interesting report to give at the next Guild meeting.

June Dairy Month

HATS OFF TO THE DAIRY FARMERS OF THIS COMMUNITY

We just want to join with the spirit of the occasion to extend our best wishes to the dairy farmers of this community, and to congratulate them on a job well done.

When you are planning conveniences for your dairy barn and milk house, also give some thought to the lady of the farm who would like more conviences in her "work shop," the kitchen.

Perhaps she needs a new electric or gas range, an automatic hot water heater, a new washing machine.

We now have the I K I Automatic Insecticide Vaporizer and Electric De-odorizer — can be installed in homes or dairy barns.

So, along with June Dairy Month, let's also remember that June is a good time to get modern conveniences for your home.

JOSTEN HARDWARE AND APPLIANCE

Edmund K. Josten, Prop. Klemme, Iowa

BY RAY EASTMAN

The slam of the screen door was lost in the enormous, bright reaches of the summer morning Ken loitered on the front porch for a moment and heard the dim voice of his mother from far inside the house, "Ken, come back in here and finish your breakfast."

But it was a half hearted command. Ken, the early riser, was out in the world alone. "I'm the sheriff," he told the empty street. "Get on that horse and ride."

He trotted down the block and up the alley, but found no outlaws. They were all inside at this early hour, some sleeping, some plotting desperate deeds over cereal bowls.

The "sheriff" pulled up at the corner and watched traffic pouring down toward town. He didn't quite understand the purpose of all these cars, but he knew they were "bad." His parents had told him so. They were to be left alone.

But the lonesome little "sheriff" began to think. Bad men were punished. They were "knocked" by the sheriff and good men. He had seen it happen in the movies. So why shouldn't bad cars be punished? "I'il knock 'um," the "sheriff" decided.

He picked up stones and began throwing them at passing cars. They were afraid he know. They were bad and they were afraid.

In his wild battle for justice, Ken didn't notice that he had steppped off the curb that he was moving deeper into the street with each stone he threw.

The morning was just spilling a streetful of youngsters when a small group of men came carrying the "sheriff" to his house. The early riser would spend the summer in a cast in bed.

Funeral Saturday For Goodell Man

Funeral services for John Christie, 51 were held Saturday at 2 p. m. in the Evangelical U. B. Church at Goodell with the Rev. Park E. Miller officiating and burial in the Amsterdam Cemetery, by the Wellemeyer Funeral Service of Klemme.

John, only son of the late James and Elizabeth Christie, was born December 29, 1900, and lived his entire life in Goodell. The past two months he had been ill with a heart condition and was taken to the Belmond Hospital in May. He was feeling quite well and Wednesday evening had been at the neighbors, the Kemps' watching television.

After going to his home he ate lunch and soon suffered a heart attack. He died at 11 p. m. shortly after the arrival of a doctor.

He reached the age of 51 years, 5 months and 8 days, and leaves to mourn his passing eight sisters:

Jenny, Mrs. John Schreckengast, Mason City.

Mrs. Ella Garberich, Wilmer, Minnesota.

Elizabeth, Mrs. Chas. Peterson, Goodell, Iowa

Laura, Mrs. L. P. Peterson, Goodell, Iowa.

Veda, Mrs. Henry Nolte, Goodell, Iowa.

Agnes, Mrs. Arley Blickenderfer, Elma Iowa

Clara, Mrs. Martin Burrs, Godell, Iowa.

Miss Iona Christie, Goodell.

also a half hundred nieces and nephews, and a host of more distant relatives and friends.

June is Dairy Month from coast to coast. It highlights dairy foods for which housewives spend more than 15 per cent of their food budgets. In turn they get nearly 30 per cent of the food consumed annually in this country.

The physical well-being of every person, old and young, leans heavily on milk and its many products. Take fresh milk and cream, for example, about 60 million quarts are distributed through stores and doorsteps daily across the nation. Today milk consumption alone is 14 per cent higher than before World War II.

Dairy foods used in each home represent an industry that employs full time at least 1,500,000 persons and gives a livelihood to about 10 million people. In addition the industry contributes $10 billion to national commerce.

For Flavor goodness use plenty of BUTTER

Yes, use plenty of Klemme Butter. Serve it at the table—use it in cooking--spread it thick for the children!

Golden-rich, Klemme Butter is, even more than ever, your No. 1 food value—in golden goodness and health! And it's a prime source of vitamins—especially rich in Vitamin A.

It takes four pints of fresh, nutritious cream to make a pound of butter . . . to give it that warm yellow color that is nature's trademark for Butter. So for nutrition and appetite-appeal, there's nothing to match the high-score Klemme Butter for which our creamery has built a real reputation.

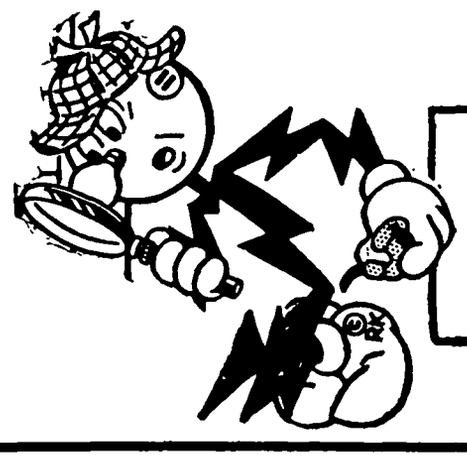
Cornerstone Of Good Living . . . and Good Agriculture

More than 1,777,000 dairy cattle graze on—and enrich—Iowa's farm land. In 1951, milk from Iowa cows produced over $180,000,000 of agricultural income for Iowa. Of this amount, $115,000,000 came from Butter, alone—so naturally, Iowa Butter is a Cornerstone of Good Living.

Dairying in Iowa is a Cornerstone of Good Agriculture, too. Modern dairy farmers recognize the importance of land-use conservation—to preserve and protect our soil heritage. Through dairying, animal by-products from the soil are returned to the soil, increasing the fertility of our land.

We are vitally interested in Iowa's future farm production, & dairying. We are living in a farming community and we welcome the opportunity to support YOUR June Dairy Month Program.



IOWA ELECTRIC LIGHT AND POWER Company

INSTALL RODS PROPERLY, AVOID LIGHTNING DAMAGE

Keep your farm buildings free from lightning damage with properly installed lightning rods.

Norval Wardle, extension farm safety specialist at Iowa State College, lists four items that are essential in protecting your farm buildings from lightning.

They include air terminals—sharp pointed rods—that are fastened to the roof, conductors or wires that run from the air terminals to the ground, fasteners holding wires in place and a ground buried in moist earth.

The specialist recommends spacing air terminals not more than 25 feet apart along the edges of flat roofs or ridges on hip roofs. If rods are less than 24 inches high, space them about 20 feet apart.

Fasten conductor wires along ridge lines, or where they can be nailed in a straight line. Avoid sharp bends by bending the line in a gradual curve.

Wardle says grounding is the most important of the protective system. The grounding spike must be driven into permanently moist soil. Use at least 2 grounds per building, and place them as far apart as possible.

Odds are 12 to 1 that a building equipped with lightning rods will escape lightning damage, says the specialist.

Lightning is primarily a giant "spark" bridging between two electrical charges. One is at the tip of a tree, building, pole, wire or other ground object. An opposite charge is at the base of a thundercloud.

If conditions are right, these two charges build up, firmly punching their way through insulation formed by air. The result is lightning.

Wardle says well installed lightning rods take the "punch" from lightning. Rods in the air receive the electrical strike, and conductors provide a safe path where electricty flows harmlessly down the building and into the soil.

Many times lightning rods protect more than buildings. They often protect livestock and other property by grounding lightning that might otherwise strike elsewhere.

LIGHTNING

There wasn't much talk at LeMars one evening recently, following a violent thunder storm. A bolt hit one of two telephone cables, putting over 100 telephones out of service.

$1,000

At a pony sale in Eldora recently, a leading candy company paid $1,000 for two tiny shetland ponies from the Nuckoll's stable.

Act To Prevent Mildew In Warm, Damp Weather

Molds causing mildew thrive in warm, muggy weather.

Here's what you can do to prevent mildew damage in your home, according to textiles and clothing specialists at Iowa State College. To dry the air in a poorly ventilated closets, burn a small electric light continuously there. Leave closet doors and dresser drawers open occasionally to keep moisture from gathering and to stir up the enclosed air.

Air out and ventilate linen closets in bathrooms, and run an electric fan in places that cannot be exposed to outdoor breezes. Solid calcium chloride can also be used to take up moisture in a closet or small room.

Air out the whole house on cool nights. If you can't seem to eliminate musty odors in your basement, sprinkle chloride of lime over the floor. Leave it there until all mustiness disappears. Then sweep it up, scrub and dry the floor.

About dampened clothes rolled up for ironing—be sure to iron them within a few hours.

"New Money" for Iowa Business

If Iowa should hear of a new industry that would bring over $250,000 in "New Money" into the state each day—and give us a great supply of health-building foods to boot—business men throughout the state would bid high to persuade that industry to locate in Iowa. Since we already have such an industry, it is only natural that citizens should band together to recognize and honor it during June Dairy Month!

Yes, every day during the past year, the out-state sale of Iowa butter alone has brought to Iowa a cash income of more than $273,000 a day. Fine Iowa dairy products, especially butter, go to the markets of the nation — bringing back "New Money" comparable to the income of major manufacturing enterprises for which industrialized states eagerly bid.

The $160,000,000 cash income received by Iowa dairy farmers each year, according to economists, is the kind of money that turns over again and again, directly or indirectly affecting every citizen of Iowa. Spending a portion of this income for needed supplies for his operations and his family, the Iowa dairyman makes business for the stores where he deals. This, in turn increases payrolls and expenditures by wage-earners. This turn-over is repeated time and time again, until the money finally comes to rest in the form of savings deposits, government bonds, property ownership and other tangible evidence of a stable prosperity.

Few of us not in direct contact with the dairy industry realize what far-reaching effects it has on the health and wealth of Iowa. Here in Iowa especially, it is entirely fitting that the month of June should be observed as Dairy Month.

MOWER

Doctors are working to save the foot of 13-year old William Davis, son of Harvey Davis, who ran into a mowing machine last week. The blade dragged William about 8 feet, half-way severing the left leg. The accident occurred on the Henry VanRees farm near Pella.

TORNADO

A tornado in north Grundy county late last month struck the Buck Grove settlement, killing 7-year old Ruth Miller, who died of injuries when the storm wrecked the Miller home.

HURT

When her 3-year old daughter released the brake on the family car, Mrs. Leslie Oakes of Randalia jumped in front of the vehicle to keep it from rolling. The car pinned her against a pile of railroad ties and she was badly bruised.

WINDOW

A driver parked his car in front of a drug store at Tripoli recently and went in to get a drink at the fountain. His car rolled across the street, over the curb and through the large plate glass window of a garage.

USE A TIMES WANT ADV.

We're mighty proud of the dairy production of Iowa farmers—and we think Dairy Month is a good time to say so.

We know dairying brings "new dollars" into our community and our state—millions of them into Iowa each month. We know those dollars help build Iowa business, schools, churches.

We know those dollars help give Iowa "good business" and superior living standards.

And we know that dairying makes men and women—builds character as it builds wealth—just as dairy foods build health!!

So—more power to Iowa's Dairy Industry. Let's all observe Dairy Month by using plenty of Iowa's fine dairy foods.

Maralee Ridder Bride Of Virgil Ruter At Methodist Church Ceremony

KLEMME METHODIST SCENE OF RUTER-RIDDER WEDDING

Maralee Ridder, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Ridder of Klemme and Virgil Ruter, son of Heiko Ruter, of Kanawha, were married at the Methodist Church in Klemme Saturday evening by the Rev. E. M. Egeland, pastor, who read the double ring ceremony.

Maurice Jacobs, of Klemme provided organ music and Miss Greta Ruter of Kanawha sang, "Because" and the Lord's Prayer."

Acting as bridesmaids were Maxine Barz, dressed in an orchid formal, Elaine Neuberger, dressed in a yellow formal and Sharon Bridges, as Maid of Honor, dressed in a blue formal, each carrying a colonial bouquet.

Bestman was John Ruter and the attendants were Adrian Ploestgra and Lawrence Smidt.

Dennis Ridder and Jim Christians were ushers. The candlelighters were Janice Stokesbary and Terry Koerner. Ring Bearer was Kenneth Ruter and Julie Stokesbary was flower girl.

The bride wore a slipper satin wedding dress in basque style with a full skirt, ending in a long train and adorned with miniature pearl beads. Her illusion veil was held by a crown of seed pearls and she carried a shower of red roses and white carnations.

The groom and his attendants each wore a boutonniere.

The church was beautifully decorated with a white lattice fence and an arch trimmed with ferns and roses with several candelabras, and four large baskets of Regal Lilies and blue Delphiniums.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the church parlors for one hundred relatives and friends. The parlors were decorated in the bride's colors of blue and white. The aunts, Mrs. Gerald Koerner and Mrs. Clarence Seebeck poured. Mrs. Claude White served the four-tiered wedding cake. Mrs. Nova Stokesbary seated the guests, and Mrs. Glen Bridges and Mrs. Weirt Brouer had charge of the gifts. Janice Hummel had charge of the guest book. Other friends helped in the kitchen.

The bride is a graduate of Klemme High School this spring and the Bridegroom attended Kanawha schools, and since has been farming with his father near Kanawha.

Following a wedding trip to the Black Hills, the couple will be at home in Kanawha, where the bridegroom has a position with the Sankey Gravel Company. Out of town guests were from Kanawha, Belmond, Garner, Charles City and Floyd.

The U. S. Bureau of Mines states that many roof and attic fires have been checked upon reaching the non-combustible mineral wool insulation above the top floor ceilings of homes.

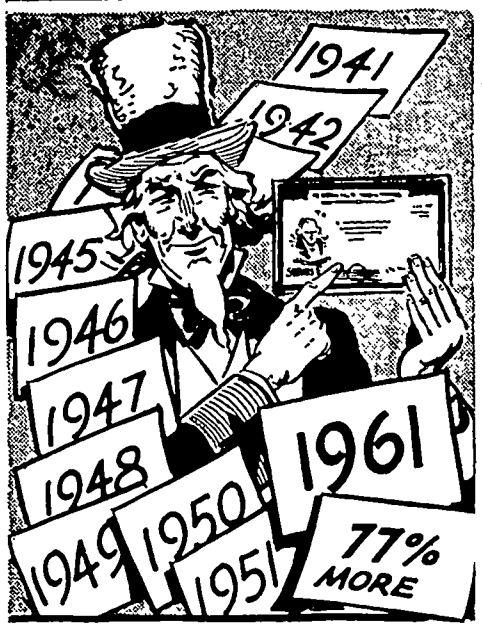
LADS AND DADS IN OVER-NIGHT CAMP AT ROOSEVELT

Twelve cub scouts and eleven dads went to Camp Roosevelt Saturday afternoon for an overnight hike. The boys stood the hike fine but the dads looked a bit on the worn out side when they returned home Sunday afternoon.

The dads and sons who made the trip from here were: Harold Kothenbeutal, Gary and Daryl; "Sport" Bridges and Gaylon; Laurence Greiman and Billy; John Clements and Jimmy; Alvin Thieman and Robert; Carold Larsen and Craig; John Evans and Buddie; Kermit Schlei and Daryle; Mitchell Bock and Jimmie; Russel Bair of Mason City and his nephew Jerry Stokesbary and Clarence Swalve and Richard.

Uncle Sam Says



It's just ten years ago since we began to Remember Pearl Harbor. Plenty has happened since then, but didn't the time go fast? Another ten years will go by just as quickly. Are you preparing to be better off then than you are now? One way is to invest part of your earnings now in U. S. Defense Bonds. Purchase them regularly through the Payroll Savings Plan where you work, or the Bond-A-Month Plan where you bank. In 20 years, they will return you 77 per cent more than your original investment. *U. Friday Will Be July Fourth Remember, Friday will be the Fourth of July and there will be many people on the highways. Let's try and have a SANE 4th. Drive careful, no matter where you go. Take it easy, whatever you do. Be safe not sorry.

the Highway Story

IOWA DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC SAFETY

BY BOB HULLIHAN

Though none of these accidents happened more than three years ago, they are probably all forgotten now except by the survivors. But today is a day they should be remembered for all of them happened in Iowa on the Fourth of July.

It was the Fourth of July and a young couple in a strange town drove onto a dead-end street without knowing it. Their car plunged off the end of the street into the river and the husband drowned.

It was the Fourth of July and a trucker entering a city had his eye on a stop light he was approaching. A boy on a bicycle came out of the alley. "I felt the rear wheels bounce," the trucker said later.

It was a windy Fourth of July and a cloud of dust from dry fields blew across the highway. A driver came through the dust at a speed thought to have been 90 miles a hour and overtook a slow-moving car. A small boy died in the wreck.

It was a rainy Fourth and a family of five drove toward a railroad crossing in the early evening. They never crossed it. All five died in the middle of the crossing when the car exploded under the impact of a train.

It was the Fourth of July when a young man driving a tractor turned to yield the right of way to an approaching car. The rear wheel of the tractor struck soft mud and slipped into a culvert. The tire blew out and the young man died under the tractor.

It was the Fourth of July when a driver came down a local road and approached an old, familiar stop sign at the highway. He apparently drove through it and, an instant later, was lying dead on the highway, struck by the on-coming car he failed to see.

It was the Forth of July and —but this could go on and on. The important thing is what goes on tomorrow, another 4th of July on our highways.

Garner Pastor Will Deliver First Sermon

GARNER—The Rev. Carl J. Mohr will deliver his first sermon in the Zion Evangelical and Reformed Church Sunday. This is Mr. Mohr's first pastorate.

Mr. Mohr was graduated from Mission House Seminary at Plymouth, Wisconsin, June 8, receiving his B. D. degree. He was ordianed on June 15 at the Peace Evangelical and Reformed Church at Marshalltown by his father, the Rev. John Mohr. He was assisted by another son, the Rev. George A. Mohr of the Peace Evangelical and Reformed Church of St. Paul. Dr. K. J. Ernst of the Mission House Seminary preached the ordination sermon.

Mr. and Mrs. Mohr will reside at 875 Bush Ave., in Garner.

Esther Circle Meets

The Esther Circle met at the home of Mrs. Otto Lemke on Thursday June 26 with Mrs. Clarence Lemke as co-hostess.

There were 15 members present. An ice cream social is planned for a later date. A nice lunch was served by the hostesses.

Candice Carlson Had Birthday Dinner Monday

Candice, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Carlson was ten years old on Monday, June 30th and her mother had a birthday dinner in her honor. Present were Art Wellemeyer, Burton Hanson and family of Titonka and JoAnn Jacobs.

Atomic Energy Researching Aid to Effective Dentistry

Atomic energy research can help dental science to unlock new doors in the prevention and treatment of tooth decay and provide the means for determining with more accuracy than ever before the effectiveness of various substances as filling materials, three dental scientists have indicated in The Journal of the American Dental Association.

"The advent of radioactive compounds opens up a broad new field for the dental scientist," The Journal said in a separate editorial.

At the same time, it reported that an atomic energy committee, designed to encourage extensive research in the field, had been appointed by the Association. The chairman is Dr. J. L. T. Appleton.

"Radioisotopes enable the investigator to trace the movement and localization of medicants and biologic compounds with precision and accuracy a million times more decisive than is possible by ordinary chemical methods," The Journal continued.

It explained that with radioactive compounds, the dental scientist can use as atomic tracers substances which occur normally in and around the teeth.

"Compounds can be synthesized with radioactive carbon, hydrogen and other isotopes to make tracers," The Journal said. "These radioactive compounds can be used to test the penetration, transportability and metabolism of many substances of dental interest."

In a special report, Dr. William Ward Wainwright, of Chicago, head of the radiology department of the University of Illinois College of Dentistry, described tests made on extracted teeth with a number of radioactive substances.

Dr. Wainwright found that some substances penetrate the entire structure of the teeth while others totally lack this penetrative property. The finding was described as of major importance in the field of dental decay.

2 MAJOR PARTIES HOLD CONVENTIONS

At the Democratic County convention held at Garner on Friday, Ben V. Grieman was re-elected chairman of the County central committee and Mrs. H. L. Schuller was re-elected secretary.

At the Republican convention, C. H. Daniels was re-elected as chairman, Mrs. C. L. Smith, vice-chairman and Gertrude Tobin secretary.

The Republicans nominated Mrs. Doris Young as clerk of the district court to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Ruth Hughes Katter. The convention endorsed Leo Elthon for lieutenant governor, but did not officially instruct the delegates selected.

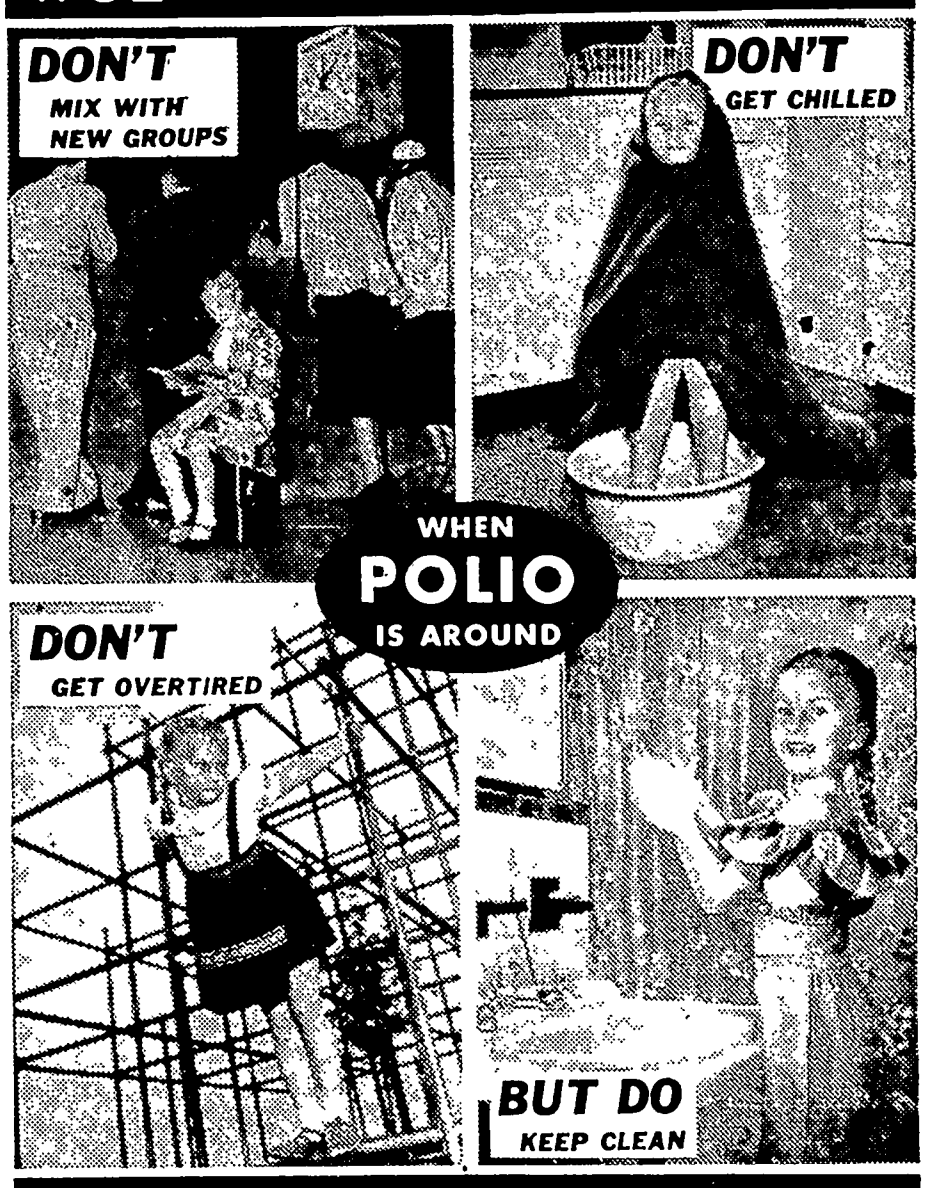
1952 POLIO PRECAUTIONS



RECOMMENDED BY THE NATIONAL FOUNDATION FOR INFANTILE PARALYSIS

Seven-year-old Karen Blecha enacts 1952 polio precautions recommended by the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis. When polio is around, the National Foundation cautions parents to watch for these signs: headache, fever, sore throat, upset stomach, tenderness and stiffness of neck and back. A person showing such symptoms should be put to bed at once, away from others. Then, call your doctor and follow his advice. If polio is diagnosed, call your local chapter of the March of Dimes for advice and assistance, including needed financial help.

Farmer's Question Corner

PREPARED BY American Foundation For Animal Health

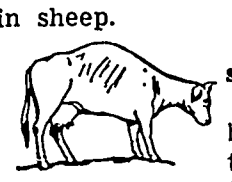
WHAT ABOUT ANAPLASMOSIS?

Q: Why today's growing concern over anaplasmosis?

A: This deadly blood disease of cattle is spreading. It no longer is limited to states with mild climates, but has invaded the northern states as well as the south and west.

Q: Just what causes anaplasmosis?

A: It is caused by a tiny parasite which attacks the red blood cells of cattle. It can also appear in sheep.



Q: How is it spread?

A: Mosquitoes, biting flies and ticks can spread it from one animal to another. Outbreaks have also been traced to improperly sterilized dehorning shears, castrating knives and contaminated hypodermic needles. Any object which contacts blood of an affected animal, then punctures the skin of a healthy animal, may transmit the disease.

Q: What does anaplasmosis look like?

A: Common symptoms include a quick drop in weight and general condition. Sometimes jaundice appears. The eyeballs, lining of the mouth, and skin of the udders may take on a yellow color.

Q: Is it a fatal disease?

A: Yes. From one-fifth to one-third of the affected animals die. The ones that survive remain carriers.

Q: If anaplasmosis is suspected, what should the owner do?

A: Veterinary diagnosis is essential to distinguish it from anthrax, tick fever and certain poisonings. Once identified, treatment can be started and steps taken to protect healthy animals. There is no vaccine for anaplasmosis.

THE FARM OUTLOOK

By Paul Henderson, County Extension Director

Where Hancock County beef feeders can get the most for each dollar spent on protein supplement is an important question these days.

A recent study by farm economists at Iowa State College shows that tankage provides crude protein at a lower cost per pound than any of the other supplements. That's the report from Gordon Bivens, extension farm economist at the college.

He adds, however, that not all proteins are perfect substitutes on a pound-for-pound basis. But the figures show that tankage may be the supplement to use when balancing your ration at the lowest possible figure.

Where it's practical, of course, obtaining protein by feeding hay is still the cheapest source of crude protein per pound, says the economist. This may be possible with certain types of cattle or sheep. Alfalfa also provides protein cheaper than the lower quality roughages at present prices.

Butter Production Down

Creamery butter production this past winter and spring is lower than a year ago. But Francis Kutish, extension farm economist at the college, reports that the trend has been mixed. Compared with last year, for example, creamery butter production has been down in Iowa, but up in Minnesota and Wisconsin.

One reason for this mixed trend is that the dairy industry in a state like Wisconsin is geared to shift easily from one dairy product to another. For example, when farmers bring their milk to a plant, that plant either condenses the milk, evaporates it or separates it and makes butter and skim milk, depending on current prices.

Then for example, when .92 score butter was selling wholesale at Chicago about 17% higher than on the same day a year ago, it was a simple matter for creameries in Wisconsin to turn milk received into butter. With prices more favorable for butter, it was natural that butter production would raise.

Another important reason that butter output held up in Minnesota and Wisconsin is the drop in fluid milk and cream shipments out of the state. Kutish says these were large last year, and lower shipments this diverted milk and cream to butter.

In Iowa

In Iowa, dairying is a less specialized business than in the other two states. So farmers here have shifted from dairying to other types of livestock.

In addition, the Iowa Butter industry is largely based on farm-separated cream. The milk is not separated at the plant, but on the farm. Thus, Iowa creameries are distinctly butter-making plants.

Girls Elect 4-H Officers

The Hancock County girls' 4-H clubs elected their new officers on Rally day, June 26, at the Britt High School. Eunice Hueneman (Liberty Busy Bees) was elected president; Kay Bonnstetter (Boone-Magor Pals) V-president; Yvonne Olson (Ellington Experts) secretary - treas; and Joy Hanson (Amsterdam Pace Makers) historian.

There were 268 girls, mothers and leaders attending the Rally Day. Prizes were given to the clubs for attendence. The Liberty Busy Bees had 100% of their girls in attendence. The Garfield Lively Workers had the largest percentage of their girls in uniforms and the Ell Tip-Toppers had the largest percentage of mothers present. Each leader was presented with a corsage in the special recognition ceremony. Mildred Hejlik was chosen to give the Country Girls' Creed for the afternoon program. The 4-H Chorus, consisting of two members from each club, was directed by Mrs. Wm. Reinhart, County 4-H Music Chairman. Judy Brede was the pianist. Two records were awarded to the top clubs in the music contest. The Ell Tip-Toppers received a record as first prize and the Crystal Merrimaids were given second prize. The Ell contestants were Elaine Jurgemeyer and LaVohn Josten.

Mrs. Newell, Paul Henderson, Shirley Grieman, Madge Scott, Carole Holecek and Audrey Doughan presented a panel discussion on their trip to the International Livestock Show in Chicago.

Ella Johnson, 4-H president presided during the impressive installation of 4-H officers ceremony.

Paul Henderson, Hancock Co. Extension Director, was initiated as Honorary member of the Hancock County Girls' 4-H clubs by the Crystal Merrimaids with the assistance of the county 4-H officers.

Martha Circle

The Martha Circle met at the Church parlors on Thursday afternoon. Eight members and 4 children were present. Mrs. Roy Arnold acted as temporary chairman and led the devotions. After the meeting election was held, Mrs. Merle Mikkelson was elected president, Mrs. Roy Arnold, Vice Pres. and Mrs. John Etehen, Secretary. Mrs. Mildred Day was chosen to work on Youth Work. A lovely lunch was served by Mrs. Arnold.

Report Approved

The Hancock County Board of Supervisors this week approved a report filed by Drainage Engineer William Henschen setting out tax exempt acres by reason of the establishment and construction of Hancock County Drainage Distrfict 156, petitioned for by E. Hatten et. al. The report listed tax exempt acres at 9.44 acres and these acres were ordered removed from the tax rolls.

IOWA FARM KERNELS

Be careful in using 2,4-D around farm ponds that are stocked with fish, warns extension specialists at Iowa State College. The 2,4-D itself won't hurt fish, but the carriers in which it's dissolved will sometimes kill them.

When cultivating vegetables, it's best not to go deeper than 1½ inches.

CONTOURING SAVES SOIL, INCREASES CROP YIELDS

Contouring is usually recognized as one of the best ways to save soil, and it also results in increased profit through higher yields, according to M. A. Anderson, extension agronomist at Iowa State College.

The primary reason for contouring in Iowa is to reduce erosion on land that slopes more than 2 or 3 percent. Farmers can figure on cutting soil losses in half when they contour, Anderson says.

Contouring is one of the simplest erosion control practices for use on sloping ground. Many farmers start with simple contouring and later increase terraces or strip cropping as part of their soil management program.

Yield increases are common on contoured land, Anderson says. Experimental results in Iowa have shown an average increase in corn yields of about 7 bushels per acre; soybeans increases of 2 bushels; and oat yield increases of about 5 bu. These are average results comparing planting up and down hill with planting on the contour . Field increases from contouring will vary on different soils with largest increases on permeable loess soils.

Anderson says operating costs of farming contoured fields are less, since tractor fuel is saved, and wear and tear on machinery from crossing ditches is reduced.

There are longer rows in contoured fields but also "stub" rows, which probably even out this advantage, he believes. There's less gear shifting on the tractor, too, when working around the hills.

One of the reasons for high yields on contoured corn is the better stands. A lot of corn planted up and down hill is washed out by heavy rains, Anderson explains.

The water that isn't absorbed on contoured fields is diverted to the waterways. That's one reason it's so important to keep these waterways well sodded, Anderson concludes.

Incident At Valley Post

By TED SHIMER

OLD MAN BATES came out of the hills early that spring driven by an impulse to inspect his new grandson in the little crossroads settlement of Valley Post.

As he drove up the rutted street, he noted several changes since his last visit in the fall and waived airly to old acquaintances, at the same time noticing a few empty seats made of packing cases in front of the blacksmith shop.

3 Minute Fiction

He duly visited his daughter whose husband was foreman at the saw mill and was unimpressed by his squalling, red-faced grandson. He guessed he expected much more, but maybe next year the little toddler could walk down to the village with him.

That afternoon Old Man Bates sat in his familiar seat of honor in front of Claney's General Store and, after holding forth on the merits of his own "diggins" far up in the hills, listened to the news.

About three o'clock in the afternoon the village was set agog by the appearance of a low black sedan touring through its main street. Automobiles were not too common in Valley Post with an occasional ramshackle Ford or clattering tractor drawing acute interest. Old Man Bates was eaten with curiosity and concealed awe.

He sat perfectly still as the sedan drew to a purring stop in front of the bank. Its rear end was mud spattered and splashed as witness to the fearful roads leading through the wilderness of virgin timber to Valley Post. With engine purring and its exhaust making little white puffs in the cool spring air, it was a symbol of latent power.

TWO young men stepped from the car and one of them surveyed the bank with an expression of acute disgust on his dark features. Old Man Bates took an instant dislike to this one. The other one was a smiling, blond, young man in an impeccable gray suit. He smiled at Old Man Bates and said, "Hello. Pop, how'za about watching the horses?" Old Man Bates grinned toothlessly back at him and nodded.

Both men entered the bank and Old Man Bates squinted at the big, purring car with a child like curiosity. Finally he rose. Then with some finality as if having reached a great decision, he walked slowly to the car his hand clutched about a small object.

A moment later there rose a fusillade of shots, and Old Man Bates pushed further behind his potato barrel as the bank door slammed open. The dark young man stood there a moment surveying the street and scowling, a smoking pistol in his right hand and a small satchel in his left. He beckoned with the pistol and the blonde young man followed him slowly to the car. The dark man cursed and slid under the wheel of the car. He made several deft but futile movements on the dashboard and Old Man Bates heard the urgent whir of the starter. The car would not start. Down the street the Constable's office banged open and soon rifles and shotguns began to converge on the black sedan.

Old Man Bates joined the crowd of townsmen and worked his way to the rear of the car. Someone saw him stoop and retrieve an object from its rear end. A shout went up and soon men were pounding his slight form and shaking his hand. The Constable shouldered his way through and pulled the two young bandits behind him.

"What's all the nullabaloo about back here," he demanded.

Old Man Bate's son-in-law put his arm around the slight shoulders.

"Pop here stopped yer bandits cold. Yes, sir, he stuck a potato in the tail pipe of their car. "Darned smart work I calls it.'

Later when Old Man Bates was taken to his Daughter's house he dawdled his grandson on his knee His son-in-law inquired, "Pop, where did you learn that plugging up a tail pipe would stop a gasoline engine?"

Old Man Bates returned the candid unblinking gaze of his grandson and replied, "I ain't as old and dumb as some folks think. 'Sides . saw no sense in all that thar steam escaping from that tailend—so I plugged her up?"

HOT-N-TOTS NEGRO TEAM TAKE EASY WIN HERE

The softball game here Sunday drew a fairly large crowd despite the heat, when the negro team, the Hot-N-Tots played the Klemme boys and defeated them 15-4.

The game was greatly enjoyed and there was a lot of good comedy as well as expert ball handling by the visitors. Some of the players had appeared in Klemme before in a basketball game.

EXPERIMENTAL FARM FIELDDAY, JULY 8

Hancock County farmers with specific questions about weed control and identification should gather at the Northern Iowa Experimental Farm at Kanawha July 8, says Paul Henderson, Hancock County Exten. Director.

Iowa State College extension specialists will be on hand to answer questions and conduct a farm tour at the all day program.

Experiments by Iowa State entomologists will be seen at the farm. Corn borer and sweet clover weevil control is being especially stressed along with measure for other insect control. The effect of new chemical insect controls available to Iowa farmers for control of insects can be seen at the test plots on the farm.

With the rise in incidence of the damaging sweet clover beetle, the search for other legumes for green manure crops has been stepped up at the farm. The farmers will se experiments testing the relative value of different legume crops for this important use.

Developments in weed spray control will be on display. The use of herbicides in pre-emergence and post-emergence sprays and their qualities both in weed control and injury to the plant are being tested at the farm.

Free lunch will be served at the farm at noon by the Northern Iowa Experimental Association.

HOW TO DRIVE AND STAY ALIVE

Drive For Your Life This Fourth Of July

That was the advice Thursday from the state safety department which expects the traffic volume in Iowa to reach an all-time high between now and Sunday evening.

"The last time the Fourth brought a three-day weekend, eight persons were killed and 250 injured in Iowa traffic accidents," Safety Commissioner Pearl W. McMurry said.

"With the steady increase in traffic, we cannot expect a better record this week-end unless every driver exercises the patience and caution the situation demands," he said.

S. N. Jespersen, highway patrol chief, called for "sensible planning" of week-end trips. "Make your arrangements the night before and get an early morning start," he said. That way you will have time to enjoy the trip and time to arrive without the dangers of high speed driving and reckless passing."

He added a special warning to drivers who will be using the county roads thi s week-end. "Traffic will be heavy on local roads during the holiday. Remember to slow down when approaching intersections and to keep to the right when the road is obscured by dust. Don't drive faster than 50 M. P. H. on a gravel surface."

The department listed these additional rules for survival this week-end:

1. Drive a car that has been inspected for safe mechanical condition.

2. Don't be distracted by what is going on inside the car, but keep your attention on the road.

3. Stop for a rest at least every two hours during a long drive or whenever you feel drowsy.

4. Adjust your speed to traffic and don't drive faster than 50 miles an hour a t night. At all times, drive for your life.

Early Materials

The earliest specific date ever attached to prehistoric Indian materials found in Illinois—about 500 B.C. —has been announced by Prof. John C. McGregor, University of Illinois archeologist. The materials are clamshells found in a Hopewell Indian trash heap near Meredosia. He found that the clamshells are 2,500 years old, with a possible error of 300 years either way. Previously this Indian material had been estimated at some 800 years old. The new and far more ancient date pushes the dated horizons of prehistoric culture in Illinois back to 450 years before Christ. They were dated by the newest method known to science—checking the radioactivity of carbon in the material. This was done by Prof. H. Richard Crane at the University of Michigan, where this work is sponsored by the Michigan Memorial Phoenix project.

Little Saving

Is there any saving in fuel in a house if the thermostat is set down 10 degrees during the night? In general, any saving in fuel achieved by setting for such a lower night-time temperature is offset by the additional fuel burned in the morning to bring the house up to normal again. However, many factors are involved, such as the insulating qualities of the wall and roof; the amount of air that leaks in through the sash, doors and walls and the outside temperatures

Close Comparison

Pretty nearly anything that can happen to a human being in the way of illness can happen to a dog or cat. They are subject to pneumonia, arthritis, cancer, heart disease, nutritional deficiency disorders. They may be run over—in fact, dogs and cats are particularly liable to severe auto injuries because of their small size. Rabies is as fatal to the dog as to the individual bitten by the rabid animal. Asthma is especially common among dogs with flattened noses, like the bull terrier and bullddog. Cats and dogs are immune to poison ivy (though their fur may transmit the noxious oil to unwary owners), but are susceptible to a full complement of skin disorders caused by other plants, fungi and mites.

"Hanky" Masks

R. H. Koza and William M. Stockman, employees of United Air Lines, couldn't see the price of nine dollars for an oxygen mask, used in high-altitude flying. So they put their heads together, and promptly patented a mask to serve the same purpose, which could be sold for 45 cents. Arrangements have been made to have their oxygen masks manufactured by a Cleveland firm The new masks are described as "no heavier than a fine handkerchief and impervious to normal atmospheric and temperature changes," National Patent Council reports.

Farmer's Question Corner

WHAT ABOUT PIG EDEMA?

Q: Is pig edema a hazard to all hogs?

A: Yes, but it chiefly attacks young pigs and growing shoats 6 to 20 weeks of age.

Q: Is this disease very deadly?

A: Yes . . . It may have a high death rate. In one herd, 32 of 34 stricken shoats died.

Q: Do losses come on quickly?

A: Very much so. Victims usually die within 36 hours.

Q: How does the disease act?

A: Symptoms may include loss of appetite and lack of body coordination. The swelling may appear on the eyelids, then spread to the snout and lips. The pig's grunt may become hoarse, and it may stumble or drag its hind legs. Paralysis and convulsions may set in before death. Other cases show no visible symptoms, as the lesions are inside the body.

Q: When should farmers watch out for pig edema?

A: It can strike any time. But, most often it attacks brought-in pigs from 3 to 14 days after their arrival on a farm, and native pigs 8 to 10 weeks old.

Q: What causes it?

A: The cause is believed to be a toxin.

Q: Is there any treatment?

A: Yes, emergency medication will save some sick pigs, help stop losses. Farmers should report all suspicious cases immediately. This may help to avoid serious losses, and will also aid the veterinarian in controlling this new swine hazard in the area.

Teakettle Deposit

It is possible to remove the hard deposit that forms inside a teakettle. Such a deposit usually consists of salts of calcium or magnesium, which are soluble in acids. A fairly safe method of removal is to put some vinegar (which is a mild acid) in the kettle, and let it stand for several hours. This tends to loosen the deposit, which can be removed by thorough washing and rubbing. Use of one of the stronger acids involves some hazard, and also may cause damage to the kettle itself.

Twenty-two nations will see life in the United States as interpreted by 1,431 midwestern junior and senior high school students, whose paintings will be sent around the world through the American Junior Red Cross International School Art program. Chosen for the story they tell, as well as for art technique, pictures selected are among 2,203 submitted to the Junior Red Cross program in 1952. Selections are made by the National Art Education Association's Western Division committee headed by Miss Ruth Wohrl, center, conferring with Miss Mary McMullen and Archie Bauman, other members of the committee. Miss Wohrl is director of art education for Akron, Ohio, public schools. Miss McMullen is school art supervisor at Peoria, Ill., and Bauman is art director for Cedar Rapids, Iowa, public schools.

CORN MORE THAN KNEE HIGH, SOME IN TASSEL

Corn is far more than "knee high by the Fourth" in North Iowa this year. Most corn is waist high now and higher and has been cultivated for the last time.

A number of fields have started to tassel out. Tuesday, July 1, Carl Wille brought in some stalks of field corn that were well tasseled out. This is a record for the books. Fred Schlichting's sweet corn is well tasseled.

Mortgaged Homes

The building boom of the last few years has been accompanied by a rising trend in the number of non-farm homes mortgaged by their owner-occupants, according to data compiled by the Federal Reserve System. The number of such mortgaged homes increased by about 1½ million between 1949 and early 1951 with the total estimated at 10½ million on the latter date. The proportion of mortgaged residences was 47 per cent of the total number of homes in the United States early in 1951 as compared with a ratio of 45 per cent two years earlier. As to the debt burden involved, the Federal Reserve study estimated that two-thirds of the mortgages were for amounts of less than $5,000, and that more than 7 out of every 10 of these homes were mortgaged for less than 60 per cent of their valuation.

Hancock Considers Budget Estimates

The Board of Supervisors of Hancock County will meet on July 7 to consider the 1953 budget. Estimates will be filed for publication with Auditor Maynard Schoneman.

The Hancock County conference board will meet at the same time to file the estimate on the assessor's budget for 1953. Hearings on both budgets will be set at the time of filing of the estimate.

Bond Approved

Hancock County Supervisors approved the official bond of Mrs. Doris Young, who began her duties as clerk of the district court this week. Mrs. Young is serving a vacancy appointment and succeeds Ruth Hughes Katter who resigned effective July 1. Mrs. Young is the Republican nominee for the regular term of clerk beginning January 1.

Contractor Paid

Th Hancock County Board of Supervisors held a hearing on the final estimate and report of the engineer on the construction of Hancock County Drainage District 157 at the Courthouse in Garner last Wednesday. The report was approved and the final estimate in the sum of $846.28 due Earl Stille, contractor, ordered paid. The contract totaled $4,231.40. The district is located at Goodell.

NAMED CREED GIRL—Rachel Hueneman, 18, daughter of Mrs. Victor Hueneman, Klemme, is Iowa's 4-H "Creed Girl" for 1952. Chosen to present the "Country Girl's Creed" at the 23rd annual 4-H girl's club convention in progress at Iowa State College at Ames, Rachel won out over 30 contestants. The Creed is a traditional presentation at the opening ceremonies of the convention. Miss Hueneman, a member of the Liberty Busy Bees 4-H Club, has always been interested in dramatics and speech work. A student at Waldorf College, Forest City, last year, she will teach this fall in the elementary school at Goodell. She has been in club work for three years.

G. S. C. S. Hold First Meeting In New Church Year

The G. S. C. S. held their first meeting at the home of Ila Mae Anderson on July 7. The meeting was opened by Shirley Wilson who gave devotions. The lesson was lead by Judy Brede, with all members taking part. The president, Kay Jacobs, opened the business meeting. The girls decided to have their party on Sunday, July 13 at 5:00. The Girls voted in favor of helping the Esther Circle, No. 5 with their ice cream social Saturday night July 26. Plans for the program were made and other business discussed.

A motion was passed to serve only two things and a drink at each meeting. Each hostess will have a co-hostess to help with the lunch. The meeting time has been changed to 8:00 until December. Business meeting was adjourned. M. Y. F. Benediction was given and the Doxology was sung. There were eleven girls, present, 2 leaders and 2 visitors, Lois Ann Jacobs of Klemme and Marcia Watne of Belmond. A nice lunch was served by Ila Mae, and her mother. mother.

Merle Jannssen Returns Home From Korea And Japan

Staff-Sgt. Merle Jannssen and wife arrived home from Camp Carson, Col. last week Saturday and are now living at the Wm. Jannssen farm south of Klemme, and farming.

Jannssen was overseas for 11 months and saw service in Korea. He spent some time in hospitals in Japan and later in the U. S. being treated for arthritis and malaria. He has been released from active service but is still in the reserves.

ACTIVITIES OF CUB SCOUT PACK AT CAMP

Klemme Cub Scout Pack 56 and their dads went to Camp Roosevelt for the Lad and Dad week end Saturday afternoon, June 28. They arrived at camp at 2:30 and set up camp and made their beds at once. Swimming was at 3:00. After this the canteen was opened and the Cubs and Dads refreshed themselves with pop and ice cream bars. The midway was set up after a brief rest. Supper of goulash, salad, bread, apple butter, milk or coffee was served at 6:00. "Sport" and Gaylon Bridges, Russ Bair and Jerry Stokesbary and John and Jimmy Clements and Jimmy Bock assisted with the evening meal for our Pack. After supper group singing with "Home On The Range" and the round " Row, Row" as well as "Green Grow the Rushes" by the staff was enjoyed. Retreat was followed by the midway games, including, Bingo, by Klemme, Football thru the Fire by St. Ansgar, Minature Hockey by Charles City and Ball and Clothespins by Dows were played as well as volleyball and horse shoe.

After dark the cubs and dads (about 175) were led by torch light to the sacred council place and the council fire was kindled. Following the appropriate ceremony there was group singing. Stunts given by the following towns were enjoyed by all: Balky Car by Green, Wind by Dows, Ten Pins by Mason City, Jungle Hunt by St. Ansgar and Nut Hunt by Clear Lake. Mr. Peter DeYoung told the story of "Shoe Nail." They were then dismissed and went to bed (some went to sleep). Early risers included "Sport" Bridges and John Clements who went fishing, and Clarence Swalve and Mitchell Bock who had to go home to do chores. Carold and Craig Larson, John and Buddy Evans, Laurence and Billy Grieman helped with the breakfast after which church services were held. Art Phelps delivered the message. Speed boating and swimming completed the morning. Alvin and Bobby Thieman, Clarence and Dicky Swalve and Kermit and Punky Schlei assisted with the dinner of creamed chicken, potatoes, peas and cake. After the dinner meal, "homeward bound."

Fred Nuehring was taken to a Mason City hospital Monday morning following a heart attack.

FUNERAL HELD FOR FARM WOMAN

Mrs. John Velau, 56, died at her home in Liberty township last week Tuesday after a long illness.

Funeral services were held on Thursday afternoon at the Klemme Methodist Church using the theme, "Light out of Darkness'.' Mrs. Vern Bisom and Mrs. James Carlson sang and was accompanied by Maurice Jacobs at the organ.

Interment was in the Ell Township Cemetery near Klemme and the casket bearers were: Hugh Hummel, Fred Pringnitz, Elmer Beier, Elmer Schaefer, Victor Schoenwetter and Dwight Hummel.

The following is the obituary prepared and read by Rev. E. M. Egeland during the service:

Mabel Cora Velau

Mabel Cora Velau was born April 28th, 1896 at McGregor, Iowa, the daughter of Charles and Marie Welch. On January 20th, 1913 she was united in marriage to John Velau. They started housekeeping on a farm in Liberty Township where she lived until her death. She became a member of the former German Methodist Church on July 25, 1920 and of the Klemme Methodist Church by the merger of 1924.

After a gradual decline in health she passed away on July 1st, 1952 shortly after 9:00 o'clock in the evening at the farm home, having reached the age of 56 years, 2 months and 3 days.

She leaves to mourn her passing her husband John Velau; one daughter Betty, Mrs. Francis Buseman; two sons, Charles and Vern; and two grandsons. Also surviving are her mother Mrs. Marie Wood, a brother Bob Welch and a sister Mrs. Walter Manahl all of the state of Washington; her step-mother Mrs. Anna Welch and two half-sisters, Mrs. Fred Kadlec and Mrs. Nick Miller of McGregor; one half-brother Lloyd Welch of Giard, Iowa.

Her father, four brothers and two sisters preceeded her in death.

AROUND IOWA

Fish

Youthful Laurence Allamand made quite a name for himself as a fisherman at Anamosa recently. Using a cane pole, with no reel and about eight feet of line, he landed a 33-inch northern Pike.

Close Call

As he came over a hill in Storm Lake recently, truck driver Thomas Rentel found himself at a railroad crossing, with a train approaching. He swerved his truck sharply and it tipped over. As it tipped, the caboose of the train tore away part of the cab.

Fractures Jaw

At the Osceola, Iowa, sale barn, two truck drivers backed their vehicles toward the same loading chute. As Cassel Roberts opened the door of his truck to see if he was clearing the other truck, the other vehicle backed into the open door, slammed it against his face and broke his jaw.

Three Times

Near Sheldon, Robert Bos, 19, of Rock Rapids, apparently trying to be a dare-devil, drove his car down into a ditch and back out again, as he proceeded down the highway. The third time, the car turned over. He was held on reckless driving charges.

Good Luck

Recently, the Frank Cils of Ollie decided to burn an old mattress, which they had originally purchased, second-hand, about 27 years ago. As the mattress burned, their 11 year old son saw paper money fall from the mattress into the fire. There was a total of $340.

GREYHOUNDS

At Forest City, Bruce Thompson has entered the business of breeding greyhounds. He finds it an interesting and profitable hobby.

NO DELINQUENCY

Six Iowa counties—Audubon, Jackson, O' Brien, Plymouth, Ringgold and Worth, have had no cases of juvenile delinquency within the past year.

Uncle Sam Says

May 14-19 is Newspaperboy Defense Bond Week. During that week some 300,000 newspaper carriers will take on the patriotic task of distributing and collecting 25 million Defense Bond Pledge Cards. Always in the forefront when it comes to patriotism these boys have volunteered to carry this important message to their customers. The boys know the value of thrift and are today investing thousands of dollars in U. S. Defense Bonds. Sign that Defense Bond Pledge.

Elderly Person Needs Quart Of Milk A Day

Grandma and Grandpa should each consume at least a quart of milk a day, according to R. K. Bliss of the Extension Service at Iowa State College.

The requirements of the increasing number of elderly people in the country are not generally understood, Bliss says. Children's need for milk is taken for granted, he points out. But the older people think they are properly taken care of if they have their toast and tea or coffee. Nothing is further from the truth, according to Bliss.

Elderly people, he says, need more calcium for health than the people in any other age group. Old bones are likely to break because of calcium deficiency, he points out. Older people also need protein in generous amounts. Milk is the best source of calcium, Bliss says, and one of the best sources of protein. It is also rich in valuable vitamins.

"I can think of no one thing." Bliss says, "that would pep oldsters up more than getting the habit not only of drinking more milk but also of consuming other dairy products."

Bliss reports that the number of dairy cows in the United States is about the same as it was 22 years ago. During the past 22 years the population of the country has increased by about 33 million people. Dairy production, he declares has failed to keep up with the population growth.

ESCAPED

Ronald Arkfeld escaped without injury when the bulldozer he was piloting crashed through the center span of a bridge near Harlan recently. The machine dropped about nine feet.

LOST LEG

A small fawn lost a hind leg near Eldora recently, when it jumped into the path of a mowing machine. It is being cared for by state conservation officer Kay Setchell and will eventually be given a home at the state park there.

REVERSED

In Adams county, Cliff Houck wasn't elected a county supervisor after all. In a recount, his opponent Charles Tindall won the nomination, 141 to 140. In the count following the primary election, Mr. Houck had been declared winner also by 141 to 140.

RELICS

F. G. Ramsdell of Odeboldt is the possessor of some interesting relics, including a copy of the Ulster County Gazette for 1800 in which the funeral of George Washington is detailed.

BEANS

Near Bancroft recently, a hail storm wiped out a 40 acre field of beans belonging to Rudy Fangman. The hail touched nothing else on his farm, or in the area. But it got all the beans.

LIGHTNING

A thunder bolt killed 12 cattle on the farm of Oscar Vokt, near Adair, one night recently. The cattle were huddled together under a willow tree when it was struck by lightning.

To keep flies from bothering cows in hot weather, use an activated pyrethrin spray, suggests Harold Gunderson, Iowa State College extension entomologist.

THE FARM OUTLOOK

County Extension Director By Paul Henderson,

It's been a long time since we have discussed consumer goods, so let's see what Gordon Bivens, extension farm economist, at Iowa State College says about future prices for automobiles, household appliances and furniture.

He reports that if the steel dispute is settled soon, consumers may expect a better break on prices for these items. That is, if the international situation remains unchanged.

Automobiles

Present estimates indicate that the demand for cars in 1952 will be about the same as in 1951. And if production picks up without an increase in demand, we might expect greater emphasis on selling polices. As a result, this may favor the buyer—thru' price concessions, easier credit terms and larger trade-in allowances.

The age of auto now in use is different than it was a few years ago. About ½ of the cars are under 5 years old. Three-fifths are post-war models. And there are very few five to nine-year old cars, due to the last war.

So, if production of civilian automobiles increases soon, the market may become a "buyers" market, where dealers usually are eager to sell, and often will give concessions in order to sell.

Household Appliances

Bivens says that large supplies of household appliances, now in wholesale and retail channels, plus the consumer's reluctance to buy, also will lead to a favorable situation for the buyer. Retail stores have ample stocks of durable consumer goods such as refrigerators, TV sets, and deep freezers.

He says it now appears that no price increase is due on the major appliances and furniture. And in fact, the economist reports we may see some price concessions by merchants in the next few months.

The supplies of materials for manufacturing major household appliances will be enough for the future. Expanding output of raw materials, as well as the defense "stretch-out" makes this possible.

Boys Demonstration Help Meetings To Be Held

Two demonstration help meetings will be held to aid boys 4-H demonstration teams and their leaders in developing their demonstration teams to compete at the Achievement Show. The east half of the county will attend a meeting at 8:00 p. m. on Thursday, July 10, at the R E A building in Garner. The west half of the county will meet at Britt at 8:00 p. m. on Friday, July 11, at the Britt high school.

All leaders, their demonstration teams and any other boys interested in demonstrations are asked to attend the meeting. In case you are unable to attend the meeting in your part of the county try to attend the other meeting.

NOW IS TIME TO KILL RAGWEEDS

Will Be Big Help To Those With Hay Fever

With everyone pitching in to kill ragweeds now, Iowans could go a long way toward eliminating the cause of much summer misery of hay fever victims.

Small ragweed and giant ragweed — which is sometimes called horseweed — are the two plants most responsible for hay fever in Iowa, says E. P. Sylwester, extension weed specialist at Iowa State College. Both species have germinated and are growing now. They will start producing pollen in late July and continue nearly to frost if they are not disturbed, he adds.

May Use 2,4-D

Chemical weed killers are effective against ragweed now, according to Sylwester. He recommends spraying infested areas with 2,4-D at the rate of 1 pound of the actual chemical to the acre.

Ragweeds are frequent in fencerows, roadbanks, creek and river banks, meadows and pastures. If they are growing in grass meadows where crops will not be damaged by 2,4-D sprays, Sylwester recommends spraying. But if there are legumes in the meadow, he recommends cultural control measures, since 2,4-D it is deadly to legumes.

Close Mowing Helps

Ragweeds are annuals, growing each year from seed scattered on the ground in previous years. Close mowing to prevent flowering, production of pollen and seed production is an effective control measure. Two or three years of repeated mowings that prevent seed production will break down an infestation.

There are some precautions to keep in mind when using 2,4-D according to Sylwester. He recommends the ester type of 2,4-D for spraying, except where plants sensitive to 2,4-D are near by—then he suggests using the amine type. Spraying on a quiet day and keeping the spray nozzle close to the plants will help cut down the amount of damage that may be caused by the spray drifting to other areas.

the Highway Story

IOWA DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC SAFETY

BY BOB HULLIHAN

Sitting in his car at the drive-in, sucking a malt through a straw, Don had every appearance of a mild-mannered boy. He watched the car-hops scurrying around closing out the last business of the night. He watched one in particular, Sylvia, a girl he had dated a few times and thought of as "my girl." Sylvia didn't think the same way.

At closing time she walked past Don's car without glancing at him, stepped into another car with another boy and left the drive-in. Don left a cloud of dust hanging over the drive-in as he roared out in pursuit.

He followed the car into town and made a quick stop to pick up three of his friends from a street corner. "We're going to beat a guy," he told them. "He's got my girl."

But when he stopped to pick up reinforcements, Don lost the other car. He claimed he knew where the couple was going and said he could cut them off. He raced out of town and hit a gravel road at 80 miles an hour. He drove three miles at that speed then stopped in the middle of a country intersection.

"They'll come through here," he told his friends, "and this is where we'll get him."

In the next fifteen minutes, the boys stopped three cars, looked over the occupants, then waved them on with all the authority of police at a road block.

They had just given up their search and were pulling out of the intersection when the police car from town moved in on them and the chase that followed covered seven miles and hit speeds up to 90 miles an hour.

The police risked their lives in getting the car stopped without forcing it into the ditch where, probably, at least two of the boys would have died. Yet, Don's first remark when he climbed out and faced the police was, "Why don't you guys mind your own business." When they hand out prizes for immature minds, Don and his pals should be in front of the line.

Poultry Flock Needs Shade From Hot Sun

Use shade to protect your poultry from hot weather.

W. R. Whitfield, extension poultryman at Iowa State College, says shade will insure normal feeding and drinking in hot weather. It also protects birds from hawks and crows.

The specialist reports that tall forage—cane, corn or kaffir corn—produces adequate shade if trees or shrubs aren't growing near by.

A nearby fence row of trees or shrubs will give plenty of shade, says the poultryman. One good method of using it is to pull the brooder house or shelter within a couple of rods of the shade. Then move feeders and waterers closer each day until all equipment is in the shade.

Brooder houses or summer shelters offer neither enough room nor comfort in the hot weather. Chickens often won't leave the brooder house if shade isn't available. This increases the danger of a disease outbreak besides making more cleaning necessary. Also, birds won't fleshen properly for egg production and may go into another molt.

Whitefield suggests planting a few shrubs or trees so you can depend later on natural shade where you want it.

Delayed

At the Memrelund Lutheran church at Stanton, celebration of holy communion was slightly delayed on Sunday recently. Just before the service began, it was found that someone had stolen the gallon jug of communion wine. Deacon Oren Olander drove to Red Oak to borrow the necessary wine from a neighboring church.

CORN "LAID BY" AND OATS HARVESTING NEXT

The warm weather of the past few weeks has really made the corn grow and most fields were cultivated for the last time the past week.

Haying has been in full swing the past week and a lot of good high quality hay was made.

Many fields of oats are beginning to turn color and ripen and with good weather some of the earlier fields will be combined by the end of this week.

STEEL

You probably have not noticed it, but if you are in the market for anything made of steel and plan to buy a little later on, you may be in for some disappointment. Crops in this locality have never looked better. Your machinery will have to be in top condition to get the job done this harvest season. Look it over carefully and get your repairs ordered soon enough. We do the best we can, but no implement store can carry everything that might break or wear out. New corn pickers are going to be in short supply. Iowa gets one pull type two-row per county. This means that the smaller dealers go without. We get two.

Demand for new machinery is not expected to be heavy, but it will be greater than the supply in spite of this year's low farm profits. OLIVER is still the best buy. See us and compare.

'Horned' Jack Rabbits

According to the U.S. Fish and Wildlife service, there is no true-horned jack rabbit. Occasionally there is a diseased condition, both of jack rabbits and cottontails, in which horny skin growths appear on various parts of the body. These may attain a length of as much as an inch, and if they appear on the head, they will resemble stubby antlers. Sometimes taxidermists have indulged in practical jokes by preparing a mounted specimen of jack rabbit to which they have fastened the small, slender antlers of the Sonoran white-tailed deer. Such antlers are small enough to look quite reasonably proportioned to the size of the rabbit.

After spraying pastures for poisonous weeds, it's best to keep cattle out until the weeds have decomposed.

Fashion a Matter of Emotion, Not Reason, Professor Says

Fashion is on trial with a retired University of Cincinnati professor of sociology as prosecuting attorney.

Exhibits A, B, and C in the professor's case against fashion are the heavy wool sports coats of men for summer, the frail winter shoes of women, and the queer hats of women.

From these illogical articles, Dr. Ernest L. Talbert, professor emeritus, draws the conclusion that "fashion operates mostly within the sphere of emotion, not of pure reason."

Dr. Talbert's biting analysis of fashion appears in his book of essays and reviews, "In the Spirit of Jefferson," just published.

If man were a creature of reason, the professor feels human clothing might be expected to have grown through the years progressively more useful, comfortable, durable, and beautiful. Instead of that, "When dress is at the peak of popular acceptance, it is considered beautiful," Dr. Talbert writes "Later decades, taking up with a fresh style, may condemn it as ugly."

Dr. Talbert has a brisk retort for the faction which maintains the "mental hygiene" value of changing styles. "It may also become a threat to sanity," he warns. "Following the mode may become a craze and an obsession.

"In times of social disorganization especially, when bewilderment and fear are widespread, fashion offers a remedy for sick minds, a futile method of alleviating anxieties and bidding for security."

There are always a few "who do not care for external trappings of any kind," approved Dr. Talbert, who long ago relinquished the standard professorial briefcase for a utilitarian shopping bag — though students testify to the nattiness of his corduroy sports coats.

"Plexiglas" Lung

Newborn babies should have a greater chance of survival if the newly invented oxygen "air lock" machine is on hand when they first make their appearance in the world. Invented by Dr. Allen Bloxsom of Houston, Texas, the machine is now in use and is said to be credited with a 25 per cent reduction in infant mortality. The device works on the principle of the iron lung except that, in this mechanism, the entire body of the patient is placed within the "Plexiglas" tube. It is equipped with a positive-pressure air lock supplying extra oxygen, warmth and humidity that it said to aid babies in their first breathing. They find the machine especially useful for saving premature infants.

Miss Iris Schaefer Bride Of Frank D. Rayhons At Garner Church

Lighted candelbra, vases of white peonies, and baskets of mixed peonies framed the setting for the marriage ceremony of Miss Iris Schaefer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy L. Schaefer Klemme, and Frank Dale Rayhons, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Rayhons of Garner. The ceremony took place at the Saint Boniface Catholic church, Garner, June 17, 9:00 a.m.

The double ring ceremony was read by Father M. J. Manternach pastor of the church, in the presence of relatives and friends of the couple.

The choir sang, "On This Day, O Beautiful Mother, Ave Maria and Panis Angelicus."

The bride entered the church on the arm of her father to the strains of the "Wedding March." They were met at the alter railing by the groom.

The bride wore a white marquisette gown over a slip of glimmering white taffeta. It had a low round neckline, edged by a ruffle of chantilly lace. At the waist was a peplum of chantilly lace in front extending into a fish tail in the back. It had long sleeves, tapering to a point over the wrist and a long train. A net tiara trimmed with seed pearls held her illusion veil. The veil edge was scalloped, trimmed with net flowers and seed pearls to match that of the tiara. She wore a double strand of choker pearls, a gift from the bridegroom, and pearl with rhinestone trimmed earrings.

The bride carried a bouquet of white carnations and green ivy, with white satin streamers tied around ivy greens. Her bouquet was also tied around ivy greens. Tied into the bouquet was a two-yard lace ribbon that the groom's mother carried at her wedding. The groom's three sisters also carried this ribbon at their weddings. The bride also carried a lace handkerchief that the groom's mother owned and a blue Rosary, a gift from the groom.

Doris Kapacek, cousin of the groom, was maid of honor. She wore a pastel blue nylon net strapless gown with matching stole. Her head band was of matching blue flowers and ribbon. She wore a single strand of pearls, a gift of the bride, and pearl and rhinestone earrings. Doris carried a bouquet of pastel pink carnations.

Daisy Schaefer, sister of the bride, was first bridesmaid. She wore a pastel yellow nylon net strapless gown with matching net stole similar to Doris's gown. Her headband was of matching yellow flowers and ribbons. She wore a single strand of pearls, a gift from the bride, and pearl and rhinestone earrings. Daisy carried a pastel blue bouquet of carnations.

Helen Engstler, cousin of the groom, was second bridesmaid. She wore a pastel pink nylon net strapless gown with matching net stole, similar to the maid of honor's dress, and identical to the first bridesmaid's. She wore a single strand of pearls, a gift from the bride, and pearl and rhinestone earrings. Helen carried a pastel yellow bouquet of carnations.

Sandra Jo Schaefer, niece of the bride and Donna Horicka, niece of the groom, were flower

HANCOCK COUNTY SPORTS FESTIVAL AT KANAWHA

The Hancock County Sports Festival will be held in Kanawha on Friday, July 25th. The tentative program will me elimination softball games by both boys and girls 4-H clubs, a safedriving contest and a tractor rodeo that will be held in the afternoon, starting at 1:30 p. m.

The softball games will be played on the ball diamond on the school grounds. The tractor rodeo contest will be run off on the vacant lots directly east of the Kanawha High School, and the safedriving contest will be conducted on the street west of the ball diamond.

The evening program will start at 7:30 p. m. with a band concert played by the Kanawha High School Band under the direction of Mr. Jim Aukerman. The finals of the softball games, both boys and girls, will be played right after the band concert.

The Kanawha Commercial Club, with Ernest Nelson, is cooperating with Farm Bureau Office in making plans and arranging for the equipment needed for the tractor rodeo. Implement dealers of Kanawha who are assisting and furnishing tractors, etc., include E. H. Nelson, I.H.C; Moehler and Brunson, John Deere; Mr. Goodrich, Case; Mr. Yeakel, M. & M. and Van's Motor, A. C.

There are no limitations as to age or sex in the tractor rodeo. Anyone wishing to enter this contest should contact Paul G. Shurts, County Farm Bureau Fieldman.

In the safedriving contest, there are two divisions, men and boys, and women and girls. Each contestant must have a driver's permit.

The friendly town of Kanawha invites everyone to spend the afternoon and evening in relaxation and fun in attending the Hancock County Sports Festival on Friday, July 25th.

ANNUAL CO-OP. GRAIN CO. MEETING HELD FRIDAY

Past Year's Business Approached Million Dollar Mark

The annual meeting of the Klemme Coop. Grain Company was held on the evening of July 11th in the basement of the Grade School Building. Guest speaker of the evening was Mr. Glen Pogeler, Manager of the North Iowa Cooperative Processing Ass'n. of Manly, Iowa. Mr. Pogeler gave a progress report on the new soybean mill which their cooperative is building at Mason City. The local elevator is a charter member of this cooperative.

Manager Lemke gave a detailed report on last year's business which showed a substantial growth in every department. Sales for the year were $905,-988.39 and was the highest sales volume on record. Net savings for the year were $37,515.47.

These savings were allocated back to members on the basis of 2½ cents per bushel on grain purchased from members, 1c per bushel on grain sold, and 7½ per cent on merchandise. This cooperative uses the "Revolving Fund" method of financing its operations. This method has permitted its members to build their modern facilities with a small cash investment. Their total assets now stand at $288,-220.00. After deducting their current and deferred liabilities they have a net worth of over $235,-000.00. Of this only $37,052 has been paid in as cash as membership fees and investments.

Donna Grieman And Dick Finders Exchange Vows At Peace Church

WILL MAKE THEIH HOME IN FORT DODGE, IOWA

Young Couple Are Graduates Of The Klemme High School

Donna Grieman daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ben F. Greiman, Garner and Richard L. Finders, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Finders of Fort Dodge were united in marriage July 10 at the Peace Reformed Church. Reverend Henry Hueneman performed the double-ring ceremony.

They were attended by Nellie Greiman, sister of the bride and Jim Welp, Bancroft, friend of the couple.

The bride wore a white taffeta, chantilly lace, street length dress with Rhinestone accessories. Her corsage was of red roses and white baby breath.

The bridesmaid was attired in a dress of American Beauty rose Chantially lace over white taffeta. Her corsage was of pale pink roses with white baby breath.

A reception and wedding dance was held at the All Vets Social Center that same evening. Music was furnished by the Country Clubbers.

Both the bride and groom are graduates of the Klemme High School. Mrs. Finders is a cosmetologist graduate of La James College of Beauty Culture, Mason City and has been employed as the Senior Instructor for a year and a half. The groom served three and one half years in the armed forces and is now employed in Fort Dodge.

The couple will make their home at 1417 3rd Avenue South, Fort Dodge.

At the close of the annual meeting Verner Preibe and Clarence Lenz were elected as directors to succeed W. H. Greimann and Lester Stille. Raymond Barz, present Secretary was re-elected to succeed himself. Other members of the board are E. J. Arnold, President, Emil W. Lau, Vice President, Dwight Helps and Leslie Hartbeck.

The local firm employes 8 men regularly. They are Mike Lemke, Manager, Walter Lemke, Ass't. Manager, Elmer Wessels, Elevator Superintendent; Alvin Thieman and Frek Sobek in the mill; Elmer Bachman and Robert Jahnke, truckers; and Jacob Hess, Custodian.

First National Bank Improves Building with New Steps

The First National Bank building is now adorned with new concrete steps and iron railing on each side of the steps. Workmen broke out the old concrete steps the last of the week and on Monday the new "made-to-measure" steps were installed.

It is a nice improvement to the appearance of the building and a convenience to the customers.

Twenty-two states now prohibit the diversion of motor vehicle fees and taxes to non-highway purposes, says the Automobile Club of New York.

4-H Exchange Couple Are Visiting At Carl Pearson Farm Home Here

YOUNG COUPLE ARE AMAZED BY PLENTIFUL SUPPLY OF FOOD

Exchange Couple Thinks Iowa Is Beauty Spot Of The World

Two young people, Mr. and Mrs. Nels Hermanson of Stockholm, Sweden, who are visiting the United States on a 4H Club Exchange basis, are enjoying the American way of doing things at the farm and home of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Pearson, east of Klemme.

Sweden sent six young people to the United States on a Youth Exchange. Mr. and Mrs. Hermanson were chosen as two of the six young people. They were married shortly before sailing for the States.

Young people from a number of foreign countries were entertained for a week in Washington, D. C. before being sent to farms in the agricultural section of the country. The Hermansons said that they would have enjoyed the Washington visit a lot more if it had been at the end of the four months exchange, rather than the first part, as but few of the young people could speak English or understand it, and it was very hard for them to comprehend what they saw and also what they were told.

Hermanson is Mr. Pearson's nephew. He is the son of Mr. Pearson's sister in Sweden. Nels is very interested in the mechanized, large scale farming which he is seeing first hand. He is amazed by the working of all kinds of tractors, balers, combines, haying equipment and all the other power machines on the farms.

Mrs. Hermason is thrilled by the sight of so many modern conveniences and electrical appliances found in the farm kitchen and home. She is amazed by the vast quantity and quality of food available in this country.

Wednesday evening the young couple watched the free movie show in Klemme. They were thrilled to see so many big cars parked in such a compact manner and wondered how they all would get out after the show. Neither of the young couple had ever seen or tasted pop-corn, so they tried it, liked it, but said it was a bit salty and made them thirsty!

Both of them think Iowa is the most beautiful land they have seen on the trip. They are learning to speak our language and are really enjoying their visit here. They may be sent to some other farm home later to gather more information and farming methods before returning to Sweden where they will tell of how farming is done in the U. S.

KLEMME BALL CLUB STASKS UP MORE WINS

The Klemme soft ball team is really hitting it's stride and has added more wins the past week.

July 3 they defeated Clear Lake 20-11 behind the pitching of Wayne Buseman. Bud Nieman, former Klemme pitcher was on the mound for the Lakers.

July 11 the locals won a close one over Dows, 10-9 that went into an extra inning.

July 13 Klemme defeated Clear Lake 26-0. John Eenhuis pitched for Klemme, and Walt Greiman pitched for Clear Lake.

"MY SON JOHN" Superb Film Drama

Opening at the Avery Theatre Garner on Tuesday, July 22, this shocking drama rates special attention on two important counts: It brings the superb artistry of Helen Hayes back to the screen after an absence of seventeen years; and it deals frankly with the problem of Americans who are duped into betraying their country.

The American Legion,the nation's largest and most powerful veteran's organization, is so overwhelmingly impressed with the importance of 'MY SON JOHN' for its anti-communistic story, that it has issued a call for all Legionnaires____ and all Americans to see this fine picture.

Co-starred with Miss Hayes in this timely and important drama are Dean Jagger, Robert Walker and Van Heflin. The film was photographed largely on location in Washington, D. C.

Cards received by Klemme relatives and friends of the Edmund Jostens and Les Hartbecks indicate those people are enjoying a nice vacation trip. They have been through the Black Hills, the Yellowstone National Park, Salt Lake City and other places of scenic beauty and interest. They expect to return to Klemme the latter part of this week.

Dominy Appointed To Administration Committee

Howard R. Dominy, Goodell, was appointed this week to the Farmers Home Administration committee for Hancock County, J. Hugh Braby, local supervisor for the agency, said Wednesday. The appointment was made by B. W. Lodwick, State Director.

The new committeeman is a general farmer and a long-time resident of the Goodell community. His experience in developing a successful family-type farm, Braby said, fits him well for his new assignment in aiding other farmers to do the same. He will serve three years.

Braby explained that all applications for Farmers Home Administration credit must be approved by the county committee before loan can be made. When a real estate loan is being considered to buy, enlarge or develop a farm or to improve housing and farm buildings, the committee also determines how much the farm is worth as security for the loan.

Advice of the committeemen is sought on good farm management and on the refinancing of Farmers Home Administration loans when borrowers build up enough equity in their property to get credit from local banks or other lenders, Brabl added. Farmers who can get private or cooperative credit are eligible for loans from the agency, he said.

Mr. Dominy succeeds Clark R. Clement, farmer near Garner, whose three-year term expired June 30.

Members who continue to serve are Walter J. Kahl, Britt and William J. Rasmuson, Britt.

THE FARM OUTLOOK

County Extension Director
By Paul Henderson,

Americans are eating more poultry and eggs.

The average consumption of eggs and poultry per person was 85.7 pounds last year, compared to 81.1 pounds in 1950 and 62.9 in 1941.

And the rise in the consumption of poultry products and eggs has been one of the prominent changes in the food consumption habits of the American people in recent years, believes Francis A. Kutish, extension farm economist at Iowa State College.

Meanwhile, the consumption of red meat per person was 138 pounds last year. This is a considerable drop from a peak of 155 in the mid 1940's.

But Kutish says we've been eating all the meat we've produced, and the lower consumption of red meat is partly due to lower beef production. Consumption probably will pick up when the expected increase in beef slaughter reaches the market.

The decrease in red meat consumption is partly due, however, to a shift in food habits. Following an extensive campaign by broiler producers, chicken and other products now are competing favorably with other meats.

Beef Prices

Speaking of beef, let's see what tht future effect of live animal by-products will have on the price of beef.

Farm economist, Gordon Bivens, reports that the effect of low animal by-products prices has pretty well shaken out of the beef picture.

Live animal prices are determined by the value of by-products, such as talow and hides. Lower prices for by-products have been one big reason for lower beef prices in recent months.

Scare buying of by-products after the Korean war boosted prices considerably. Now overstocked, many users of by-products haven't been buying lately. Also, new synthetics have made large inroads on normal by-products markets, forcing tallows and hides to look to cheaper foregin markets.

But the economist believes the downward price pressure caused by a slack in by-product demand is about over. Although demand for by-products isn't going to pick up, it has reached a level where it might remain steady for a while.

What's going to determine the beef price now is the carcass side of the animal. And the numbers of cattle that come off grass, plus the corn crop this year largely will determine this price.

Large cattle numbers will begin showing up, but the increase may only a little more than offset the decreased hog slaughter. So balancing the picture, beef isn't going to be in a vulnerable position for the rest of this year and the early part of 1953.

Custodian Resigns At Eagle Lake Park

P. J. Schwab has resigned as custodian of Eagle Lake State Park, a position he had held since the death of George Lloyd in August, 1950. He gave ill health as the reason for his action. Ellis Dudgeon is the new custodian at the park, beginning his duties this week.

Visiting around Iowa

by Joe Marsh

Joe Spots a Killer

Joe Edgard found a cow dead in the pasture the other day.

There'd been an electrical storm. The old cow was lying there next to the fence. It looked as though lightning had run along the wire and jumped over to the cow.

But Joe's too smart to jump to conclusions. He called the veterinarian. And the vet found the cow hadn't died from lightning, but from anthrax.

And if Joe hadn't investigated, anthrax could have killed his whole herd before he could get them vaccinated.

Joe's "safety first" approach is a pretty good idea for all of us. Too many folks sometimes jump to conclusions. They object to our choice of political candidates just from prejudice. Or they may dislike a neighbor without even knowing him. Some would even object to our right to enjoy a temperate glass of beer on a hot day. Preconceived notions like that, based on prejudice, can often do as much harm as lightning, or anthrax.

Don Schaefer Wins $5.00 Award For Alertness At Station

Don Schaefer, proprietor of Don's D-X Service on Highway 69 west of Klemme, is $5.00 richer because of being alert in servicing automobiles.

Recently a man drove up to Don's station in a late model car and asked Don to check the oil. Don did as requested, the oil was O. K. but he noticed that the fan belt was frayed and needed replacing.

He told the man that the oil was alright, but that the fan belt might cause him trouble, and suggested installing a new Gates fan belt.

The man then introduced himself as the Gates "Mystery Man No 32," and informed Don that he had pust won himself a $5 bill for his alertness and suggesting that a new Gates fan belt was needed.

Don was quite surprised to get a $5 00 reward. Now he is on the alert for the next "Mystery Man" and a $10.00 award.

Methodists Elect Three New Bishops

MILWAUKEE — Three new bishops were elected Friday by the north central jurisdictional conference of the Methodist Church.

The Rev. D. Stanley Coors, 62, pastor of the Central Methodist church, Lansing, Michigan was elected on the 11th ballot. Dr. Edwin E. Voight, 60, president of Simpson College, Indianola, Iowa, was elected on the 14th ballot, and the Rev. F. Gerald Ensley, 45, pastor of North Broadway Church, Columbus, Ohio, was elected on the 15th polling.

Each of the bishops-elect will be assigned to one of the eight Episcopal areas of the nine-state conference.

84.4 Per Cent Of Corn Is Hybrid

WASHINGTON—Farmers this year planted 84.4%, of their corn acreage with hybrid seed, a new record, the Agriculture reported Saturday.

The department said the high yielding hybrids were planted on five out of every six acres this year, compared to one acre in 1,000 in 1933. It said 70,366,000 of the total corn acreage of 83,369,000 acres were in hybrids.

The department said hybrid corn, which has already made a virtual sweep of the Corn Belt, is continuing to pick up popularity in other parts of the country.

the Highway Story

IOWA DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC SAFETY

BY BOB HULLIHAN

If anyone doubts that the sudden violence of a traffic accident is sometimes enough to jar reason out of the mind, note these incidents reported by the highway patrolman.

One patrolman will never forget the night he stood on a highway by the burning wreckage of a car and, for five minutes, battled wildly with a man who was determined to climb into the flaming car and "get out of here." He had been thrown out of the car when its driver dozed and sideswiped a truck.

In another accident, a drunken driver came over a hill, crowding the center of the highway and waving his arm out of the car window. The arm was cut off and dropped inside the car he met at the crest of the hill.

A patrolman who came by a minute later found the drunken driver, heedless of his severed arm, struggling to drag a case of beer out of his car, trying to hide it in the ditch.

Two patrolmen were called to the scene of a night accident. They found a crushed car with a dead driver and a comparatively uninjured woman passenger. She sat in the front seat holding a baby's rattle.

The patrolmen saw infant's clothes and toys scattered in the back seat of the car. Instantly they began searching for the baby, tearing out the cushions of the car, running to stop all traffic when they failed to find it, fearing the child was lying some where on the highway.

The woman was screaming "Find my baby. Find my baby." People who stopped at the scene began searching the ditches on either side of the highway, climbing the fences to look in the fields.

In everyone's mind was the picture of a baby, thrown from the car in the accident, perhaps dying somewhere along the dark highway. The search went on for 20 minutes before the woman remembered she had no baby. She had been taking the clothes and toys to a christening as gifts.

Legion Auxiliary Held Meeting

The American Legion Auxiliary met at the home of Mrs. Martin Barz on Tuesday evening. Vice-pres. Louise Etchen presided over the meeting in the absence of the president.

Reports were made concerning the Auxiliary stand at the Legion Celebration and the Alumni Banquet.

A thank-you letter from the Woodward Hospital for favors sent recently was read. It was voted to send $1.00 to our assigned child for her birthday.

The president, Flora Back, and Secretary, Helen Stille, are to go to the State Convention July 30-31. Alternates are to be Leafy Coobs, Louise Etchen, Carrie Schwichtenberg and Lois Chambers. It is hoped that a carload or two can go down for a day.

Dues for the coming year were paid by several members.

Thelma Arnold was winner of the attendance prize. Lunch was served by Mrs. Barz at the close of the meeting to the 23 members present.

New plantings of trees and shrubs need special care for at least the first year.

NOTICE TO BICYCLE RIDERS

A Town| Ordiance prohibits riding bicycles anywhere in the Town of Klemme during darkness without proper lights and bell or horn signal. The penalty for this violation is severe: a fine of not more than $100 or 30 days in the jail.

The danger of riding bicycles at night was well illustrated Sunday evening when the Olsen boy was badly injured.

Some riders have made a nuisance of themselves by riding in groups and causing unnecessary noise and this must be stopped. Bicycles which are not equipped according to the Ordiance will be picked up and the owner arrested.

By order of the Town Council, of Klemme, Iowa.

V. A. Cook, Mayor

Time To Can Or Freeze Plentiful Peaches

Peaches—plentiful right now, delicious the whole year long in salads and desserts—are so easy to can or freeze that few homemakers pass them up.

Here are canning directions from Iowa State College extension nutritionists. Scald peaches in boiling water until skins slip, then cool by dipping in cold water. Peel, cut into halves or slices as desired.

You can prevent peaches from darkening by placing them in a salt bath—1 tablespoon salt and 1 tablespoon vinegar to 2 quarts water. Take fruit from salt bath, rinse, and add ¼ cup sugar to each pound of fruit to draw out juice. Heat to boiling and pack as hot as possible in clean, hot jars. Cover with hot liquid (peach juice or sugar sirup). Fill jars to within ½ inch of top, work out bubbles with a knife blade and adjust lids. Process pints or quarts 20 minutes in boiling water bath. Remove from water and tighten any caps only partly sealed before processing.

A bushel basket of peaches will yield 18 to 24 quarts of canned peaches.

To freeze peaches: Wash ripe, sound peaches. Scald in boiling water till skins slip, cool quickly and peel. Trim out any defects, using a stainless steel knife. Slice peaches or drop halves directly into containers partly filled with 50 percent sugar sirup—5 cups sugar to 1 quart water, prepared beforehand and cooled. Use airtight containers such as glass jars or plastic. Freeze.

girls. They wore identical short dresses of white organdy and lace with puffed sleeves, full skirts, and a ruffle around the skirt which was gathered up in three places in the front and pinned with a cluster of baby roses. These little dresses were made by the bride. They also wore white anklets, white sandals, and a white ribbon in their hair. Sandra Jo carried a bouquet of pastel pink carnations identical to that of the bride's and Donna carried an identical bouquet of pastel yellow carnations.

Gary Frein, nephew of the acted as ring bearer. He wore a black coat with tails and white trousers and carried the rings on a white taffeta pillow edged with lace. This also was made by the bride.

The bridegroom was attended by his cousins, Marvin Engstler, Edwin Chizek and Duane Severson, a friend of the couple. The groom and his attendants wore blue suits, a white carnation boutonniere and matching ties, a gift from the groom.

Mrs. Schaefer, mother of the bride, wore a flowered navy-blue nylon dress with pink accessories and a pink and white corsage.

Mrs. Rayhons, mother of the bridegroom, wore a pink lace dress over a slip of taffeta with white accessories. She wore a pink and white corsage.

Wilmer Frien, brother-in-law of the groom, and Don Schaefer brother of the bride ushered.

A wedding dinner was held at the Saint Boniface church basement with 200 guests attending. The basement was decorated with white, blue, yellow and pink streamers and white wedding bells.

A four-tier wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and groom centered the bride's table. Cut flowers and candles decorated the other tables. This cake was baked and decorated by Mrs. Claude White, Klemme, a friend of the bride. Mrs. Wilmer Frein, sister of the groom, and Mrs. Emery Weaver, sister of the bride, cut and served the cake for lunch.

Mrs. Eugene Schaefer, sister-in-law of the bride, had charge of the guest book.

Mrs. Dennis Trca, sister of the bride and Mrs. Don Schaefer, sister-in-law of the bride had charge of arranging the gifts in the afternoon.

In the evening a wedding dance was held at the Surf Ballroom with Malek's Accordian Band furnishing the music. A large crowd attended and the couple recieved many nice gifts.

The bride and groom took a short honeymoon into Minnesota and are now living with Mr. and Mrs. Wilmer Frein. The groom has been farming with Mr. Frien.

The bride graduated from the Klemme school this spring and was employed at Josten's Hardware in Klemme. The groom is a graduate of Hayfield school in the class of 1949.

LaVon Franken And H. William Montgomery Exchanged Vows

COUNTRY CHURCH IS SETTING FOR CEREMONY

Double-Ring Ritual Performed By Rev. E. Morris Egeland

A pretty summer wedding was held Sunday, July 20 at 2:30 P. M. in the Evangelical and Reformed Church near Schaller, Iowa, uniting in marriage Miss La Von Armeta Franken, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Franken of Schaller, and H. William Montgomery, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Montgomery of Klemme.

Rev. E. Morris Egeland, of Klemme, officiated at the double ring ceremony before an altar decorated with large baskets of pastel colored gladioli and candelabra.

An organ prelude of nuptial music was played before the ceremony. Miss Mary Buehler sang "I Love You Truly," and "Always." Mrs. Lillie Franken, aunt of the bride, accompanying.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was attired in a white nylon ballerina length gown. She wore matching lace mitts and fingertip length veil which fell from a lovely beaded coronet halo.

Her jewelry consisted of a pair of blue zircon earrings, gift of the groom, and a pearl necklace. She carried an orchid with lover knot streamers on a white Bible.

Miss Carole Ann Montgomery, sister of the groom, served as maid of honor. She was attired in a light green organdy ballerina length gown, and wore a tiara of white rose buds. She carried a fan of yellow gladioli tied with mint green streamers.

Elaine Ploeger, cousin of the bride, acted as ring bearer. She wore a yellow organdy ballerina dress.

They were met at the altar by the groom and his atttndant, Dale Franken, brother of the bride. The groom and best man were dressed in light business suits and each wore a carnation boutonniere.

John Franken and Marvin Ploeger, cousins of the bride, were ushers and candle lighters.

The bride's mother chose a navy blue dress with navy and white accessories.

Mrs. Montgomery chose an aqua dress with white accessories. Both mothers had corsages of pink carnations.

Mrs. H. H. Welker, of Clear Lake, grandmother of the groom, was attired in gray printed nylon. She wore a white carnation corsage.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the church parlors for about one hundred relatives and friends. The parlors were decorated in the bride's colors of mint green and yellow. The bride's table was centered by a square four-tiered cake and topped with a miniature bride and groom.

After the traditional cutting of the wedding cake, Mrs. J. Mack Schroeppel, close friend of the bride's family, cut and served the cake. Mrs. Roy Badker, aunt of the groom poured.

Mrs. Clarence Malcom was in charge of the guest book; Mrs. Art Ploeger was dining room hostess, and in charge of the gift table were Mrs. Paul Gottschalk and Mrs. Dale Franken.

Waitresses were Virginia Arthur, Mildred Clausen, Phyllis and Norma Ploeger. They wore frosted organdy aprons and yellow rose bud corsages, gifts of the bride.

Kitchen honors went to Mrs. John Grotjohn, Mrs. Ted Krause, and Mrs. August Hase.

The bride and groom left for a trip to Canada and upon their return will be at home in Klemme, Iowa.

The bride's travelling ensemble was a gray and yellow print nylon dress with white accessories.

The bride is a graduate of Schaller High School with the class of 1948 and has attended the State University of Iowa and Iowa State Teachers College. She has taught the past two years in Klemme. The groom is a 1948 graduate from Klemme and has since been employed at the Klemme Times.

Those who attended from this community were: Rev. and Mrs. E. M. Egeland, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Montgomery and Carole, Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Jorgenson, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Bachman, Ben Katuin and Shirley Zieman of Meservey, Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Jorgenson, Jr. and Judy and Raj, and Mr. and Mrs. Jim Reinig and Jay of Garner, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Welker and Mr. and Mrs. Roy Badker of Clear Lake, Mr. and Mrs. Elwood Geary of Corwith, Supt. and Mrs. John Micklich of Sutherland.

Young Deer Seen Near Don's D-X Station

Thursday evening when driving toward Klemme on Highway No. 69, Mrs. Lida Filkins, who was practicing her driving lesson and was accompanied by Mr. Eugene Fischer, driving instructor, saw up the road what appeared to be a large dog along the ditch bank.

As the car approached closer, both identified the animal as a young deer, or fawn. It ran along the right of way for a short distance and then leaped over a fence.

Deer are being seen quite frequently in this part of the state. A few weeks Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Jorgenson saw a doe run across the field at the Perd Tompkins home at the south edge of Garner. Farmers around Klemme see deer occasionally in their fields.

TOTAL WILL EXCEED $37 MILLION DOLLAR MARK

Television Sets New Tax Source That Boosts Revenue

Property values in Hancock County have reached an all time high in 1952, according to a report released this week from the office of the county assessor.

Figures quoted are tentative and may be revised before fall, but it now appears that total values may pass the $37 million mark for the first time in Hancock County history.

Personal property values have increased $821,583 over 1951. Of this total, personal property in the towns increased $58,168 and new buildings added another $194,650. In the townships, personal values increased $483,258 and new buildings added another $85,507.

Real, Personal Values Up

Total real and personal values not including utilities, will be approximately $33,650,431 in 1952 as compared with $32,828,848 in 1951. Assuming that utility valuations will add another $3,441,161 (utilities are assessed by the State Tax Commission and are not available at this time) the total valuation of all property less moneys and credits will be approximately $37,091,592. This total includes the soldier's exemptions which will reduce the taxable valuation by approximately $526,000.

The total sum of moneys and credits listed for taxation in 1952 increased by $47,346 over over 1951. Of this increase $20,050 was listed in the town and $27,296 was listed in the townships. The total amount of money and credits listed for 1952 is $1,806,504 as compared with $1,759,158 in 1951.

New buildings added to real estate in 1952 total $280,157 as compared with $371,900 in 1951, or a decrease of $91,743. Building in 1952 is expected to decrease still more.

Tax Television Sets

A new source of taxable property which is increasing rapidly is television. Numerous sets have been installed in the south half of the county where reception has been relatively good and many have been installed since Jan. 1, which will be added to tax rolls next year.

Television sets were assessed from $42 to $186 (taxable values) depending on size of screen and type of television and combination.

On the other hand a source of value which provided much of the personal property valuation in years gone by is rapidly becoming history as faithful dobbin departs from the rural scene. At present, ponies and riding horses provide more value than the draft horse.

Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Burr and children of Ogden came Wednesday for a few days visit at the Naska and Mitchell Bock homes here and at the Edwin Bock home at Garner.

TOWN COUNCIL PROCEEDINGS

REGULAR MEETING

Klemme, Iowa,
July 14, 1952.

Meeting opened by Mayor Cook with Barz, Arnold, Schulz, Buseman and Schaefer, members of the Council, present.

L. A. Ridder presented an oral petition to the Council requesting that Second Street north from Main Street be closed to live stock truck traffic for the reason that such traffic was very destructive to this street, that it created a dust nuisance for residents along this street, and that in the late hours of the evening or in the early hours of the morning the noise of such trucks was disturbing.

The Council agreed that it be advisable to further study the petition by L. A Ridder before taking any action.

The Council reviewed a schedule of assessments as prepared by L. W. Mahone, Engineer, in connection with a proposed drainage project.

RESOLUTION

WHEREAS, the Town of Klemme, Iowa, proposes to construct a storm sewer which will cost approximately $15,000.00, and

WHEREAS, it appears that such storm sewer improvement should be financed by special assessment bonds;

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED That the Town of Klemme, Iowa, engage Carleton D. Beh Co., Des Moines, Iowa, to provide their service in connection with the issuance of any special assessment improvement bonds for such storm sewer improvement, and that the Mayor and Clerk of the Town of Klemme, Iowa, be and they are hereby authorized to sign the bond service agreement with said Carleton D. Beh Co.

The foregoing resolution was introduced by Councilman F. J. Arnold, who moved its adoption. The motion for adoption was seconded by Councilman Roy Schaefer. Upon roll call the vote was as follows:

Ayes: Roy Schaefer, Martin Barz, Frank Schulz, Henry Buseman, and F. J. Arnold.

Nayes: None.

The Mayor thereupon declared said resolution duly adopted.

It was moved by Councilman F. J. Arnold that final and terminating pay be made to Frank Ward in the amount of $90.00. Upon second to this motion by Councilman Barz, the following vote was recorded:

Ayes: Schaefer, Barz, Schulz, Buseman and Arnold.

Nayes: None.

Minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved...

Upon motion by Schaefer, second by Buseman, the following bills were allowed:

Klemme Hardware Co., supplies	4.15

H J. Smid, June Salary	65.00
Treasurer of State, 2nd quarter Sales Tax	25.64
Iowa Old Age & Surv. Ins. Sys., 2nd Quarter Social Security Tax	18.60
C. R. I. & P. Railway Co., Rent of Railroad Ground	1.00
Waterman & Arnold, Workmen's Comp. Ins. Prem.	30.30
L. W. Mahone, Engineering Services	260.00
Hancock County Co-op. Oil Association, Gas, Oil and Supplies	17.00

Mayor Cook declared this to be the date and hour set for a hearing on the Budget Estimate as prepared and published according to law.

There being no taxpayers present to be heard for or against the proposed budget, it was moved by Arnold, second by Schulz, that the adopted budget shall be as the budget estimate prepared in the meeting of the Council held June 9, 1952 and published in The Klemme Times June 18, 1952. Motion carried.

Meeting adjourned.

TELLS OF TRIP THROUGH EAST, SOUTHEAST STATES

Mrs. Martha Bredbenner and daughter, Novella, returned last week from a three-week's trip in the East. From June 19-26 Novella attended a Kappa Phi meeting at Ohio Wesleyan University and following that had spent several days visiting with friends in Pittsburg, Pa. Mrs. Bredbenner then joined Novella in Pittsburg and together they continued their sight-seeing trip eastward. The following is a brief account of the trip by Novella:

"After leaving Pittsburg, June 26, we enjoyed a lovely bus trip through the Allegheny Mountains enroute to Berwick, Pa., where we visited relatives. From there we lfolowed the beautiful Susquehanna River Drive to Harrisburg, Pa., where we joined other tourists at the City Square and went for a cool evening ride in an open-top bus. Next we spent an interesting day at Hershey, Pa. where all the Hershey candy products are made. At Gettysburg, Pa., we devoted 2 days to touring the battlefields, the National Cemetery and other historic spots.

"The trip from Gettysburg to Philadelphia was very interesting for we traveled through Lancaster County, the home of the Amish sect of the Pennsylvania Dutch. The farms of this county are noted for their tobacco and for the huge barns which are used for drying tobacco. In Philadelphia we visited all the historic government buildings on Independence Square, the Betsy Ross home, and St. George's Church, Methodism's oldest and most historic church, dedicated in 1769.

"The next stops on our trip were at Baltimore, Md., and Washington, D. C., where we spent several days visiting with Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Lau and Alan. Leonard is now working in the map engraving division of the Commerce Department, and Mrs. Lau is a stenographer at the National Radio Institute. Alan will be a Junior in high school this fall.

"While in Washington we visited the White House, the Capitol, where we sat in on sessions of the Senate and the House of Representatives, the Bureau of Engraving where we watched paper money being printed, the Smithsonian Institute and many other government buildings and monuments.

"From Washington we went on to Williamsburg, Virginia, the historic capital city which has been restored to its eighteenth century appearance. The hostesses in the historic buildings and the craftsmen in the shops dress in the clothing of the 18th century, so you feel as if you are transported back 200 years in American history. While at Williamsburg we also took tours to Jamestown, the site of the first English settlement in 1607, and to Yorktown, the famous battlefield of the Revolutionary War.

"Our next stop was at Richmond, Va., where we visited the many historic buildings, one of which was the White House of the Confederacy. From Richmond we went on the Charlottesville, Va., where we took a tour of Ashlawn, the home of President James Monroe, Monticello, the home of Pres. Thomas Jefferson, and the University of Virginia, whose archtiectural design was planned by Jefferson.

"Leaving Charlottesville we took the picturesque Skyline Drive through the Blue Ridge Mountains to Front Royal and thence through the Shenandoah Valley to the Luray Caverns, where we viewed the lovely stalactites and stalagmites of this large Virginia cave. From Luray we went on to the Natural Bridge to see this large limestone formation, which is classed as one of the seven wonders of the world. The night illumination of the Natural Bridge and the pageant of the Creation of the World were very impressive.

"The bus trip through the Appalachian Mountains and into the hills of West Virginia was a lovely ride. At Charleston, W. Va., we spent an evening with Mr. and Mrs. Palmer Barnes. Mrs. Barnes is the former Elmira Greiman of Klemme. After leaving West Virginia we travelled through the Kentucky Blue Grass Region and saw a great many of the stock farms of the famous race horses around Lexington, Ky. In Louisville we saw Churchill Downs, the well-know race track of the Kentucky Derby.

"The last part of our trip was through Indiana, to Chicago and back to Klemme."

—Novella Bredbenner.

4-H ACHIEVEMENT SHOW IN KLEMME, JULY 29

Home Made Ice Cream And Cake Will Be Sold By Club

At a meeting at the home of Gracka Gerardi Saturday, the Ell 4-H club members decided to sell home made ice cream and cake for lunch at tht local achievement show on July 29th to be held at the Klemme Grade School building.

We are also to bring our baked items and canned foods to be judged. The baked goods will be sold.

Our next meeting will be July 25th at La Vohn Josten's at 1:00 P. M.

At the meeting Saturday Gracka Gerardi gave a talk on "Goals for Canning." Ginger Kudje gave "Let Old Glory Fly." "Preparing a Fruit and Vegetable for Canning," was demonstrated by Doreen Lackore and Joyce Thieman. A "Safety Kit" was demonstrated by Sharon Graham.

Lunch was served by the hostess and her mother.

BRITT NEWS-TRIBUNE SOLD TO EAGLE GROVE MEN

Roberts Bros. (Lou and Ray) last week announced they had sold their newspaper, the Britt News-Tribune to M. B. Crabbt and John B. Anderson of Eagle Grove. Mr. Crabbe is publisher of the Eagle Grove Eagle, and Mr. Anderson has been employed on the Eagle.

Lou Roberts purchased a half interest in the paper in 1909 and in 1913 became sole owner. Ray first came to Britt in 1903 and worked on the paper for three years, later working in banks at Britt and Osage, and in 1914 formed a partnership with his brother Lou, and the two men have published the paper since that time.

In 1918 they bought the Britt Tribune from E. N. Bailey and merged the two newspapers into the Britt News-Tribune.

Their plans for the future are indefinite.

Avery Sunbeams Hold Meeting

The Avery Sunbeams held their annual All-Day meeting July 11, at the home of Kay Jacobs. Eleven girls answered roll call in the morning and 16 attended in the afternoon. It was decided to hold the local Achievement Show August 4. Judy Brede, Eunice Helps and Kay Jacobs are on the committee to find a place for it.

JoAnn Burgess and Marlene Blumer gave their senior demontration and Colleen Taylor and Darlene Ostendorf gave the junior demonstration. Cooking eggs by different methods, a demonstration, was given by Lois Helps. I am a peppy pal because; and I am a drippy drip because; a team demonstration, was given by Diane and Della Mae Avery. Judy Gilpin gave a talk on freezers and lockers. We discussed our booth for achievement show.

Everyone enjoyed a pot-luck dinner. The next meeting is July 25, at Lois Helps' home.

Willow Winter Injury Is Showing Up Now

Winter injury is showing up now among Iowa willows, reports Arden Scherf, extension plant pathologist at Iowa State College. The injury is from the sudden freeze early last November following a mild fall.

Dead branches or sections of willows are an indication of winter injury, says Scherf. Generally, the crown in tree willows is affected, while all branches of pussy willows usually are killed.

The specialist recommends trimming out dead wood in large willow trees. For the pussy willows, choose the best branch that grows out and let it form the new tree. Then this winter, cut all dead limbs plus extra live branches that are competing with the main stem.

A sponge-rubber or cellulose sponge mop is superior to the old-type cotton or string mop. You don't have to wring out by hand and it rinses clean with a few squeezes in clean water. You also avoid flooding floors with excess water.

Nicholas-Louis Robert of France invented the first practical machine which could make paper in long sheets.

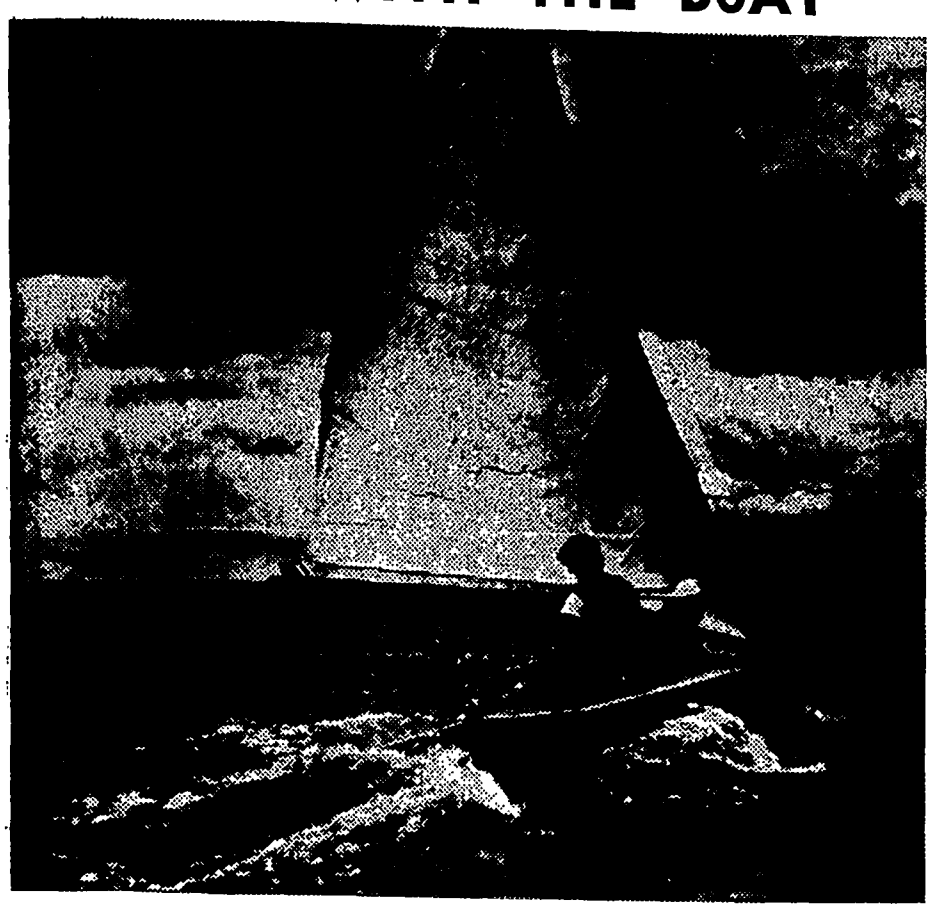
STAY WITH THE BOAT



By John Watson, Education Assistant

Through the ages man has been taking to the water in boats and sometimes as a result dying. Death is the same to the Grand Bank's codman or the Spirit Lake fisherman. But a boating death on an Iowa lake is not only tragic, but unnecessary as well.

As a sport, boating is unexcelled, but it is also an adventure, and the spice of adventure is danger. Even the homemade raft on a farm pond is dangerous. Adventure and danger are found in varying degrees wherever water sports are found.

For several years an average of 80 Iowans has drowned annually. Of these drownings, one in five involves small boats. In 1950, 16 of 94 Iowa drownings involved boaters. In 1951, it was 15 out of a total of 79.

These figures provided by the State Office of Vital Statistics are like most statistics. They are not particularly interested unless a friend or relative is concerned. However, it takes only a short conversation with one of the lake patrol officers to bring the figures to a tragic meaning.

They still talk of the young soldier who while honeymooning took his bride of two days for a boat ride. Somewhere in the center of the lake he decided to have a swim. Abdominal cramps —and a young widow was left sitting alone in the boat.

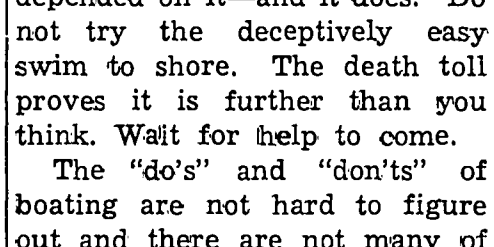
Most people wisely refrain from swimming in the middle of a large lake, yet these same people may overcrowd a small boat and the result is the same. There are laws concerning the capacity of hired boats and most boat liverymen respect them. Common sense along governs the capacity of private boats and "Common sense afloat" is often a scarce commodity.

Of all the dangers of boating, capsizing and swimming are the prime killers. They need not be.

A wooden boat will not sink, nor will a metal one with air compartments. Although almost totally submerged, such a boat will support several people. This is a vital thing to remember if the boat has capsized in a squall and the water is running rough. Cling to the boat as if your life depended on it—and it does. Do not try the deceptively easy swim to shore. The death toll proves it is further than you think. Wait for help to come.

The "do's" and "don'ts" of boating are not hard to figure out and there are not many of them. Don't overload your boat; do know its capacity. Never stand up in a boat or canoe; do raise the anchore while seated. Don't change positions in open water; do row to shore and change there. Don't try to ride out a storm; do strike for shore when storm clouds gather. Don't take chances with non-swimmers; do require that they wear life jackets in small craft. Do determine the capacity of your priately owned boat. Call your nearest state conservation officer or lake patrolman for this information.

Above all, if you get into trouble, don't leave the boat! Although it may be barely afloat, it is the best bet you have. The water is not your element. You belong to the land with which your boat is the only link. Do not break that link. Stay with your boat!



County Extension Director
By Paul Henderson,

Canning Time is htre again. And Iowans find prospects good for a plentiful supply of most canning fruits, Francis Kutish, Iowa State College fram economist reports. Peaches should be more favorably priced than last year, especially later in the season.

Best news probably is that Colorado is coming up with a good peach crop this year. Colorado's long have been the favorite peach forc anning for many homemakers. Last year the Colorado peach crop was almost a complete "bust." Growers picked only 316,000 bushels-compared with a 10-year average of 1,881,000 bushels.

Big Colorado Crop

This year's Colorado crop is estimated at 2,403,00 bushtls. So we can look forward to plentiful supplies of Colorado's this year. Peak of the crop usually hits Iowa grocery stores around Labor Day.

Elsewhere the peach crop is good too. National production is estimated at about 7 percent over last year and a third more than the short crop of 2 years ago. The southern crop isn't quite as good as last year. California's crop is above average. The Illinois, Michigan and Arkansas peach crops all are well above last year's low pick. The Illinois and Michigan harvest will hit peak around the middle of August.

Pear Crop Good

The Nation's pear crop is about the same as last year, or about average. The Idaho blue prune crop is good, and it looks like there will be a lot of big prunes in the pick. Elsewhere the fresh plum and prune crops are smaller, and the price may be a little higher than last year.

The apricot crop isn't quite as good as last year. But more apricots have been shipped out of California than last year. So there should be no shortage for home canning, even though the crop is below average.

I DO—

. . . put my foot in it at times. Here we go again.

Seems like every time we get the band going good with their concerts in our city park, there is pressure brought to bring it up on the street with all the difficulties the change makes.

Let's keep the band in the park where people who like good music can hear it.

OFFICIAL COUNTY PAPER | KLEMME, IOWA, JULY 30, 1952 | Volume No. 57 | No. 35.

Treasurer McMillin Gives Report For The First Half Year Of 1952

Increase In Tax For This Year Of $334,114.65

In a report made by Roy L. McMillin, county treasurer, he stated that for the first half of 1952, the total tax handed to the treasurer for collection of 1951 tax payable in 1952 was $1,515,1 008.22, and 1950 tax payable in 1951 was $1,180,893.57, therefore making an increase, in tax for this year of $334,114.65.

The collections to July 1st of 1952 were $891,412.47, while the collections to July 1st of 1951 were $782,169.00, making an increase in collections of $109,243. 47. The per cent of collections to July 1st this year is 58.84 per cent, according to the report.

The treasurer's office has paid out to the school districts of the county for the first half of the tax. The schools receive 57.5% of the taxes collected, this amounted to $483,235.00.

Hacock county has 156 drainage districts, for which the treasurer's office has collected co far this year $67,027.00.

The Hancock county hospital is now being constructed and they have a one mill levy for this year. This amount will bring to this account $35,741.00.

Each county in the state is credited with a gas tax refund for the miles of primary road in each county. This is paid out each month and the money is used by the County Supervisors for the building of new roads and bridges. We received so far this year $126,302,07.

Automobile and truck registrations are collected by the county treasurer and they are then sent to the State Department. None of the money for thet fee is kept by the county except the 50c for each registration. Collections to July 1st: $184,269.

Dog licenses are collected by the County uditor and then turned in to the county treasurer. The amount received this year was $2550.00.

Agriculture land credit for 1952 to be credited to all land where the school levy is over 15 mills has been taken care of and where tax had been paid, checks were mailed for the credit. This amounts to $56,129.45.

Homestead credit is given to every home owner where they live in the home for six months of the year. This credit is figured at 25 mills on the dollar for the value of the home. Thus, $2,500.00 at 25 mills gives a credit of 62.50, the amount that can be allowed. This refund is sent to the treasurer's office each 6 months. The first half amounted to $68,620.00.

Disbursements for care of patients in state institutions is on the increase.

The treasurer's office has paid for care of patients in state institutions so far this year; $14,-898.97. The county auditor collects for this care where it is possible. Collections for the treasurer's office show, to date: $2,319.63.

The semi-annual report of the county treasurer's includes the months of January to May inclusive, and total receipts during that time show $1,920,682.00.

EDITOR WENT FOR RIDE IN OLD TIME AUTOMOBILE

Friday evening the Editor enjoyed a spin around a couple of miles square with Lee Ridder in his old Nash touring sport car which is now nearly 30 years old and which runs like a sewing machine.

The remarkable thing about the old car is that it is in it's orginal state, and very well preserved . . . a genuine antique now. The engine runs so smooth it would throttle down to one mile per hour on an up-grade pull. Just try that with your modern car.

It takes rough roads remarkably well and does not rattle! There is still plenty of speed in the old car and it would go better than 60 miles per hour, but cruises nicely around 35.

Mr. Ridder also has an old Model T car, but it is not in as good condition and does not have a full compliment of orginal parts as does the old Nash. However, the old Ford can perk right along in good shape.

MISS SHIRLEY WILSON CELEBRATED BIRTHDAY

Shirley, daughter of Mrs. Vivian Wilson, was 15 years old on July 29th, so on Sunday the following had a birthday dinner for her in the Klemme Park: Mr. and Mrs. Earl Reed, her grandparents from Marshalltown; Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Reed and family of Radcliffe; Mr. and Mrs. Bob Marshall and family of Britt; Mr and Mrs. Herb Marshall and Irene of Clear Lake; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bell, and Mrs. Vivian Wilson and Craig.

All enjoyed a fine dinner and a good time visiting.

Auxiliary Will Meet

The Klemme American Legion Auxiliary will meet August 5th at 8:00 o'clock, at the home of Mrs. J. A. Chambers. A report of the State Convention will be given.

the Highway Story

IOWA DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC SAFETY

BY BOB HULLIHAN

There are many pictures in highway patrol files that would cause the most confident driver to question himself—if not miss his dinner. There are pictures taken under the wheels of trains of things that look like damp, scattered sacks.

There are pictures of people who seem to be hiding or resting in ditches until you look more closely. There are pictures of people who seem to be dressed in tight, rough black suits-they have burned to death in wrecks.

And there are the dozens of people who have inherited the impact of a savage collision and become almost a part of the scrambled wreckage of their cars.

But there is one picture that should be seen by those drivers who feel that the natural position of the gas pedal is on the floorboard. It isn't a picture of horror. It is a picture of a shoe.

The shoe looks new, shined, and is fully laced. But there isn't any foot in it. Nor is it where you logically might expect a shoe to be.

This particular shoe is actually wedged halfway into the floorboard of a wrecked automobile. It is just the right of the gas pedal. The man who wore the shoe came over a hill at just about the top speed his car could make. He found another car crossing the highway just below the crest of the hill.

He didn't even have time to shift his foot from the gas to the brake. The crash came so suddenly that his foot was still plastered to the gas pedal and the impact was so great that his shoe was driven into the floorboards.

Many pictures in highway patrol files tell more disagreeable stories, but none tell the story of an accident in more pathetic detail than this one picture of a shoe.

HELLO FOLKS

LOCAL DEALER PURCHASED TEN PONIES IN OKLAHOMA

Mr. and Mrs. Verner Stromer drove to Perry, Oklahoma in their truck last week to attend the largest sale of Shetland ponies held in the United States.

Nearly 1,000 ponies were sold at auction on Friday and Saturday. The Stromers bought ten ponies which they trucked home to their farm north of town to add to their large herd.

The highest priced pony went for $1650 and Mr. Stromer stated that most of the ponies sold between $900 and $1,000 per head. There were buyers from nearly every state in the union at the sale.

Swedish Girl Visits Avery Sunbeams

Nine girls and one visitor, Britt Hermanson, who is visiting here under the international Youth Exchange plan, attended th July 26 meeting at the home of Lois Helps'.

A very busy meeting was held, as we planned and discussed many things. We decided what we are going to take to the achievement shows, both local and county. We planed the program for the local show and the booth.

The committees for the Local Achievement Day were chosen. It was decided what each girl should take when we make ice cream for the show August 5.

Judy Brede gave a demonstration on long term record books. How safe are your surroundings, a talk, was given by Pauline Kramer. An interesting demonstration, "How to make Angel Food and Sponge Cakes was given by Darlene Ostendorf and Elizabeth Lemke.

ART JOHNSON DIED MONDAY MORNING OF HEART ATTACK

Arthur Carl Johnson, 50, resident of the Klemme community, died at the Wm. West home at Rockwell early Monday morning of a heart attack.

Mr. Johnson had been staying at the West home for several weeks and was apparently in good health.

Funeral services are being held today, Wednesday at the Klemme Methodist Church, with the Rev. E. Morris Egeland officiating. Burial in the Klemme Cemetery with casket bearers: Albert Swanson, Roy Swanson, Leonard Swanson, Carl Swanson, Burr Church and Harold Johnson. Arrangements were in charge to the Wellemeyer Funeral Service.

Obituary

Arthur Johnson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Johnson, was born October 12, 1901 at Morris, Ill., and came to Klemme with his parents in 1902 and has lived in this community since.

He attended the Klemme Schools and graduated from the Garner High School. He was a farmer and owned a farm southwest of Klemme which he purchased several years ago, but which for the past year he had rented out.

He leaves to mourn his passing five sisters and one brother. They are Hulda Greene, Los Angeles; Mildred Potter, Mason City; Maybelle Kudje and Gertrude Hummel, Klemme; Irene Heivilin and George Johnson, Mason City.

Miscellaeous Shower Held

Mrs. Elsie Baack and friends gave a miscellaneous shower, honoring the new bride, Mrs. Dorance Baack, on Wednesday evening, at the grade school.

About forty ladies gathered for the event. Mrs. Howard Baack was Mistress of Ceremonies and had planned many clever games, which the ladies, enjoyed playing. Marijane Baack entertained with several accordian numbers. Later in the evening, Mrs. Dorance Baack opened her many beautiful and useful gifts, under a canopy of colored balloons and streamers. Just as she fininshed, one balloon was pulled and she was showered with rice. Delicious refreshments were served.

NEW PASTOR AT GARNER WAS INSTALLED

Installation services for the Rev. Carl Mohr, pastor of the Garner Zion Evangelical and Reformed Church, were held Sunday.

The Rev. John Mohr of the Peace Evangelical and Reformed Church of Marshalltown, was the guest speaker at the morning service and installed his son and preached the sermon for the special evening service.

The Rev. Vernon Jaberg, pastor of the Immanuel Evangelical and Reformed Churh of Klemme, assisted with the special installation service to which the public was invited. The service was held at the regular hour on Sunday morning and at 8 p. m. in the evening.

County Supervisors Met At Clarion

The boards of supervisors from Hancock, Franklin and Wright Counties met at the courthouse in Clarion Monday to discuss drainage matters. The boards also reviewed and acted Wright and Hancock County on the petition of W. W. Christensen et al, for a clean out and repair of joint drainage district No. 73-139.

Supervisors To Act On Drainage District Cleanout Petitions

The boards of supervisors from Hancock and Winnebago Counties will meet at the courthouse in Garner at 2 p. m. July 30 to discuss and take action on the petitions of Harvey Hanson et al, and Ed Siekmeier et al, for the cleanout of the main and lateral No. 6 of joint drainage district No. 37 Hancock and No. 39 Winnebago.

William Henschen, engineer who made a preliminary survey on the project, has filed his report and recommended the cleanout as set out in the prayers of the petitioners.

His report lists the total cost of the project at approximately $6,989.25 and will involve the removal of approximately 16,037 cubic yards of silt and dirt and the clearing of some trees from banks. A letting on the project will be held in the near future.

FUNERAL SERVICES HELD FOR FRED ALBERS

Funeral services for Fred Albers Sr., 70, were held Friday at 1:30 p.m. at the farm home southeast of Goodell and at 2 p. m. at the Evangelical and Reformed Church in Klemme. Burial was in Amsterdam Cemetary at Goodell. Mr. Albers died Tuesday noon at a hospital in Cherokee.

He was born April 13, 1882, in Germany. At the age of 9, he came with his parents to the Belmond vicinity. On Feb. 21, 1906, he was married to Anna Statlander and they farmed six years at Belmond, 17 years at Klemme and the last 25 years near Goodell.

Survivors include his wife; four sons, Fred Jr., Nashua, and Alvin, John and Ed, all of Belmond, and three daughters, Mrs. Robert Churchhouse, of Belmond; Mrs. George Luiewen, Goodell, and Johanna, at home.

Will Hold Meet

The Klemme Archers will hold their monthly field meet at the Club range, 3 miles south of Klemme on Highway 69 and 1½ west, Sunday, August 3 at 1:30 o'clock. Anyone interested is welcome to come. Prizes will be awarded.

TOWN COUNCIL PROCEEDINGS

SPECIAL MEETING

Klemme, Iowa,
July 21, 1952.

Meeting called to order by Mayor Cook, with Barz, Schaefer, Arnold, Schulz and Buseman, members of the Council, present.

Minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved.

It was moved by Barz, seconded by Schulz, that necessary repairs be made to the roof of the building housing the water tanks. Motion carried.

Moved by Arnold, seconded by Schulz, that the Council go on record as favoring the location of the Park as the place most acceptable for Summer band concerts for the reason that such location presents fewer problems to those directly responsible for said concerts.

Upon motion by Schaefer, seconded by Schulz, the following bill was allowed:

Josten Hardware, Fuses & Sockets for bandstand...	.61
Josten Hardware, Wiring & labor on town pump.....	267.28

Meeting adjourned.

THE HIGHWAY STORY

Hollywood couldn't film a sequence more slapstick than the incident that actually happened to a patrolman named Stan Kuch. It started one afternoon when Kuch was alone on patrol and an approaching car forced him off the road.

He gave chase, got the car stopped, and found a drunk behind the wheel and another drunk asleep in the back seat. After some persuasive talk,, Kuch was able to lead the driver to the patrol car, then went back for the sleeper. He was carrying him to the patrol car when the man woke up in his arms.

Ten minutes of lively fisticuff followed before Kuch was able to ram the man into the patrol car and head for the nearest county jail.

All was quiet until the patrol car passed through a small town. Then the drunk in the back seat apparently thought he was home because he decided to leave. He crawled half way through the window when his knee hit the door latch and the door flew open, leaving him flapping outside the car.

At that moment, the drunk in the front seat decided to engage poor Kuch in some more fistic tattoo. In the battle, the foot feed was depressed and bent and the patrol car picked up speed.

That left Kuch trying to drive through town with one hand, trying to subdue the first drunk with the other, trying to keep one eye on the road and the other on the second drunk still draped over the open door.

The car roared clear through town and into the open country again before Kuch managed to switch off the ignition and give the fighting drunk the attention he craved. He got the cuffs on the man, dragged the the other drunk out of the window and was trying to collect his wits when the two prisoners started to fight.

Enough was enough for Kuch. He used the radio to call for help and divided the drunks between the two patrol cars that arrived a few minutes later. As the two men were hauled away, they waved a friendly farewell to a bruised and ruffled Kuch who stood there wondering at the lot of a highway patrolman.

Enters State Fair

Des Moines, Ia.; Bill Holland, holder of one of the greatest records ever compiled at the Indianapolis speedway, has entered the national championship big car auto races to be held at the Iowa State Fair, August 23, 29 and 30. The Reading, Pa. star won in the famous Indianapolis classic in 1949 and finished second in 1947, 1948 and 1950. He at one time held 28 AAA speed records. Holland will drive his famous No. 29 Blue Crown Offenhauser in the State Fair races. From all indications this year's field of drivers will be one of the greatest ever entered in state fair competition, with such outstanding stars as Bobby Grim, Indianapolis, Ind.; Leon De Rock, Mason City, Ia.; Bob Slater, Kansas City, Mo.; Deb Snyder, Kent, Ohio and Mac MacHenry, Wichita, Kan., slated to see action.

THE FARM OUTLOOK

County Extension Director
By Paul Henderson,

With record harvest of wheat going on, and a near-record corn crop estimates some quarters are showing concern about prospective prices for important form commodities.

However, Francis A. Kutish, farm economist at Iowa State College, reports that total consumer buying has turned upward in recent months. Government spending for defense continues to rise. Business investment remains at a high level. The only dark spot is the reduced production—and resulting lower consumer income—caused by the steel strike.

On balance, it appears therefore, that at last for the remainder of the year, domestic demand for farm products will continue strong. Some weakness in demand for meat may last, however, until the steel strike is settled and production gets rolling full-blast again, Kutish believes. And he adds that ample supplies of mast commodities, nevertheless, will exert downward pressure on some prices.

BIG Wheat Crop

For example, the large wheat harvest now in progress has pushed prices well below the loan rate. Production this year is over domestic and export needs. But as soon as most of the crop finds shelter, a gradual rise in wheat prices seems likely.

Corn prices are expected to fall below supports at harvest, if the crop turns out as good as now expected. But no "surplus" is in sight. And here, too, the price should tend upward as the winter progresses.

Rising Dairy Prices

Dairy prices probably have passed their seasonal low. They are likely to show a moderate rise to about the end of the year, Kutish reports. Egg prices have been well below last year's mark. Farmers raised fewer chicks this year. But there were more early chicks—the cut came all in late hatched birds. So the real price rising forces of the cutback won't come until early 1953.

More beef and less pork will about balance out to the same amount of meat the last half of the year as a year earlier. Hog prices should average above last year's figures. Cattle prices, because of heavier marketings, will be lower.

ICE SHOW IS NORTH IOWA FAIR FEATURE

Entries Pour In For August 12-17 Exhibit

A "Holiday on Ice" show with some of the nation's top skaters and 24 "Glamour Icers," performing on a 90 by 40 foot rink of real ice will be the feature of the evening shows at the North Iowa Fair, August 12-17.

In addition the Five White Guards will sing each evening.

The ice show is considerably larger and entirely different from that of last year.

Aut Swenson's Thrillcade will lead off the afternoon grandstand shows on Wednesday. A single performance of Buck Steele's Frontier Days is scheduled for Thursday afternoon.

The running races on Friday will bring horses and jockeys back to the North Iowa track for eight big races. Big car races are on the program for Saturday afternoon and the 100-mile stock car race will close the bill on Sunday.

Wednesday will be Family Day with a special gate admission of $1 for a whole family entering at one time. Friday afternoon will be Golden Wedding afternoon when all couples who have been married 50 years or more are given free seats in the grandstand

A record purse of $18,000 is offered to the exhibitors at the North Iowa Fair in 1952, said the secretary. This is in addition to the special awards such as tickets on the special train to the International Live Stock Show in Chicago.

Girls' and Boys' FFA and 4-H exhibits, women's home project booths and livestock and agricultural exhibits from a 13-county North Iowa area will vie for the prize money.

Special cash awards of $3 will be added to all purple ribbon winners for the first time this year. Also new this year will be a show of all baby beef purple-ribbon entries in one pen after the judging.

SCHOOL BUSES IN HANCOCK TRAVELED 275,264 MILES

The school buses operating from nine county schools in Hancock County and 8 schools closely surrounding Hancock County, traveled a total of 275,264 miles last year with the total cost of operating the county buses reported to be $65,493.53. Each pupil's expenses amounted to $53.93, according to a report released by Hancock County Superintendent Charles S. Whitney.

The money is appropriated jointly by the state and schools, with the state's aid this year amounting to $30,548.47, and the schools paying $34,945.06.

Corwith schools received the largest portion of state money this year, $6,136.74. Goodell received $1,309.87; Britt Independent, $4,127.93; Crystal Lake Consolidated, $2,440.61; Garner Independent, $4,159.42; Hayfield Consolidated, $2,631.74; Kanawha Independent, $4,024.06; Klemme Independent, $4,163.83; and Woden Independent, $1,353.20. Several other districts received lesser amounts.

Thirty four buses are operating regularly in Hancock County.

It's Time To Freeze Or Can Sweet Corn

It's sweet corn time in home gardens these days. Chances are you're looking around for your freezing and canning directions. Here they are from Leslie Smith, extension nutritionist at Iowa State College.

Select tender, ripe, sound ears in the full milk stage. One hour from garden to freezer or canning jar is a good rule to follow. Husk, de-silk, wash sort and trim.

Freeze Corn

To freeze cut corn: Scald ears 4 munites, cool by plunging in cold water. A scalding basket is convenient for both scalding and cooling the corn. Cut off kernels with a sharp knife. Pack dry in freezer containers.

To freeze corn on the cob: Scald ears—7 minutes for small ears, 9 minutes for medium ears and 11 minutes for large ears. Cool thoroughly by plunging in cold water, then cut off tips of ears and square up the ends. Pack dry in freezer containers.

Corn on the cob takes up a lot of valuable freezers pace, says Mrs. Smith, and some folks think its quality is inferior to that of cut corn. But if you do like the frozen ears, have the space, and want some on hand for special occasions, then by all means go ahead and freeze them. A big advantage of cut corn is that it has so many uses in food preparation.

Can Corn

To can corn: Always use your presser canner. Cut corn from cob. For cream style, add half as much boiling water as corn and heat to boiling. Pack into shiny clean pint jars. Add ½ teaspoon salt per pint. Pack loosely, alloying 1 inch head space. Process 85 minutes in pressure canner at 10 lbs. pressure. For whole kernel style, cut corn from cob, pack loosely into clean pint or quart jars, leaving 1 inch head space. Process 55 minutes for pints and 85 minutes for quarts.

Mr and Mrs. Glen Terhufen, son "Butch" and Graydon Barz, left Tuesday morning on a vacation trip through Wisconsin and Minnesota.

At Anthon, Iowa, the post-office has been rated as a 2nd class post-office, for the first time. Stamp sales determine the rating of a post-office.

TREE HOUSE

Two pairs of twins were injured at Bode recently, when a "tree house" crashed 12 feet to the ground. John and Stephen Krabel and Larry and Garry Knudson were severely bruised. Larry Knudson received a fractured skull and John Krabel 2 broken arms.

RETIRED

At Grinnell, auctioneer Clint Jones has retired, after 41 years as an auctioneer. The last 21 years, he's been in the ring at the livestock exchange there, crying 1,000 sales.

DRAG-LINE

A drag-line brought panic to some thousands of television viewers in Highland Park, Des Moines, recently. The drag-line shorted a power line, cutting off electrical service just 15 minutes before General Ike's speech at Chicago.

Thompson Man Killed On Priebe Hill South Of Klemme Tues. Eve

SANFORD L. OVERLIE KILLED INSTANTLY IN TWO CAR CRASH

,Elderly Belmond Couple Hospitalized Following Mishap

The Priebe Hill three-fourths of a mile south of Klemme on U. S. Highway 69 was the scene of a fatal accident Tuesday evening at about 8:00 o'clock when Sanford L. Overlie, 42, of Thompson was killed instantly and Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Luick of Belmond, an elderly couple were injured and hospitalized.

Authorities were unable to determine the cause of the accident, both cars being struck on the right hand side and evidently meeting head-on. Overlie was driving north in a new DeSota and Mr. and Mrs. Luick were driving south in their Dodge.

Fred Schmidt, farmer west of Klemme on his way to Klemme heard the crash as he was partly down the hill and returned to give aid. One car was afire and he extinguished the blaze. Mrr. and Mrs. Albert Priebe summoned help from Klemme and Dr. Dulmes reached the scene of the accident in a few minutes, as did Howard De Motts with Wellemeyer's ambulance and Policeman Henry Smid. The Highway Patrol Car, Sheriff and Coroner also arrived shortly after the crash.

Mr. Luick suffered an injured knee while Mrs. Luick had facial cuts. They were taken to the Belmond hospital in the Wellemeyer ambulance. Mr. Overlie was brought to the Wellemeyer funeral parlor and upon the arrival of his wife and relatives, was taken to Thompson.

Mr. Overlie and his partner, M. A. Houg are DeSota-Plymouth dealers at Thompson and also conduct an Oliver Implement business.

PLAN SAFETY CHECK FOR CARS IN COUNTY

The Hancock County Automobile Dealers Association met at Britt Monday evening with schoolmen and newspaper men of the county to discuss the launching of a safety car-check program for early this fall.

The car dealers pointed out that cars would be checked free of charge and if found O. K. would be given an official safety check sticker to put on the windshield.

The school children of the county would each be given a free car-check ticket to give to their parents or neighbor. The schools would compete on a percentage basis of tickets returned for prizes given by the Association.

Both the newspaper men and the schoolmen present were heartily in favor of the program. The entire expense would be paid for by the Association of dealers.

More details regarding the safety check will be published at a later date when the plan has been set up.

Avery Sunbeams Held Local Achievement Show

The Avery Sunbeams put on their Achievement Show, Tuesday evening at the Grade School building in Klemme. About 60 people were present to hear them. They opened their meeting with the 4-H oath; which was followed by a summary of the years work by Pauline Kramer, club president.

Marlene Blumer and Joan Burgess gave a demonstration on Quick Steps to Quick Breads. Darlene Ostendorf and Maxine Stille demonstrated making of a Chocolate Cake. The girls sang their 4-H song. Judy Brede, Joan Burgess and Kay Jacobs were awarded for perfect attendance. Miss Hope Moellering, assistant to Elsie Mae VanWert, complimented the girls on their attainments and invited all to attend the 4-H Club Days at Garner next Monday and Tuesday.

Charlie Jackson gave a short talk and entertained the crowd with two numbers on his harmonica. The meeting was closed by all repeating the Pledge of Alligance to the Flag. After which Clarence Swalve auctioned off brought. Eight of the girls put on a skit showing how determined they are to attend the Achievement Days at Garner. A fine lunch with home-made ice cream was served.

OBITUARY OF HENRY RUNGE, 76

HENRY DIETRICH RUNGE was born March 11, 1876 at Hagen, Hanover, Germany, the youngest of six children born to his parents, Frederick and Wilhelmina Runge.

When Henry was five years old his father died. Henry, then an orphan, was given a home by a kindly German family, who sent him to the village school. Henry soon earned his keep by herding sheep and doing chores. Later he helped move saddle horses from various villages of the province to the Army Camp at Hanover.

In 1893, at the age of 17 years, Henry Runge, together with his brother, Fritz and wife, migrated to America, making their home for two years with the Fred Brandt family at Postville, Iowa.

Henry had completed his common school education in Germany, and he also attended religious instruction and became a member of the Lutheran Church by confirmation. After coming to America he attended the public schools at Postville for one year and completed the first 4 grades of the course of study.

In 1895, at the age of 19, Henry Runge came to Hancock County and has lived here since, a total of 57 years. He worked for W. C. Schmidt one year, for Albert Riemer one year, followed the John Terhufen threshing rig as "spike pitcher" for nine seasons, and farmed as a renter 13 years on the Hartke farm, and 10 years on the Will Stille farm.

He moved to Klemme in 1926, worked in the store for several years at Wellemeyer's and Thada's; worked for four seasons at the Swanson Hatchery, and just lately was working at the Schmidt Stock Yards.

Henry Runge became a citizen of the United States in 1898.

In December 1903, at the age of 27, Henry D. Runge and Clara C. Griffin were married and they commenced house-keeping on the Hartke farm. They became the parents of two children, Ella who died during the flu epidemic of 1920, and Roland, who survives.

Henry was never without a job, because wherever he worked he was loyal and dependable. And those two words, LOYAL and DEPENDABLE, are the highest praise an employer can say of his helpers.

Henry Runge was in failing health for several weeks, and three weeks ago he was taken to Mercy Hospital where he died on Thursday, July 31, 1952, at the age of 76 years, 4 months and 20 days.

He is survived by his wife Clara, his son Roland, three sisters in Germany and other more distant relatives and friends

Thereafter and after hearing all taxpayers desiring to be heard, the Board took up the estimate for final consideration and after being fully advised the Board determined that said estimate be corrected and completed so that when completed it should be in words and figures as stated herein. The vote upon final odoption was as follows:

Ayes: Clarence Bird and Clint Daniels,

Nays: None.

The County Auditor was thereupon directed to properly certify the budget adopted and file with the records of his office as required by law.

This being the 28th day of July, 1952, a date heretofore fixed as a date for hearing on the budget estimate of the Hancock County Assessor's Office filed with this Board, the hour for said hearing having arrived, the proof of publication being on file and the Hancock County Conference Board being fully advised, said hearing was held as scheduled. There was present a quorum as required by law. Thereafter and on said day the estimate was taken up and considered and taxpayers heard for and against said estimate as follows:

All taxpayers desiring to be heard were heard.

The salary of Myrtle Halverson, Clerk in the County Assessor's Office, was adjusted to $2200.00 per annum, beginning August 1, 1952.

Thereafter the Board took up the estimate for final consideration and after being fully advised, the Board determined that said estimate be adopted and approved as submitted.

The foreging resolution was offered and read by Supervisor Daniels, was seconded by Supervisor Bird, whereupon the Chairman Pro-Tem placed the motion of its adoption and upon roll call the vote thereon was Ayes: B. C. Berge, Clint Daniels and Clarence Bird.

Nays: None.

Whereupon the Chairman Pro-Tem. Clint Daniels, declared the resolution duly adopted.

On motion and second the Board adjourned to August 4, 1952, at 9 o'clock A. M.

4-H Club Meets

The Ell Tip Toppers met at the home of LaVohn Josten to plan their local achievement show. Roll call was answered by naming the things we plan to exhibit at our local achievement show. Ione Rosendahl will insert the safety posters for August. Club pictures were taken. Doreen Lackore and Gracka Gerardi demonstrated. "Frills Without Fuss." We spent the remainder of the afternoon working on our record books. Lunch was served by the hostess and her mother.

June And July Pack Meeting Held July 29

The Cub Scout Pack meeting for June and July was held on Tuesday evening July 29th in the Reformed Church Basement. The Indian theme was carried out. The boys were dressed in their Indian costumes and regalia they had made. They did their Indian dance around the tepee made by Den II. The boys gave the Promise and the Motto to open the meeting. Each one told what he had done in scouting for the past 2 months. The first part of the program was held out side. After moving in-doors John Clements, Clarence Swalve and some of the boys gave a report on the Dad-Lad week end at Camp Roosevelt. The boys, committee members and Den mothers were presented with new membership cards. The meeting was closed with the Cub-Scout Laws and Benediction.

Den I had their minature Indian village on display. Several other Indian things were also, on display.

Lunch of cake, coffee and cool ade was served by the committee.

Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell Bock and family and Bob Burr drove to Dows Sunday for a visit with Mrs. Bock's father and to help her brother, Harry Bessman celebrate his birthday.

Mr. and Mrs. Glen Bryan of Dows spent Monday visiting at the Clarence Larsen and R. W. Elder homes. Mrs. Bryan is a cousin to Mrs. Elder and Mrs. Larsen.

It Happened Here!

One of your neighbors, when the going got too bad for his wheel tractors, hooked his little OLIVER CRAWLER to his two row OLIVER picker. The mud was so bad that the picker wheels would not turn, but the tractor operated the machine even with a forty bushel load on the wagon.

This is just one example of what OLIVER machinery can do. Investigate OLIVER before you buy.

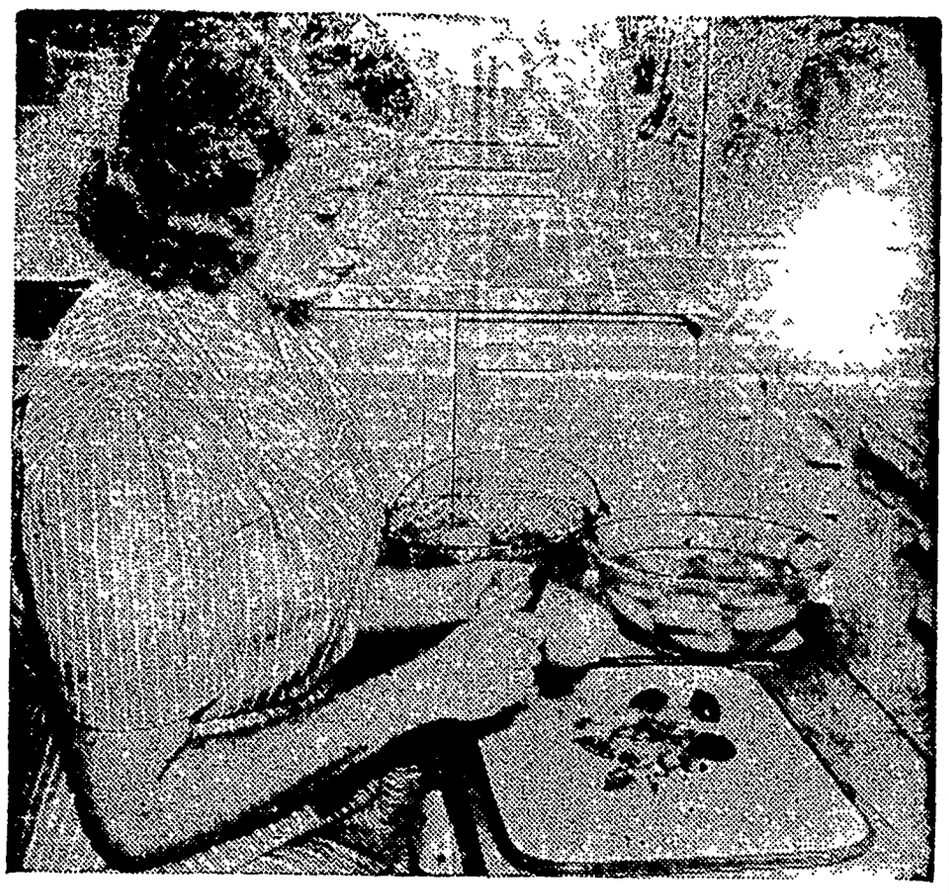
HOMEMADE JAMS AND JELLIES



Now's the time for jellymaking as peaches, cherries and other tempting fresh fruits start coming into our food markets. Study up on your jam and jellymaking techniques, organize your equipment, find a convenient work spot—and you're all set to go.

Here come the peaches, the ripe red cherries, raspberries blackberries, currants, plums, the apricots and pears. Here comes the whole array to imprison in shimmering glasses of jams, jellies and preserves.

You don't need Grandmothers touch to be a talented jellymaker. But you do need to study up on the rules of good jelly making and let them guide your every step.

Trio for Success

What makes jam, jelly, and preserves jell? Here's the answer given by nutritionists at Iowa State College. Fruity acid, sugar and pectin must be present in the right proportions. The so-called "good jellying" fruits are those containing enough natural acid and pectin to form jelly when sugar is added and when the mixture is boiled until the ingredients are concentrated enough to jell.

Often lemon juice is added to increase the fruit's acid content. And commercial pectins are available to help assure successful jelling. If you use commercial pectin, do follow the manufacturer's directions exactly.

Rapid Cooking

Rapid cooking is important to preserve the flavor and color of jams and jellies. Best size kettle to use is a 3 to 4 quart one, shallow and wide-bottomed so contents can quickly reach a full, rolling boil. Kettle should never be more than half full for best results.

Jelly is done when two thick, heavy drops run together off a clean metal spoon. If you're using a jelly thermometer, the finished temperature will be 210 degrees F.

Skim off light surface foam with a clean metal spoon before pouring. This foam is simply fruit protein, but will "fog" the jelly if not removed.

Sterilize Glasses

Wash jars and glasses with soap and water before-hand. Rinse in hot water, then sterilize in boiling water from 10 to 15 minutes. Add lids and leave over low heat until needed. Then fill drained jars and glasses with jelly while both are still hot. Seal immediately.

You can use either paraffin or regular air-tight canning lids to seal jelly. If your choice is paraffin, nutritionists caution you to use new paraffin. Old paraffin may cause spoilage. Always melt paraffin over hot water, as it may splatter or even catch fire over direct heat. Many homemakers use a clean tin can, bent at the top to form a pouring lip.

To seal, pour melted paraffin onto a metal spoon placed close to the surface of the jelly, letting it overflow into a thin layer. When hard and set, prick any bubbles and pour a second thin paraffin layer. Slightly tip and twirl glass to seal paraffin against sides. Paraffin should be about one-eighth inch thick. Cover to keep out dust and bacteria.

Plan to store the finished product in a cool, dark, dry place where the temperature is constant, say nutritionists. Storage in a damp cellar may be inviting fermentation. If you must store your preserves in the kitchen, place them far from stove and radiator and on a low shelf. It may take some jellies several weeks to set.

FAST WORK

It took a crew of friends and neighbors exactly 150 minutes to combine 40 acres of oats, for Prosper Frideres, of Kossuth county, recently. He has been hospitalized.

THE FARM OUTLOOK

County Extension Director
By Paul Henderson,

The egg prices have bounced back since hitting the spring low spot in May. Some recovery was to be expected, as we move into the summer months when egg production slumps, reports Francis A. Kutish, Iowa State College farm economist.

By the middle of July, prices were back to 1951 levels, after dragging below all winter and spring. Thus, eggs are returning to the profit side of the ledger again.

Hancock poultrymen can do even better, however, by selling eggs on grade. One of the features of the recent egg price has been the widening in spread between prices of higher grades of eggs and current receipts. Hot weather, lower rates-of-lay and movement of eggs out of storage help account for this.

Hot weather increases the quality problem. Poultrymen need to put in a little extra care if they are going to market high grade eggs during hot weather. There are lots of other jobs on the farm at this time. So many farmers let the eggs go—with the result that the eggs grade much lower than they potentially could.

Add to this the fact that storage eggs aren't as high grade as fresh eggs, and the lower production coming as a result of the hot weather—and we come up with a market shortage of high grade eggs. The market in turn responds by bidding a premium for top quality eggs.

There's good money in marketing high quality eggs today, Kutish points out. And this premium is likely to continue well into early fall.

OBITUARY OF FRED ALBERS

Mr. Frederick Albers, son of John and Jennie Albers, was born April 13, 1882, in the village of Oldersum, in Oestriesland, Germany. Here he received his early Christian training in the Reformed Church with which his parents were affiliated. At the age of 10 years, Fred along with his parents came to America and settled on a farm near Belmond, Iowa. He continued his education in the rural school near his home.

On February 21, 1906 he was united in the bonds of holy marriage with Anna Stadlander. They established their home on a farm east of Belmond where they resided for five years. They resided for seventeen years on a farm east of Klemme, and for the past 25 years have lived on their present farm home east of Goodell.

This home was blessed with 7 children: Fred, of Nashua; Alvin, of Belmond; Jennie, Mrs. Geo. Liewin of Belmond; Johanna and John at home; and Edward of Belmond. Mr. Fred Albers has 3 beloved grandchildren: Shirley Jean and Alice Ann Liewin and Alton Frederick Albers.

Mr. Albers' health began to fail about 2 years ago, and after being faithfully cared for in his home by his own family for about a year, he entered the hospital where he died Tuesday morning, July 22 at 11:30, having reached the age of 70 years, 3 months and 9 days.

Mr. Albers was a good provider for his family and was deeply concerned about the religious instruction and training of his children. He was a member of the Evangelical and Reformed Church in Klemme.

He was preceeded in death by his parents and one brother, Lubbe.

He leaves to mourn his passing, his wife Anna, his seven children and three grandchildren, one brother, George of Klemme, one sister, Carrie, Mrs. George Pals of Belmond and a host of distant relatives and friends.

Mrs. Chester P. Luick Died As Result Of Auto Wreck On Hill

SECOND VICTIM OF KLEMME AUTO COLLISION DIES

BELMOND—Mrs. Chester P. Luick, 67, who was injured in an automobile collision south of Klemme Tuesday night in which Sanford L. Overlie of Thompson was killed, died at a hospital here Friday. Her husband, who also was injured in the crash, is reported getting along favorably at the hospital.

Funeral services for Mrs. Luick were held Monday at 2 p. m. at the Congregational Church, with burial in the Belmond Cemetery.

Besides her husband, Mrs. Luick leaves two daughters, Mrs. Evan Curry of Cedar Rapids and Mrs. George Price of Brownsville, Texas.

The Luicks won considerable renoun last March when they deeded a 400-acre farm to the Belmond Community Hospital, the land being valued at $100,000. It was in this hospital that Mrs. Luick died.

Klemme People In Wreck At Fairbault, Minn.

Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Kilgore, accompanied by their house guests, Mr. and Mrs. A. V. Eckerman of Moline, Illinois, were on their way to North Branch, Minnesota, Monday morning to visit relatives for a week, when they were involved in a car mishap at Fairbault, Minnesota.

Mr. Kilgore was driving his son Pete's Studebaker car, which was struck by a Ford driven by a man accompanied by his small daughter, as Kilgore was turning off one highway onto another in the north part of the city. The driver of the Ford said he failed to see the Kilgore car.

No one was injured, outside of a few small cuts and bruises. Both cars were badly damaged, however, as the front end of both the Studebker and the Ford were damaged nearly $500 each.

Pete Kilgore was notified of the mishap and drove to Fairbault to bring his parents and the Eckermans back to Klemme.

the Highway Story

IOWA DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC SAFETY

BY BOB HULLIHAN

From highway patrol sergeant Don French of Osceola, this report that needs no elaboration:

"The lights are just coming up as you head for the scene of the accident, most of the homes along the way are lighted, and you wonder what sort of a weekend some poor souls are going to have.

"When you arrive, the usual silent group has gathered. You push your way through and there on the pavement is a woman, lying half in a pool of her own blood. Scattered around her is what appears to be a nice home-made lunch she had packed for the trip. The man standing over her is mumbling and sobbing into a blood-soaked handkerchief.

"You bend over the woman and find she is bleeding from a large crushed-in place on the side of the head. You know the answer right then, and you cover her gently with a blanket. Down the road is another wrecked car, so you pick up your first aid kit and run.

"A young man is still sitting behind the wheel, holding his face in his hands. You lift his head. His front teeth are gone and his face mangled but he is not bleeding too badly so you turn to the man sitting beside him.

"His face is cut to pieces and blood is spouting from his arm where an artery was severed when he went into the windshield at the crash. You put a tourniquet on his arm and start to bandage his head, when someone taps you on the arm and says, 'There's another one in the backseat.'

"You look and find a woman crumpled on the floor in an almost ridiculous position. She looks as if she is trying to hide. You check her quickly and find she is unconscious but breathing steadily so you decide to leave her there until the ambulance arrives.

"Just then you hear them coming and note with a sigh of relief that there are two of them. God knows you are going to need them."

THE FARM OUTLOOK

County Extension Director By Paul Henderson,

All present signs indicate this is a year when it will pay to store farm grain—instead of selling at harvest, according to Francis A. Kutish, extension farm economist at Iowa State College.

Of course, the price structure always is vulnerable whenever it is at high levels such as today as a result of an extended period of booming business activity. Current indication, however, point to some pickup in economic activity during the last half of this year, Kutish reports. Farm products therefore are expected to enjoy a strong domestic demand.

The oat crop seems below expectations all over the corn belt. Recent prices around loan level. So a farmer risks little by holding his oats, or putting it under loan.

Old Rule

There's an old rule of thumb which says that it pays to hold corn after a big crop—and to sell early after a short one. The idea is that the market tends to overdiscount the price depressing effects of a bumper harvest, Kutish explains. And it tends likewise to overestimate the price raising effects of a short crop. That certainly has been the case this past year.

Prospects are good today for a bumper corn crop this fall. If these prospects bear out, corn prices probably will stay below loan rates at corn picking time. When market prices are at or below the support level, Kutish points out, farmers with good quality grain have an opportunity to engage in a nearly risk-free speculation.

Placing the commodity under the non-recourse loan protects farmers from a price decline. But they still have the opportunity to benefit from price rises above the loan rate by redeeming and selling the commodity. On the other hand. If the price stays below the loan level, the commodity may be delivered in full satisfaction of the price support loan.

Line Up Storage Now

Most Iowa cribs are nearly empty these days, after the short corn crop of last year. But the 1952 corn crop may be large enough on some farms to overtax storage facilities.

Farmers must have storage available to take advantage of the government loan program. To encourage construction of more storage on farms, the U. S. Department of Agriculture has extended its storage facilities loan program. This provides loans to farmers up to 80 percent of the cost of storage structures.

MAYOR'S COURT

Mayor V. A. Cook reports two cases disposed of in his court last week which orginated July 11. Adrian Ploestre, Kanawha paid a $10.00 fine and costs when he plead guilty to a charge of disturbing the peace. John Ruter, Kanawha pead guilty to operating a motor vehicle without a muffler. On this charge his fine was $10.00 and costs. He was also given a second fine of $15.00 and costs for disturbing the peace.

Loren K. Clark, Britt was fined $5.00 and costs on a careless driving charge in Klemme last Wednesday night. His trial was August 8th when he plead guilty and paid the fine.

Cub Scouts Hold Picnic At Pilot Knob

August 11th the 2 Cub Scout Dens had a picnic at Pilot Knob. We left home in the middle of the afternoon. When we reached the shelter house a fire was built. The boys each prepared his own vegetables for the stew. While the stew was cooking Harold Kothenbeutal took the boys for a hike up to hte peak, leaving the Den mothers in charge. When they returned to the shelter house we ate our supper of stew, crackers, cold drink, fruit and brownies.

When we reached the park our Wolves, Bear and Lions seemed to disappear and were replaced by howling Indians & yelping Cowboys who were immediately at war.

Before leaving for home the boys gave the Cub Scout Promise in the form of the Living Circle, repeated the Laws and the Motto. They all seemed to have a good time and plenty to eat. We reached home about 8:00.

There were seven boys from Den I, six boys from Den II, two Den Mothers and six visitors present.

Relatives Hold Picnic At Jost Home

A picnic was held Sunday noon on the lawn of the Henry Jost home, with 63 relatives present. The event was in honor of Mrs. Henry Jost. After the dinner, which was enjoyed by all, pictures were taken and the guests spent the afternoon visiting.

Relatives were present from Wesley, Kensett, Mason City, Sheffield, Emmetsburg, Rockwell, Kanawha, San Bernarino, California and Klemme.

Daryl Schlei Takes Plane Trip

Daryl Schlei went to Chicago over a week ago with his aunt, Mrs. John Kelher for a visit. On Monday morning he boarded a plane in Chicago and flew to the Mason City air port, where his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Kermit Schlei, Dwane, and Marie Blank met him. He told about the nice stewardess, and she served him milk and doughnuts and took him up to get acquainted with the Co-pilot. Daryl, especially enjoyed flying through the clouds, and says that it is fun to travel by air.

New Chairman For The 1953 March OF Dimes

Basil O'Connor, President of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis annouces the appointment of W. K. Niemann as Iowa Chairman for the 1953 MARCH OF DIMES Campaign to be held during January.

W. K. Niemann, a graduate of the University of Michigan in 1917 and a veteran of World War I, is Manager of the Home Office Agency of the Bankers Life Company of Des Moines, Iowa. For the past 12 years he served as Chairman of the Polk County Chapter of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis. In Polk County Mr. Niemann has seen the March of Dimes voluntary contributions rise from $2,500 the first year to over $80,000 in 1952. "This has come about" he said, "not only because the people recognize the sympathetic service that has been rendered in patient care, but because the March of Dimes Campaign has always been one of voluntary giving, whether it be a dime or a dollar." "The January 1953 Campaign will continue the plan of voluntary giving," Mr. Niemann says.

In accepting the appointment he has expressed a firm conviction that every Iowan will want to continue to completion the work that has been so gloriously carried on by the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis for the last 15 years. "We are on the threshold of success," he said, "and we know that every person who has worked so hard these many years will want to carry on and finish the job."

Griemans Of Garner Top Austin Show

AUSTIN, Minn.—Black Angus entries from Grieman herds of Garner grabbed the big honors Wednesday at the 6th annual Midwest Fat Steer Show at the Mower County Fair. Seven of the top ten entries were Iowans.

First place went to Addis Greiman, second place to Greiman and Weaver and third place to Don Greiman, all of Garner. One hundred steers were judged alive in the Crane Pavilion.

NOTICE OF HEARING

On Proposed Resolution Of Necessity For Sewers In The Town Of Klemme

RESOLUTION OF NECESSITY

BE IT RESOLVED by the Town Council of the Town of Klemme, Hancock County, Iowa, on its own motion as follows.

Section 1. That it is deemed advisable and necessary to construct storn sewers in said Town upon and along parts of the streets and from and to the points in said Town as follows:

Beginning at existing tile at a point approximately 745 feet southwesterly from intersection of Front and Iowa Sts.; thence to intersection of Front and Iowa Sts; thence east on Iowa St. to Second St; thence north on Second St to Hancock St.; thence east on Hancock St. to Third St.; thence north on Third St. to Jerusalem St.; thence east on Jerusalem St to its terminus at a point approximately 200 feet east of Fifth St., with laterals as follows:

On Iowa St from Second St. to Fourth St and south on Fourth St for approximately 200 ft

On Hancock St. from Third St. to Fourth St.

On Day St from Third St. to Second St.

On Elder St from Third St. to Fourth St. and south on Fourth St. approximately 60 ft.

On Fourth St. from Jerusalem St. to State St.

On Fifth St. from Jerusalem St. to State St.

Section 2. That the kinds and size of materials proposed to be used shall be approximately as follows:

2050 feet 14-inch; 1000 feet 12-inch; 650 feet 10-inch; 4400 feet 8-inch; all extra strength clay or concrete drain tile,
20 manholes,
32 intakes, and incidentals

Se tion 3 That the method of construction shall be by contract in accordance with the plans and specifications and general stipulations for said sewers approved by the Town Council.

Section 4. That so much of the cost and expense of said sewer improvements as can under the law be assessed to abutting and adjacent property, including railroad property within the corporate limits of said Town of Klemme, Iowa shall be assessed upon and against privately owned property; and such cost, shall be assessed against the property abutting on such sewer in proportion to the number of linear front feet of each lot thereof, and upon adjacent property in amounts respectively in proportion to the benefits conferred upon said respective properties on account of said sewers, said assessments shall not be in excess of such benefits and shall not exceed twenty-five per cent of the actual value of the repective lots or tracts at the time of levy.

Section 5. That payment to the contractor for said sewer improvements will be made in cash derived from the sale of Special Assessment Bonds issued in accordance with Chapter 396 of the Code of Iowa, 1950, and in particular Section 396 6 of the said Code, in anticipation of the collection of said special assessments, an estimate of such assessments being on file with the Town Clerk, said bonds to be sold by the Town at not less than the par value thereof plus accrued interest. Any deficiency between the amount of the contract price of said sewers and the amount of proceeds from the sale of said special assessment bonds shall be paid by the issuance of such other bonds or certificates as may be legally issued for such purposes or from such other funds as may be legally used for such purposes. Any combination of the above methods may be used.

Section 6. That the location and terminal points of said sewers shall be as hereinbefore fully described in Section 1 of this Resolution and the abutting and adjacent property proposed to be assessed is as follows:

Original Town:
Blocks 1, 2, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12.

Klemme's First Add.:
Blocks 1, 2 (inc. adj. property between streets), 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 19, 20, 21, 22; also parts of Outlots 5 & 7.

Barz Addition:
Blocks 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12.
Klemme's First Auditor's Sub:
Lots 1 - 26 inc.
Gruetzmacher & Hanson's Add.:
Blocks 1 - 6 inc.

Morningside Add.:
Part blocks 1 and 3.
All that part of the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Railroad right-of-way lying east of its main track and from Day Ave. north to a point approximately 358 feet north of Jeruslam St.

Section 7. That a plat and schedule are now on file in the office of the Town Clerk, showing the streets and location of the sewers to be constructed, the size of the sewers, each lot or tract proposed to be assessed, together with a valuation fixed by the Council, an estimate of the cost the proposed sewers giving an estimate of the cost of each different type of construction and kind of material to be used, and also showing an estimate of that part of the cost which will be assessed against each lot or tract.

Section 8. That the Town Council by this Resolution gives notice of its intention to issue bonds as provided by Section 396.6 of the Code of Iowa, 1950 for the purpose of providing for the payment of the assessed cost of said sewers; said bonds to be issued in anticipation of the deferred payment of the assessment levied therefor, and that said bonds will be sold at public sale in the manner provided by law, but shall not be sold for less than their par value with accrued interest from date of bonds to the time of delivery thereof.

Section 9. BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that the foregoing resolution is hereby proposed and all of the matters as herein set forth, and that the foregoing proposed resolution and action thereon be and the same is hereby set down for further and final hearing, consideration and determination on the 4th day of September, 1952, at 8:00 o'clock P. M at Basement of Grade School Building, Klemme, Iowa, and that the Town Clerk be and he is hereby instructed to give notice not less than fourteen (14) days' notice of the time when said resolution will be finally considered for passage such notice to be given on the same day of the week for two successive weeks by two publications in some newspaper of general circulation published in the Town of Klemme, Iowa, the last of which publications shall not be less than two nor more than four weeks prior to aforesaid day fixed for consideration of said resolution of neccessity, all as is provided by law, and that this resolution, except this paragraph, be and is hereby provisionally adopted, subject to the further and final consideration at the time above stated, at which time this resolution may be adopted as proposed, or amended and adopted as amended.

Section 10. That unless property owners at the time of final consideration of this resolution have on file with the Town Clerk objections to the amount of the proposed assessments, they shall be deemed to have waived all objections thereto

The proposed improvement is on motion of the Town Council.

Proposed on the 11th day of August, 1952.

V. A. COOK, Mayor.

HANCOCK COUNTY BOARD PROCEEDINGS

7TH ADJOURNED JUNE MEETING

Garner, Iowa, July 21, 1952.

The Hancock County, Iowa, Board of Supervisors met in session on above captioned date pursuant to adjournment with Clint Daniels and Clarence Bird present. Absent was F. J. Schoun.

On motion and second Clint Daniels is hereby appointed Chairman Pro-Tem during the absence of F. J. Schoun, Chairman of the Board

On motion and second the quarterly report of R. J. Fritsch, Concord Township Justice of the Peace, is hereby approved

On motion and second the application, bond and permit, for the sale of beer, by V. F. W. Club No. 4607 of Forest City is hereby approved.

Supervisor Bird is hereby appointed a committee to investigate and cause repairs to be made in D. D. No. 1 & 2, East Main.

On motion and second Chas. F. Merten, County Engineer, is hereby appointed engineer to file an estimate of the cost of repair work to be done, as petitioned for by M. C. James, et al, on D. D. No. 47, Extension, Lat. No. 1, said estimate of cost to be filed in conjunction with the report of the Hancock County Soil Conservation Service whose report was filed July 7, 1952.

WHEREAS, C. F. Merten, Engineer, Wm. Boehnke and Chas. J. Goll were heretofore appointed Commissioners to view and classify lands and assess benefits in Drainage District No. 157, and to designate separately the tax per cent each tract shall pay on the main ditch for future repairs, all in accordance with Sections 455.45 to 455.66, Code of Iowa, 1950, and did view said lands and assess benefits as by law directed

WHEREAS, said Commissioners did qualify as by law directed and did file their report on July 18, 1952, which report sets out in detail the classification against each tract and parcel of land and highways and railroads in the district as provided by law.

BE AND IT IS THEREFORE RESOLVED by the Board of Supervisors of Hancock County, Iowa, acting for and in behalf of D. D. No. 157, Hancock County, Iowa, that the report of the Commissioners heretofore appointed to view and classify lands in the watershed of D. D. No. 157, is hereby tentatively approved and a hearing thereon will be held at the Courthouse in Garner, Iowa, on the 2nd day of September, 1952, at the hour of 1:30 P. M. at which time taxpayers in said district will appear and show cause why said classification and assessment designated shall not be accepted and assessment taxed against the lands in the water-shed of D D. No. 157, Hancock County, Iowa.

All objections to such assessment of benefits shall be filed in writing in the office of the County Auditor in Garner, Iowa, at or before the hour set for hearing thereon. The County Auditor be and he is hereby directed to cause notice of such hearing to be published in The Klemme Times, a newspaper of general circulation, published at Klemme, Iowa, setting out the description of the real estate and the designated assessment each tract and parcel of land, highway and railroad in the district is charged with

The foregoing resolution was offered and read by Supervisor Daniels, who moved its adoption, was seconded by Supervisor Bird, whereupon the Chairman Pro-Tem, Clint Daniels, placed the motion of its adoption and upon roll call the vote thereon is Clint Daniels and Clarence Bird, ayes. Nays, none. Whereupon the Chairman Pro-Tem declared the resolution duly adopted.

This being the 21st day of July, 1952, a date heretofore fixed for a hearing on the report of Wm. Henschen, Engineer, recommending that the contract of Cooper Construction Company of Fort Dodge, Iowa, for labor and material on D. D. No. 1 & 2, Lat. No. 8, be accepted as complete, and final estimate in the sum of $2,623.89 be paid, the hour for said hearing having arrived and the Board being fully advised said hearing was held as scheduled. No objectors appeared.

BE IT THEREFORE RESOLVED by the Board of Supervisors acting for and in behalf of D. D. No. 1 & 2, Lat. No. 8, that the report of the Engineer recommending a final payment on the contract of Cooper Construction Company of Ft. Dodge, Iowa, for labor and material on D. D. No. 1 & 2, Lat. 8 be approved, is approved and final estimate ordered paid as by law directed.

This being the 21st day of July, 1952, a date heretofore fixed for a hearing on the proposed reconstruction of Lateral No. 6 of D. D. No. 13, and Added Lands, petitioned for by W. F Dorow, et al, the hour for said hearing having arrived, the report of the Engineer recommending such reconstruction, the proof of publication being on file, and the Board being fully advised, said hearing was held as scheduled.

The petition and report of the Engineer recommending such reconstruction were read by the County Auditor and objectors and proponents were given an opportunity to discuss the necessity and feasibility of the reconstruction of the drainage district and objections thereto, petitioned for by W. F. Dorow, et al, as recommended in the report of the Engineer, Ralph W. Wallace. There were no written objections on file and no objectors appeared. After thorough consideration it was deemed conducive to public health, welfare, convenience, benefit and utility and the benefits to be derived will be greater than the cost thereof and that said reconstruction be approved.

BE AND IT IS THEREFORE RESOLVED by the Board of Supervisors in and for Hancock County, Iowa, acting for and in behalf of D. D. No. 13, Lat. No. 6, petitioned for by W. F. Dorrow, et al, which district is to be reconstructed through the lands listed in the Engineer's report, be and the same is hereby approved, and the 18th day of August, 1952, at the hour of 2:30 P M. at the Courthouse in Garner, Iowa, is hereby fixed as a time and place for letting of the reconstruction of D D. No. 13, Lat. No. 6 and added lands thereof in accordance with Chapter 455, Code of Iowa 1950.

The County Auditor be and he is hereby directed to cause notice of such letting to be published in The Garner Leader and Signal, a newspaper of general circulation published at Garner, Iowa, which notice shall request bids on labor and material for the reconstruction of said drainage improvement, the time of commencement and completion, the approximate amount and kind of work to be done, that the Board reserves the right to waive technicalities and to reject any or all bids, all in accordance with Chapter 455, Code of Iowa, 1950

The foregoing resolution was offered and read by Supervisor Bird, who moved its adoption, was seconded by Supervisor Daniels whereupon the Chairman Pro-Tem, Clint Daniels, placed the motion of its adoption and upon roll call the vote thereon is Clarence Bird and Clint Daniels, ayes. Nays, none. Whereupon the Chairman Pro-Tem declared the resolution duly adopted.

On motion and second the Board adjourned to July 28, 1952, at 9:00 o'clock A. M.

ATTEST:
MAYNARD SCHONEMAN,
County Auditor,
CLINT DANIELS,
Chairman Pro-Tem.

SCRAP

The Decorah Veterans of Foregin Wars recently cut up and sold for scrap a 155-mm howitzer. The gun was secured from the government some years ago by paying $300 in freight charges. Now it will do its share to relieve the steel shortage.

ELECTROCUTED

While playing in a basement, 10 year old Leland Hollingshead was electrocuted at Chariton last week. He and his cousin were playing with water pistols, and had gotten the floor wet. When he fell over a lamp cord, he was killed instantly.

FRACTURE

Henry Moore, Emmetsburg auctioneer, received a broken leg as he mowed his lawn with a power mower recently . His mower kicked up a stone,, which fractured his ankle.

49 YEARS

T. L. Beggs, 86 and Mrs. Alice Bass, 74, were married recently in Bloomfield. Mr. Beggs had proposed twice; the first proposal, made 49 years ago, was declined; the second, made recently, was accepted. The ceremony was to the strains of "Be My Life's Companion, and You'll Never Grow Old."

"WHEN YOU PAY YOUR ELECTRIC BILL YOU'RE PAYING TAXES"

REDDY depends upon his thousands of stockholders to provide the new money he needs for expansion and growth. These stockholders are men and women from all walks of life. They invest their money in this company because they believe in its ability to produce a fair return on their money.

It takes invested money to bring you adequate service

With the demand for more electricity growing each year, we must attract new stockholders and additional money to carry out our planned program of expansion. To attract these stockholders we must be able to show them that we can pay properly for the use of their money.

Why "Hidden Taxes" are dangerous

Reddy is able to pay the stockholders fair dividends. But lately, the taxes he pays have really bitten out a big share of the money available for dividends. In 1951 each share of common stock earned $4.40... The tax collectors took $2.93 and 57c was retained in the business for expansion. The 90c dividend was again subjected to personal income taxes ranging from 20% to 91%. That's what Reddy means when he says you're paying taxes, too, when you pay your electric bill. Should the taxes cut down dividends more, it would discourage new stockholders, and hamper Reddy's future plans.

HOW YOU CAN PLUG UP THE "HIDDEN TAX" DRAIN

★ Write to your elected representatives. Demand that they help reduce waste in government spending. Tell them to stop spending your tax money for public power projects that are in direct competition with Reddy. Ask your favorite candidate where he stands on these issues. Write today and help plug this drain of "Hidden Taxes."

SOME WEATHER SIGNS MAY PROVE ACCURATE

Do weather signs forecast accurately?

Gerald Barger, a research climatologist with the Iowa Agriculture Experiment Station, says some old weather signs are based on scientific fact, while others are completely unfounded.

Rings about the sun and wind direction are two accurate signs, says Barger.

A ring around the sun often precedes a rainy spell. It's caused by a thin layer of high cirrus clouds refracting sunlight. This usually means moisture is flowing into the region. Like all signs, the climatologist says, it's far from foolproof. But it's the inflow of moisture — not the halo—which brings rain.

East Winds—Rain

East winds in Iowa are another sign that forecasts rainy weather. It means a low-pressure area is passing south of the state, and warm, moist air from the Gulf of Mexico is being carried up over cooler, heavier air at ground level. The warm air is cooled and moisture is then changed to rain.

If a low pressure area passes north of the state, Iowa gets a westerly wind, since winds blow counter-clockwise around a low-pressure center. Barger says an east wind brings more rain to Iowa than a west wind.

The time honored bunion or rheumatic joint also may be a good weather prophet. Increasing humidity, changing barometer pressure and temperature often may cause a reaction in an afflicted joint.

Completely Unfounded

But there are some weather signs that are completely unfounded. One of the most famous is phases of the moon. Barger reports that sayings based on moon phases even contradict each other.

One saying goes that the moon is wet because the farmer can hang his harness on it—rain will keep him out of the field. But another says the same moon is dry because it's tipped so no water can run out of it.

The climatologist explains that no experimental evidence exists to support the suggestion of planting crops during a certain phase of the moon. Good seed, proper seedbed preparation, fertilization, weed and pest control, plus a little luck on the weather will mean a bumper crop—not a phase of the moon.

Other weather prophets often cited are animals. Like phases of the moon, animals don't predict weather either. Barger says animals respond to conditions they have already experienced. A heavy coat of fur may result from cold weather already past, but it's not a result of cold weather to come.

For those who have a pet weather-predicting theory, the researcher suggests testing its reliability. He says you can do this by forecasting for certain periods. Then religiously count all successes and failures. Don't rely on memory, but write them down. Then repeat your experiment time after time.

Don't be discouraged if you fail to predict accurately as you succeed. Barger reports hundreds of trained scientists are working full time at both private and government expense seeking reliable weather signs. And, bit by bit, they're discovering some new facts.

NOW IS TIME TO WATCH FOR HEATING IN HAY

Early August is the time that second crop hay might be heating—if you stored it wet.

Norval Wardle, extension farm safety specialist at Iowa State College, says wet heating hay can still be turned into valuable feed if it's handled properly and promptly.

Signs of heating hay include a strong burning odor, presence of vapor, or a hot feeling to your hand. Locate the heated area by pushing a steel rod into the hay from various angles. Leave it there 5 to 10 minutes, then feel the rod for hot spots.

Check the temperature of these hot spots by lowering a dairy thermometer into a pipe, then inserting the pipe to the hot spot. If the temperature is over 100 degrees, recheck each day. If the temperature rises rapidly or is over 180 degrees, remove the hay.

Handle the hay slowly and carefully, Wardle emphasizes. Have plenty of help and move the hay slowly. Fast movement may cause it to burst into flame. Dry ice dropped down a pipe to hot spots will make the hay safer to move. Also, Wardle recommends that you call your local fire department and have it stand by at your place.

The specialist also suggests placing planks across heating hay when walking over it. Burned-out areas under the surface often mean it's dangerous to walk on top.

Synod Will Hold Fall Meeting In Klemme

The Northeast Region of Iowa Synod will hold its Fall Meeting at the Immanuel Evangelical & Reformed Church in Klemme on October 7. Registration is expected to number somewhat over 200. The denominational representative will be Dr. Robert Stanger, pastor of Bethany Evan. and Reformed Church of Chicago. Representing the Board of Business Management of the renomination will be Dr. H. I. Stahr of Scituate, Mass. The Commission on Higher Education will be represented by Dr. Arthur Krueger, President of Mission House College and Seminary, Plymouth, Wisconsin. The Rev. Robert T. Fauth of Detroit, Michigan will represent the Board of Christian Education and Publication. The membership of the congregation and the people of the community the cordially invited to attend and visit the session of the fall meeting.

Iowa Can Support U. S. Hog Program

DES MOINES—Gov. William S. Beardsley said Friday, Iowa will be able to participate in a federal-state program for reimbursement of farmers for hog losses from a disease called "vesicular exanthema."

"The method is rather complicated but the state can pay half the cost," Beardsley said. Under the federal program states are required to match federal funds in equal amounts.

After the federal program was announced Thursday, there was a temporary question as to whether Iowa could legally pay its half.

Date Set For Contract Of Drain Ditch

The supervisors from Winnebago and Hancock Counties met at the courthouse to consider the matter of repairs on the main open ditch and lateral No. 6 of joint drainage district No. 37-39.

The board approved the report of Drainage Engineer William Henschen recommending that the repair be made and set August 28 as a date for letting. The letting will be held at the courthouse in Garner at 1:30 p. m.

The report of the engineer estimates the cost at $6,129.75 on the main and $859.50 on the lateral. The report states that approximately 13,639 cubic yards of dirt and silt will have to be removed from the main ditch and approximately 2,398 cubic yards of silt will have to be removed from lateral No. 6.

Willow Winter Injury Is Showing Up Now

Winter injury is showing up now among Iowa willows, reports Arden Sherf, extension plant pathologist at Iowa State College. The injury is from the sudden freeze early last November following a mild fall.

Dead branches or sections of willows are an indication of wintre injury, says Sherf. Generally, the crown in tree willows is affected while branches of pussy willows usually are killed.

The specialist recommends trimming out dead wood in the large willow trees. For pussy willows, choose the best branch that grows out and let it form the new tree. Then this winter, cut all dead limbs plus extra live branches that are competing with the main stem.

THE HIGHWAY STORY

That part of the road looks like a scene on a calendar, perhaps above the month of August. It is a section of an Iowa country road dropping down a long roll of prairie.

Summer stands high in the ditches in tall weeds and grass. Here and there, the tough grass has crept onto the edges of the gravel road, giving it the ragged look of a path. Beyond the ditches, fields of tall corn flash in the sun.

Add a barefoot boy with a fishing pole to the scene and you have the calendar picture of summer along an Iowa country road.

Add the dead bodies of a child and father, the scattered wreckage of two cars, and you have the real picture.

For, half way down the slope, another road comes in behind a screen of weeds and corn and makes a crossing. It is a blind intersection almost invisible from any approach.

The drover who came down the "calendar" road at 60 miles an hour didn't see the intersection and, at that speed, apparently wasn't looking for it.

The driver who came out of the side road with his son in the car knew about the intersection, but there was no sign left in the gravel to show that he had put on his brakes to stop and look.

No, no one from that neighborhood who saw the results of the accident can look down that road, with its soft spectale of summer, without remembering the child and the man thrown out on the gravel, suddenly dead.

The corn is high in Iowa now. Hundreds of country intersections are hidden behind the season. Slow down on country roads. Stop for country intersections.

Cases Of Rabies In Iowa Reported

DES MOINES—The Iowa Department of Agriculture reported Tuesday there were 160 cases of rabies in animals reported in the state during the first six months of this year.

There were 71 cases involving skunks, 55 among cattle and 24 in dogs. Only four of the cases concerned swine, 3 foxes, 1 horse, 1 raccoon and 1 rabbit.

The 160 cases were reported from 57 of the state's 99 counties. The largest number of cases was reported by a group of counties running from Ida and Crawford east to Hamilton and Story, north to include Humboldt, Wright, Hancock and Kossuth counties, and south to include Polk County. Hancock and Sac Counties tied for the most cases, with 11 each.

Liberty Go-Getters Met

The Liberty Go-Getters held their monthly meeting at the home of Gordon Lemke, August 4, at 8:00 p. m. Sixteen members answered roll call.

The club paid for the use of the R. C. softball diamond and for softball equipment.

Election of officers was held. They are as follows: President, Clayton Greiman; Vice-Pres., Donald Kopacek; Secretary, June Mayland; Treasurer, Gordon Lemke; and Reporter Garold Lenz.

PINNED

When his tractor upset, Floyd Maley of near New Market was pinned under the machine for about an hour and a half before he was discovered by a passing motorist. His injuries proved to be not serious, although he thought he was a "goner" by the time rescuers had lifted the machine from his body.

HURT

A former Seymour resident was badly hurt while on a picnic with her husband, an army sergeant, in Colorado Springs. She is Mrs. Sadie Scheinost, who received a broken back when she was run over by a jeep.

SAT DOWN

Just as Bill Wiley of Swea City was removing the sickle-guard from his binder, his 3-year old daughter came up and sat down. The doctor stitched up her right thigh, which was badly gashed.

RIDES NOW

13-year old Rodney Walter, of Anamosa, was tired of walking behind the family power lawn-mower. He rigged up a platform trailer of boards and coaster wagon wheels, now he rides as he mows.

RETIRES

For the first time in 51 years, the Conrad community is without the services of Dr. R. T. Spain, who retired last week. A graduate of Drake and the University of Illinois, he first hung up his single in Conrad in 1907. And he's been there ever since.

WONDERFUL

Flyer Marion Vanderby of near Ringsted recently took his wife's 81 year old aunt, Mrs. Emma Fenton of Pontiac, Ill., up for her first plane ride. She thought it was "wonderful".

LOST

Dennis, 12 year old Mediapolis youth, was a "lost" youngster there one night recently. The fire department was called out to search for Dennis. One of the firemen, Raymond Gerth, found Dennis asleep in the back seat of the Gerth car when he went out to answer the alarm. Apparently the youngster had walked in his sleep.

Changes Made In Teaching Personnel In Grade And High School

Supt. Ahrenkiel announces the following changes:

Mrs. Hilma Proper, who was the second grade teacher last year, will teach the sixth grade this coming year.

Miss Ilene Lambertson has been hired to teach the second grade.

Miss Carol Johnson has been hired to teach the Kindergarten for the coming year.

Francis Johnson has been hired to teach Commercial subjects and coach the Girls Athletics.

Miss Mary Smith will either teach 7th grade or teach in the high school, depending on what position can be filled.

Lots Of Activities

Students will not lack for something to do in the way of activity. There will be basket ball for boys and girls; baseball for boys; dramatics; instrumental music; vocal music; student council and high school newspaper.

Welcome Teachers - Students

The people of Klemme and community extend a cordial welcome to the teachers and to the boys and girls who are coming to the Klemme Schools. We know that you teachers will like being a part of our community and we will all do our best to make you feel at home.

THE FARM OUTLOOK

County Extension Director By Paul Henderson,

With the corn crop looking good and the stubble fields green, Hancock farmers are beginning to look for cattle. Here's a program to consider: Buy plain steers now to pasture the stubble field, then use them to clean up corn fields after the picker, and finish them out with about 15 to 20 bushels of corn for the late winter market.

Francis A. Kutish, extension farm economist at Iowa State College, believes that such cattle ought to bring at least 25c per pound when they go to market in the winter. They have the advantage of salvaging feed with little cash value. These cattle will use little corn relative to roughage. And this year farmers have an alternative use for their corn—they can seal it at a good figure.

This Year's Risk

The big risk in feeding cattle this year, according to Kutish, lies in the currant stage of the cattle cycle. We added 6 million head of cattle to our numbers last year—and will probably add another 5 million head this year. We should have around 93 million head of cattle on hand at the end of 1952.

If we should decide to hold numbers steady next year and end up 1953 with 93 million cattle, instead of holding back cattle again, total beef slaughter would shoot up 15 to 20 percent.

This could be the "Straw which breaks the camel's back."

The business outlook otherwise favorable enough to place a satisfactory outlook on cattle feeding this fall. Present feeder cattle prices should net a feeder profit on cattl sold next year—if we could be sure that we would not run into supply trouble next year from the decision to quit adding cattle to the total numbers now on hand.

Based an past history of the cattle cycle, this big increase in cattle slaughter should be still another year away. But weather, psychology and other unknows make it highly unpredictable matter. Thats where plain cattle come in. They will go to market this winter—before any liquidation of cattle could get under way.

Check Hog Markets

Turning to hogs, Kutish reports that labor troubles in the different plants and embargoes due to V E disease means a highly variable hog market. Farmers with hogs to sell will be wise to check all outlets before selling their hogs. It may make 50 to 75 cents difference in the high dollar they can get for their hogs.

NOTICE TO BICYCLE RIDERS

Bicycle riding will not be permitted on the side walk any place along Main St.

Bicycle Parking

A parking stand for bicycles has been provided at the Corner Store and at the Wellemeyer Store. Use the Parking stands. Bicycles are not to be left in front of any business place on Main Street.

Watch Pedestrians

Bicycle riders are warned to watch out for pedestrians at all times. They have the right of way on walks.

"X" MARKS THE SPOT—THINK

The other day Allen Barz, insurance agent for the State Automobile Insurance Association, placed two "X Marks the Spot" signs on the Priebe hill south of Klemme. State Auto uses these signs to remind the motoring public of its large truck and auto insurance services, and above all, THINK what one of these signs means!

Mr. Barz stated that is was not exactly a pleasant experience to place two of these signs so close to Klemme nor to replace two others in this vicinity which were weather warn. One replaced is on the highway west of Klemme and the other on the Maurice Murray corner east of Klemme.

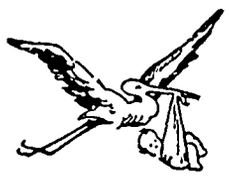
The WELLIK & BARZ Insurance Agency would like to know of any auto death in the Garner and Klemme vicinity which is not marked with one of these signs.

Pvt. Ivan Blumer Stationed At Kaiser's Lautern, Germany

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Blumer have received word from their son, Pvt. Ivan Blumer, that he arrived in Europe and is stationed at Kaiser's Lautern, Germany, in French territory. When heard from he was driving a "jeep" and might be assigned to driving some officer around.

Two other young men from this vicinity are also stationed in Germany and the boys have written home to get addresses so they can get together. One is Pvt. Billy Lacey, who saw Ivan's name on a bulletin board and both had landed the same day. However, they have not yet gotten together. Another young man is a cousin of Ivan's, Pvt. Robert Blumer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jake Blumer of Garner. He is at Bambey, Germany, drives a jeep and is planning to visit Ivan and Billy Lacey at the first opportunity.

HELLO FOLKS



Mr. and Mrs. John Waddingham are the parents of a baby boy, born this Wednesday morning, August 20, 1952, at the Belmond hospital. The new boy weighed 6 pounds and 5½ ounces.

DOUBLE FEATURE!

Mr. and Mrs. Asa Arnold are the proud parents of twin girls, born Tuesday, August 19, 1952 at the Allan Memorial Hospital at Waterloo, Iowa. The little misses tipped the scales at five and six pounds each. The Arnolds now have two sets of twins, Marilyn and Rosalyn, and one othen daughter, Clarice Ann.

PUBLIC NOTICE

Anyone caught in the act of shooting at or breaking electric light bulbs on the street lights in Klemme will be fined $25.00 and costs.

Shooting out light bulbs must be stopped.

WINNERS AT 4-H SHOW ARE LISTED

GARNER—A total of $42,216.-44 worth of 4-H livestock went across the auction block at the sale barn here last week, to climax the annual Hancock County Junior Achievement Show. The popular baby beef sale of 132 calves went for an average price of $33.88 per hundredweight.

In the baby beef judging, nine calves were good enough to rate purple ribbons. Don Pierce of Corwith had three calves that rated purple ribbons. Others with purple ribbon winners included Byron Greiman, Marvin Holck, Bobby Darrah, Roger Pringnitz, and Darrell Goll.

Other Awards

Along with these purple ribbons were 47 blue, 51 red and 35 white ribbons awarded in the baby beef show.

The dairy classes saw 14 blue and four red ribbons awarded. The swine classes had 4 blue and one red market ribbon. Darrel Goll showed the purple ribbon class of hogs.

In the lamb class, 5 blue, 2 red and 2 white awards were made. The horse show saw blue awards made to all 7 entries.

Top showman for the various classes of livestock were also selected, as follows: Byron Greiman, beef showman; Darrel Goll, swine showman; Elaine Jurgemeyer, dairy showman and Gary Lenz, horse showman.

Win Demonstrations

Five demonstration teams presented their demonstrations to a crowd of 200 people at the sale barn Monday night. Ed Chizek and Frank Brcka, representing the Garfield 4-H club were the purple ribbon winners with their demonstration on conserving and keeping soil productive.

Clayton Greiman and Francis Zrostlik were also awarded a blue ribbon for their soil conservation demonstration. The red ribbon winners were Don Pierce and Jerry Gray of the Magor 4-H club with a demonstration on soil conservation, and Dennis and Jimmy Hayes of Madison with a demonstration on keeping dairy utensils clean. Gary and Ronnie Formanek presented a junior demonstration that was awarded a blue ribbon. Their demonstration was on control of pocket gophers.

Hogs Restricted

In spite of the fact that this year's show was curtailed somewhat due to restrictions on the showing of hogs on account of vesicular exanthema, the show was most successful. The boys' exhibits were shown at the sale barn and the girls' exhibits at the farm shops building of the Garner schools. Demonstrations were conducted at the high school auditorium.

Twenty-six girls' teams took part in the demonstrations, 13 junior teams, 12 senior teams, and one individual. All demonstrations were on food projects.

Two Hereford calves topped the baby beef sale with $36.25 per hundred-weight. They were owned by George Guenther of the Erin Enterprisers and Don Pierce of the Magor Mustangs. John Hopshite of Corwith purchased the Pierce calf for $337.-12 and the Farmers State Bank of Kanawha bought the Guenther calf for $358.87.

TREASURER OF HANCOCK COUNTY, IOWA

LEGAL NOTICE

NOTICE OF HEARING

On Proposed Resolution Of Necessity For Sewers In The Town Of Klemme

RESOLUTION OF NECESSITY

BE IT RESOLVED by the Town Council of the Town of Klemme, Hancock County, Iowa, on its own motion as follows:

Section 1. That it is deemed advisable and necessary to construct storm sewers in said Town upon and along parts of the streets and from and to the points in said Town as follows:

Beginning at existing tile at a point approximately 745 feet southwesterly from intersection of Front and Iowa Sts.; thence to intersection of Front and Iowa Sts.; thence east on Iowa St. to Second St; thence north on Second St. to Hancock St.; thence east on Hancock St. to Third St.; thence north on Third St. to Jerusalem St., thence east on Jerusalem St. to its terminus at a point approximately 200 feet east of Fifth St.; with laterals as follows:

On Iowa St. from Second St. to Fourth St. and south on Fourth St. for approximately 200 ft.

On Hancock St. from Third St. to Fourth St.

On Day St. from Third St. to Second St.

On Elder St. from Third St. to Fourth St. and south on Fourth St. approximately 60 ft.

On Fourth St. from Jerusalem St. to State St.

On Fifth St. from Jerusalem St. to State St.

Section 2. That the kinds and size of materials proposed to be used shall be approximately as follows:

2050 feet 14-inch; 1000 feet 12-inch; 650 feet 10-inch; 4400 feet 8-inch; all extra strength clay or concrete drain tile,
20 manholes,
32 intakes, and incidentals

Section 3. That the method of construction shall be by contract in accordance with the plans and specifications and general stipulations for said sewers approved by the Town Council.

Section 4. That so much of the cost and expense of said sewer improvements as can under the law be assessed to abutting and adjacent property, including railroad property within the corporate limits of said Town of Klemme, Iowa shall be assessed upon and against privately owned property; and such cost, shall be assessed against the property abutting on such sewer in proportion to the number of linear front feet of each lot thereof, and upon adjacent property in amounts respectively in proportion to the benefits conferred upon said respective properties on account of said sewers, said assessments shall not be in excess of such benefits and shall not exceed twenty-five per cent of the actual value of the respective lots or tracts at the time of levy.

Section 5. That payment to the contractor for said sewer improvements will be made in cash derived from the sale of Special Assessment Bonds issued in accordance with Chapter 396 of the Code of Iowa, 1950, and in particular Section 396.6 of the said Code, in anticipation of the collection of said special assessments, an estimate of such assessments being on file with the Town Clerk, said bonds to be sold by the Town at not less than the par value thereof plus accrued interest. Any deficiency between the amount of the contract price of said sewers and the amount of proceeds from the sale of said special assessment bonds shall be paid by the issuance of such other bonds or certificates as may be legally issued for such purposes or from such other funds as may be legally used for such purposes. Any combination of the above methods may be used.

Section 6. That the location and terminal points of said sewers shall be as hereinbefore fully described in Section 1 of this Resolution and the abutting and adjacent property proposed to be assessed is as follows:

Original Town:
Blocks 1, 2, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12.

Klemme's First Add.:
Blocks 1, 2 (inc. adj. property between streets), 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 19, 20, 21, 22; also parts of Outlots 5 & 7.

Barz Addition:
Blocks 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12.
Klemme's First Auditor's Sub:
Lots 1 - 26 inc.
Grnetzmacher & Hanson's Add.:
Blocks 1 - 6 inc.

Morningside Add.:
Part blocks 1 and 3.
All that part of the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Railroad right-of-way lying east of its main track and from Day Ave. north to a point approximately 350 feet north of Jeruslam St.

Section 7. That a plat and schedule are now on file in the office of the Town Clerk, showing the streets and location of the sewers to be constructed, the size of the sewers, each lot or tract proposed to be assessed, together with a valuation fixed by the Council, an estimate of the cost the proposed sewers giving an estimate of the cost of each different type of construction and kind of material to be used, and also showing an estimate of that part of the cost which will be assessed against each lot or tract.

Section 8. That the Town Council by this Resolution gives notice of its intention to issue bonds as provided by Section 396.6 of the Code of Iowa, 1950 for the purpose of providing for the payment of the assessed cost of said sewers; said bonds to be issued in anticipation of the deferred payment of the assessment levied therefor, and that said bonds will be sold at public sale in the manner provided by law, but shall not be sold for less than their par value with accrued interest from date of bonds to the time of delivery thereof.

Section 9. BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that the foregoing resolution is hereby proposed and all of the matters as herein set forth, and that the foregoing proposed resolution and action thereon be and the same is hereby set down for further and final hearing, consideration and determination on the 4th day of September, 1952, at 8:00 o'clock P. M. at Basement of Grade School Building, Klemme, Iowa, and that the Town Clerk be and he is hereby instructed to give not less than fourteen (14) days' notice of the time when said resolution will be finally considered for passage such notice to be given on the same day of the week for two successive weeks by two publications in some newspaper of general circulation published in the Town of Klemme, Iowa, the last of which publications shall not be less than two nor more than four weeks prior to aforesaid day fixed for consideration of said resolution of neccessity, all as is provided by law, and that this resolution, except this paragraph, be and is hereby provisionally adopted, subject to the further and final consideration at the time above stated, at which time this resolution may be adopted as proposed, or amended and adopted as amended.

Section 10. That unless property owners at the time of final consideration of this resolution have on file with the Town Clerk objections to the amount of the proposed assessments, they shall be deemed to have waived all objections thereto.

The proposed improvement is on motion of the Town Council.

Proposed on the 11th day of August, 1952.

DRAFT MAY TAKE 19-YEAR OLDS

WASHINGTON—Selective Service hay have to dip into its pool of 19-year olds soon, a spokesman said Monday.

Young men 20 and older are still being used to fill draft calls across the nation, the spokesman reported, and as far as it is known here no local draft board is now calling 19-year olds.

But increased needs for manpower in the nation's armed forces may force Selective Service to turn to the younger category, he said. The official asked not to be quoted by name.

The stepped-up tempo of the draft was emphasized by a call Monday for 47,000 draftees in October—a 17,000 increase over the 30,000 asked for in September.

Animal Specialists

The U.S. has 13,000 licensed Doctors of Veterinary Medicine, a fifteenth of the number of physicians. The majority of vets live in rural areas and treat pets as part of a general animal practice. Over 3,000, however—located chiefly in cities—specialize in dogs and cats. The pet specialists operate most of the nation's 2,000 small-animal hospitals. Dog owners spend an estimated $12 million a year for veterinary services and medicines; cat owners spend possibly half as much. A striking feature of the veterinary profession is the number of father-and-son combinations. If you ask the first ten vets you meet what their fathers did, chances are that more than half will reply, "Practiced animal medicine." The likely explanation is that success as a veterinarian takes a deep liking for animals, best gained by growing up with someone who also likes animals.

Research Activities

Another long stride in the Atomic Age comes with the recent activation of a new atomic pile at Brookhaven National Laboratory on Long Island. This is the sixth U.S. research reactor and is described as America's biggest and most powerful. The reactor cost $25,000,000 and took three years and 11 days to build. It is housed in a six-story building and in regular operation will develop 30,000 kilowatts. Only four others are known to exist elsewhere, unless there are research reactors in U.S.S.R.

Staff of Life

Despite the introduction of all manner of new and different foods, the good old-fashioned loaf of bread is still the staff of life. U.S. consumers eat some 40,000,000 loaves daily, the N.Y. Journal of Commerce says, and get therefrom one-fourth of their proteins, one-third of their carbohydrates, one-third of their calories, one-third of their requirements of three important B-vitamins, and useful amounts of calcium, potassium, phosphorous, and other friendly chemicals. At one time or another, attempts have been made to add to white bread such other items as peanuts, potatoes, grapefruit juice, rice waste, peas, beans, tapioca, and seaweed. But only the raisin has ever gotten in and stayed there.

Child Eczema

Some cases of eczema in young children can be traced to a hostile mother-child relationship, according to a dermatologist of Vancouver, British Columbia. Dr. Donald H. Williams reports on his study of 53 children with allergic eczema. Maternal rejection, he said, was a common observation in all the children—that is, "rejection by the one human being who was closest and on whom he was most dependent, the mother." The children—between the ages of 13 months and 12 years—had chronic eczema involving mainly the arms, legs and face. In most instances the rash first became evident during the year following birth.

Circus Days Are Here Again

In a colorful room for a child that is pictured in the current issue of "Living," the dado is painted a sunshiny yellow to match the linoleum floor. The ceiling is painted a paler tint of the same hue. Above the dado—in the corner by the bed—is a wallpaper panel depicting colorful scenes of the circus. Other wall areas blend with the grayish background color of the circus scene. The bed is skirted and covered in a delightful shade of turquoise and given added circus gaiety by the addition of half a dozen small circular pillows in red-orange, yellow and blue. These simulate balloons—and even have long cords attached to help foster the illusion! A bookcase-toy shelf is painted white on the outside, turquoise within. Window curtains are turquoise also. A low table, painted red-orange, has, as a companion, a small black-lacquered chair with red knobs.

Yellow Point Aids Aviators

In the mountainous regions of the Southwest, the remnants of many planes that have crashed are clearly visible from the air. To show pilots that a crashed plane has already been reported, it is becoming a general practice—according to Life Magazine—to paint a large yellow cross on the "airside" of the wreck.

Popular Attraction

The Kon-Tiki raft has become established as the most popular tourist "attraction" in Oslo, Norway, drawing even more visitors than the famous Viking ships, according to a report by the Norsk Sjofartsmuseum. Even before the Kon-Tiki House was officially opened May 15, people all over the world inquired about the unique exhibit. Since the distribution of the film and the international success of the book, "Kon-Tiki", the crowd of visitors has grown steadily and people of all nationalities have expressed great interest in the display. A typical example is cited by the Norsk Sjofartsmuseum which reports that while the House was in the final stage of construction, a "young Indian woman in her fine, long sari, climbed to the top of a long ladder which she had rented, just to look at the raft through the windows. She simply refused to leave without having a glimpse of it."

Bad Reputation

Completely undeserved was the condor's early reputation as a dive-bombing predator, swooping down and carrying off lambs, calves, fawns or even human babies. Like other vultures, it subsists chiefly on carrion. Yet its great size, insatiable curiosity and white markings on the underside of its wings made it an easy gun target for hunters, sheep herders and range riders. In pioneer days, prospectors shot the condors for their wing feathers; the big hollow quills made good containers for gold dust.

Egyptian Music

Playing music or listening to it for complete relaxation dates back to the ancient Egyptians. Ptah-Hotep, author of the world's oldest work on philosophy, wrote that he had musicians play while his barber attended him.

Iowa Submits Hog Kill Plan

DES MOINES—State Veterinarian H. U. Garrett said Tuesday he was submitted to the federal government plan under which he hopes the state will be able to take part in a program to reimburse farmers for swine losses.

The state has offered to pay one-third if the federal government will pay one- third and the farmer stand onethird of the financial loss of hogs through vesicular exanthema. Dr. Garrett said he hoped the U. S. Dept. of Agriculture would accept the proposal.

FAIR BOARD CONSIDERING SITE FOR 4-H GROUNDS

The Hancock County Fair Board is still looking for a suitable site for the proposed 4-H Fair Grounds. So far there has been offered two possible sites: one at Garner and one at Klemme.

Before selecting a site, the Board will meet with commercial clubs and farmers around the county to get their opinion as to a site that would be agreeable to the majority in the county. These meetings will be held during September.

25 DAY SEASON FOR PHEASANTS

The Iowa Conservation Commission said Thursday the dates and the bag limits for Iowa pheasant and quail hunting seasons will be unchanged from 1951.

The pheasant season will open November 11 in all but seven southeastern counties with a bag limit of three cock birds and the same possession limit. Shooting hours will be from noon to 4:30 p. m., the commission said.

The pheasant season will continue until December 5 in 65 long zone counties for a 25-day season and close November 22 in the short zone counties. The commission said a bird census showed pheasant population in Iowa was about the same as last year with the concentration in the northern three tiers of counties.

The quail season will open November 1 and continue until December 15 in the long zone counties and November 15 in the short zone The shooting hours will be from 8:30 a. m. to 4:30 p. m. with a bag and possession limit of six.

Transplant, Fertilize And Spray Perennials

Transplanting, fertilizing, and spraying—these are three late summer practices which will insure hardy perennial growth next year, says Ben Vance, extension horticultrist at Iowa State College.

August is the best time to transplant dormant oriental poppies, reports the specialist He suggests digging, dividing and planting in new locations. Divide iris now if you haven't already separated them. When dividing, look for soft and decayed roots, or injury from iris root borer. Cut all damaged parts before replanting.

Continue dusting and spraying roses against insects and diseases, suggests Vance. Use an all-purpose rose dust or spray containing Ferbam. It will control most rose-damaging insects and diseases, including black spot, a fungus which has been troublesome this year. Also continue spraying gladiolus with a 5% DDT dust to combat thrips.

The specialist recommends fertilizing hardy chrysanthemum this month. Using a complete fertilizer—such as a 5-10-5 mixing about 2 to 3 tablespoons of fertilizer into the top inch of soil.

Don't fertilize hybrid tea roses, he cautions. More fertilizer will cause plants to continue growth, which doesn't give the wood a chance to mature. Immature wood is more susceptible to winter injury and often results in setting plants back.

Vance also recommends removing seed pods after all perennials have bloomed. Seed formation works against the plant, and it sometimes causes poorer blooms next year.

Utah Forge Reworked Scrap ..en Dropped by '49ers

Scrap, discarded by the "Forty-Niners" en route to the California Gold Rush played an important role n Utah a century ago. So urgent was the need for agricultural implements and domestic utensils of iron that a forge was set up in Salt Lake Valley to rework the scrap collected along the wagon trails of the "Forty-Niners." The forge operated for at least two years.

Meanwhile, an expedition discovered the now famous iron ore deposits of southern Utah, and in 1851 the adjoining coal and ore fields were found near what is now Cedar City.

Burr Frost, a blacksmith, first made iron from Utah ores 100 years ago. He made the iron as an experiment in his forge to determine if a large scale operation was feasible. The resulting iron was made into needed horsehoe nails on the spot.

All winter, in spite of floods and Indian raids, the settlers at Cedar City worked at building a blast furnace. They mined and broke up iron ore by hand and manufactured coke from the abundant coal. In September 1852, they succeeded in making the first pig iron west of the Mississippi. The following year a small amount of the iron was reported "converted into steel."

Food Acids Will Not Harm Or Stain Porcelain Enamel

Acid food such as tomatoes or citrus fruits will not harm the finish of present day "acid-resistant" porcelain enameled steel kitchen ranges or sink tops, according to the Porcelain Enamel Institute. These acids, if allowed to stand, will leave only a temporary stain, the Institute says, which can easily be removed from the glass-like porcelain enamel surface with either a damp cloth or soap and water cleaning.

The Institute also reports that many housewives are mistaken in believing that the porcelain enamel will craze if spill-overs are wiped up before the range has cooled. The Institute research division points out that porcelain enamel—as demonstrated by its use in high temperature exhaust systems, furnace combustion chambers and other similar applications—is made to withstand many times the degree of "thermal shock" likely to be caused by wiping a hot kitchen range with a cool, damp cloth.

Bubble Bullets

A bubble gun that shoots bubble bullets is the recently patented invention of Nicholas J. Limber, Rockville Centre, N.Y. This toy has a rubber bulb in the pistol grip, and a magazine to hold bubble ammunition. A trigger depresses the bulb, and the air inflates a bubble at the muzzle. National Patent Council observes that the bubble gun doubtless holds the world's record for lowest projectile velocity. The patent has been assigned to Bubble Gun, Inc., New York, N.Y.

Dunk Stuffed Toys In Your Your Washer

Junior's teddy bear, panda or cuddly stuffed dog tags along with him wherever he goes, and comes home soiled and forlorn. How do you yet him fluffly-clean again—wash or dry-clean, sponge or duck? If he has a good grade of stuffing, give him a dunking in your washer, spin him damp dry, then toss him into your dryer or hang him on the line to dry.

Here's how according to home management specialists at Iowa State College.

First, mend any rips or tears so that he won't lose part of his stuffing during the washing. If he's dark brown or red, or you think the color will fade, wash him apart from other stuffed toys. Some painted faces wash off, so you may have to be prepared to paint on a new face afterwards. Don't try to machine wash toys with multi-colored fibers and bits of fabric for stuffing, or those with brownish poor-grade cotton stuffing. Both of these may stain or discolor the outer covering.

Fill your washer two-thirds full of warm water. Add mild soap or detergent. Before dunking, rub very dirty parts with soap jelly or detergent granules. Wash two or three toys at a time and push them under the water whenever they come to the top. Run washer from 2 to 4 minutes, 2 minutes for cotton-fillel toys. Rinse toys in lukewarm water for 2 to 3 minutes, again pushing them under the water when they float to the top.

Spin dry for 6 to 8 minutes to remove as much water as possible. If you don't have a spinner squeeze them out by hand as much as possible. Then pop panda, teddy bear and all into your dryer to get fluffly-dry. Set the dryer at low for wool animals. Soft, floppy cloth-covered animals will dry the fastest; fuzzy, furry ones will take longer.

For line drying, fasten teddy bear to the line with a strong cord. In doors an electric fan will help speed the drying process.

DRIVERS WITH GOOD RECORDS TO BE HONORED

DES MOINES—If you have been driving for the past three years without a traffic violation, you're going to get a chance to tell the world about it.

The Iowa Safety Council has just announced a program in which good drivers will be invited to poin the organization and will receive identification emblems for their cars.

Claude V. McBroom, Council chairman, said official records are now being examined to find names of drivers who have not been involved in a reportable accident or been convicted of a traffic violation during the past three years.

These drivers will receive letters inviting them to join the council on the basis of $2 individual membership or $5 business and professional membership.

Members will receive emblems for their cars, membership cards and a monthly bulletin. More than 5,000 letters have already been mailed to drivers who meet with the qualifications, according to the council.

"The safety council emblem on a member's car will signify that he has a good driving record," McBroom said. "It will establish recognition between good drivers on the highways and, we hope carry a feeling toward safety right out into moving traffic."

McBroom said all membership fees will go to support safety programs and state-wide campaigns of the safety council which is non-profit, non political organization of private citizens.

A number of months will be required to establish contact with all drivers who meet the qualifications for council membership, he said.

Martha Circle

Martha Circle No. 4 will meet Wednesday, August 27 at the home of Mrs. John Schwitchenberg with Mrs. Sibert Shoop as co-hostess. Minnie Lenz will be lesson leader. Each member is requested to bring some small wrapped gift anywhere from 25c to 75c to be auctioned off among the members present.

Anyone wishing a ride out to the meeting should contact either Mrs. Roy Arnold of Mrs. Merle Mikkleson.

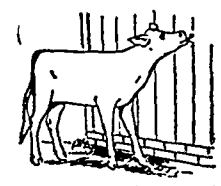
WHAT ABOUT LEAD POISONING?

Q: What causes lead poisoning in cattle?

A: Paint is the chief trouble maker, when cattle lick it off farm buildings, or from paint cans. However, cattle also get poisoning from licking old storage batteries, swallowing lead shot, eating orchard grass that has been sprayed with lead arsenate, and licking lotions, ointments and salves which contain lead.

Q: Are cattle the only animals susceptible to lead poisoning?

A: No, we find cases among horses, sheep, goats, swine and even dogs and cats. However, cattle are more sensitive to lead poisoning than other animals.



Q: Why is the danger especially great to young calves?

A: Calves are noted for habitually licking objects. When they have access to freshly painted surfaces, or old scaling paint on buildings and fences, they cannot resist licking them.

Q: What are the symptoms of lead poisoning?

A: In the acute type, first symptoms are slobbering, choking and scouring. The victims tremble, champ their jaws and walk blindly or in circles. Death may occur suddenly, or the victims may become paralyzed, go into a coma and die. In chronic forms, brought on by swallowing small amounts of lead over a long period, there is a general wasting away and weakness, with occasional convulsions.

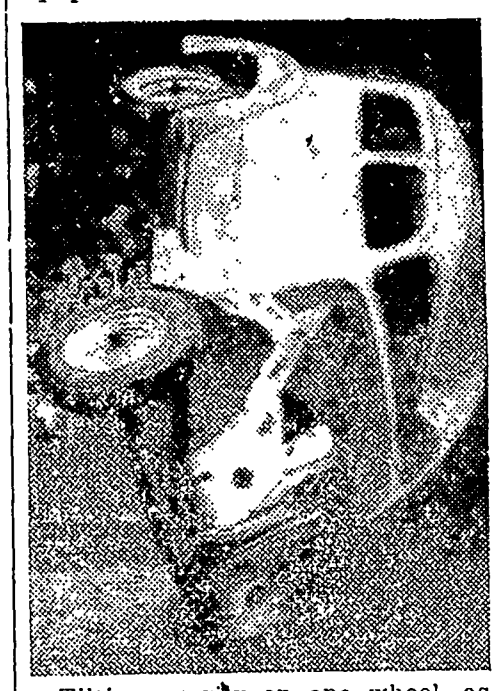
Q: Is there any cure?

A: There is no specific drug, but veterinarians can salvage some animals with symptomatic treatment. Prevention is best — simply keeping livestock away from sources of lead poisoning.

NOTE—Due to space limitations, general questions cannot be handled by this column.

Safe Handling

Fluorine, the most active element known, combines with virtually every other material under suitable conditions and with many materials spontaneously even at room temperatures. Wood and steel, glass and even water will burn in contact with fluorine. It is interesting to note that all basic raw materials in fluorine compounds are safely and economically handled with Monel, a nickel-copper alloy, or nickel equipment.



Tilting crazily on one wheel, as its driver desperately struggles to regain control, is a car which the Aut Swenson Thrillcade is sending to its death in a spectacular "crash roll." Two Thrill Days, August 26 and 30, and an opening Thrill Night, August 23, will be presented by this famed aggregation of thrill shows at the great Minnesota State Fair, August 23 through September 1. Added feature of the thrill show, night of August 23, will be the 1952 International Civil Air Patrol Precision Drill competitions, British, Canadian and United States teams.

Ned Howards Enjoyed Fishing In Canada

Mr. and Mrs. Ned Howard and sons, Elmer and Raymond, enjoyed a week's vacation and fishing at the North Star Camp at Quifell, Ontario, Canada.

They enjoyed the beautiful scenery on their trip north, especially the water falls at Nestor Falls and and Sioux Rapids. Ned said that where they were fishing it was mostly rock and water, with pine trees growing out of the rock crevices.

They found fishing was excellent and caught all the fish they could use each day. They returned home Friday.

MORE INBRED HOGS LINES ARE NEEDED

Essential To Getting Hybrid Vigor Possible

Commerical expansion of good inbred lines is the chief bottleneck to widespread use of hybrid vigor in producing hogs, according to L. N. Hazel, swine breeder at Iowa State College, Ames.

In order to get the advantages of hybrid vigor, increased litter sizes, livability and growth rate, the market hog producer must cross his inbred and crossbred sows with inbred boars of different breeds in succeeding generations. The big commercial hybrid hog company can maintain several lines of breeding and can furnish boars of different breeds in succeeding years.

One Line Per Farm

Smaller farmers can produce crossline boars from several lines of the same breed. They must, however, exchange customers with neighboring producers of seed stock so the customer can obtain boars unrelated to his sows. This means the hog producer will choose his inbred boars from a different farmer-breeder each year. It wouldn't be pratical, Hazel points out, for a small farmer-breeder to offer more than one inbred line.

Experiments at the Iowa Agriculture Experiment Station show there is a definite hybrid vigor to be gained from crossing good inbred hogs. This vigor, the 1952 experiments show, can be maintained through at least four generations, with advantages in litter size, livability and growth rate.

Not All Inbreds Good

However, the 1952 experiments also show that if the producer goes back and uses an orginal line of breed in the 2nd or 3rd generation, a considerable part of the hybrid vigor is lost.

Hazel points out that hog men interested in the possibilities of inbreeding and crossbreeding should bear in mind that not all inbred lines are good. Hog breeders were shown results of poor as well as good inbred lines at the first Swine Breeder's Day at Iowa State College this month. Hazel says about 1 out of 10 inbred lines developed in experiments proves to be good enough for commerical use.

Poland-Landrace Good

A cross of good inbred lines of Poland China and Landrace hogs is producing the leanest carcasses with the highest per centage of primary cuts of pork. This year the Poland-Landrace cross produced an average of 9 weaned pigs per litter. The best of these Poland-Landrace crosses produced pigs that averaged 225 pounds each at 5 months of age and required only 310 pounds of feed per 100 pounds of gain.

The cross of inbred Duroc boars on Poland-Landrace sows has been practially as good as Poland - Landrace cross. The cross in the next generation to Montana No. 1 lacks 2 or 3% of being as good as the Poland-Landrace cross.

Ned Howards Received Beautiful Gifts From Japan

Ned Howard and family have received some very beautiful articles from the Howard's son, Pfc. Melvin Howard, who is in Korea, but sent the gifts from Japan when he was there on a furlough.

Among other things Melvin sent 2 sets of 93-piece chinaware, and Ned received a very fine fishing rod and flies. The rod is very beautiful and is a combination of three rods in one and would delight any fisherman.

MAYOR'S COURT

Harlan Elmer Anderson, Goodell, appeared in Mayor Cook's Court and was fined $5.00 and costs for careless driving on the 9th of August.

the Highway Story

IOWA DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC SAFETY

BY BOB HULLIHAN

Hurry! We have only seconds to review this man's life before it ends. He is pushing the car up to 70 miles an hour. He is pulling out to pass. The top of the hill is only yards away. There is very little time.

Somewhere, years and miles behind him, there is an old baseball mitt, once carefully oiled and pliant to the hand, but dry and stiff now and lost in the attic. That's all we can say about his boyhood. There's so little time.

And, somewhere, for up on a darkened wall in a high school building, his younger face stars out among all the faces of the class of 1928.

And part of his life is behind him in the records of companies where he worked. And part of his life is behind him in boxes and drawers, in letters that he wrote home and mentioned the weather, in letters that he wrote to the girl he finally married.

Then here are the snapshots, some creased and cracked. Pictures of the kids when they were babies. Pictures of the wife when she wore short skirts because it was the style. Pictures of himself when he wore a sailor straw.

And, just behind him, just an hour behind him, is the home with the bed he slept in the night before, with his wife in the kitchen making up the grocery list, with the door he closed so casually after he said goodby for the day.

In the office, the little notes piling up on the desk for when he returns: "Mr. Thompson called. . .Call Harvey Brothers . . . The shipment will be delayed."

Every thing he lived through and for is riding with him up the hill on the wrong side of the road. But now there's no more time. He'll see the truck coming in a second and there's no more time at all.

FOURTH

Three cars piled up in a unique accident near Algona. All agreed that the 4th car, which got away, caused the mishap. It braked suddenly just before the driver turned into a side-road, and the three following cars piled up behind.

Crops Look Best In Years Over All Of Iowa

The writer took a week end trip to Kansas City and was impressed with the very good crops seen all the way from North Iowa, across the state and well south in Missouri.

The corn is the very best that we have seen it in the 30 years we have been going to Kansas City. Although corn in south and southwestern Iowa and Northern Missouri is a bit further advanced, it does not look any better than in North Iowa.

There is an immense hay crop all the way to Kansas City. We saw many trucks piled high with baled hay, which were probably headed for the dry area further south. Southern Iowa and Missouri and Kansas oats went around 50 bushels to the acre, an unusually good crop for them.

We were surprised to see quite a large section north of St. Joseph, on Highway 71 which had large fields of tobacco. We did not know why they raised so much tobacco there.

The landscape was nice and green all the way, quite unusual this time of year, as more often the pastures are getting brown in Missouri this time of year. However, there has been plenty of rain all summer and the grass is nice and green and providing excellent pasture.

It looks like a bumper corn crop all the way this year.

Hail Damages Crops In Vicinity Of Klemme

This section was visited by a hail storm Friday afternoon that did considerable damage to corn and beans near Klemme.

However, the hail damage area was not very large and most farms escaped with minor loss.

Another area was hit south and west of town. Ben Mullin reported a heavy loss, and evidently it was the same storm that struck further east.

Southeast of town Dorance Day, Wm. Thiel, John Waddingham and Ray Barz were in the heavy to medium loss area.

Quilting Party

Mrs. Martin Barz entertained several ladies at a quilting party at her home Tuesday afternoon. Out of town guests were Mrs. Henry Voetberg, and her mother, Mrs. W. J. Barz of Garner.

Mrs. Barz treated the ladies to a nice lunch.

U.S. Coal Industry Mines 23 Billionth Ton of Fuel

America's bituminous coal industry, whose productive capacity far exceeds that of any other nation in the world, reached another milestone with the mining of the 26 billionth ton since 1800.

Great Britain, now in her seventh century of mining, is runner-up to the United States in the all-time production figures, yet her total coal output is less than the 23 billions tons produced by this nation's bituminous mines alone since 1900. Including authracite, there has been an output of 26,894 million tons of coal in America in the past 52 years. and a total of 30,953 million since 1800.

At the present rate of production, another billion tons of bituminous coal will come from U.S. mines by October 1953. A billion tons per year is the expected production when reserves of oil and gas become inadequate a generation hence, but there are enough recoverable coal reserves in the 31 coal-bearing states to enable this high output to continue for a period of at least several centuries.

West Virginia is the leading producer of bituminous coal, accounting for 166 million tons in 1951. Next are Pennsylvania, Kentucky, and Illinois in that order. The "big four" of the coal states was responsible for more than three-quarters of the 535 million tons of bituminous coal produced in the United States last year.

Easter Island May Be New Pacific Air Link

Easter Island's great stone statues, left by a forgotten civilization far out in the southeastern Pacific, stand guard today over one of the last major blank spaces on the world air map.

However, it may be on the threshold of a new day. Mutual security talks are under way between the United States and Chile. It may become an important air base.

No one knows how or when the first inhabitants came to Easter. It is a triangular volcanic outcrop 13 miles long and seven wide.

Until recently it had a population of only about 400.

Easter's stone figures have been studied for more than two centuries, but they remain an enigma. Some are more than 30 feet high and weigh up to 50 tons. One uncompleted statue is 66 feet in length. Cut from crumbly, fragile lava, they were somehow lifted and moved by a people who had no wood for rollers and very little fibre for rope.

Telepathists Bridge 500 Mile Gap, Doctor Reports

Human minds have spanned a distance of 500 miles in a dramatic telepathy experiment which brought to light "significant new findings," a South African psychologist reports.

Maurice C. Marsh, who conducted the unique experiment, says that the evidence in favor of telepathy was "more than twice as great as could be attributed to chance alone."

The experiment was conducted between a "sender" in Capetown, South Africa, and a group of 371 subjects, mostly university students, who acted as "receivers" in Grahamstown, 500 miles away.

Special care was taken to choose objects not ordinarily thought of, Marsh pointed out. From a list of 15,000 suggestions made by the receivers, objects were selected that had been mentioned only once in the list. These included a radar aerial, a crutch, billiard table and see-saw.

Each morning the sender would draw pictures of two objects on the list. The receivers, 500 miles away, would sketch pictures of whatever objects came to their minds and would write a title beneath each drawing. At the end of the experiment, these drawings were compared with those of the sender, and statistical scores were compiled.

Marsh said his findings indicate:

(1) That telepathy was "definitely at work in the experiment."

(2) That sociable extroverted people tended to score higher than sensitive introverts.

(3) That a subject's knowledge of the sender formed a link which contributed greatly toward successful telepathy. This "linking factor" was one of the experiment's most significant findings.

Long Life for Kids

Conquest of disease has reduced the mortality at ages one to 14 by three fourths since 1930. This is based upon the experience among children insured in the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company. The death rate among boys of the insured group dropped from 275.8 per 100,000 in 1930 to 74.7 in 1950, and among girls from 228.4 per 100,000 to 53.9. At the preschool ages the improvement over the two decades was about four-fifths, and the 1950 preschool death rate from all causes combined was lower than the rate from penumonia alone in 1930. The mortality from the principal communicable diseases of childhood—measles, scarlet fever, whooping cough, and diphtheria—fell more than 95 percent, and the downward trend of the death rate from diarrhea and enteritis was almost as rapid. Reductions of not less than 75 percent at any of the age periods were recorded for pneumonia, tuberculosis, and rheumatic fever.

Nose Pillow

That lump in your pillow when you sleep face down is your nose. It's inconvenient for sun bathers, patients with back injuries, and snorers who try to compose themselves to sleep quietly. Now, Anne C. Costello of Boston is inviting everybody to stick their noses into her business, which is a special device to serve as auxiliary to the regular pillow. It is a face-fitting strip of cloth, supported above the pillow, with openings for nose and mouth.

New Comet Discovered By Geographic Survey

The National Geographic Society announces the discovery of a new comet in the constellation Virgo.

The new heavenly wanderer was first seen on a photographic plate exposed on Palomar mountain, California, on the night of January 30, 1952. Its light was captured by the great 48-inch Schmidt telescope, operated by California Institute of Technology Astronomer Robert Harrington.

The comet is of the 15th magnitude. Its tail is about five minutes of arc long On the night of discovery the comet's position was right ascension, 12 hours, 33.4 minutes; declination, plus 11 degrees, 36.4 minutes Its daily motion is 30 seconds east and 13.8 minutes north.

The new comet is the fifth discovered in the last two years by the National Geographic Society-Palomar Observatory Sky Survey—a four-year project to explore the entire sky visible from Palomar out to a distance of 350 million light-years.

Color From Cuttlefish

The so-called "sepia" color, familiar in the rotogravure sections of newspapers, is a fancy name for brown. The original sepia was an organic coloring matter obtained from the cuttlefish. In ancient times it was used as a writing ink. Brown pigments, such as sienna, umber, and various coal tar pigments, are used today for tinting sepia-colored paints.

Potential Field

Diamonds have been found in the glacial drift of the Great Lakes region, particularly in Wisconsin. They were apparently brought south by the glaciers. Thus, the region of the known glacier paths between the Great Lakes and Hudson Bay is indicated as a potentially rich diamond field.

Improved System

In the early days of plate glass manufacturing, the glass was ground and polished by rubbing two plates together by hand. Today, the massive grinding and polishing machines in the Libbey-Owens-Ford factories in Toledo are more than a block long.

Benefits Two Ways

Water-repellent paint on chimneys protects them against moisture penetration and often improves their appearance.

Taking Instructions

Some 2,250,000 children in 40 states are enrolled for weekday religious instruction.

Coal Users

The nations' armed services used close to 5 millions tons of coal for heat and power the past year.

Farms and Ranches

About sixty-five per cent of Wyoming's population earn their living from farms or ranches.

Rich Spot

The coast of Tripolitania is Libya's most fertile region

Car Ratio

One out of every three cars on U.S. railroads is a coal car.

Aren't Color Blind

Wrens, it is said, will not live in a house that is painted yellow.

Early Joiner

Vermont was the first state to join the union after the original thirteen.

Peaches Top Crop

Peaches comprise the biggest fruit crop of Texas.

Date Line

The Confederate states were formed in 1861.

Great Fire

In 1835, 674 buildings were destroyed by fire in New York City.

Keeping Even

Although freight car builders turned out 110,229 cars during a recent 16-month period, the nation's fleet of freight cars increased by only a quarter of that total. Worn-out freight cars had to be retired at a rate three-quarters as large as the new construction.

Teams Take Shellacking

Shellac, lacquer and varnish take an active part in many sports. They are used on golf club heads and shafts, fishing rods, skis, baseball bats, tennis racquets, bowling pins and bowling alleys.

Early Glassblowers

Colonists at Jamestown, Virginia, seeing the value of colorful beads for use in trade with the Indians, made crude glass soon after they landed in 1607.

George Did It

It was George IV who decided that England's sovereign should have an imposing palace in the heart of London.

Generating Electricity

To generate the electricity required by an electric water heater, a power plant used 4,216 pounds of coal a year.

Coal User

The Department of Defense of the U.S. Government is annually consuming in excess of five million tons of coal.

Early User

A Pennsylvania steel company used coke oven gas as a fuel in its open hearth steelmaking furnaces in 1910.

Drop in Body Temperature To 60.8 Degrees Recorded

Recent reports of a woman who survived a drop in body temperature to 60.8 degrees Fahrenheit and a man who lived through a 112-degree fever have focused new attention on an ever-interesting aspect of human physiology. What are the extremes of external temperature that the human body can tolerate without the aid of special protective measures?

The human being is too variable a creature to permit hard-and-fast answer to this question. Medical literature contains reports, dating as far back as 1875, of persons who survived falls in body temperature to under 64 degrees. Authorities generally agree that most persons can withstand a drop to 77 to 78 degrees rectal, provided it is not maintained too long. As the temperature drops below 78, however, an increasing percentage will succumb.

At the other end of the scale, fever of 107 degrees is not, by itself, particularly dangerous. Once the temperature goes above that, though, there is apt to be a sudden uncontrollable rise. Very few persons survive fever of over 109 degrees, although recovery from 113 degrees has been recorded.

Boom in Music Classes Is Greatest Postwar Phenomenon

In cities all over the country today, executives, students, janitors, housewives and secretaries are spending their evenings together. They're joining in the common purpose of making music and finding it's a lot of fun.

For one of the greatest postwar phenomena is the big boom in music classes and ensembles for grown-ups. The number of adults taking private lessons is at an all-time high, according to the American Music Conference. There are more local orchestras and the growth in community music councils is remarkable.

Having made a study of this trend, the AMC thinks there are a number of reasons for the boom. The strain of modern-day living makes people want a pleasant, wholesome outlet for their tensions. They have more leisure time and the war has taught them to make better use of it. New methods of teaching music in classes makes the learning process a lot more fun. Then too, as a part of the general boom in adult education, music is becoming a favorite recreational activity in millions of homes.

Too Young to Retire

Billy Morgan has completed 50 years on the same job but he still isn't old enough to retire on pension. An inspector of microscopic jeweled bearings at an Elgin watch factory, Morgan won't reach 65 until July 21. He was born in England, brought to America as an infant and started working at the age of 15 for 50 cents a day. "It was big money in those days," Morgan recalls, "even though we had to work nine hours a day to earn it. And we got a real break on Saturday—they let us off an hour early!"

Spraying Saver

The recently improved application of quality finishes by hot spraying, steam spraying and electrostatic spraying is gaining increased acceptance in the finishing of many products. Spraying of these new lacquers and synthetics by modern methods makes it possible to get superior protection with a single application. It also saves spraying, drying, baking and sanding time while it cuts production costs and increases production capacity for manufacturers. The hot lacquer method, for instance, is often used for the spraying of furniture. Electrostatic spraying is an efficient means of finishing metal frames. Steam spraying is being used to coat 300-pound bombs.

What's In A Name?

Of great importance to the lacquer industry are the glycol esters which have high solvent power and lack of odor. Principal among them are propylene glycol methyl ether, di and tri propylene methyl ethers, ethylene glycol monomethyl and ethyl and butyl ethers. They are also used in quick drying varnish and enamels.

Reports Given On State Auxiliary Convention

The postponed meeting of the Klemme American Legion Auxiliary was held at the home of Lois Chambers on Tuesday evening, August 12.

It was voted to join a book club as a means of adding new books to the library. The library committee is to decide on which book club to join.

The library will probably be open in the afternoon instead of evenings this winter. However, any change will be published in the Klemme Times.

Flora Back, Carrie Schwichtenberg and Helen Stille reported on the highlights of the State American Legion Auxiliary Convenetion held in Des Moines, July 30-31.

A tour of the Woodward Institution will be made again this year on September 9. Anyone interested in going should contact the president, Flora Back, or be at the September meeting when further plans will be made.

Attendance prize was won by Lois Chambers. Lunch was served by the hostesses, Lois Chambers and Thelma Arnold.

Attended R. N. Convention At Garner

Mrs. George Lawhorn and Mrs. Mildred Day attended the Royal Neighbors Convention at Garner Tuesday afternoon and evening. Mrs. A. G. Koerner and Mrs. Nova Stokesbary attended the evening session.

There were over 150 ladies at the banquet that evening.

Evangelical And Reformed Church Scene Of Wedding Ceremony Fri.

DELORIS KARSJENS BRIDE OF NORENE PEARSON

Deloris Karsjens, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Karsjens of Klemme, and Norene Pearson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Pearson, Klemme, were united in Marriage at the Klemme Evangelical and Reformed Church on Friday, August 15th, with the Reverned Vernon Jaberg performing the ceremony, using the double-ring ritual.

The church was beautifully decorated for the occasion. Mrs. Ernest Gerardi at the organ, provided the nuptial music for the wedding.

The bride was accompanied to the alter by her father, who gave her in marriage. She wore a light blue suit with white accessories and a corsage of red and white roses.

Her bridesmaid, Miss Mary Ann Blumer, wore a red suit with a white hat and accessories and her corsage was of yellow and white roses.

The bridegroom and his best-man, Lyle Goll, both wore blue suits with a white carnation boutonniere.

Ushers were LuVerne Schmidt and Ronald Karsjens.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the dining room of the church for relatives and friends. Miss Margaret Buckley had charge of the guest book.

Among the congratulations received was a telegram of good wishes from Mr. Pearson'c relatives in Sweden.

After the reception the couple left on an extended trip.

SETS WEDDING DATE—Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Barz of Klemme announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Darlene Mae, to Richard Trenary, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Trenary of Kanawa. The wedding will be September 24.

RUNWAY TRAPS SOLD TO WALGREEN DRUG CO.

Mrs. Edna Thada and Ed Thompson Monday closed a dea whereby they sold their patent rights, die-cutting presses and stock of steel and all manufacturing rights of the Runway mouse trap to the Walgreen Drug Company of Chicago.

The Walgreen Co. will manufacture the traps and retail them through their 1400 retail stores throughout the United States.

Mr. Walt Thada invented the famous trap and received the first patent on it in 1933. Since that time it had been manufactured in Klemme. The past few years it had been difficult to procure the proper steel and manufacturing slowed down and no traps have been made for several months.

R. A. Jorgenson, Sr. will operate both plants until other arrangements are made.

Prominent Doctor Will Speak At Annual County Cancer Meeting

the Highway Story
IOWA DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC SAFETY

BY BOB HULLIHAN

12:05 A. M. - Saturday, Sept. 3, 1949. The Labor Day weekend was five minutes old when a car came out of a gravel road into a T intersection. The driver didn't know it was there. He couldn't turn to right or left and crashed out of the intersection. A young boy died.

1 A. M. - Six young men off a factory night-shift were riding home when the car entered a curve, moved across the center line, and crashed into an approaching car. Another young man died.

5:30 A. M. - Dawn was coming as a trucker, his vehicle stalled on a hill, stood frantically waving a flashlight at an approaching car. The car never stopped, never slowed its speed. Three more were dead.

11:30 A. M. - A driver entering a country intersection ignored the stop sign and came ahead. Another driver entered the same intersection without reducing speed. Two more died.

4 P. M. An all-day drinking bout came to an end when a car carrying four men in the front seat and one man on each fender crashed into a light pole. Another man died.

So the first day of the Labor Day weekend in Iowa in 1949 came to an end with nine persons dead in traffic accidents. Five more were to die the following day, Sunday, to establish the worst Labor Day weekend toll in the history of the state - 14 killed in two days.

With the record - breaking traffic expected on the highways this Labor Day weekend, there is only one hope that the death toll will be less than it was in 1949. That one hope is you, the driver.

IOWA PRESIDENT, AMERICAN CANCER SOCIETY TO SPEAK SEPT. 4

Dewey One Time Victim Of Cancer

J. R. DEWEY, M. D.

J. R. Dewey, M. D. of Schaller, Iowa, is president of the Iowa Division of the American Cancer Society. Dr. Dewey has been one of the leaders of the cancer control movement in Iowa; it has been one of his chief interests because he himself is a cured patient. When the Iowa division was reorganized in 1947, he served on the board of directors, and became the first chairman of the state committee on public education.

Dr. Dewey is a graduate of the University of Illinois College of Medicine, and was in practice in Oakland, Nebraska before coming to Schaller. He served in the First World War, and is a member of the American Legion. He is a past president of the Sac County Medical Society, and is a member of the Iowa State Medical Society, the American Medical Association, and Rotary. One of his major interests is education; he has served on the Sac County Board of Education as well as the Schaller school. His hobby is gardening, and he is especially interested in the cultivation of roses.

The Hancock County Cancer annual meeting will be held on September 4th, at 8:00 p. m. in the Catholic Church basement in Garner, Iowa. Reports will be given at the meeting and also election of officers for the coming year.

Dr. J. R. Dewey, President of the Iowa Division will be the speaker of the evening and the Hancock Women's Chorus will sing

Light refreshments will be served following the meeting and it is hoped a good crowd will attend.

Auxiliary To Meet

The Klemme Legion Auxiliary will meet Tuesday, September 2nd at the home of Mrs. Jake Hess.

Hancock County 4-H Members Win At North Iowa Fair

Two Hancock County 4-H'ers exhibited prize winning dairy heifers at the North Iowa Fair recently. Elaine Jurgemeyer of Klemme, showed a Brown Swiss heifer that won its class in 4-H competition and was reserve champion in the open class.

Delwyn Brede, also of Klemme, exhibited a Holstein dairy heifer. Delwyn's heifer stood 5th in a very close class of 4-H animals.

The Hancock County demonstration team, composed of Edwin Chizek and Frank Brcka, both of Garner, won first place in a field of seven teams competing. These boys will now represent the county at the State Fair. Clarence Chizek, leader of the Garfield Sluggers, is coach of the team. The title of their demonstration is "Conserving and Keep Soil Productive."

The livestock judging team from Hancock County also entered competition at the North Iowa Fair. This team, composed of Merle Oxley, Dennis Hayes, Darrell Goll, and Bryon Greiman, placed third in a field of 12 entries. Merle Oxley was 6th high individual and Darrell Goll 8th high in the contest. These boys have been working out all summer and will next enter the State Fair judging contest.

District Extended

Hancock County Supervisors last week held a hearing on the inclusion of certain lands in lateral No. 8 of Hancock County drainage districts Nos. 1 and 2. The report of William Henschen drainage engineer, recommending the inclusion of approximately nine acres was approved and the assessment was increased by $80.84. The land in question had been draining into lateral No. 8 but had never been officially designated in the waterfall of the lateral.

AFTER ABOUT 700 MILES

on the road we do not wonder at the number of bad accidents. We only wonder that there is not more of them.

HUNTING SEASONS ANNOUNCED

The State Conservation has annouced the 1952 pheasant and quail seasons with very little change in the regulations from last year.

The pheasant season opens November 11 with shooting hours from 12:00 noon to 4:30 P. M. The bag limit is three cock birds with a possession limit of three cock birds.

In the long season in 65 counties, 25 open days have been declared with the season closing December 5. In 27 counties in the short zone, shooting closes November 22. All except seven counties in the southeast corner of the state are open to pheasant shooting.

The pheasant census indicates that the pheasant population is about the same as last year, with some minor shifting of heaviest densities. The heaviest centers of population are in the northern three tiers of counties through the western two-thirds of the state.

The quail season has been set exactly as in 1951, opening November 1 to December 15, both dates inclusive, in the long zone, and November 1 to November 15 in the short zone, both dates inclusive. Shooting hours are from 8:30 A. M. to 4: 30 P. M. with a bag limit of 6 and a possession limit of 6. Quail censuses indicates that the quail population is approximately the same as in 1951.

While the Hungarian partridge is on the increase in Iowa there will be no open season this year.

Counties in the long pheasant season zone from November 11 through December 5 include: Lyon, Osceloa, Dickinson, Emmet, Kossuth, Winnebago, Mitchell, Worth, Howard, Winneshiek, Allamakee, Clayton, Fayette, Chickasaw, Floyd, Cerro Gordo, Hancock, Palo Alto, Clay, O'Brien, Sioux, Plymouth, Cherokee, Buena Vista, Pocahontas, Humboldt, Wright, Franklin, Butler, Bremer, Woodbury, Ida, Sac, Calhoun, Webster Hamilton, Hardin, Grundy, Black Hawk, Buchanan, Delaware, Dubuque, Jackson, Clinton, Scott, Jones, Linn, Benton, Tama, Marshall, Story, Boone, Greene, Carroll, Crawford, Monona, Shelby, Audubon, Jasper, Poweshiek, Iowa, Johnson, Cedar, and Muscatine.

THE FARM OUTLOOK

County Extension Director By Paul Henderson,

Will you have enough storage to handle this year's corn crop?

That may seen an odd question? We have been worrying about not having enough corn for the past year.

But all signs point to a big crop coming up—perhaps the best in Iowa's history. A lot of fields over the state should top 100 bushels per acre!

And you'll have a chance to seal that corn under the government CCC loan program at a good figure. But to do this, farmers must have adequate storage facilities.

Over the years, Francis A. Kutish, Iowa State College farm economist, reports it has paid to hold on to corn after a big crop. The market overdiscounts the size of the crop at harvest time. Corn prices go up more than usual from fall to the next spring.

What To Do

This year a lot of farmers and landlords in the better corn producing areas may wake up to find they don't have enough storage space to handle their crop. This probably will dump enough corn on the market to depress the corn price toward the end of corn picking time.

Hancock farmers can take advantage of this prospect in two ways: Be sure you have enough storage lined up to handle the crop; and be ready to buy corn then—if you will need extra feed within the next year.

The Hog Picture

The hog market hasn't been acting to expectations. Slaughter is below last year—yet the market has carried a weak undertone since early August.

Main trouble seems to center around the slow-dressed fresh pork market in the east, Kutish reports. Another reason is the large supply of pork moving out of cold storage. A total of 141 million pounds of pork was sold out of cold storage during July. That still left cold storage holdings 10% above last year's mark on August 1, Kutish reports.

Other unsettling factors include the uncertain packing house labor situation and embargos due to VE disease. The latter has cut back shipper demand for hogs.

The interior market for hogs has held up better than the Chicago market in the last few weeks. There is a good chance now that the $24.50 paid early in August at Chicago will mark the summer top in the hog market.

Last year the fall drop in hog prices was underway in earnest by this time. The market should hold up better this year. But we are late enough in the season now to make it a good idea to top out hogs ready to sell whenever we hit a good market, Kutish believes.

BOARD OKAYS NEW HANCOCK DRAIN DITCH

Hancock County supervisors last week tentatively approved the report of Vern Miller, Humbolt, drainage engineer recently appointed to make an investigation and report on the necessity of the establishment and construction of a new drainage district in Secs. 23 & 24, Twin Lake township.

Miller's report recommended the establishment and construction.

Further hearing on the petition and report of the engineer will be had at the courthouse at 1:30 p. m. Monday, Sept. 29.

The engineer estimates the cost of the new project to be $5,309 and his report includes 136 acres in the watershed of the proposed new district. The improvement was petitioned for by William Jannssen, et al.

To the owners of all the following real estate in the watershed of D. D. No. 162, Hancock County, Iowa, to all lienholders and encumbrancers of record, to all occupants, highways, railways included in the watershed of D. D. No. 162, Hancock County, Iowa, and To Whom It May Concern: List of Real Estate Included:-

NE¼ Sec. 23; NW¼ Sec. 24; and NW¼ NE¼ Sec. 24; and Twin Lake Township Local Roads.

You and each of you are hereby notified that Wm. Janssen, et al, did file a petition for the construction of tile lines and a surface ditch through sections 23 and 24 all in Township 94, Range 24, Hancock County, Iowa, on June 13, 1952.

You are further notified that Vernon Miller was appointed Engineer on June 16, 1952, to make an investigation and report on the necessity and feasibility of the construction petitioned for by Wm. Janssen, et al, and said Vernon Miller, Engineer, did file his report on August 16, 1952, which report is now on file and states that he has made a survey of the lands in the watershed of said district and that the proposed construction petitioned for will be conducive to the public health, welfare, convenience and utility and that the benefits to be derived will be greater than the cost thereof and recommends that the district be established as prayed in the prayer of the petitioners.

Said report is now on file and may be amended at any time before final action thereon by the Board of Supervisors of Hancock County, Iowa, and the 29th day of September, A. D., 1952, at the hour of 1:30 P. M. at the Courthouse in Garner, Iowa, is a time and place fixed for hearing thereon.

All objections to said construction as set out in the petition and recommended in the report of the Engineer and any claims for damages must be in writing and must be filed in the office of the County Auditor at or before the time set for hearing thereon.

The foregoing notice is published by order of the Hancock County, Iowa, Board of Supervisors in accordance with and as directed in Sections 455.20 and 455.21 Code of Iowa, 1950.

Please take notice and govern yourselves accordingly. Fail not thereof at your own peril.

Witness my hand and official Seal this 18th day of August, A. D., 1952.

Hancock County Makes Good Showing At Iowa State Fair

Hancock 4-H Boys, Girls Win At Fair

Exhibits of Hancock County girls entered in the 4-H division of the Iowa State Fair received one blue ribbon, five red ribbons and 7 white ribbon awards, according to Elsie Mae Van Wert, county extension home economist.

Judging of the entries was completed before the fair started and the articles were in display ready for inspection by the fair visitors when the annual exposition opened. They remained in place in the education building until the fair closed.

Girls Demonstrate

Representing Hancock County in the 4-H demonstration contests at the fair were Eunice Hueneman, Garner and Bethel Haberkamp, Garner. Their demonstration "Solid Satisfaction" was one of 100 given by teams representing every Iowa county. The girls were accompanied to the fair by Mrs. Harold Haberkamp, Garner their club leader. The team placed in the white ribbon class. Their record books were placed in the blue ribbon class and each of the girls received a 4-H mechanical pencil.

Exhibit entries from Hancock County clubs, their placings and the name of the girls making the article listed below:

Blue ribbon, LaVohn Josten, preserves and jams; red ribbon, Beth Knoedler, white butter cake; Joy Hanson, jelly; Marlene Pruisman, tomatoes; Kathryn Bumgardner, fruit for salad; and Carole Holecek; table setting.

White ribbons, Mragaret Krettinger, cookies; Delores Grell, quick bread; Helen Smith, angel-food cake; Loretta Foss, white yeast bread; Shirley Evans whole wheat yeast bread; Mildred Hejlik, food for meal; and Nancy Rose, vegetables for a vegetable plate.

Boys Win Sixth

Byron Grieman won sixth place in the Iowa State Fair 4-H livestock judging contest. The Hancock team placed 10th in the contest. This it the highest team placing that Hancock Co. has had in this contest. Other members of the team were Merle Oley, Darrell Goll and Dennis Hayes. Leonard Harrington, the Hancock Youth Assistant coached the team.

The demonstration teams received a red and white ribbon rating. Byron Greiman and Francis Zrostlik received the red ribbon and the white ribbon went to Frank Brcka and Ed Chizek.

The county 4-H boys club officers receiving the award trips to the State Fair were Junior Formanek, Delwyn Brede and Lyle Hall.

Harvey's In South

The Times received a card from Mrs. Nellie Harvey and LaNelle, and they are enjoying the scenes of the sunny south, palm trees, sandy beaches and the Gulf of Mexico. She tells of going to Mobile, Alabama, Pensocola, Florida, and New Orleans.

Mrs. Harvey says that Elwood and family are fine and are located at the Tech. Training Air Base Hq. in connection with Kessler Field. She says they will get to Klemme soon, as her father is coming this week from Maryland.

Canadian Fishing Trip

Quintin Stille, accompanied by his son, Harlan Stille and son-in-law, Milton Garfin of Mason City returned last week Tuesday from a fishing trip to Lac La-Ronge, Sackatchewan, Canada. When they arrived at their destination, they had traveled 32 miles by boat, with an Indian guide, so they would be sure of getting back again. Gas for the boat motor cost 65 cents for a Canadian gal. (4.2268 U. S. qts). Fishing was so good that Quintin said it was just a fisherman's dream. After the fish are landed they do not string them, but hit then on the head and put them in a box in the front of the boat. The party brought home 45 lbs. of flaked fish from their 3000 mile journey.

Klemme Boys And Girls Off To School

Klemme always sends its share of boys and girls to college, to continue their education. This last year's class has six students attending various schools.

Pauline Kramer and Doris Gruis are going to Gale Institute, Minneapolis. Maurice Jacobs will attend Drake University in Des Moines. Janice Hummel will attend Iowa State University at Iowa City, as will Ronald Draves and Harley Barz.

Judith Brede is going to Iowa State College, Ames. Paula Goll will return to Cedar Falls where she will be a sophomore at the Iowa State Teachers College.

Sylvia Egeland will be taking her third year college work at Northwestern University, Chicago.

TRADES HOME, CABIN CAMP, CAFE FOR FARM

GOODELL—A business trade became effective this week in which Bill Dempsey of Goodell acquired a half-section of Minnesota land 23 miles southwest of Rochester in exchange for his Goodell property—cafe, cabin camp and home which went into the possession of Mrs. Marie Miland.

Mrs. Miland has taken possession of the local business. During the past year she has been a cook at the St. Olaf Hospital at Austin, Minnesota. She has three married daughters and two sons, Dolvin, who is 22 and Larry in Junior High. The boys are here with her.

The farm the Dempseys now own is leased for two years. They will live in the Darwin Boller property until October 1 and will then move to Grand Meadow, Minnesota, where they have rented an acreage. Dempsey will continue his hobby of raising boxer dogs and has a job with a wholesale grocery concern at Grand Meadow.

The Dempseys have operated the Dempsey Cafe for over seven years and 28 years previous to that lived at Belmond. Dempsey has been active in all community work.

LIBRARY TO HAVE NEW HOURS

It has been announced that, starting this Saturday afternoon the hours for the Klemme Library will be from 2:00—5:00 and will not be open in the evening.

BY BOB HULLIHAN

The man got out of bed, shaved, dressed and ate his breakfast. What he had to say to the world was passed in a few grunts and groans. The morning held nothing new for him.

Looking at the breakfast fare, he decided he must have eaten the same things in the same sequence at least 10,000 other mornings. Thinking of the work day ahead, he knew exactly the routine he faced, the people he would meet, what he would say to those people and what they would say to him.

No, there was nothing new. He drove the car out of the garage thinking how far away he was from owning a new one. He listened for that worrisome noise in the motor and it was still there. He put on the brakes at the corner and they were still a little weak.

No, there was nothing new. The streets he drove looked just the same as they had all summer and many summers before that. Now, that it was early September, he remembered how they looked in winter and groaned again.

Everything was the same and he lapsed into an almost semi-conscious state and drove automatically, about 15 miles above the speed limit. And that was nothing new, either.

He didn't snap out of it until he realized that a boy on a corner was waving at him, until he saw a group of youngsters crowding back to the curb.

He jabbed at his brakes but by the time the car stopped, he was 20 feet beyond the school stop sign standing there in the middle of the street.

No one was hurt, but the man who thought there was nothing new in the world finally realized that the youngsters are going back to school, that school stop signs are appearing in streets that have been empty all summer.

AWARDS FOR ACCIDENT FREE DRIVERS

Iowa drivers who have never had an accident or traffic violation have finally found an organization that wants to give them some well-deserved recognition - the Iowa Safety Council.

Until now the thousands who drive every year and never get into trouble in traffic have been well crowded out of the picture by the 120,000 Iowans who do have accidents every year.

But since the Safety Council offered membership to the driers who haven't had an accident or traffic violation in the last three years, the letters have been pouring in.

All the writers are proud of their driving records but none of them are smug. They all seem aware that their first accident can come anytime.

As one man wrote, bluntly and in full: "I have driven a car since 1911. Never had a wreck. I am knocking on wood."

A woman who applied for membership in the Council admitted she didn't know "whether my good driving record is due to the way I drive or to the alertness of men drivers."

Another candid woman requested a Council membership for her husband who has a good driving record and added: "I wish I could say the same for myself."

The Council hopes a lot of others will feel that way and start doing a better driving job when they see the black and yellow membership emblems on cars of good drivers.

Individuals who qualify and who join the Council receive for a $2 fee a charter membership card, a monthly bulletin and an automobile decal.

All of which confused one driver. He wrote the Council he had been driving the same car for 15 years but that it "doesn't run so good anymore." He wondered if the safety emblem would make it "run better."

Not better, but maybe safer, answered the Council. Safety officials feel that the emblen on a car will make its driver super-conscious that he'd better have his car checked for safety and drive right.

Longest clear Iowa driving record so far by the Safety Council dates back 45 years. The owner of the record says he started driving a two-cylinder Reo in October, 1907, that he's been driving a car ever since, still averages 15,000 miles a year and is yet to have an accident.

He called the record "lucky," but the Safety Council thinks his driving motto, "Regard the rights of others on the highways," indicates something more than luck.

The Council, 720 Grand Ave., Des Moines, hopes to find at least 30,000 accident-free drivers in Iowa before the year is out.

With this year's estimated crop of 60,000 accidents half in, it looks like a neck and neck proposition.

Precautions Can Stem Shipping Fever Losses

A few precautions can save Iowa farmers from serious losses from shipping fever in cattle, according to Dr. John B. Herrick,, extension veterinarian at Iowa State College.

Shipping fever not only affects the cattle Iowa farmers purchase but frequently infects native cattle already on the farm, causing terrific losses by death and loss of weight every fall, Dr. Herrick says.

The main factor to remember, he says, is that the shipping fever symptoms occur when cattle are subjected to conditions that lower their resistance to any infection.

He suggests buying direct if at all possible, and moving the cattle directly to your farm from the area where they were raised. Move them when the weather is favorable. If the trip is long, stop every 28 hours, rest 8 hours, and feed and water the cattle during the rest period. Avoid overcrowding in cars. Don't "fill" the cattle prior to shipment.

Look out for cattle that have "traveled," Dr. Herrick warns. If they have passed through several public yards they are likely to have been exposed to the organisms that produce the shipping fever, either from the yards themselves or by mingling with infected cattle.

Vaccination before shipment will help, Dr. Herrick says. Many cattlemen are insisting that the cattle they buy be vaccinated 10 or 12 days before shipment with a specific shipping fever bacterin. Another practice which may be used in shipping young calves is administration of hemorrhagic septicemia serum (not bacterin) accompanied by an antibotic injection the day before the animals are shipped. These are not to be used, however, warns Dr. Herrick, as substitutes for good management and handling during shipment.

Whenever strange cattle arrive on your place, he advises, remember they are tired, nervous and may be sick. If the weather is favorabe, turn them on blue grass where they won't fill to rapidly. Let them rest and keep in mind that cattle can be hastened toward death by over exertion and handling in attempts to treat them.

Common symptoms of shipping fever are running nose and eyes, coughing, off feed, diarrhea and high temperature. The disease is caused by bacteria and possibly a virus which attack cattle when they are exposed to changes in climate, feed and water, and fatigue and rough handling. Since other diseases and parasitic infestation can cause the same symptoms, a veterinarian's diagnosis is important, Dr. Herrick says. Isolate or remove the sick animals from the herd if at all possible, he urges.

Bond Approved

Hancock County Supervisors this week approved the bonds of William Henschen recently appointed as engineer to make the preliminary survey and report on the establishment and construction of drainage District 161 petitioned for recently by Abe Mezvinsky and the reconstruction of drainage District 38.

So far as is known, only man, monkeys and guinea pigs can develop scurvy, the disease resulting from a deficiency of vitamin C in the diet.

Iowa Farms Growing Larger And Fewer

Iowa farms are getting larger and fewer, according to John Timmons, an agricultural economist at Iowa State College.

Based on figures released by the 1950 U. S. Census of Agriculture, the average size of today's farm has increased from 160 to 169 acres. The census counted only 203,159 Iowa farms in 1950, a drop of nearly 10,000 since 1940. Those "missing" farms have be combined with other farms.

Ninety-two percent of the farms were classed by the census as commerical farms—those selling products worth $250 or more a year. The other 8% fell into different classes. About 4 percent were part-time farms —with operators working off the place 100 days or more a year. Another 4% were listed as residential farms, which were living quarters for city workers.

Five counties all in northwestern Iowa—Ida, Osceola, O'Brien, Clay and Sioux—reported that 80% or more of their commerical farms had sold products which totaled $5,000 and higher.

Seven counties—all in southern Iowa—reported that less than 30%, of their farms sold products worth more than $5,000. These counties were Appanoose, Davis, Van Vuren, Monroe, Wapello, Decatur and Lucas.

In Iowa's 87 other counties, the number of farms selling products totaling $5,000 or more ranged from 30 to 80 percent.

The census also reported larger movements of city workers into rural areas. This trend was noticed especially in 4 counties —Appanoose, Lee Wapello and Polk—where more than one-fifth of all farms were classed as residential or part-time.

Timmons says this trend of urban workers moving to the country will probably increase as the state's industries grow and as more industries move to Iowa.

Shopping Assignment For Mom—

CLOTHES FOR THE CLASSROOM SET

Here comes the school bus and off go the kiddies to new adventures in classroom and play yard. You watch them go and start planning your shopping strategy—Jimmy needs more of those colorful knitted T-shirts, Sue should have another jumper or two for school, and Randy's outgrown 'most everything.

Clothes buying for the classroom set is an assignment that takes a homemaker a bit of study and sluething if she's to rate an "A" on her shopping report card.

When you shop for youngsters' clothes these days you have all tyres of fabrics to choose from. There are the new synthetics and blends, and the old familiar fabrics used in unfamiliar ways. Too, you want to keep in tune with the family clothes budget, please your youngster, find well - designed clothes adjustable to a growing child. And you've some high expectations of your own concerning easy care and sturdy construction.

Fabrics You'll See

Here, according to Iowa State College extension clothing specialist Lucille Rea, are the fabrics you'll find. Nylon, orlon and dacron are wonderful news in sweaters, while socks of dynel or nylon seem to last forever. All of these fabrics are launderable, need no blocking, don't shrink.

There should be racks full of good-looking jumper dresses and skirts for your blackboard-scribbling daughter. Some are made up in corduroy of bright colors, plaids, prints or even a tweedy effect. Others are of a heavy-weight nylon that looks like wool, or of nylon-acetate and other blends. Look for the washable label. There are stand by wool jumpers and skirts, too some washable.

Little dresses of gingham and chambray are everywhere. Look for the dark-colored tweedy cottons too.

Slacks, Shirts

Nylon-rayon and nylon-wool blends are being used in boys' slacks and shirts, as well as wool. Cotton knit T-shirts are colorful and numerous. You'll find nylon or wool jackets and an occasional bright-colored orlon jacket with a warm orlon lining.

Take along your youngster's measurements to help you get the right size. Needed measurements are height, girth, crotch, dress and pants lengths.

Adjustable Features

Don't buy clothes that are noticeably too large in hopes that they'll be just right next year. It's far better to get correct sizes in a small coordinated wardrobe of mix and match items.

Look for adjustable features. Some dress-up slacks have an adjustable waist with about 3 inches leeway. Look for coats and jackets with raglan sleeves, deep cuffs and hems. On one coat, you just pull a "magic" thread and the hem drops down several inches, all ready for another season of wear. Many dresses have a deep hem, no definite armeye or waistline.

Easy Care

The label is your cue to easy care, always, says, Miss Rea. Study it and don't be satisfied till you find clothes that are permanently wrinkle - resistant or need no ironing, pre-shrunk, color-fast, soil-resistant, launderable in your trusty washer (except for coats and some jackets), and need no starching. Simple design and dresses that open out flat are good ironing-ease features, too.

Keep all these points in mind and you'll rate an all-around "A".

September Meeting Held

The G. S. C. S. held a meeting on September 1 at the home of Shirley Wilson. The meeting was opened by singing hymns. After each hymn Ila Mae Anderson told the story of the hymn. The lesson was "Looking Through A Knot Hole."

The beginning of a series of stories about the African Belgian Congo was started at this meeting. Ila Mae Anderson led the lesson with all taking part. During the business meeting, Mrs. Carlson resigned as our leader for the coming year. We enjoyed having her as our leader.

The meeting was adjourned and the MYF benidiction was given.

Lunch was served by Shirley Wilson and co-hostess JoAnn. Seven girls and two leaders were present.

"LOOK OVER STORAGE" SAYS PMA CHAIRWAN

Many times, a farmer has to take whatever the market offers, no matter how low that price is, just because he hasn't planned a little ahead, A. E. Rasmussen, chairman of the Hancock County Production and marketing Administration Committee, pointed out this week.

"Now is the time for farmers to look over their storage to be sure they can take care of their crops at harvest time," he explained. "If a farmer has the necessary storage, he doesn't have to take less than the government support price. And by spreading his marketings over a longer period, he helps keep the market price on an even keel.

"Every farmer knows that prices are lowest when marketings are heaviest. And prices are usually most favorably when relatively small amounts are being marketed.

"It will pay a farmer to look over his storage so that he can market his crops in an orderly manner, and get a price-support loan or purchase agreement if he wants it. Loans are available through PMA county committees to help farmers construct storage facilities and for drying and ventilating equipment.

"Many times, the savings from orderly marketing will off set the cost of an additional crib or bin over 2 or 3 years.

The large crop of corn expected to be harvested this fall underscores the need for adequate and safe storage.

THE FARM OUTLOOK

County Extension Director By Paul Henderson,

What kind of prices will Hancock County farmers be getting over the coming months? That answer, says Francis A. Kutish, Iowa State College farm economist, hinges mainly in what happens to business—to demand, in other words.

And business should be humming for the next several months—if the forecasts of most business analysts come true.

"All worries about general business conditions during the remainder of this year can be laid to rest," says the First National Bank of Akron, Ohio. "For many months yet, the present defense program should sustain the economy. That is especially true while we are also engaged in expanding our supply of plants, productive equipment and homes."

Farther east, a business survey by the New England Purchasing Agents Association reflected a brighter outlook for the last half of 1952.

Summer rallies in the textile market brought signs or reversal in the downward trend of non durable goods which has lasted for over a year. The U. S. Department of Commerce reports that "Evidence is accumulating of improved activity in textile products and some of the other consumer soft goods lines."

Fat Cattle

There have been some changes in the fat cattle picture since the end of July. At that time, steer beef was draggy—due in part to the hot weather when easy-to-prepare meat was more in demand.

Beginning the first week in August, cooler weather stimulated dressed beef demand. But along with the steady to strong market on dressed beef, farmers and ranchers stepped up their sale of live cattle, Kutish says.

Early August saw the second heaviest sale of cattle since last January This kept the fat cattle market from rising in sympathy with the better dressed meat trade.

The cooler weather and the increased activity in the dressed meat trade should point to some rise in prices for the better grades of fat cattle, Kutish believes. It's normal for fat cattle prices to go up in September and October. But this could be offset by heavier marketings this year. We don't have accurate figures to tell just how many fed cattle will come to market this year, Kutish points out.

Record Tax Collection By Revenue Board

WASHINGTON — A record $64,971,210,298 was collected by the Internal Revenue Bureau in taxes and social security contributions during the fiscal year which ended June 30.

This is about 14½ billion dollars more than in the previous 12 months. In addition, federal agencies other than the Revenue Bureau took in $2,364,500,000 for fiscal 1952.

In the 1953 fiscal year, which started July 1, President Truman has estimated collections will total 75 billion.

These figures do not include billions of dollars refunded to taxpayers or set aside for social security payments. Refunds and set-asides in fiscal 1952 cut the figure about $5,871,000,000. The estimate for fiscal 1953 is expected to drop about $6,200,000,000, when refunds and set-asides are counted.

The Revenue Bureau, in its report, said collections were up all along the line in fiscal 1952. Withheld income taxes jumped; Corporation taxes rose 50 per cent to $21,519,000,000.

Fleas On Dogs, Cats Can' Be Controlled

Owners of cats and dogs can cater to their pet's comfort—as well as their own—by controlling fleas, says Earle Raum, extension entomologist at Iowa State College.

Dog and cat fleas attack a wide variety of animals and will attack humans. Infested pets that have access to the house may bring fleas inside, particularly in basements.

Control is easy, according to Raum. Dust the pet with 10% DDT, using ½ teaspoon per cat and up to 1 tablespoon per dog. Sprinkle the dust down the midline of the back and around the ears and tail. Rug it in throughly and brush off the excess. Apply the same dust liberally to the pet's bed.

DDT may have a toxic effect on cats, Raun says, and he does not recommend using it more often than once a month. If a cat is valuable it may be better to use 1 to 1.67% rotenone for dusting the animal.

If there are fleas in the house Raun suggests spraying the basement floor with 5% DDT in oil solution. And apply the same spray around baseboards in the dwelling, directing the spray toward the quarter round and wiping off excess liquid from varnished surfaces.

Fiji Islands Once Offered To United States as Gift

Storms of hurricane strength have recently battered the Fijis, the islands which were "home" to thousands of American service men during World War II.

The years of the Yanks are far from forgotten in Fiji. Hospitals built by GI's are still in use in the British Crown Colony, converted into native clinics and schools. The huge American-built air base at Nandi is today the hub of South Pacific air lanes.

Less well known is the fact that 90 years ago all the Fijis, 322 islands spread over 100,000 square miles of ocean, were offered to the United States to settle a $43,000 debt.

The native king who Christianized Fiji and outlawed cannibalism was named Thakombau. He is probably the only monarch in history who tried to give his self-styled kingdom away repeatedly and failed.

Trigger-Quick Thinking

The Army wants its soldiers to think clearly and shoot straight in combat. To attain such mental marksmanship, the Army's Troop Information and Education Division recently introduced a new aid to commanders for use in the "command-conference," as its information hour now is called. This aid, a booklet entitled "Troop Topics," furnishes the kind of background material for the conferences which will be valuable in battle indoctrination training. Discussion of such subjects as "The Whole Army Was There," "The Fighting Heart" and "The Soldier In Combat" should be as important in the development of potential combat and service troops as their basic rifle instruction. Just as the fundamentals of a soldier's rifle lessons are demonstrated on the range and proved in combat, the lessons taught in Command Conferences can be illustrated in subsequent battle training and given their final test in the performance of combat missions. Troop Topics, designed to arouse soldier interest in subjects of importance to Army life and military preparedness, answer the questions most often asked by soldiers.

Roving Ambassadors

The careful selection of color as an advertising medium for delivery equipment is comparatively new. It used to be that paint was used on trucks to preserve them rather than to advertise. Today, color is all-important with fleet operators. Smart merchandisers recognize the fact that their moving vehicles are traveling representatives for them and must be kept attractively painted if they are to bring the maximum benefit to their owners.

The Rock Few People Know

If you ask the average man on the street what gypsum is, he probably couldn't tell you, yet he comes in contact with the substance in most of his conscious hours. If the wall of the room is plastered, it is plastered with gypsum. Mannequins in store windows are gypsum misses. Movie snow and many movie sets are gypsum. The substance is important as a soil conditioner, dental and surgical plaster, as precision molds for machine parts, and in the production of petroleum products, textiles, paper, crayons, paints, plate glass, face powder, tooth paste, window shades, chicken feed, matches, sulphuric acid, relief maps, yeast foods, blackboards, toys and even in the processing of bread and beer. Gypsum, in case you don't know, is a mineral—a rock. It is one of the world's most plentiful substances. It is mined and/or quarried. The city of Paris, France, is built over gypsum beds; hence "plaster of Paris."

ASSESSORS STUDY PROPOSED CLINIC

Assessors from the North Central Iowa area met at the courthouse and discussed the proposed field clinic sponsored by the State Tax Commission, the 1953 real estate review and the Iowa old age and survivor insurance law.

The group recommended some corrective legislation in the present law and requested that a committee be appointed by the State Association of Assessors to work with other public service groups in this matter.

The next meeting of the group will be the field clinic to be held in the near future in Wright County near Eagle Grove at a time to be specified by tax commission officials.

The Real Thing!

BUTTER is the concentrated goodness of four pints of cream that go to make every pound. The taste-tempting goodness of BUTTER makes so many other foods taste so much better. On pancakes . . . on bread, toast, vegetables . . . in cooking, baking, frying . . . BUTTER gives that matchless flavor and it's rich in natural vitamins, high in food energy. BUTTER is your best buy, too, for so little does so much for good eating! Nothing can take its place for flavor goodness.

How Fast Is Light?

The speed of light was first measured in 1675 by a Danish astronomer named Roemer, from observations of the moons of Jupiter as they went into eclipse in the planet's shadow It was found that the eclipses were sometimes earlier and sometimes later than predicted, varying as much as eight minutes from the expected times. Roemer found they were early when the Earth and Jupiter were both on the same side of the Sun, and late when the two planets were in opposite directions from the Sun. Thus he concluded, correctly, that their light required about 16 minutes to travel the diameter of the Earth's orbit and that this accounted for the discrepancies between observed and predicted times. In more recent years scientists have developed laboratory methods of measuring the velocity, in which brief pulses of light are sent to a distant mirror, and accurate measurements made of the time they take to return to the starting point.

A Brush in Time

All traffic into or out of a room must, of necessity, pass across the door sills. If the doorway is much used, the sills and adjacent floor area soon become worn and unsightly. When the grain of the wood is directly exposed, dirt finds lodgment in it and even the hardest scrubbing fails to clean the surface thoroughly. When the old coating wears thin, a touch-up of the same type of material used on the rest of the floor's surface — shellac, varnish, paint, or penetrating stain—will save you much unnecessary work. A smoothly finished surface can be kept spotlessly clean with very little effort.

Porcelain Enamel

Contrary to some opinon, it is not necessary to protect porcelain enameled washing machines and other appliances against sudden changes in temperature, according to the Porcelain Enamel Institute. Present day porcelain enamel, the Institute says, is noted for its resistance to thermal shock—the technical name for sudden reverses in temperature—so that there is no danger of injuring the finish by putting hot water in a cold tub, or by wiping a hot oven with a damp cloth. The Institute reports that one of the most spectacular examples of porcelain enamel's resistance to thermal shock is its use for submarine exhaust manifolds, which often attain cherry red temperatures before being submerged in icy seas.

Transcontinental

As early as 1836 a transcontinental railroad was advocated to Congress. John Plumbe, who had surveyed a railroad in Pennsylvania and later was made president of another line in Virginia, startled Congress on April 1 of that year by presenting them with the idea that a railroad should be built from the Atlantic to the Pacific. In spite of being ahead of his time, Plumbe surveyed part of a proposed route and traveled the rest of it out to California.

Gas Moves Gas

Gas turbine engines are now being successfully used as booster power to speed the flow of natural gas throughout the nation's 100,000 miles of pipelines, Westinghouse engineers report. Greater pipeline carrying capacity is needed to meet increasing consumption demands of U.S. homes and industries, expected to double in the next 10 to 20 years.

The Planets

The distances of the nine major planets from the Sun are as follows: Mercury, 36,000,000 miles; Venus, 62,270,000 miles; Earth, 93,004,000 miles; Mars, 141,690,000 miles; Jupiter, 483,900,000 miles; Saturn, 887,100,000 miles; Uranus, 1,785,800,000 miles; Neptune, 2,796,600,000 miles; and Pluto, 3,675,000,000 miles. These are mean values, since the orbits of all the planets are somewhat eccentric, causing them to approach closer and to recede farther than the distances given.

Margarine Use

Southern and mid-western states share a keen interest in the increased use of margarine since the federal government lifted restrictions and 40 states repealed laws against yellow coloring. Cottonseed oil from southern states, and soybean oil from the corn belt states, are principal ingredients of the vegetable-fat table spread.

Tension and Anxiety May Cause High Blood Pressure

A possible solution to the riddle of how tension and anxiety may be related to high blood pressure is offered by a team of researchers at the Cleveland Clinic. Experimenting with dogs, they have found that when the nerves are stimulated, the brain can be made to release into the blood a substance that raises pressure.

They also reported that a drug, hydrazino-phthalazine, which has been found effective in experimental use on some patients with high blood pressure, checks the mysterious substance.

The chemical nature of the pressure-raising substance released by the brain has not yet been defined. However, the notion that the brain acts like a gland in secreting substances that affect distant parts of the body was seen as having wide implications, perhaps explaining some, but not all, of the many possible causes of high blood pressure.

Much additional research must be done, it is acknowledged, before the importance of this observation and its application to the treatment of essential hypertension in humans can be evaluated.

High Falls

The world's highest waterfall is Angel Falls in eastern Venezuela, hemmed by jungle in a canyon seen by few men. Spurting from a cliff more than half a mile high, water falls free for 2,648 feet, then crashes on for a total drop of 3,212 feet. This is 15 times higher than Niagara Falls. By another yardstick, it is more than twice the height of the Empire State Building.

Man-Made Canyon

When mining is completed in 1953 at International Nickel's Frood-Stobie open pits, the excavation at the main pit will be 6,400 feet long, 1,400 feet at its widest point, and about 450 feet deep. From that enormous opening, along with the smaller Stobie pit, will have been removed a total of more than 62 million tons of ore and 40 million tons of rock since the operation was authorized in 1937.

Ink Spots

Ink spots, especially those caused by spillage of washable inks, are easily removed. Here's the simple procedure recommended for removal of these spots on washable garments: Rinse out in cold water, apply soap, and then keep flushing with cold water until the spot disappears. It's the permanent type ink stains, that will not wash out with soap and water which require specialized handling by laundries or cleaners rather than experimental treatment by housewives. Don't try that time-honored application of sour milk on permanent ink stains. It won't remove the permanent ink stain and a protein stain might develop from the use of the sour milk.

Don't Use Bleach To Remove Soil

Bleaching is no substitute for good laundering practices. That's the word from textile specialists of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, who says bleaches are for removing color or stains, not soil.

Good laundering, they say, makes white or colors clear by thorough cleaning. It's no help to the fabric, they warn, to leave in soil and then whiten it with a bleach. The regular use of a bleach in the weekly washing is unnecessary and undesirable.

If clothes don't get clean by regular washing, you may need to: change your washing methods, use a more satisfactory soap or detergent, use your present soap or detergent in different amounts, or soften the water. And don't let clothes get too dirty before laundering, says specialists. Very soiled clothes may need special soaking with soap or detergent before going into the machine, or they may need washing in two waters.

Bleaches are, of course, useful for removing stains that won't come out in the wash, and occasionally for whitening dingy or yellowed fabrics. There are bleaches available for various types of fabrics, so make certain that you use the correct bleach for each.

CAUSES OF ACCIDENTS TO MOTORISTS

Des Moines — Your greatest danger of an accident comes when you drive on a wet or icy highway, leave a parking place improperly or fail to yield the right-of-way. So says the state safety department in its first 12 month study of the primary causes of Iowa traffic accidents.

The report, covering the peiod June 1, 1951, through May 31, 1952, shows that: Wet or icy highways causes 8,271 accidents, improper starting from a parked position caused 7,567, and failure to yield the right-of-way 7,236.

According to the report, 7,710 of the accidents caused by wet or icy roads occurred in just five months, November through March.

Milo Chalfant, director of safety responsibility, said these were the three major causes of traffis accidents in the state with other major causes following in this order:

Improper left turns caused 4,647 accidents, following too closely caused 4,010, improper passing causes 3,501, and vehicle not under control caused 3,356.

Chalfant emphasized the reasons listed were primary causes of the accidents as assigned by department evaluators after study of accident reports of 61,222 accidents received by the state department during the period.

Accident summaries by other safety organizations list contributing causes of all accidents but usually do not pin-point primary causes. The safety department's study is thought to be the first of its kind in the country.

Other causes of accidents listed by the report were: Failure to stop at stop signs 2,511; driver's vision obscured, 2,180; speed, 2,030; inexperienced or incompetent drivers, 1883; pedestrains carelessness, 1,133; and defective brakes 1,005.

PROCEEDINGS OF THE HANCOCK COUNTY BOARD OF SUPERVISORS

11TH ADJOURNED JUNE MEETING

Garner, Iowa,
August 18, 1952.

The Hancock County, Iowa, Board of Supervisors met in session on above captioned date pursuant to adjournment with S. A. Barber, Clint Daniels and Clarence Bird present.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved as read.

On motion and second insurance policies No. 545489 and No. 2373 are hereby approved.

Supervisor Bird is hereby appointed a committee to investigate and cause repairs to be made in D. D. No. 121, L No. 33.

Supervisor Daniels is hereby appointed a committee to investigate and cause repairs to be made in D. D. No. 1 & 2, L. No. 13 and L. No. 26.

BE IT REMEMBERED that on this 18th day of August, 1952, the day heretofore set for a hearing on the vacation of Road No. 35, petitioned for by Albert Claude, et al, said hearing was held as scheduled, and there being no objectors present or objections on file, same is hereby vacated and the County Auditor be and he is hereby directed to make such corrections on the road plat and enter such transaction in the road records of Hancock County, Iowa.

WHEREAS Vernon Miller was appointed Engineer as commanded in Chapter 455, Code of Iowa 1950, and laws amendatory thereto, on June 16, 1952 to make a survey, investigation and report on the necessity and feasibility of the construction of D. D. No. 162, petitioned for by Wm. Janssen, et al, and said Engineer did file his report on August 16, 1952, which report states that he has investigated and surveyed the lands in proposed D. D. No. 162 and finds the present system of drainage inadequate and recommends that D. D. No. 162 be constructed as prayed in the prayer of the petitioners and that such improvement will be conducive to the public health, convenience, welfare and utility and that the benefits to be derived will be greater than the cost thereof.

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that the County Auditor be and he is hereby directed to cause notice of hearing on the report of the Engineer and plan of said improvement to be published in the Klemme Times, a newspaper of general circulation published in Klemme, Iowa, advising al owners, occu- Iowa, advising all owners, occuers of record in the proposed district of the petition on file for the proposed construction, the favorable report of the Engineer thereon, the approval of the Hancock County, Iowa, Board of Supervisors of the report of the Engineer as a tentative plan and that same may be amended before final action thereon and that all claims for damages and all objections to such construction shall be in writing and must be filed with the County Auditor at or before the time set for hearing thereon.

The foregoing resolution was offered and read by Supervisor Barber who moved its adoption, was seconded by Supervisor Bird, whereupon the Chairman, Clint Daniels, placed the motion of its adoption and upon roll call the vote thereon was S. A. Barber, Clarence Bird and Clint Daniels, ayes. Nays, none. Whereupon the Chairman declared the resolution duly adopted.

This being the 18th day of August, 1952, a date heretofore fixed for a hearing on the report of Wm. Henschen, Engineer, recommending that the contract of Joe Needles of Greenfield, Iowa for labor and material on D. D. No. 13, Laterals No. 3, No. 4, and No. 5, be accepted as complete, and final estimate in the sum of $3,735.26 be paid, the hour for said hearing having arrived and the Board being fully advised, said hearing was held as scheduled. There were no written claims on file. There was one objector present at the hearing, Dover Kramer, being the objector, and his objection being as to the construction on his farm, this objection was repaired during the day of said hearing and said Dover Kramer reported back to this board that all was now entirely satisfactory.

BE IT THEREFORE RESOLVED by the Board of Supervisors acting for and in behalf of D. D. No. 13, Lats. No. 3, No. 4 and No. 5, that the report of the Engineer recommending a final payment on the contract of Joe Needles of Greenfield, Iowa, for labor and material on D. D. No. 13, Lat. No. 3, No. 4 and No. 5 be approved, is approved, and final estimate ordered paid as by law directed.

This being the 18th day of August, 1952, a date heretofore set for lettings on the reconstruction of D. D. No. 13, Lateral No. 6 and on the repair of D. D. No. 47, Extension, Lateral No. 1, Hancock County, Iowa, the hour for said lettings having arrived, the proofs of publication being on file and the Board being fully advised, said lettings were held as scheduled.

The Chairman of the Board proceeded to open all bids on file and after duly considering all bids on file, the bid of Schram Brothers of Titonka, Iowa, was found to be the lowest and best bid on file for labor and material on D. D. No. 13, Lat. No. 6 and the bid of Earl Stille of Garner, Iowa, was found to be the lowest and best bid on file for labor and material on D. D. No. 47 Ext., Lat. No. 1.

BE AND IT IS THEREFORE RESOLVED by the Bord of Supervisors acting for and in behalf of D. D. No 13, Lat. No. 6 and D. D. No. 47 Ext., Lat. No. 1, that the bid of Schram Brothers of Titonka, Iowa, and of Earl Stille of Garner, Iowa, are hereby accepted as the lowest and best bids on file for labor and material on D. D. No. 13, Lat. No. 6 and D. D. No. 47 Ext., Lat. No. 1 respectively. All other bids are hereby rejected.

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that contracts are hereby awarded to Schram Brothers of Titonka, Iowa and to Earl Stille of Garner, Iowa, and Clint Daniels, Chairman of the Board is hereby authorized to execute contracts in behalf of Hancock County, Iowa.

The foregoing resolution was offered and read by Supervisor Bird, who moved its adoption, was seconded by Supervisor Barber, whereupon the Chairman, Clint Daniels, placed the motion of its adoption and upon roll call the vote thereon was Clarence Bird, S. A. Barber and Clint Daniels, ayes. Nays, none. Whereupon the Chairman declared the resolution duly adopted.

This being the 18th day of August, a date heretofore set for a hearing on the annexation of 9 acres in SE¼ NE¼ Sec. 35-97-25 owned by Lewis Leuwerke, petitioned for by Herbert Hinz, et al, the hour for said hearing having arrived, the report of the Engineer, Wm. Henschen, recommending such annexation, the proof of service of notice being on file and the Board being fully advised, said hearing was held as scheduled.

The petition and report of the Engineer were read by the County Auditor and objectors and proponents were given an opportunity to discuss the feasibility of said annexation, petitioned for by Herbert Hinz, et al and as recommended in the report of the Engineer.

After duly considering discussion by objectors and proponents of the annexation of said lands above described, it was motioned by Supervisor Bird and seconded by Supervisor Barber that said Engineer's recommendation be approved, as submitted, and that the drainage district furnish said Lewis Leuwerke 3 ten foot lengths of 6" to 8" steel pipe with labor of placing said pipe to be furnished by Lewis Leuwerke.

Whereupon the Chairman called the roll, receiving an unaminous aye vote and declared the resolution duly adopted.

The County Auditor is hereby authorized and directed to correct his books accordingly.

On motion and second the Board adjourned to August 25, 1952 at 9 o'clock A. M.

New Revised Standard Version Of Holy Bible To Be Honored Here

COMMUNITY HONORARY BIBLE SERVICE

National Services To Honor New Revised Edition Of Old Testament

A community-wide service on Tuesday evening, September 30 is planned in Klemme, Iowa to honor the publication of the new Revised Standard Version of the Holy Bible. On the same evening similiar interchurch meetings will be held in at least 3,000 other communities throughout the United States and Canada.

Rev. E. M. Egeland and Rev. V. E. Jaberg in charge of the local planning for the Revised Standard Version Bible Obser vance, announced today that the meeting for this community will be held in Immanuel Evangelical and Reformed Church at 8:00 p. m.

The program will include a reading of a portion of the new Revised Standard Version of the Holy Bible along with choral selections and an address by an outstanding speaker on the Observance theme, "The Word of Life in Living Language," presentation of five copies of the new Bible to representative persons, and a litany of thanksgiving and dedication.

The completion of the Revised Standard Version of the Holy Bible marks an epoch in the religious life of the English-speaking peoples comparable to that marked by the issuance of the King James Version in 1611.

Recognizing the need for a new revision, the former International Council of Religious Education, representing 40 major denominations in the U. S. and Canada authorized a revision and appointed a committee of 32 eminent Bible scholars to study all past versions as well as all available manuscripts in order to prepare a revision of the King James and the American Standard Versions that would present the word of God accurately and in good English for twentieth century readers.

To accomplish this gigantic task, the Bible scholars, with Dr. Luther A. Weigle, dean emertius of Yale University Divinity School, have been working since 1930, translating from Hebrew, Greek, Aramaic, Latin & English sources and checking and re-checking each other's work. No changes from the older authorized versions have been made without the approval of two-thirds of the committee.

The New Testament, being the smaller, was completed first and was published in 1946. The Old Testament is scheduled for publication in two volumes, as well as in combination with the New Testament, on September 30. The publishers are Thomas Nelson and Sons, New York.

Iowa Archers Held Annual Meeting

The Iowa State Archery Assn. voted at its annual business meeting in Sioux City, August 31 to divide the Field Archers into two groups at the State Field Shoot, to be held in Des Moines, September 13 and 14.

The two groups are: Instinctive, those who shoot with no mark or sight on the bow and Free Style, for those who use a sight. Equal awards and trophys will be given for each division.

Afternoon visitors were Mr. and Mrs. John Meinders, Mrs. Wm. Kardoes and Anko of Buffalo Center and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Beenken and family of Britt.

Squirrel Season Will Open With A Bang

D-DAY ON SQUIRRELS

A lot of Iowans will be missing from work and school on September 15. An unimportant date to most people, it's D-Day to Iowa squirrel hunters, who will be unlimbering their rifles on squirrels for the first time since last November.

The 1952 season, extending from September 15 through November 15, promises to be a good one. State Conservation Commission biologists predict a slight increase in squirrel populations, although added hunting pressure will probably take care of the surpluses.

The two-month season includes both fox and grey squirrels, and the entire state is open. The daily bag limit is 6, and after the opening day the possession limit is twelve.

For best - results the Iowa Conservation Commission advises hunting in the morning, since the daily peak of squirrel activity is between eight and ten o'clock. Oak-hickory woods are usually the best hunting spots, and in 1951 two-thirds of reporting hunters used rifles.

To carry statistics a little farther, the average hunting party in 1951 bagged an average of 1.7 squirrels per hour and brought home an average of 3.7 squirrels for each trip. More than half of last year's squirrel hunting was done in the first one-third of the season.

Squirrel hunters can be of great help to Conservation Commission biologists if they send in the right front legs of squirrels. These legs, severed at the "elbow", are used to determine the percentage of young squirrels shot, breeding success for the year, and to establish hunting regulations. Any interested sportsman may obtain forms and information by writing the State Conservation Commission, Department of Biology, East 7th and Court, Des Moines, Iowa.

Work Circle To Meet

BY BOB HULLIHAN

(An article written by Highway Patrol Sergeant Don French of Osceola is concluded in today's column. It picks up just after four victims of a traffic accident have been carried away on stretchers. The patrolman's job is only half done.)

You still have to get all the information on the accident so you get in your car and head for the hospital. Often you arrive just in time to hold an arm or leg steady while the doctor sutures a wound or help apply tension while he sets a broken bone.

Then you learn what you already knew—one woman was dead on arrival. You go into the husband's room. He hasn't been told yet. The look on his face ties something in a knot inside you. You know what he is going to ask and you feel he already knows the answer. Finally he says, "She's—dead—isn't she?" You just nod your head.

He asks you to call his son in a nearby town. You have done this same thing many times, but on the way to the 'phone you rack your brain for some different words but it always comes out the same. "Your mother was killed in an accident this evening."

You hear, "Oh, no!" at the other end of the wire then a long silence and again you try to think of something appropriate to say but you just wait. After a bit, when you are sure he is still listening, you tell him his father is in the hospital and wants him to come.

Your job is almost done. You talk to the rest of the victims-those who can talk to you-then get in your car and go back on patrol. But you are depressed. No matter how many times this happens, no matter how many times you do this same thing, you just can't seem to leave without taking a little bit of it with you.

JAMES DOLLIVER PICNIC TO BE HELD SEPT. 14

After a wedding trip visiting relatives in Minnesota they will be at home on the Schwitchenberg farm southwest of Klemme.

Klemme Relatives Play Santa Claus

OKLAHOMA PEOPLE HAVE CHRISTMAS IN AUGUST

After some of the Barz relatives had been traveling around the country and driving through some of the drought stricken area in Oklahoma, the Klemme cousins decided it would be fun, as well as a great assistance to the Cleo Ingle family if they would send some needed supplies. Mr. and Mrs. Cleo Ingle and family live at Dover, Oklahoma. A week ago Tuesday and Wednesday the Barz men baled hay while the ladies were busy picking apples, collecting canned vegetables, frozen meats and vegetables, while others purchased 500 lbs. of potatoes and some cartons of vegetables. All the things that were collected were loaded in Walt Rosendahl's semi-truck. Early Thursday morning Walt and Clarence Lemke drove to Dover, Oklahoma and delivered the things to the Ingle family. The Ingle's were completely overwhelmed by their "Christmas In August."

Mrs. Ingle was busy the next day canning all the perishable goods and the children were busy celebrating over the things they received.

The Times is in receipt of a Card of Thanks from the Ingle Family.

CARD OF THANKS

Until we can write to all of you personally, we wish to thank our Iowa relatives and friends for their "Christmas In August" gifts. We are completely bewildered by all of it. Thank you, and may God bless you all.

Her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Heminway, have moved from Williams to Correctionville where they will both teach.

LADIES TOOK LUNCH FOR INMATES

Group Also Injoyed The Singing Of Several Songs

Twenty-four members of the Klemme Grandmothers Club, with Mrs. Edna Thada, President drove to County Farm at Duncan Friday afternoon and met with Mrs. Herman Paul Stewardess at the farm.

After visiting, Mrs. Paul took the ladies on a tour through the home. First they visited the woman's quarters and then the men's quarters and on down into the main dining room, where they all have their own places at the table. Then on through the kitchen, which is quite convient to work in. The meat locker hold two hogs and a beef along with many other necessities. In the basement, we saw the laundry facilities, men's lockers and canned goods. They had canned over 1000 quarts of tomatoes and over 500 quarts of tomato juice, along with the many other canned vegetables from the garden. Gallons of sauerkraut was made from the finest looking cabbage this writer has ever seen. There were pail and pails of ground cherries on the porch to husk.

After the tour all the lady inmates were invited to a nice lunch provided by the Klemme ladies. Several songs were sung just before the lunch.

The ladies wish to thank Mrs. Paul for her gracious hospitality and for a wonderful afternoon.

Mrs. Paul also informed us, that recently they had entertained the County Superisors and their wives to a 6:30 o'clock dinner. Showing them the necessary repairs that are needed in the home. The brick needs fixing, the porch leaks and some remodeling should be made on the inside, as there is not a reception room, or an office where private business matters can be discussed. The board informed them, they were making repairs on the Courthouse this year, and they would try to take care of the County Home next year.

Klemme Men Organize Lions Club

A couple of weeks ago the Klemme business men met and formed a Lions Club, which was sponsored by the Garner Lions Club. They will meet every two weeks for a 6:30 dinner. The first meeting will be today, Wednesday, at the Grade School building. The Auxiliary ladies will serve the dinner this week.

The following officers were elected: Pres. Don Schaefer; Sec. Don Bacon; Lion Tamer, Claude White and Tailtwister Ernest Gerardi. Board of directors consists of T. G. Ahrenkiel, Pete Kilgore, Marvin Lemke and Walter Lemke.

Pears, Peaches, Grapes Are Plentiful This Month

Count on peaches, pears and grapes for good eating this month in salads and desserts. These are the fresh fruit plentifuls predicted for September by U. S. Department of Agriculture marketing specialists.

Washington, Oregon and California are the main states supplying pears to Iowa markets, while the peaches are mostly from neighboring midwestern states. The grapes come from California.

Turkeys, stewing hens and fish are the protein foods in good supply this month. Fresh Iowa-grown cabbage, snap beans, tomatoes, carrots, sweet corn and celery head the list of plentiful vegetables with large supplies of lettuce coming from California and other states.

There'll be lots of new crop honey. Supplies of salad oils, cooking and table fats will be large and reasonably priced. In dairy products, look for nonfat dry milk solids, cottage cheese and buttermilk, says specialists.

Don't give it away, sell it with a Times want ad.

A Striking Comparison

Surface mining of nickel ores from open-pit operations is much easier than underground mining For example, one electric shovel operating two shifts will produce 5,000 tons of ore—four and a half cubic yards of ore at every bite of the shovel. In a large underground nickel mine a force of 1,000 men working two shifts in forty stopes is required to produce the same tonnage.

Cake Cutter

Nobody could possibly get the "biggest" piece of cake with the cake cutter invented and patented by Josephine Henrickson, Climax, Minn. This cake cutter has four blades, like teeth on a rake, to cut four pieces at the same time, and exactly the same size. The blades are attached to a bar that has means for placing the cutter in alignment with a previous cut.

For Rail Fans

Steam locomotives are classified by their wheel arrangement, a 2-4-2 locomotive, for instance, indicating the number of small wheels on the front axle or truck, the second number indicating the number of driving wheels and the third number indicating the number of small trailing wheels which support the rear of the locomotive.

Combines Woods

Noteworthy at the 1952 International Homefurnishing Market is the use of contrasting woods in the same piece of furniture. Cherry is very popular and is often combined with pine, walnut and other woods. Wrought iron is frequently teamed with wood, too.

Korean Election

The head of a Korean village is elected by secret ballot, with one member of each household casting one vote. He holds office until he thinks it wise to retire, or until his constituents object sufficiently to his administration.

Railroads have about one billion cross ties in use, approximately 30 million to 35 million being replaced each year because of decay or mechanical wear.

Big Help

Thermopane, the multi-paned insulating glass, enables home builders to double the size of windows without increasing heat loss.

Higher Average

America's trailer coach dwellers average $4,210 in annual income, compared to a national average of $3313.

Fuel Supply

U.S. railroads' purchases of 65 million tons of coal represented over one-half of their total fuel supply last year.

Big Scoop

In one scoop, a large electrical shovel used in surface coal mining picks up enough earth to overflow a railroad hopper car.

GUARD AGAINST RATS WHEN STORING CORN

Big corn crop prospects mean that many Iowa farmers will be building new permanent or temporary structures to store corn out of the weather

And while they're putting up shelters against weather damage it's simple but important to build in protection against another enemy of stored corn. That enemy is rats, says Harold Gunderson, extension entomologist at Iowa State College.

Rat-proofing buildings is one of three steps vital to effective control of the four-legged theives that eat large amounts of grain and contaminate even more than they eat, Gunderson declares. A rat-proof building denies the rats both food and shelter, and they will move on to a farm that's not so well protected.

The ideal time to build in protection against rats is when the building is in construction, says Gunderson. He suggests sinking corncrib piers or foundations 3 feet into the ground, with smooth walls extending 2 feet above the ground. A 2-foot strip of ¼- or ½- inch mesh hardware cloth, topped by an 8- inch strip of smooth metal, both placed around the outside of the crib, gives added protection. Equip crib doors with self-closing devices and flash the doors with metal that rats can't chew through. An open door cancels all the rat-proofing you may have built in.

The entomologist also recommends, in corncribs that are already built, using hardware cloth and smooth metal as you would in a new building and flash doors and adding self-closing devices.

After rat-proofing buildings where grain is stored, you can make rat control effective by cleaning up rubbish piles where rats can build their nests and exposing clean, dry, Warfarin-poisoned bait in permanent bait stations around the farm buildings, he added.

AUGUST WARM, LESS RAINFALL THAN YEAR AGO

August was both dryer and warmer than the same month in 1951 according to weather records kept by Earl Henschen, custodian of the Hancock Co. courthouse in Garner.

The average temperature for the month was 69.23 compared with 67.83 last year. The minimum average was 58.35 and the maximum average was 80.10. The highest temperature recorded during the month was 91 on Aug. 2 and the low of 46 was recorded on the mornings of Aug. 5 and 12.

A total of 4.11 inches of precipitation fell during the month as compared with 6.61 for the same period a year ago. The heaviest amount was recorded during the 24-hour period ending at 7 a.m. on Aug. 29 when 1.01 inches fell.

The first three weeks of the month were relatively dry and of the total precipitation recorded 2.76 inches fell during the last week. Eight days were listed as cloudy, five as partly cloudy and 13 as fair. Precipitation for the first eight months of 1952 totaled 26.68 as compared to 38.76 inches in 1951 which was one of the wettest years of record.

The comparatively warm and dry weather during most of August was ideal for development of all crops and corn and soybeans are about three weeks ahead of 1951 in maturity.

Two Boards Award Ditch Contract

Sylvan C. Oleson of Forest City was the successful bidder at a letting on the cleanout to grade of the main open ditch and lateral No. 6 of joint drainage district No. 37-39, at the courthouse in Garner recently. The letting was conducted by the boards of supervisors from Winnebago and Hancock Counties. Present at the letting were Supervisors Daniels, Bird and Barber from Hancock County and Supervisors Dolen, Nelson and DeVries of Winnebago Co., and Hancock County Auditor Maynard Schoneman.

The contract totals $8,908.21 and involves the removal of approximately 13,639 cubic yards of silt from the main ditch and approximately 2,398 cubic yards of silt from lateral No. 6. The boards named William Henschen as construction engineer on the project.

Forceful River

So forceful is the great Orinoco River in Venezuela that where it flows through the so-called Angostura constriction and Ciudad Bolivar, the channel has been scoured out over the centuries to a depth of 262 feet below sea level. Rushing between banks only 800 yards apart, the river has a mean depth of 335 feet, with fluctuations of as much as 52 feet.

O.D. Lessened Fatigue

At the beginning of the present century, the British Army learned a great deal about the effect of color on human beings. For one thing, they found that—on long marches—regiments in red uniforms became fatigued more quickly than those in grey or green. A line of brightly uniformed men tired the eyes of those walking behind. Moveover, they appeared too conspicuously against the landscape.

Check-up Needed

Seventy per cent of spark plugs on American passenger automobiles are due for check-up, cleaning or replacement, according to Champion engineers. Every 10,000 miles the spark plugs require cleaning and check-up for adjustment or replacement. Reason: Each plug has fired 15,000,000 times during that mileage.

Ni-Resist

A number of Ni-Resist applications in military material and atomic energy plants have recently been developed. These generally require non-magnetic characteristics, heat resistance, controlled thermal expansivity or special wear properties.

Reason Enough

Ninety-nine per cent of the half-million women enrolled in a home beauty course reported hips out of proportion to other measurements That accounts for an American budget of nearly $300 million for corsets and girdles, annually.

Beautiful and Tough

Many of the lacquers now being made for the surface-coating of fine furniture have great resistance to scratching and marring. Made in either clear or satin finishes, they bring out the full beauty of the wood they protect.

Spanning the Nation

All bridges used by railroads if placed end to end, would extend a distance of about 3,750 miles, or from New York to Los Angeles with about 500 miles to spare.

Strong Glass

Tuf-flex tempered plate glass is so strong that molten lead can be poured on it while it rests on a cake of ice without causing damage.

READY TO CHECK POLIO SHOT RESULTS

PITTSBURG— A University of Pittsburgh scientist has announced that experiments with blood serum to counteract polio have ended and staff scientists are ready to check results.

Dr. William Hammon, who is heading the experiment, said enough chidlren have been inoculated with gamma globulin, a blood fraction, to furnish factual statistics.

About 55,000 children in various parts of the country, have been inoculated to test the success of gamma globulin as a parallysis preventitive.

The first mass test was made last year at Provo, Utah. Additional tests on a mass scale were made this year in Houston, Tex., and Sioux City, Iowa.

Half of the children were given gamma globulin injections while the others received a "non-effective" agent.

Right now is a good time to reseed those bare spots appearing in your lawn, says Ed Cott, extension horticulturist at Iowa State College.

Auxiliary Held Meeting

Tuesday evening, September 2, the American Legion Auxiliary meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Esther Hess with Mrs. Lena Lewis as co-hostess.

Flora Back, president, presided over the business meeting. The librarian announced the change of the public library hours. It will be open Saturday afternoon from 2 to 5 p. m. instead of evenings during the winter.

Mrs. Henry Smid and Mrs. Marvin Lemke have been selected as the new Girl Scout leaders.

Certificates of promotion from Junior to Senior membership were awarded to Iris Schaefer Rayhons and Maxine Barz.

Further plan were made for the trip to the Woodward hospital.

Lena Lewis won the attendance prize. Lunch was served by the hostesses following the adjournment of the meeting.

THE FARM OUTLOOK

County Extension Director
By Paul Henderson,

Hancock farmers can expect some recovery from the sharp August dip in hog prices, Francis A. Kutish, Iowa State College farm economist believes. This recovery should produce a secondary hog price peak sometime in late September or early October.

Here's Kutish's reasoning behind this belief: We had about as many January and February litters in the Corn Belt as a year ago. But beginning in March farrowings fell sharply behind the figures of a year earlier.

Those February pigs should be all sold soon—so will the March pigs raised by farmers who feed out their pigs on old corn. Thus, the Corn Belt should be pretty well cleaned out of hogs available for slaughter by late September or early October.

It will take a little while for farmers who plan to finish their spring pigs on new corn to have them ready to sell, Kutish reasons. So we should get a spot in late September or early October when the hog market is good, before it slumps off again toward the fall seasonal low in December.

Cattle Feeding Prospects

Farmers buying feeder cattle this fall have to make some estimates of what they think those feeders will sell for as fat cattle next year. Granting that there's a lot of uncertainty in any such guess—and that's what it is—Kutish says that in his judgement, fat cattle won't make much recovery from their present prices until toward the end of or the early part of next year.

He doesn't think that the recovery will come much before that, because of the large number of cattle now on feed. July 1 figures indicated farmers were fattening 13% more cattle than a year earlier.

Pushing the forecast a little farther ahead, Kutish looks for the usual seasonal price drop in better grades of cattle next spring. As a figure to shoot at, he would use $29 to $30 per hundred pounds as a top figure for choice cattle at Chicago in late spring. In other words, he looks for at least a 10% drop in fat cattle prices.

And he figures that this price will hold throughout most of the rest of the year. We seem to be concentrating on more calves and yearlings this fall to head for the late spring, summer and fall market next year—and fewer heavier cattle, Kutish points out.

In addition, straws in the business wind indicate possibility of a slight downward trend in general business during the last half of 1953. This is due mainly to the drop-off expected in construction and business investment in new factories and factory equipment.

REPORT APPROVED ON GOODELL DITCH

Hancock County Supervisors Tuesday approved the report of the classification and assessment commission on Hancock County drainage district No. 157 as filed. No objectors appeared at the hearing. The district is a newly established and constructed drainage district in Goodell and was petitioned for by the town of Goodell, Mayor J. J. Cook et al. Members of the commission were County Engineer Charles F. Merten, William Boehnke and Charles J. Goll, all of Garner.

Contract Ok'd

Hancock County Supervisors approved the contract with Earl Stille for the repair of Hancock County drainage district No. 47 extension. The contract totals $817.90.

OXEN

Six yoke of Oxen pulling 2 heavily loaded wagons, with 3 milk cows trailing along behind, brought the Anson Avery family from Cass County, Michigan to Avery Township in 1854, a distance of 600 miles.

Mrs. Avery, with their year old first born son, rode in one of the wagons. Mr. Avery with two young men as helpers walked all the way driving the lazy oxen. They averaged 10 miles a day on the long overland trip.

The George Nelson family also came with oxen and possibly most of the early settlers who arrived in Hancock County before the Civil War drove oxen.

However, horses began to appear almost from the beginning, as Anson Avery told of the blizzard of 1856 in which Wm. Arnett and his saddle horse were frozen to death. Showing that there was at least one horse in Twin Lake Twp. at that time.

Lew Avery told the writer, that his father Anson Avery, a few years after his arrival, purchased a pair of young colts while on one of his trips east for supplies.

Every settler needed a saddle horse, or a team of horses for buggy use of for light driving. A man traveling on horseback could make 8 of 10 miles per hour over sod trails, and could make 40 miles or more per day on a long trip, which was at least four times as fast as an ox team would travel. Thus every man wanted "a horse he could ride."

Lew Avery also remembers a pair of red oxen that could walk as fast as a team of horses. He relates that while plowing a stubble field, his brother Geo. would drive a team of horses on a 14 inch plow and his father Anson Avery would follow with the red oxen on a similiar plow and keep right up with the horses, this was considered fast walking for oxen.

But, whenever they were breaking prairie sod, that is —when they plowed up the wild grassland for the first time, this was tough going, so the Avery's used three yoke of oxen on a wide breaking plow, possibly 20 inches wide.

The front of this plow was held up by the front wheels of a wagon. The lay or cutting edge of the plow was hand made of soft metal, not "hardened" as plow lays are today. Each time the plow struck a small "nigger head" the settler would stop and either pound out the cutting on a hand anvil with a blacksmith hammer, or he would use a file to get rid of the nicks made by the rock. If this was not done the roots of the wild rose bush would collect on the cutting edge, which would cause the plow to "run out" of the ground.

Even though the oxen walked slower than horses they accomplished much in a day because of the width of the plow.

One of the reasons why the first settlers came with oxen, is that there were no roads, just faint wagon trails, no bridges. Horses were good on the higher ground, but oxen were better in crossing small streams and mud holes.

The ox has a cloven (split) hoof and when he steps into the mud his hoof spreads out, and when he pulls up, the two parts of his hoof sort of fold together and pull out easy. The horse has a solid foot nd he has a hard time to pull his foot up out of the mud.

Most of the land in Hancock County is quite level or gently rolling, and every quarter section farm had a few tiny lakes on it called sloughs. To drain the surface water from these sloughs and wet draws, the farmer would hire a contractor to put through a "Bull Ditch." This system of drainage was in use before the big Dredge Ditches came and before our farmers could afford to use tile, and it started about 1880, and continued until 1910 covering a period of 30 years.

This contractor would build a giant shovel-like plow, entirely of hard wood, which looked like a snow plow, and would plow a ditch 6 feet wide and 3 feet deep, piling the dirt on both sides of the ditch. This ditching plow would not work in dry soil, it needed water to make it "scour." The machine was pulled by 20 to 48 bulls.

The contractor would buy the bulls on the market in the spring of the year, use them for power to pull the machine all summer and in the fall after the ground froze up he could fatten the bulls and sell them. Bulls, they said were stronger than oxen and cost less money to buy on the market.

These ditches were called Bull Ditches and the contractor was called a Bull Ditcher. At least half the farms in the Klemme trade territory had a bull ditch run through them at some time or other.

In 1904, Joe Johnson hired a contractor to put a bull ditch through a wet draw on his farm east of Klemme. A heavy oak evener, about 12 feet, was fastened to the front end of the ditcher plow and 12 pairs of bulls pulled from each end of the evener and each string of bulls pulled "tandem" on a heavy chain. A few men for each string would drive the animals using long whips made of braided leather. The whips were 20 or more feet long with a soft leather snapper on the end. The expert drivers would whirl the whip around and around over their heads and then throw the snapper end toward the rump of the bull, where it would "burn off" a patch of hair the size of a penny and make a report like a pistol shot, and then the bull would really get down and pull.

It took a lot of practice to handle a bull whip properly. Sometimes a bull would lay down and refuse to pull, then the boss would hold a handful of mud over his nostrils and this would bring him up in a hurry clawing for air.

It was rather slow work putting in a bull ditch, the bulls would pull for a few rods and then the drivers would allow them to rest for a short while.

The Bull Ditcher Crew camped near their work and the farmer provided grassland or pasture for the bulls to graze on at night, and he also supplied a wagon load of corn each day to feed the 48 hard working bulls. The boss carried a cane and if a greedy bull got an ear of corn stuck in his throat he would poke it down with his cane. It seemed nobody loved the bulls and they were treated rough.

Once a string of bulls was pulling the camping equipment down the road, when all of a sudden a swarm of large flies settled down on the bulls causing them to run away, quite a comotion for a while until the drivers who were on horseback could round them up again.

During the first few years of Klemme's history it was a common sight to see a Bull Ditcher Outfit move through town going from one job to another,. But by 1900 the outfits moving through town were few and far between. I do, however remember that in the fall of 1910, a string of bulls went through Klemme and past the school house. The principal of our school, Irving Missman hearing the noisy drivers coming down the road declared a recess so all the children could watch the bulls go by. This was an unusual sight for the children at that time. Since then I cannot remember seeing any oxen or bulls at work in this trade territory.

Floyd Friedow And Sons Had Prize Winners At Fair

We do not have a report on the winnings of Floyd Friedow and Sons at the State Fair with their Poland Chinas. We note, however that a Junior Yearling Boar took a first, an Aged Boar took a third and a Senior Spring Boar took a second prize. They had a Reserve Junior Champion Boar.

Considering the State Fair offers some of the stiffest competion in the nation, this was a fine record.

If other nearby exhibitors won prizes, we shall be glad to have them let us know.

Why Should You Feed FELCO?

The Answer Is Simple

Certainly you want to know WHY you should feed FELCO FEEDS. Here is the reason: Felco Feeds are mixed in YOUR plant each day according to formulas developed by expert livestock nutritionists, developed to create most efficient results . . . not a profit for a feed Manufacturer. They are mixed here where the grain is raised, only minerals and protiens being added to give the best possible mixture, thus excluding enormous freight charges which add to your costs and do not improve your feed one iota.

Destroy Thrips At Glad Bulb Harvest

Tiny thrips may damage gladiolus plants about any time throughout the season — puncturing cells of the bulb and consuming plant juices —says Harold Gunderson, Iowa State College extension entomologist.

Winter damage of thrips on stored bulbs may spoil germination or flowering the following year, he says. The easiest and best time to treat bulbs for control of thrips and prevent damage during the following year is at the time gladiolus bulbs are harvested in the fall.

As soon as the gladiolus bulbs are dug this fall and cleaned, treat them with DDT to control the thrips, Gunderson suggests. A 10-percent DDT dust at the rate of 2 to 4 tablespoons per bushel of bulbs is simple and effective treatment. Put the bulbs in a paper bag with the dust and shake the sack to distribute the insecticide evenly on the bulbs.

Another treatment method he suggests uses a solution of ½-percent DDT — which can be made by mixing ½ pound of 50-percent DDT wettable powder in 6 gallons of water. Place the bulbs in a wire basket and dip them in the DDT solution. Allow them to dry before storing.

Moke It A Family Resolution To—

GET THE GOOD BREAKFAST HABIT

Breakfast is one of your three important daily payments on the family's "health insurance." Don't skip it or skimp on it. Here's what to include: fruit, cereal or egg (or both); bread, toast or muffins and butter; milk for the youngsters; coffee or tea for the grown-ups.

What did you have for breakfast this morning? What kind of meal did the youngsters tuck under their belts before they caught the bus for school? And did the menfolks eat enough of the right foods to see them through their morning's work in tip-top form?

Perhaps you sat down to a really good breakfast that gave each one in your family one-fourth to one-third of his food needs for the day. But here are the facts, according to Jewel Graham, Iowa State College extension nutritionist.

Only a little over 40 per-cent of white-collar workers and home-makers usually eat a good breakfast. A fraction over half of industrial workers and less than three-quarters of farmers eat the morning meal they should. Approximately one-fourth of our school youngsters start the day off right mealwise.

Pattern To Follow

Get the family into the good breakfast habit. It will pay off in efficiency, higher spirits and good health. Skipping food at breakfast usually means a mid-morning lag. In the case of your school child, it might even start a downhill tobogganning of his grades in classes that come late in the morning.

Here's a good breakfast pattern to follow: fruit or fruit juice cereal or egg (or both), bread or toast and butter; milk of cocoa for the children; milk coffee or tea for the adults. If the men in the family do heavy manual work, add sausage, ham bacon or another meat to their breakfast. And there'll be some of those special pancake, french toast, of waffle breakfasts, too.

Why Fruit?

Fruit or fruit juice helps to prevent constipation. Too some fruits are rich in the vitamin C our bodies need everyday. It's a good idea to choose one of the vitamin C-rich fruits for breakfast: strawberries, cantaloupe, all citrus fruits (fresh frozen or canned.) Right now tomatoes or tomato juice would be a good choice, too.

Why Cereal?

Cereal, bread and butter are good energy foods. Choose whole grain and enriched cereals and breads, for they contain B vitamins and minerals. If you serve cereal without eggs or meat, then it's best to serve those that are a good source of protein — usually the whole-grain cooked cereals. The proteins in the cereal and in the milk make a good body-building team. Many of the ready-to-eat cereals have been heat-processed, which impairs the nutritive value of their protein. But they are still excellent energy foods and milk helps to make up for their inadequacy as a protein.

Why Milk?

Milk is a part of every good breakfast. It may be enough for the grownups to have milk or cream on their cereal and in their coffee, but youngsters should have a big glass of milk besides, or a cup of hot cocoa. Milk is our best source of hard-to-get calcium, is also high in riboflavin and protein.

Why Eggs, Meat?

Eggs, liver, and other lean meats and fish are good "building"-foods. Theyr'e high in protein for building and repairing the body, have mineral and other food values besides.

Count on a breakfast that follows this pattern every morning. Don't eat a hurried, inadequate breakfast thinking you'll make up for it later in the day. Chances are 100 to 1 that you won't.

Visiting around Iowa

by Joe Marsh

Europe or Iowa?

Two European students visited our town last week, and what do you think surprised them most?

"Look at that big car, standing beside such a little house," said one student. And those kids kept right on pointing out the big cars.

"Well," Edna explained, "Americans like to go places and do things. Every person has the right to his preferences, whether it be in cars, or what not."

It brought home to me what American freedom of choice really means to us. In Europe a laboring man would scarcely think of buying a big car. Here, he can drive one bigger than the banker's, and no one lifts an eyebrow.

Sure we have lots of different opinions . . . in everything from the social club we join, to our preference for coffee, soda pop, or a moderate glass of beer. But let anyone question our right to choose for ourselves and we'll quickly show him that we not only believe in democracy, we really practice it.

Prospects Bright For Corn Maturing

DES MOINES — Forty-one per cent of Iowa's corn crop had dented or started to dent by August 30, the weekly Iowa Crop and Weather Bulletin said Wednesday.

Weekly crop observers now are of the opinion that 95 per cent of Iowa's corn crop has good prospects of maturing without frost damage, provided a killing frost comes about the usual date, the bulletin said.

Marketing quality eggs is one of the best ways for Iowa poultrymen to get the most from favorable fall egg prices.

May Seal Huge Crop of Corn In Hancock County

Hancock County PMA officials estimate that over 2,000,000 bushels of the 1952 corn crop will be placed under goverment seal, according to A. E. Rasmussen, PMA chairman. The figure is higher than for previous years but officials estimate the crop of this year to be of quality that can be sealed and considerably fewer hogs are on farms to which to feed the prospective bumper crop.

Hancock Children To Have Free Hearing And Speech Check-Ups

HEARING AND SPEECH SCREENING TO BE HELD FOR HANCOCK CHILDREN

Britt - September 23 - All Day
Garner - September 24 - A. M.

1. The test, Grades 3-6-9, plus former absentees, referrals (the children who appear to have hearing losses or who are known to have difficulty either through disease or loss) in hearing. Any students who have been ill with scarlet fever, mumps or frequent serious sore throats during the past year should also be referred. This orginal screening does not include those children who have previously received attention, are presently enrolled in speech centers, or for whom a hearing retest was indicated. These pupils, not included, will be seen on the second visit made to the area approximately a month after the first screening. Do not bring in those who were marked for retest this year, they will be seen on the follow-up.

2. Supplies for each student: 2 pencils, their respective speech tags and hearing forms.

3. Each 3rd grade pupil and each speech referral should wear clearly marked tag which includes his name, age, grade and school. Marked referral on the top of the speech tag if he is a referral.

4. Testing will take approximately two hours. Children will be dismissed and not regarded as absent during the time that they are away from their school. When the test is finished, the children will return to their school.

5. If the results of the group test indicates that the child has a hearing loss, he will be given an individual test. The testing is to be done by a staff of specially trained people from the Department of Public Instruction under the Division of Special Education.

6. Forms are made out for all rural school children and will be at the testing centers. The rural teachers will do nothing with this part of the program. Town teachers only will complete the forms for their pupils before coming to the screening centers.

7. This information is made available to the parents of children who are to go for tests.

8. Children from our school will go to the screening center indicated in the following schedule, on the day and time given.

9. Britt - all meet in auditorium in the high school building on schedule. Garner - all meet in gym-auditorium in high school building on schedule. (Should pupils miss one center, they will attend the other.

Women Easily Fooled; New Furs To Be Labeled

LABELING OF FURS NOW LAW

A new federal law now in effect stipulates that all furs and fur garments hereafter sold in the United States shall be adverised and sold under "the true English name of the animal from which the fur was taken."

By law, this label must be a tag not less than one and three-quarters (1¾) inches by two and three-quarters (2¾) inches in size. It will be prominently displayed with the coat, near or on the price tag.

HANCOCK COUNTY SCHOOLMASTERS ELECT OFFICERS

Britt superintendent of schools Earl L. Miller, was elected president of the Hancock County Schoolmasters Club at a meeting at the office of County Supt. Charles S. Whitney in Garner. Supt. Frank Truesdell of Hayfield was elected vice president and County Supt. Charles Whitney was elected secretary-treasurer. Miss McCusher, of Iowa State College, will spend a week with school librarians the week of Sept. On the afternoon of Sept. 8, Dr. Zintz of Iowa State College will be in the county to work with lower grade teachers on remedial reading.

The schoolmasters agreed to help sponser the safety program being carried out through the automobile dealers in the county

1953 HUNTING LAWS READY

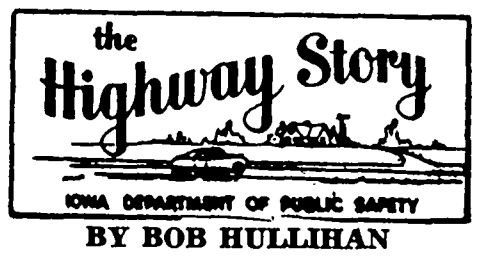
The 1953 hunting laws are now available and may be obtained from county recorders, conservation officers, or the State Conservation Commission in Des Moines.

These laws do not provide the trapping laws or migratory waterfowl regulations. Trapping laws will be released at a later date and waterfowl regulations are posted in all post offices.

Duck stamps may now be purchased at post offices for two dollars. They are required for every person over the age of sixteen hunting migratory waterfowl.

CHOIR PARTY

After the Methodist choir had their practice Thursday evening all adjourned to the dining room, where home-made ice cream, cake and coffee was served in honor of Maurice Jacobs, the organist, who is leaving Sunday for college at Drake. And in honor of Mr. Whitford, our director. Both were given nice gifts to help them remember the Klemme choir members, who have really appreciated their help.



BY BOB HULLIHAN

A fatal traffic accident often takes on the aspects of a grin kind of spectator sport. Here's one highway patrolman's estimate of what happens.

"The minute you get out on the highway and start directing traffic past an accident, people start to slow down and ask, 'Is anybody killed or hurt?' If you say no, they drive on. If you say yes, you can't hold the crowd back.

"Late one afternoon we had a bad accident on a sharp curve. Two were killed and three injured. We were so busy with the injured that we didn't have a chance to keep traffic moving.

"By the time we did all we could for the injured there must have been 100 people standing around watching. We had asked a couple of people to go either direction down the highway and set out warning signals, but you're always worried about that driver who won't pay any attention to any kind of road sign and just comes barreling right ahead.

"Well, that was in my mind when I got back up on the highway and saw about 50 people standing along the outside edge of the curve, watching. They didn't seem to realize it, but they had just set themselves up to be mowed down if some wild driver should come around that curve and have to bank to the outside.

"It would have taken some time to get all those people moving to their cars, so we just moved the whole crowd across the highway to the inside of the curve.

"And I'll swear, we hadn't got that crowd moved a minute before that driver we'd been afraid of came around the curve. He must have been doing 65 miles an hour because he slammed over to the outside of the curve like he was on the Indianapolis speedway. I was still standing there and I had to jump into a barbed wire fence to get out of the way.

"If you can't help - if you aren't needed - at an accident, don't stop, don't crowd around. It can be dangerous.

Klemme Auxiliary Ladies Go To Fair And An Educational Tour

TRIP TO WOODWARD BY BY AUXILIARY LADIES

A carload of ladies from the Legion Auxiliary in Klemme drove to Woodward on September 9 to attend the Fair and to take a tour through the State Mental Epileptic Hospital.

The products at the Fair—fresh vegetables and fruit canned and baked goods—were produced, canned and baked by the patients at the Institution. A large exhibit of fancy-work, done by the girls, was on sale. All the money received for each article (after the cost of materials was deducted) was given to the individual who did the work.

To show how hobbies are used to fill up otherwise idle hours, one boy had his earring collection on display. He has 1679 different earrings all classified and mounted. He prefers just one earring of a kind, but if anyone gives him a pair, he either adds a bead or stone or takes something from one to have 2 different ones. The Auxiliary ladies who were there plan to send him a box of earrings, so if anyone has a single one or a pair she doesn't want, we would be glad to send them with ours or to give you his name and address. The White Lady with him said that Joe spent many an hour figuring out ways to change an earring or to find a difference in the paintings, shape etc.

After dinner, we took the tour of the Institution. First we visited the schoolrooms with each teacher telling a little of what she was trying to accomplish. They use the same textbooks used by the public schools of Iowa. Some of the kindergarten classes are held the year around. but the advanced group will start about October 1 after the harvest is completed. Of special interest to me was the homemaking room. It was arranged as a home with a bedroom, living room, dining room and kitchen to give those girls who have the ability, a typical homelike situation which would train them for a time when they might be able to be dismissed from the Institution. One supervisor told us that about 700 boys and girls had left within the past 4 years to take jobs as farm hands, maids, etc.

From the schoolhouse, we went to the chapel where both Protestant and Catholic services are held. There is an alter or worship center at each end of the chapel and the chairs in the auditorium are turned to face the service in session.

We visited both a boy's ward and a girl's ward. There was a television set in each dormitory that we visited.

Color in the hospital drew our greatest attention as we toured there. The male ward was all in yellow—sheets, pillowcases, gowns and the female ward was in pink.

A carnival company was on the grounds with rides for the enjoyment of the patients who were able to participate. Fair Day is held only one day each year and is a day of great anticipation and excitement for the patients.

There was much evidence of the wonderful work done by the volunteer services through the Blue Ladies of the American Legion Auxiliary, the White Ladies of the Catholic Sisters and the Grey Ladies of the Red

WET CLOTH CAN CRAZE RANGE-TOP ENAMEL

Let your range top cool before wiping off with a damp cloth. A wet cloth on the hot enamel surface will craze it, explains household equipment specialists of the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Go easy on the amount of water you use to clean the range, too, they say. You don't want it to cause rust or streaks.

Wipe up spills and splatters promptly with a damp cloth or paper. Don't give them a chance to burn on, or in the case of acid foods, eat into the enamel surfaces.

Wait until the range is cool before removing charred particles around the heating units or on the bottom of the oven. Then brush them out or use a spatula or cake turner to lift them out. Clean out clogged gas burners with wire after the gas is turned off.

About your oven —dilute ammonia or chlorinated water is your best helper in removing scorched-on grease. Apply with a cloth, then scour lightly with very fine steel wool or fine scouring powder and wipe off.

Those who made the trip from Klemme were: Mrs. E. J. Arnold, Mrs. Martin Barz, Mrs. Verner Lewis, Mrs. Martha Bredbenner, Mrs. Roy Schaefer and Mrs. Roy Arnold. The trip will long be remembered by all of us. It was surely an educational trip and we are all the wiser and all the more appreciative of the State's care of those afflicted persons.

Steel Industry Construction Sets All-Time Record in '51

Steel companies spent a total of $1,041,000,000 for new equipment and construction during 1951. With that record high outlay, the total expenditure from 1946 to 1951, inclusive, rose to nearly $3,434,000,000.

In 1952, the amount spent to expand and improve the capacity of the industry will be about $1.3 billion, according to the plans of the companies which are engaged in the largest steel expansion program ever undertaken. Thus, the outlay in seven years may be over $4.7 billion, an amount equal to 70 per cent of the industry's estimated total investment at the start of last year.

In 1953 another large outlay will be required to bring annual steel capacity to the expected record high level of more than 120,000,000 tons and provide other necessary iron and steel facilities, such as blast furnaces, soaking pits, coke ovens and rolling mills. Each piece of equipment requires more dollars than in prewar years.

The outlay last year was the largest in the history of the industry. It was 103 per cent higher than the amount spent in 1950 and 253 per cent above the amount spent in 1941. However, the amount actually spent was about $159,000,000 lower than indicated by advance estimates in January 1951.

Lorain, Ohio, Was Indian Trading Post and Mission

Before 1807 the present site of the city of Lorain held an Indian trading post and a mission at the mouth of the Black River on Lake Erie. The first settlement was called Black River, and by 1837, when its name was changed to Charleston, had become an important shipbuilding town. The name Lorain was given the town in 1874.

During the next two decades, construction of railroads connecting Lorain with the Pennsylvania steel mills made the town an important link in the iron ore transportation system on the Great Lakes. In the late 1800's Lorain began to attract a steel industry of its own, based on the accessibility of raw materials. Today, the city is one of the foremost steel pipe and tube centers of the country.

Ell Township Farm Bureau Will Meet September 16

The Annual Meeting of the Ell Township Farm Bureau will be held at the Klemme Grade School on Tuesday, evening September 16 at 8 p. m.

The purpose of the meeting is two-fold, to elect your township direceor and secretary-treasurer for the coming year, and to give all members an opportunity, in a democratic and organized way, to express their opinions on local, state and national issues.

We, as citizens, can either voice our opinions and thinking on issues that are very important to all of us or we can let someone else make the decisions for us. The question that you and I must make is this: "Shall we speak for ourselves, or let someone else do it?"

Please bring sandwiches, cake or cookies to the meeting.

Nylon-rayon and nylon-wool blends are being used in boy's slacks and shirts, as well as wool.

THE FARM OUTLOOK

County Extension Director By Paul Henderson,

With prospects for a bumper crop of corn coming up in Iowa, Hancock Farmers are wondering what effect it will have on the price of corn.

Iowa State College extension economists figure that corn will sell at a discount at harvest this year. In some areas of the state where the crop is good and there is a lot of cash grain farming, it may sell as low as $1.30 or $1.35 per bushel where there aren't storage facilities for the excess corn. More generally, the price in early December is likely to be $1.40 to $1.50 per bushel.

The corn crop is good over the eastern Corn Belt. It's a little larger than last's years favorable crop. But the big difference is here in the western Corn Belt. Iowa and Nebraska have a much better crop than last year.

Less Carryover

Carryover of old corn is down from last year. So the increase in feed production will be a little more than offset by the lower stocks of old grain.

But we also have fewer livestock to feed. The cut in hogs, chickens, horses and mules more than offset the boost in cattle numbers. So even with a smaller total supply, the amount of feed grain per head of livestock will be roughly the same as last year, the Iowa State College economists point out.

This means that Hancock farmers can expect a rising corn price as the effects of the year's food Iowa crop wear off next winter and spring. Buying needed corn at harvest or lining up necessary temporary storage probably will prove one of the best investments farmers can make in Hancock this fall.

More Turkeys

Turkey growers raised 13% more turkeys than in 1951. But total poundage of turkey won't be up as much as increased numbers might indicate. The smaller Beltsville whites make up a larger proportion of this year's production than ever before, Francis A. Kutish, Iowa State College farm economist, reports.

Turkey growers this year plan to sell more turkeys before November 1 than a year ago. A smaller percentage of this year's crop will come to market in November than last year. Marketings during December and later will be about the same.

Prices of turkeys might be in a bit of trouble in October this year. Later marketings may find a more favorable market than we ordinarily would expect with the large numbers grown this year.

Wholesale Food Prices Tumble

NEW YORK- Wholesale food prices this week posted their sharpest overall drop in nearly two years, according to the Dun & Bradstreet food index.

The index dropped from $6.70 last week, the year's high, to $6.60 this week, and was 2.8 per cent below the year-ago week's $6.78.

This represented the largest week-to-week decline since early October of 1950 when wholesale food prices turned downward briefly after weeks of spiralling higher following the outbreak of the Korean War. At that time the index fell 11 cents to $6.50.

Contract Awarded

The Woodford Wheeder Lumber Company of Garner was the successful bidder on a carload of oil treated stoker coal for the Hancock County Home at a letting last week. The Woodford Lumber Company bid $10 per ton delivery on track at Duncan.

THE LEGEND OF DOC. LAWSON

The Doc Lawson mentioned in a previous chapter, whose grave could not be located when other bodies were removed from the Twin Lake Cemetery, lived in the vicinity of Klemme and Goodell for fifteen of twenty years.

For a while he rented a vacant farm house and lived alone, later he paid for his room and board and lived with a farm family. He never seemed to be gainfully employed, but always had plenty of money to pay cash for his simple needs. He always carried a revolver whereever he went and kept the weapon under his pillow at night.

He seemed to be afraid and would never talk of his childhood days or his past except now and then when he was warmed up with liquor, then he would sometimes let slip a word or two.

The neighbors would discuss this strange man when they were visiting one another and would tell each other every little thing they had learned about him. Thus they patched up a story of his life, just how much is fact and how much is imagination this writer will never know, on one thing however, the narrators all agreed, W. W. Lawson was not his true name.

The life story of this quiet, mysterious man as it was told to the writer years afterward, reads something like this:

During the Gold Rush of 1849, four men left their home in the state of Virginia to seek a fortune in the gold fields of California. Doc Lawson was among them and in all probability was the "brains" of the expedition.

They went west by train as far as the railroad went, and then continued on horseback, leading pack horses with their supplies, they struck a rich spot and panned out plenty of gold dust during the two years that they worked their claim, then one night a pair of bandits attempted to rob them, in the fight which insued, one robber was killed and one of Lawson's men was shot through the heart.

They buried the two dead men near their cabin. The three remaining comrads decided then and there to discontinue their mining operations, they divided the gold dust between them and left their claim before day break the morning after the shooting. One man stayed in California to marry a woman he had met, Doc Lawson and remaining companion started for their home in Virginia.

After several days of travel they arrived at Salt Lake City, Utah, where they rested their tired horses for a day or two. Here they traded their gold dust for money and each of the men carried his money in a belt that he wore under his clothing.

A tragedy occured shortly after the two men left Salt Lake City. In later years Doc Lawson was very careful not to speak of this incident. Some narrators were sure that Lawson and his companion were again waylaid by robbers. Another said that these two gold miners must have quarreled about the division of the money. Others stick to the story that Doc Lawson deliberately shot his companion in the back.

At least they all agree on one thing, that when Doc Lawson reached Hancock County, Iowa, several years later, he arrived alone and without his companion, he wore both of the money belts, and always kept a weapon handy for instant use.

Doc Lawson was a nervous man, seemed to be worried at all times, seemed to be afraid of everyone. It is said that when he attended a public gathering or an auction sale he would always stand in the rear preferably with his back to a building or his back to a tree. It is also said that he did not sleep well at night, he was the first one up in the morning and the last one to bed at night. During his waking hours he was cautious and afraid as tho' he was hiding a tragic secret. No one ever learned what his true name was or where his relatives lived.

One cold stormy night, the wife at the farm home where he was boarding was about to give birth to a child, and when it became evident that neither Doctor or Mid-wife could arrive because of the drifted roads, Lawson took charge and handled the situation in a truly professional manner. He asked the family never to mention that he had been of assistance to them, but never-the-less the story got out and thereafter W. W. Lawson was known as Doc Lawson.

During the last years of his life, Doc Lawson was a lonely man and to escape from this loneliness he took to drinking and gradually became a heavy drinker although he was seldom drunk or disorderly.

Death came to this lonely man while he was living with a family by the name of Christie in Twin Lake Township, these people cared for him during his last illness. He reached the age of about 75 years and was glad to go and thus escape from the memories which had ever tormented him.

It was members of the Christie family, Alf C. Carpenter, and neighbors who attended the simple burial rites at his grave in December 1885, and somewhere in the two acre tract that was once the Twin Lake Cemetery, the secret of Doc Lawson is buried with him.

Toadstools on Wood

What would cause toadstools to appear on a woodpile? Evidently the wood stored was already infected with fungi. The cut ends, and the partial drying, stimulated these fungi to produce the fruiting bodies known as toadstools. They will probably continue growing until the wood dries out sufficiently to kill them, or to hold back their further growth. There would probably not be any danger in handling this wood.

Courting Drakes

In the breeding season of wild ducks, mallard drakes dogfight in the air for a female's favor. Among the dignified canvasbacks, however, the competing males stage a chest-to-chest pushing contest on the water, each swimming as hard as he can move his webbed feet. When one begins to slip backward, his contest is lost, and he must turn and dive before his opponent seizes him by the back of the neck.

Aid to Morale

"Coffee breaks"—authorized time-outs in mid-morning and mid-afternoon for cup of coffee—increased 55 per cent in a year in U.S. industrial plants and business offices, according to a recent survey. Most of the 1,160 personnel managers interviewed said that the 'coffee break" reduced fatigue, improved morale, increased productivity, and cut down waste of material.

Chase Dirt

Before re-painting, walls that have previously been painted with an oil paint should be washed thoroughly with a detergent to remove all grease and dirt. This is particularly true of a kitchen where cooking deposits a film of grease which—if not removed—will interfere with the drying and adhesion of new paint.

Sulphur Use Spirals

Annual per capita consumption of sulphur used to make fertilizer jumped from eight pounds to 18 pounds from 1941 to 1951, Freeport Sulphur Company reports. In chemicals, the increase was from seven to 12 pounds, and in petroleum refining it was four to eight.

USE GREEN TOMATOES IN MANY WAYS

That first light frost is your signal to gather up the green tomatoes from your garden.

Look for ways to use green tomatoes, and you'll find them almost as versatile as the red-ripe ones, says U. S. Department of Agriculture nutritionists.

Green Tomato Curry

Cook 1 sliced onion in 3 tablespoons fat. Add 1 quart sliced green tomatoes, cover, & cook until tender. Add 3 cups chopped, cooked meat and heat thoroughly. If too thick, thin with meat broth, gravy or water. Season to taste with curry powder and salt. Serve over rice or noodles. Six servings.

Marmalade

Combine 3 quarts sliced green tomatoes with 6 cups sugar and 1 teaspoon salt. Peel six lemons, slice peel thin, boil in 1 cup of water for 5 minutes and drain. Slice the lemon pulp and remove seeds. Add lemon pulp and rind to the tomato mixture. Heat slowly to boiling, cook rapidly for 45 to 60 minutes or until thickened, stirring constantly. Pour into hot sterile jars. Seal and store. This makes about 4 pints.

Relish

Mix thoroughly 6 quarts of chopped green tomtoes, 1½ quarts chopped onion, 3 cups chopped green pepper, 1½ cups chopped red pepper and ¼ cup salt. Let stand overnight, then drain. Add 3 cups sugar and 1½ quarts vinegar. Put 2 tablespoon whole mixed spices in a thin, white cloth, tie top tightly and add to tomato mixture. Boil mixture gently for 1½ hours or until thickened, stirring frequently. Remove spice bag. Pour relish into hot, sterile jars, fill jars to top and seal. Makes about 6 pints.

SANDWICHES THAT DO THE JOB

Protein-rich sandwiches are the mainstay of the noon meal for the lunch-box set. See that hearty, filling sandwiches combine with the rest of the school lunch to supply a well-balanced, healthful meal.

Planning your school youngster's lunch box menus ahead of time is the sure-fire way to make sure his sandwiches pack a wallop nutrition-wise, stick to his ribs, and don't become monotonously the same. A special sandwich - making center will help you out, too, says Iowa State college nutritionists.

Post your lunch box menu for the week in a handy spot and have all your equipment ready so that you can go into action. Here are some of the items you'll want to gather together in one place, perhaps a drawer or shelf: wax paper, paper containers and napkins, bread knife and board, paring knife, spatulas, small bowls, measuring and mixing spoons, salt and pepper and any staples that don't need refrigeration.

Protein-rich Fillings

Sandwiches are the mainstay of that lunch boz meal, so make the fillings rich in proteins—cheese, meat, eggs fish, and chicken are all good animal protein foods. Such fillings combine with the cereal protein of the bread to make a good working team. Nutritionists explain that our bodies use two kinds of protein together much more efficiently than either one alone. Together, they provide all of the essentail amino acids of protein—nutrients necessary for growth and health.

Don't forget how many different kinds of bread there are to help you out in sandwich making—rye, whole wheat and many others.

Store in Freezer

Let your freezer lend a helping hand too, for with this wonderful convenience you can make up a supply of school lunch sandwiches a whole week or even a month ahead. Tuck the frozen sandwiches into the lunch box and they'll keep other foods crisp and cool for hours. It takes about an hour for the sandwiches to thaw.

Best fillings for freezing are peanut butter, Cheddar, American or cream cheese, sliced or ground meat, fish or chicken. Avoid egg salad or sliced egg sandwiches, for freezing toughens egg white. Omit mayonnaise. as it will separate and soak into the bread.

Don't make up sandwiches more than a week in advance if you plan to store them in the frozen food section of your refrigerator. Make them no more than 24 hours ahead if they're to be kept in another part of the refrigerator.

All kinds of bread freeze or refrigerate satisfactorily. Wrap each sandwich separately so that flavors won't mingle.

Sandwiches Not Enough

Count on about two sandwiches for each youngster up to 12, and as many as 4 or 5 for an active teen-ager. But don't expect sandwiches to do the whole job. Include milk, fruit and vegetables in the lunch box, too. Crisp friuts and vegetables make the biggest hit, as well as crisp lettuce that's wrapped separately and added to sandwiches at the last minute. The dessert is easy— cake or cookies.

The best lunch in the world won't do any good if it's not eaten. So plan on sandwich fillings and other foods you know your youngster likes, give him variety from day to day and a special treat now and then.

FALL GARDEN OPERATIONS SAVE TIME IN SPRING

With the present garden season drawing to a close it's time to make plans for next year's garden, says Ed Cott, extension horticulturist at Iowa State College.

Many garden operations can be done this fall, saving time in the busy rush season next spring.

The garden should be plowed this fall. Put barnyard manure on garden before plowing. An application of 1 or 2 tons of manure will boost yields and improve the structure of the soil. Because of the addition of organic matter, there will be less trouble from the ground baking or getting hard during the summer months.

For maximum yields, broadcast a 10-20-10 complete commercial fertilizer at the rate of 15 pounds per 1,000 square feet over the manured ground, says Cott. Apply a 6-10-4, or similiar analysis fertilizer at the rate of 20 to 25 pounds per 1,000 square feet of garden.

If barnyard manure is not available, save all of the leaves from the lawn. Cott says to spread these leaves over the garden before applying the commercial fertilizer. If a large quantity of leaves is used, the commercial fertilizer application can be raised by 5 pounds per 1,000 square feet.

the Highway Story

IOWA DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC SAFETY

BY BOB HULLIHAN

This summer brought the usual number of curious events on the highways which seem to to prove again that man is a long way from being the master of the automobile.

In one major Iowa city a "lane driving" campaign was announced and applauded. First action in the campaign came when a wandering motorist smacked into a workman painting lanes on a city street.

In a much smaller Iowa town the volunteer fire department took their 1917 fire engine out for a test run. The antique water squirter was cranked up to such speed that it failed to negotiate a corner and hit a tree, an ice house and a 1952 automobile sitting in a private drive.

One Iowa driver found supercaution not enough. Driving into a blinding sun, he stopped at the bottom of a hill and sent his wife walking ahead to look for approaching traffic. While he drove slowly, waiting for the all-clear signal from his wife, a trucker, also blinded by the sun, hit him from behind.

Two patrolmen following a car were amazed when both doors of the car flew open and female legs were thrust out on either side. When the car came to a stop, the patrolmen rushed up prepared for the worst. They found two women terrified by a mouse lurking around the emergency brake. The officers routed out the mouse without resorting to gun-play.

At least one man in Iowa must love rough roads. He was being taken to the hospital for treatment of paralysis in both arms and legs when the ambulance hit a bump. The man felt a terrific pain in his back but, before he got to the hospital, regained movement in all his members.

And, finally, this tale: An Iowa lawyer went into court and made a vigorous defense of a man who had crashed into a parked car. Whose car? The lawyer's.

Petition Ok'd

Hancock County supervisors approved the annexation of certain lands in Sec. 12, Boone Township petitioned for by Howard L. Hoenk. The lands totaling about 20 acres are to be included and made a part of Hancock County Drainage district No. 108. The petitioner agreed to assessment as per original classification of the district.

FREE SAFETY CHECK TO START NEXT WEEK

Nine Hancock County schools will be competing for special awards during the next six weeks in a county-wide car safety check contest sponsored by the Hancock County Auto and Truck Dealers Ass'n.

With safety as the prime objective, school children in grades from four to eight will encourage automobile and truck owners to have vehicles put through the 10-point safety check at some garage in the county. All safety checks are to be made free of charge by trained auto service men using modern equipment. The safety drive and contest starts Monday, September 29 and closes November 8.

A special $25 award is being made to the school that does the best job of encouraging motorists to have their cars checked. This will be determined by the use of tickets. Each student will be given one Class A ticket. He will sign it and give it to a motorist who then presents it to the garage when he has his car or truck safety checked. The biggest percentage of tickets returned to any one school will determine the winner of the $25 cash award.

In addition a special automobile trophy will be given to each school when it shows a 25 percent ticket return.

For individual students there will be other awards of a girl's and a boy's bicycle. A class B ticket will also be given out in unlimited numbers. When all Class A and B tickets are turned in at the close of the safety drive, November 8 the tickets will be put into a box and the prize winning names drawn for the bicycles. Awarding of the $25 prize and the bicycles will be made on November 15.

Superintendents and children of the nine schools in the Co. are cooperating in this big drive with the auto and truck dealers to make all motor vehicles in Hancock County prepared for safer driving on the roads. The contest is a variation of promoting safety checks that have been held all over the state of Iowa in the past several months. Cars are checked for faulty lights, brakes, horn, wheel alignment, etc. The cooperating schools are Britt, Corwith, Garner, Crystal Lake, Goodell, Hayfield, Kanawha, Klemme and Woden.

Girl Scouts

The local Girl Scouts met for their first organized meeting at the home of Mrs. Henry Smid, with Mrs. Marvin Lemke, the Assistant Leader present. There were fourteen girls present. Berleen Bridges, our Patrol Leader closed the meeting with the Pledge Of Allegiance To The Flag. Mrs. Smid and Mrs. Lemke had treats for the girls. The next meeting will be September 29th at 4 p. m.

TOWN COUNCIL PROCEEDINGS

REGULAR MEETING

August 11, 1952

The meeting was called to oared by the Mayor with the following named Councilmen present: Schulz, Barz, Arnold and Schaefer. Absent: Buseman.

Minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved.

J. W. Johnson presented an oral petition requesting permission to construct an extension of the present sanitary sewer along Hancock Street so that a connection may be made to his property at the East end of said street.

It was moved by Arnold that permission be granted to J. W. Johnson to construct the sanitary sewer for which he petitions, but that the Town will not pay for the cost of such sewer, except that the cost of manhole in said sewer line will be paid by the Town. Further, that such sanitary sewer so constructed shall come under similar jurisdiction of the town. Upon second to the motion by Schulz the following vote was recorded: Ayes: Schulz, Arnold, Barz and Schaefer. Nayes: None.

It was moved by Arnold, second by Schaefer, that a bicycle parking rack be constructed and placed at some appropriate place on Main Street. Motion carried.

Upon motion by Schaefer, second by Schulz, the following bills were allowed:

W. F. Pavey, Repairs to Pickup & Lawnmower	$ 23.79
Klemme Hardware Co. Meter parts & Misc. supplies	65.24
Northern Lumber Co. Supp.	35.97
E. A. Zeidler Labor repairing park seats	3.00
M. J. Brinkman, Sharpening sickle & repairs	.50
Edwin Medaus, 19 hrs. sweeping streets	19.00
Matt Parrott & Sons Co. Clerk's Supplies	.73
Klemme Times Publishing Council Proceeding	27.53
H. J. Smid, July Salary	65.00
Richard Ulrich, 4 weeks salary to July 26th	240.00
Ia. Electric Light & Power Company, light	28.78
Hancock County Coop. Oil, Gas, Oil & Supplies	19.20

Councilman Arnold moved for adoption a Resolution ordering preparation of estimate of cost, preliminary plat and schedule of assessments and plans, specifications and form of contract by Leslie W. Mahone, Engineer for a proposed Storm Sewer System. Upon second by Barz, the following vote was recorded: Ayes: Schulz, Barz, Arnold and Schaefer. Nayes: None. Absent Buseman.

The matters above mentioned having been prepared by Leslie W. Mahone and filed with Clerk, the Council considered and accepted same.

Councilman Barz then moved the adoption of a Resolution approving estimate of cost, preliminary plat and schedule of assessments in regard to a proposed Storm Sewer. Upon second by Schulz, the motion was carried.

Councilman Arnold moved the adoption of a Resolution of Necessity in regard to the proposed Storm Sewer. Upon second by Schulz, the motion was carried.

SPECIAL MEETING

September 2, 1952

Meeting called to order by Mayor Cook with Barz, Buseman Schaefer and Arnold, members of the council present.

The Council took up consideration of a matter concerning an area of ground in the Auditor's Subdivision in Klemme's First Addition to the Town of Klemme. The area in question being approximately circumscribed by a line as follows: Beginning at point at the SE corner of Lot 7, Auditors Subdivision, thence North approximately 313 feet, thence East approximately 40 feet, thence South approximately 313 feet, thence West approximately 40 to the point of beginning. It appears that ground has been deeded to the Town for street purposes, but that the Council has never recorded formal acceptance of ground for street purposes. It also appears that, at various times, the Council has claimed the ground not to be part of the street system of the Town and, at other times, has considered the ground to be a street or alley. Certain residents of the Town, owning property abutting on the ground in question, have now requested that the Council determine for all time that this ground be, or not be, accepted fully as a street or alley in the Town of Klemme.

It was moved by Barz, that the matter of this Council going on record of accepting, or rejecting, the above described ground as a street or alley be deferred for further consideration and action at the regular meeting of the Council Monday, September 8, 1952. Upon second by Buseman, the Council unanimously voted in favor of the motion.

At this time a petition was presented to the Council requesting enforcement of Ordinance No. 39. No action by the Council was taken since it appeared that no violation of the Ordinance had occurred.

Meeting adjourned.

A. R. ARNOLD, Town Clerk
V. A. COOK, Mayor

FALL IS HERE, BUT . . . .

Don't Get Cold Feet!

GET READY NOW FOR CHILLY FALL DAYS AND BE SET FOR WINTER . . . .

Not only will your feet get cold, but you will be uncomfortable in your home if you don't get ready for cold weather now. We hate to have our good friends get cold feet!

SPACE ROOM HEATERS

One sure way to have a comfortable home is to have us install a good oil burning parlor furnace type heater.

We feature two of what we believe are the best on the market . . . the old reliable "PERFECTION" and the new modern "SCOTSMAN" Thrift Pilot Heaters. We have a size to take care of your heating requirements . . and our prices are right.

GO AHEAD, BREAK THAT GLASS

Boy, it sure tickles us when you bust a window glass! That puts dough in our pockets . . . . but we also save you dough on window glass, so we both make money, or do we?

Anyway, bring us your glass work. Or if you want to cut your own fingers and bang up your own hands and maybe bust a couple of glasses, O. K., we will give you the size, the putty, points, etc. and you can do your own work. Anything to make you happy.

BAND CONCERTS

The winters seem long in Iowa. In the fall our roads are often covered with ice; in mid-winter we have snow and zero weather to contend with; then when the spring rains arrive we have mud, which leaves just a few weeks in mid- summer when the weather is mild and warm so that one can enjoy being about in shirt sleeves in the evening.

This is a farming community and work is heavy in thespring, baby chicks, little pigs, garden work, etc. Not to mention the somewhat monotonous job of driving the tractor back and forth over the fields for many days putting in the crops.

But when the month of June comes along, the farm family can ease up a bit and enjoy the nice weather. On Saturday, as a rule, they do up the chores a little early and drive to town for the evening where they visit with friends and neighbors. And then for about 15 weeks the town of Klemme is crowded with people every Saturday nights. On these gay and happy Saturday evenings, the store people too, catch the spirit of this festive season and try to furnish entertainment for the people of the community whom they consider guests of the town. The most popular entertainment through out the years has been the Saturday night band concert, which furnishes a back-ground for the the visiting and an atmosphere for sociability.

Our first band, about 1895, was composed of town and farm folks who enjoyed playing. Herman Stromer with his trumpet was the band leader, other players were John Suckow, clarinet; Henry C. Beier, cornet; Henry Stromer, cornet; Allie White, alto; Julius Henschen, Baritone; William F. Beier, tuba; Charles Suckow, snare drum and John Baumgartner, base drum.

A few of the merchants also belonged and would leave their places of business from 8 to 9 p. m. on a Saturday night to do their part in the band concert. This band served without pay and purchased their own music. Their playing was sharp and snappy and we all enjoyed it.

This volunteer band group composed of local merchants and farmers continued to serve our community for 20 years or more. The membership changed somewhat from year to year and the leaders changed. Tom Mitchell was leader for a season or more and Jack Port also served as leader of the band.

The pictures herewith are the Klemme Bands of yesterday.

Our Klemme School Band of 1952 numbers some 50 players, and they are good too.The band is directed by Charles Whitford.

The Town Council has made financial arrangements with the School Board whereby the School Band furnishes our summer concerts.

The Town Council early in 1952 while arranging for the summer concerts, decided that the old portable band stand was too small and too old for further use and without further ado ordered that the band should play in the Park this season. Well, the Park is more than two blocks from the shopping center of our town. Some people went to the Park to enjoy the music, sometimes 8 autos were parked nearby. Once I counted 16 autos. The most people I counted on the benches was 26, and of course a dozen homes surrounding the Park could hear. However, 363 autos parked in Klemme's shopping cener could not hear, thus the big crowd of our Saturday night visitors were deprived of the music which we here-to-fore had enjoyed as a "background for sociability".

No doubt the Council and the Civic Club will untangle this problem, so that the concerts can again be held for 1953, in Klemme's Shopping Center.

Commercial

In old Mexico, and a few other countries, it is the custom to have a brass band lead the funeral procession.

The Wellemeyer Service has never been asked to provide a band for a funeral services.

However, burial customs vary in different countries, in different churches, and they even vary slightly in different localities of our U. S. A. Should an emergency arise, contact your home town funeral director, he knows.

HOW MUCH DO POOR BRAKES COST?

Are you one of those drivers who knows his brakes are bad, yet does nothing about them?

If you are, think what your poor brakes can cost you... even though you carry insurance. Here are some of the probable costs:

1. Poor brakes invite disaster... destruction... death!
2. Court judgements resulting from accident cases frequently are far in excess of the insurance carried... this means a burden of debt which can further mean the wreckage of a man's home and life.

Play safe! Don't delay another minute. Call on us today... NOW! Let us test your brakes FREE... and if they need relining let us reline with Wagner CoMaX ... the world's outstanding brake lining.

M. V. B. A. Artificial Breeding Service Available October 1 From Klemme

Farmers wishing to secure artificial breeding service in the area around Klemme may do so beginning October 1st by calling Robert Stith, 135, Klemme or Farmers Elevator, 17, in Garner.

This announcement was made following a meeting called by Minnesota Valley Breeders at the Klemme Grade School on Monday evening, September 22. This meeting was called when some of the 75 M. V. B. A. members and others living south of Highway 18 began to realize that in order to get the best of service it was desirable that M. V. B. A. place a technician at Klemme since demands for the service are continually growing.

At this meeting there were representatives of Minnesota Valley Breeders, Eastern Iowa Breeders and Northwest Breeders. Each of these organizations and Robert Winchum, extension dairyman representing the county extension director from Hancock and Cerro Gordo were given an opportunity to speak. After considerable discussion it was decided that farmers located in a 15 mile radius of Klemme meet by areas and each select a representative to act on a temporary committee. Two more representatives were then elected at large. The purpose of this 6 man committee was to represent the interests of the area in visiting and selecting the artificial breeding organization that should be invited to give service in the area. Committee members selected were: Mitchell Bock, chairman: Howard Baack. Laurice Lemke, Ned Howard, Edwin Nedved and LeRoy Bamman.

This committee decided that it would be impossible for the group to visit the organizations at this time and that the interest of the group would pustify giving the go ahead signal for setting up an artificial breeding organization at Klemme.

Robert Stith the new technician for the Minnesota Valley Breeders has just completed an intensive training short course both at the headquarters at New Prague. and at the University of Minnesota. He is a son of Mrs. Blanche Stith, who lives near Britt. He was born near Britt and lived for 11 years on a farm between Klemme and Kanawha. He graduated from the Kanawha High School in 1942.

People living around Garner will continue to call the Farmers Elevator, 17, at Garner. Calls will be relayed either to Robert Stith at Klemme, or to Reuben Michaelson at Forest City. Highway 18 is to be the dividing line between the two units.

A meeting will be called at a later date to set up the permanent organization and explain the best possible use of the service.

More city workers are moving their residences to the country, says John Timmons, agricultural economist at Iowa State College.

Claim Cattle Damage Ditch

Several taxpayers have filed a complaint with the Hancock County supervisors asserting that some taxpayers on the District No. 3 and 4 have been permitting cattle to enter drainage ditches in the district.

The board acting on the protest, has ordered County Auditor Maynard Schoneman to give notice to all taxpayers in the district to keep cattle from the ditches or to fence the ditches to keep cattle out.

Allowing cattle to wade in open ditches causes the ditches to fill with silt thus impairing the proper functioning of the drains.

The notice to taxpayers and persons tenanting land in the district states that the Code of Iowa with reference to maintenance of drainage ditches must be complied with.

ADOPT BUDGET FOR RED CROSS

GARNER—The board of directors, officers and committee chairmen of the Garner Chapter of the American Red Cross met at the Legion Hall and adopted the budget for the ensuing year. The board voted to hold monthly meetings on the first Monday of each month at 2:30 p. m. at the Hancock County National Bank. Committee chairmen are invited to sit in on these monthly meetings in an advisory capacity according to C. L. Strate, chairman of the Garner chapter.

The Garner Chapter covers the east part of the county and takes in Goodell, Klemme, Garner and Miller.

MULTIFLORA ROSE SEED NOW AVAILABLE

Seeds for living fences will be sent free of charge this fall to Iowans who wish to grow their own plants. The multiflora rose seeds will be mailed on request by the State Conservation Commission in packets of 1000 seeds. Each packet contains instructions for fall planting.

Multiflora rose is becoming popular in Iowa as inexpensive and stock-proof fencing. It is particularly good for contour fencing, fencing farm ponds, gullies and snow fences.

Beautiful and practical, these living fences also provide nesting sites for insect-eating birds and protection for wildlife, especially quail and pheasant. When used properly for fencing of cultivated or pastured lands, the rose will not spread and become a nuisance.

To insure the best results, only this year's seed is being sent. Since the seeds must be in the ground before frost, requests should be mailed promptly. They may be addressed to the State Conservation Commission, East 7th and Court, Des Moines, Iowa.

$17 MILLION GRAIN CROP FOR HANCOCK COUNTY

A. E. Rasmussen, Hancock County PMA chairman, estimates that Hancock farmers will harvest a combined crop of oats, corn and soybeans, valued at $17,848,973.

Rasmussen further estimates will average 62 bushels per A. and yield a total of 8,612,296 bushels. Indications now are that corn will mature so that it can be sealed and the PMA loan rate in the county is $1.54, which would make the corn worth $12,262,935.

Rasmussen further estimates that soybeans will yield 25 bushels per acre or a total of 891,850 bushels in the county. With a loan rate of $2.57 and beans are above that figure now, the value would be $2,292,054. Oats yielded 40 bushels per acre and the total crop produced in the county is 3,018,400 bushels with a total value of $2,293.

PMA officials feel that 1952 will be one of the county's best harvests.

HOGS IN 1940

From The Drovers Journal

Editor: I have been a reader of the Drovers Journal for more than 40 years. I have lived in town for 18 years, but wouldn't do without your paper.

There are a lot of politicians of the type of Harry Truman who dearly love to talk about the price of hogs when Herbert Hoover was President. I would like to get authentic information on what the average price of hogs was for the year 1940. If I remember correctly I sold some for a little over four dollars per hundred.

That was after we had eight years of plunging this country in debt by every artificial means known. The cold blooded fact stands out, that it took a war to cause what people call prosperity. Maybe these wars had to be; maybe not, if we had used a little diplomacy. At any rate, after the suffering the finest youth of the land experienced, I would hang my head in shame before trying to take credit for the high prices brought on under these circumstances.—Chet V. Banes, Keokuk County, Iowa.

(In 1940, monthly average hog prices at Chicago ranged from a low of $5.10 in March to a high of $6.45 in August, with $5.75 the average for the year. Lawest average price came on June at $4.90. That year federally inspected slaughter for the first time ran over 50,000,000 head, and it was generally agreed in the trade that a very difficult price situation was in the making, had not war intervened.—Drovers Journal.

Portable Dispenser

Art Kassel, Van Nuys, Calif., has patented a cold-drink dispenser that is carried on the vendor's back. There's a receptacle at the bottom of the tank to hold dry ice. The vendor has a tube containing paper cups He turns a little faucet at his belt, and hands you a cup of ice-cold soda pop, and you scarcely need to take your eyes off the man at bat in the game. The umpire? No pop bottle? Throw the paper cup.

Famous Falls

Paraguay and Brazil share Guayra Falls at the head of navigation on the Parana River. It thunders over a precipice three miles broad and more than 100 feet high with the greatest volume of water of any of the world's major falls. Rocky islands divide it into 18 separate cataracts. Its waters then boil and foam through a deep, narrow canyon for 35 miles.

Production Higher

Production of the engineering alloy steels in the United States will be approximately 1,400,000 ingot tons greater in 1951 than in 1950. These steels, which in many instances contain nickel, are a vital segment of both civilian and defense economies, and are used for component parts of machinery and equipment.

Obituary Of Emil H. Patet, 78

EMIL H. PATET, age 78, a resident of Hancock County for 67 years, died at his home in Klemme early Sunday morning, September 21, 1952.

He was born on October 9, 1873 at Iwitz, Germany.

In 1885, his parents August and Amalia Lau Patet, together with Emil, age 12, and his three sisters migrated to America and located in Garner, Iowa.

Emil had attended school in Germany, but on coming to America he attended the Garner Public Schools and completed his common school education. Later he attended the Worden-Polock Normal Academy. He farmed several years northeast of Hayfield.

For 25 years he was janitor at various schools, namely, Crystal Lake, Hayfield and Klemme. For several years he served as janitor of the Klemme Methodist Church and was sexton of the Klemme Cemetery. He also worked in the Wellemeyer Store for six years.

He got along well with people, especially children, which helped to make his school work successful.

He was a member of the Methodist Church all his life, played the church organ at Hayfield, played the basshorn in the Hayfield school band, always sang in the church choir and helped sing at more than 400 funerals. He had a rich and powerful bass voice.

On September 9, 1925, Emil H. Patet and Emma Sampson were married. They made their home in Klemme throughout the 27 years of their married life.

Mr. and Mrs. Patet retired 10 years ago. Since then he spent considerable time in his garden and with his flowers. They often spent their winters in California or Florida.

Mr. Patet became ill 5 weeks ago, spent two weeks in a hospital where he received only temporary relief, came home and several days later left us, having reached the age of 78 years, 11 months and 12 days.

He leaves of his immediate family:

His wife, Emma

Three Children,
Milo of San Fernando, California
Kenneth and Mildred of Chicago.

One granddaughter,
Alix Patet, age 6

Three sisters,
Mrs. John Lackore, Garner
Mrs. Julius Meyer, Hayfield
Mrs. Victor Waldeck, Garner

Fifth Wheel

The so-called "fifth wheel" on truck-trailmobiles, the huge freight trucks which haul loads of up to 30 tons and more, never touch the ground. They're an original coupling device which holds the trailer to the "tractor," or motive-power unit.

Galvanized Iron

For galvanized iron, a zinc-dust zinc-oxide type of primer and coating are particularly recommended. New galvanized iron should be allowed to weather about six months before painting.

First Used

Researchers at Libbey-Owens-Ford laboratories in Toledo say that the first glass ever used by man was known as obsidian and probably came from a volcano.

Even Application

A method of steam spraying, used industrially in applying protective coatings to manufactured articles, provides very even application

Famous Spectacle

The Lord Mayor's Show, London's famous spectacle, has been held with few interruptions since the year 1215.

Word Origin

From Venetian glassblowers comes the word fiasco, meaning, in English, failure. Its Italian meaning is flask.

Industry Record

The 512 million tons of bituminous coal produced in the U.S. last year came from 8,552 operating companies.

REUNITED

An amnesia victim was reunited with his brother at Independence recenty. Jack McElligot, of Lake City, Minn., wandered into the hospital and told doctors he did not know where he was, who he was or what had happened. Apparently he had been slugged. He remembered the name of "Lake City" and eventually his brother there was located.

MOTHER

A few days after her 19-month old son was taken to Blank hospital in Des Moines, with polio, a Grinell mother, Mrs. Rowland Chase, also fell victim to the disease. Condition of both is reported satisfactory.

HERE'S WHAT TO CONSIDER—

WHEN YOU BUY A SEWING MACHINE

Buying a sewing machine that will suit you to a T year after year is a big assignment. So do take a good look at the various models available for the amount and type of sewing you do and the money you have to spend. Read instruction books, try out each machine, and develop good sales resistance. Know the important questions and get the right answers.

Here's some advice from Iowa State College textiles and clothing specialists to help you out when you buy a sewing machine.

If the new machine is to be a replacement for your old one, you'll want to ask yourself two questions: "What do I like best about my old machine?" and "What improvements do I want in my new machine?"

You may be tempted to buy the latest model of the same make machine. That may be the right choice for you, but specialists suggest you try out several different makes first. Don't be influenced by the new machine your neighbor bought, or by sales pressure. Choose the machine that is very personally the best for you.

Your Needs

Whether you're buying a replacement or your very first machine, here are points to consider.

First, what kind of machine do you need? Do you want one for plain sewing, or do you do quite a bit of fancy work? If you do a great deal of sewing for your family and home, you'll want a good sturdy machine with the attachments you need.

How much space do you have for a sewing area and where will it be? Your answer will help you decide whether to get a portable machine or one with its own cabinet. Cabinet models can look at home in dining room, bedroom or living room, and several models lead a second life as a desk.

If you don't sew a great deal and don't want to spend much, a treadle machine may be your best choice. It will stitch just as well as an electric model.

Try It Out

Whatever machine you consider, do try it out in your own home in the space where you'll be using it. Many merchants are glad to have you do this. Here are questions to ask yourself as you give each machine t through try-out.

Are the head, bobbin and bobbin case easy to thread? Can you give each machine a through out difficulty? Can you adjust the stitch to whatever length wanted? A numbered gauge on the adjuster means you can reproduce the same length of stitch a second time. A reverse lever is handy for retracing stitches at the end of a seam instead of tying.

Does the machine have a good light that focuses on the needle without reflecting into your eyes?

Is there enough working space around the needle and the head to suit your needs? The working space on a portable is limited unless you provide a table that the head will fit into. If you were making draperies or slip covers, could you manipulate the fabric around the head easily? Some machines have the needle arm free so that work may be slipped under and stitching done in a small area.

"Do-Everything" Models

There are foregin make sewing machines that "do-everything." But before you decide on one of these, ask yourself if you'll really use the services that make them costly. It may be what you really need is just a sturdy machine that does good straight stitching. Then you can buy attachments you need.

About the mechanism: Rotary, oscillating and the older-type vibrating machines all make equally good stitches. The rotary type runs mose quietly. A direct drive, or gear driven, machine is usually best.

When you get your new machine home, be good to it. With regular oiling and cleaning and good care, it will give you generations of dependable service.

Visiting around Iowa

by Joe Marsh

Iowa's Feather Dusters

Shortly after the Civil War, a turkey farmer walked into a broom shop at Monticello with an idea.

"Why not make brooms out of turkey feathers?" he asked.

Well, lots of folks might have laughed at that idea. But the Monticello broom man tinkered with those feathers and found a way to make not brooms, but feather dusters. So, today, Monticello has the world's largest feather duster factory.

That's typical of how many Iowa industries started. Iowa folks like ideas, and they have open minds.

And that open-mindedness means a lot in things besides business, too. It makes for better communities, better neighbors. Neighbor Joe sits on the porch, sips his lemonade, and lets his grass get too high. I sit on my porch, sip my temperate glass of beer, and know it's Joe's right to grow his grass any height he wants.

Yes, open-mindedness was a fine trait in the '60's, and it's just as important to us Iowans today.

How To Adjust Picker To Do Best Job For You With Safety

PROPER ADJUSTMENT WILL GET CLEANER PICKING

Alert Handling Will Prevent Accidents

Iowa farmers soon will harvest one of their biggest corn crops in history.

An early and evenly maturing corn crop this year means there will be few ears lost in harvest -if your picker is adjusted properly and carefully handled, reports Dale Hull, extension agricultural engineer at Iowa State College.

Begin picking when the moisture is low enough for safe keeping—about 18%. With normal foliage, stalks standing and moisture ideal for snapping, Hull recommends adjusting for medium roller clearance—⅝ to ¾ inch at the bottom—depending on your make of picker.

Time Gathering Chains

Time the gathering chains so finger links on one side are spaced midway between finger links on the other side. You can do this by releasing the lower idle sprocket where you adjust for tension, then slip the chain around the drive sprocket until the links are in time.

The engineer reports slip clutches—safety valves to prevent damage if the picker becomes clogged, must be just tight enough for ordinary work, but loose enough to slip when the picker becomes clogged.

Regulate tension of the husking rolls and use husking pegs or pins and screws to make the husking action more vigorous. Hull suggests not installing husking pegs, pins or screws unless husks are very tight or are dry. Too vigorous husking means too much shelled corn.

Grease Often

The engineer says greasing and lubricationg often is the best way to insure efficient operation.

Before picking begins, Hull suggests removing and washing roller chains in kerosene. After washing, dry and dip in No. 20 or 30 motor oil. Unless picking conditions are dirty, lubricate roller chains by applying this motor oil with a clean paint brush. If operating conditions are dirty, run the roller chains dry.

Fill gear cases with a good grade of winter gear lubricant, such as No. 90. The specialist says a new pour-type grease is now available for pressure gun use.

Stop To Clean

When operating your corn picker, Norval Wardle, extension farm safety specialist at Iowa State College, says follow a few safety rules may save your life, an arm, hand, fingers, or may save you from other serious injuries.

The specialist recommends always stopping the husking and snapping rolls to clean them or to brush off fodder. Wear close fitting clothing and keep the power take-off shield in place.

He suggests training new help in the proper running of the picker, tractor and elevator. Never adjust the picker, elevator or tractor while they are in motion, and never use a stick or stalk to push clogs through the rolls while they are in motion.

IOWA BULLS BEST

A Holsien bull, Mercedes Veeman Beets, owned by Northwest Iowa Breeders Coop. of Sheldon, Iowa, took top honors at Ames on Sept. 11 as being the highest proven holstein sire, living and in use in Iowa on July 1st.

This award was given by Wallaces Farmer, Iowa Homestead and Iowa State College. Awards are given to the top 10 sires proven in Iowa each year.

Farmers in this community can have the use of this bull as well as many others through the North Ia. Breeders Coop. of Kanawha. Lester Anderson of Kanawha is the technician for the Coop. Lester owns property and pays taxes in the state. The bull is coperatively owned and all its money is kept in the state in taxes paid by itself and its employees as well as contributing 5c of each firt service to Iowa State College for research. Patronize North Iowa Breeders Coop., they are supporing the state and community.

Recently the Coop. received two bulls from the U. S. Dept. of Agriculture at Beltsville, Md. Both are linebred and plus proven. The USDA has carried on a program of using only well proven sires and have developed a wonderful herd with their use.

Artificial Breeding has grown fast the last few years. Northwest Iowa Breeders are servicing 30% more cows this year than they were a year ago and have doubled their volume in the last 3 years. The use of outstanding sires and above average technicians has been the reason for their fast growth.

Lester Anderson has been servicing cows for many years. He is one of the better inseminators in the state. He has service available from all dairy breeds as well as Hereford and Angus in the beef. For service call Kanawha 123.

MYSTERIOUS OBJECT SIGHT OVER TWIN LAKES

Ed Thompson And Family Watch Object For Nearly An Hour

Ed. Thopmson, local grocer, has never believed too much in the stories of "flying saucers" but after an experience Sunday night he does not know just what to think about it.

Mr. and Mrs. Thompson and daughter, Barbara, were returning home from Kanawha Sunday evening at about 8:00 o'clock. As they neared West Twin Lake they saw red and greenish flashes in the sky ahead of them, which seemed to come from about the altitude that a passenger plane would travel. As they approached near they noted that the flashes were not that of a plane's wing-tip, but rather together and giving off a greenish-red flash, and the flashes seemed to hover over one spot.

As they were watching, the object shot skyward and traveled further to the east, about over East Twin Lake. They then drove along, still watching the mysterious glow, which again seemed to hover, then come straight down lower, again rise vertically, and would also scoot away horizontally to the right and to the left. All members of the family checked with each other to eliminate the possibility of an optical illusion.

As they were watching, the "object" suddenly shot skyward and then went west toward Kanawha, where it seemed to turn at a right angle to the north. The Thompsons again headed west in their car and then drove north from Kanawha and again watched the sight to the west of them. The same up and down and horizontal movements were again seen and at times the object would hover in one spot.

The Thompsons could not see the outline of the object, but only the reddish-green glow or flashes. They watched the mysterious object for almost an hour. Finally it departed in a northwesterly direction and was out of sight in a few minutes.

Mr. Thompson reported his observation to the University of Iowa, which is gathering data on unusal objects in the skies.

Was this object a "flying saucer?"

FIRE DESTROYS BARN NEAR KLEMME

The barn on the LeRoy Bamman farm was completely destroyed by fire last Wednesday evening. When Klemme Firemen responded to the call for help the blaze was near the peak of the barn and burning through the roof. Within a few minutes the entire barn was ablaze and firemen then turned their hoses on nearby buildings and managed to save them from the terrific heat and showers of sparks that fell upon them. Spectators are to be commented for quick thinking and moving a tractor that was standing nearby, a manure spreader and other various pieces of machinery. During the elapse of time between the call and the arrival of the fire department Mr. Bamman cleared the barn of stock and other things that could be readily saved.

The farm is owned by Herman Schuldt.

MINUTES OF BOARD OF PROCEEDINGS OF SEPTEMBER 15, 1952

The Board of Supervisors met at 1:30 P.M. at the Court House at Garner, Hancock County, Iowa, on this 15th day of September, 1952, pursuant to notice of hearing on the annexation of lands in Drainage District No 10S. Clint D Daniels, Chairman, and Supervisor Bird being present Supervisor Sam A. Barber was absent.

The Chairman, presiding and in the chair, announced that hearing on the annexation of lands herafter described would be held by the Board, proof of publication of the notice being on file showing such notice published in the Britt News-Tribune for two successive weeks, the last of which publication was on August 20, 1952. No objections were made to the petition, either oral or in writing, and no one appeared in opposition thereto, and the Board having duly considered the petition of Howard L Hoenk filed on October 29, 1951, wherein he waived notice of hearing and agreed to make, no objections to the assessment of benefits if the West One-Half (W½) of the Southwest One-Fourth (SW¼) of the Northwast One-Fourth (NW¼) of Section 12, in Township 95 North, Range 26, Hancock County, Iowa, was included in said Drainage District No. 108, and the Board having considered the application of Howard L Hoenk, wherin he asked in petition filed by him on October 12, 1951 that the West One-Half (W½) of the Southwest One-Fourth (SW¼) of the Northwest One-Fourth (NW¼) of Section 12, in Township 95 North, Range 26, west of the 5th P.M. Hancock County, Iowa, containing approximately twenty (20) acres, be included in and annexed to said Drainage District No. 108, and it appearing from the report of C F. Merten, Engineer, filed November 23, 1951, that he has recommended that the West One-Half (W½) of the Southwest One-Fourth (SW¼) of the Northwest One-Fourth (NW¼) should be included in said Drainage District No. 108, the followinx Resolution was offered, introduced and read by Supervisor Bird:

RESOLUTION

WHEREAS, Howard L. Hoenk, the owner of the West One-Half (W½) of the Southwest One-Fourth (SW¼) of the Northwest One-Fourth (NW¼) of Section 12, in Township 95 North, Range 26 West of the 5th P.M., Hancock County, Iowa, did heretofore file with this Board his petition asking that said described tract of real estate be annexed to and included in Drainage District No. 108 of Hancock County, Iowa, and agreed to waive notice of hearing and to make no objections to the assessment of benefits by reason thereof: and

WHEREAS, Charles F. Merten, engineer appointed by this Board to examine said lands and report to the Board, did on November 23, 1951 file in the office of the County Auditor his report in writing recommending the inclusion and annexation of said lands, and there being no objections thereto by any owners of lands in said Drainage District by either oral or written objections, and the proof of publication being on file showing notice to all persons interested in said Drainage District No. 10S; and

WHEREAS, Drainage District No. 10S is a duly established drainage district, and the Board is convinced that such additional lands are benefited by the improvement and should have been included in the District as originally established; and

WHEREAS, it is deemed necessary and proper that such additional lands should be annexed to and included in said District, and the engineer who was appointed for such purpose has recommended the same and the Board has considered the report, plats and profiles and is satisfied that such lands are materially benefited by the District and that such Annexation is just to the owners and for the interest

NOW, THEREFORE, BE AND IT IS HEREBY RESOLVED that the Southwest One-Fourth (SW¼) of the Northwest One-Fourth (NW¼), the Northwest One-Fourth (NW¼) of the Southwest One-Fourth (SW¼), and the Southwest One-Fourth (SW¼) of the Southwest One-Fourth (SW¼) of said Section 12, Township 95, range 26, shall be and the same is hereby annexed to and included in the Main of said Drainage District No. 108, and said described tracts are likewise included in Lateral 153 of said Drainage District No. 108.

BE AND IT IS FURTHER RESOLVED that the said Howard L. Hoenk, or the owners of said described lands, shall pay into the funds of Drainage District No. 108 the sum of $95.00 as the share of the original cost of said Drainage District No. 108, and that said lands be reclassified to read as follows:

Section 12-95-26
Main

SW¼ NW¼	.00195
NW¼ SW¼	.00190
SW¼ SW¼	.00192

Lateral 153

SW¼ NW¼	.0187
NW¼ SW¼	.0183
SW¼ SW¼	.0185

AND BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that said sum of $95.00 shall be and is hereby levied and assessed against the real estate above shown and shall be payable with the general taxes of 1952 payable in 1953.

AND BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that the reclassification of said lands as herein set forth and in the report of the engineer shall stand as the basis for all future assessments made in said Drainage District.

The foregoing Resolution was seconded by Supervisor Daniels, Supervisor Barber being absent, and upon call of the roll the vote was as follows: Supervisor Bird Yea Supervisor Daniels Yea. Whereupon the Chairman declared the Resolution duly adopted and declared the lands therein described to be annexed to and included in said Drainage District No. 108.

the Highway Story

IOWA DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC SAFETY

BY BOB HULLIHAN

Iowa's corn harvest will mean a "tragic harvest of human lives on the highways unless both farmers and drivers co-operate to protect one another," the state safety department warned Thursday.

Safety Commissioner Pearl W. McMurry advised all drivers to start reducing speed and to keep a sharp watch for slower moving farm vehicles on the highways.

'Slow down particularly," he said, "when rounding curves and at the crests of hills. Otherwise, you may find yourself bearing down on a farm vehicle that was hidden from view."

He called "a sound safety precaution" the practice of erecting a ten foot pole topped with a small red flag on tractors and farm wagons using the highways.

"The red flag seen over a hill may give some driver just enough warning to save the lives of both the driver and the farmer who sits virtually unprotected on his tractor." he said.

S. N. Jespersen, highway patrol chief, reminded farm operators that state law requires all form machinery moving on the highways after dark to be marked with a red light on the rear and white lights on the front.

He emphasized that a white light on the rear does not meet the requirements of the law; that it does not give a clear warning to drivers or protect the operator of the farm equipment.

"During this harvest season," he said, "it is vitally important that drivers and farmers cooperate to protect one another or lives will almost certainly be lost without need."

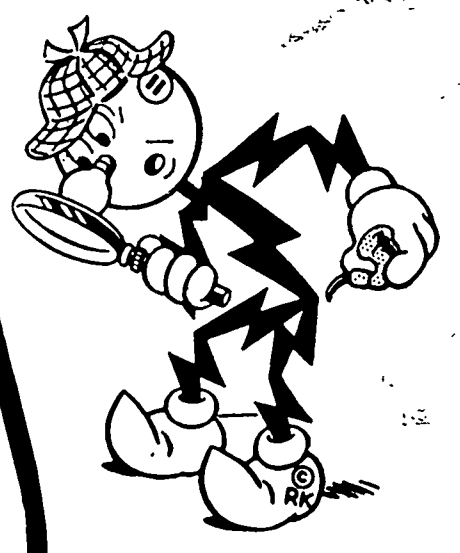
Robbery!

REWARD For each and every one of these bulbs you find, you can get a new bulb, 25 to 100 watts as you prefer. Bring any S-1 bulb you find in your house down to the Light company... and we'll replace it immediately, FREE!



"I've discovered that the S-1 bulb is a TV robber. If you are using one in your home it may be interfering with TV reception in your whole neighborhood. Be a good neighbor and check all your light bulbs tonight."

These obsolete S-1 bulbs are easy to recognize. Look for the clear glass and looped wire filament. Present day inside frosted lamp bulbs have tightly coiled filaments and do not interfere with TV reception. So don't let your, or your neighbor's, favorite TV show be ruined.

Check your attic, basement, closets, hallways and other out-of-the-way spots around your home where these robbers might be found. They also rob you of electricity as they are less efficient than modern bulbs. Bring any S-1 lamp you find to our sales floor and trade it for a new bulb.

County Extension Director By Paul Henderson,

Any money which will be made in feeding cattle next year, probably will have to come out of feeding for the gains. For cattle feeding margins are likely to be pretty slim, Francis A. Kutish, Iowa State College farm economist reports.

Kutish expects fat cattle prices next year to be no less than 10 per cent lower than this year. His reasons: Beef slaughter will be up at least 10 percent over the 1952 figure. Beef demand, on the other hand, is likely to average about at the present levels - the first half of the year may be a bit stronger, but business may taper off a little in the last half of 1953, Kutish believes.

If we should stop adding to our total cattle numbers, prices would be off more than 10 percent. We have added 15 million head of cattle to total numbers during the last 3 years. The holding back of these cattle from slaughter has been one of the props under the price of cattle, says Kutish.

Big Risk

Based on past history of the cattle cycle, we shouldn't get the big boost in cattle slaugthre for another year. But it could happen next year — and that is the biggest risk m cattle feeding for the coming year, in Kutish's opinion.

Barring that possibility, he believes that the efficient feeder should come out all right in feeding cattle this winter. But to do this cattle must be bought at a price so they can be marketed at prices which are about 10 percent lower next year.

New Protein Feeds

Protein feed output next year will be no greater than this past year. This puts a premium on making efficient use of feed. Cattle feeder who want to cut the costs should investigate the possibility of using urea to stretch the protein supply. Iowa State College tests showed a mixture of one-tenth pound of urea and three-fourths of a pound of linseed oil meal would produce the same weight gains as 1½ pounds of linseed oil meal. In winter cattle are using larger amounts of roughage Purdue supplement A and Iowa supplements 1 and 2 show some promise of doing an efficient job. Hancock County farmers can get information on how to use them by stopping in at the local county extension office.

MY CHURCH

You may live in several different communities during a life time, and may attend different churches at different times, but there is always one church that stands out as "My Church." The following story illustrates our point, the story is true, only the names are changed.

In the fall of 1929, I was called to a farm home to take charge of burial arrangements for a kindly old lady, age 87, whom we will call Martha James.

She was born and raised in a community which we will call Pleasantridge, Iowa. She became a member of a rural church, grew up, taught school 2 years, married a farmer, became the mother of three children and was kept very busy, but very happy too.

After 4 years of farming the husband died of appendicitis which changed so many things.

She had a public auction, paid her debts, moved her little family east of Hampton, Iowa where she taught school, later she taught in Hampton and also in Mason City. She never became rich in "silver and gold" but, she did a good job of raising her family, and the Christian influence of her life was felt by each of the many young people who attended her classes during her lifetime as a public school teacher.

On the night before Martha James and her family moved out of Pleasantridge, she attended the weekly prayer meeting. She made a little speech to the gathering telling them that she would now have a double load to carry, namely, she must be both Breadwinner and Mother to her family. She asked the group to remember her in their prayers, so that God would give her health and strength to carry on. The meeting closed by singing, at her reguest, her favorite song entitled, "Just As I Am."

Martha James never transfered her membership from the church of her youth at Pleasantridge. It was here that she experienced a spiritual awakening and ever after loved the song "Just As I Am." In this church they were married, their children baptized, and last rites conducted for her husband. No wonder she loved this church and always referred to it as "My Church."

Each of us in our youth is confronted with the problem as to whether or not we will earnestly strive to lead the "Good Life." The church through religious instruction and training helps us to make a favorable decision, and all through life, you will always remember the church of your youth, and you too will think of it often as "My Church."

Each year, for 53 years, Martha James sent one dollar to the Pleasantridge church as a token payment on her membership and each year she asked the church to remember her in their prayers even as she remembered all of them.

After she had sent her fiftieth dollar, the church officials, together with a photographer drove 50 miles to the home of her daughter, where Martha was living. A large picture was made and inscribed, "Martha our Golden Member" this picture, in a beautiful gold leaf frame, now hangs in the Pleasantridge Church.

The organ played softly as we entered the Pleasantridge Church for Martha's funeral service, a male quartette sang "Just As I Am," an old clergyman came back from retirement to officiate at her burial, same as he had officiated for her husband while he was pastor of this church, he said Martha has come back to her church," "Thank God for her life." Interment was made in the church yard beside her husband.

About half of the boys and girls attending our Klemme Schools today will leave this community when they are grown, to find employment in the city or join the armed forces.

And like Martha James, you may often be far from home, and perhaps a little homesisk. Think of your Hometown and remember the teachings of your parents, and heed the religious training of your church.

Your family. Your hometown and Your church want to be proud of you.

Commercial

Klemme wants a good Dentist to locate here, good office space is available, several young graduates were interested from time to time, but the war took them.

It sort of looks as if Truman wants to keep the war going until after election. His idea of keeping some of the Commie Prisoners is a "red herring." Our own Congress will never approve of that, if we keep some of the Commie prisoners, Russia would keep some of ours and make slaves of them. No doubt after we get rid of the gangster influence in our highest office, the war will end, and when the war ends there should be plenty of Dentists.

Mr. and Mrs. Bud Montgomery and Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Jorgenson attended the dinner and meeting of the Hawkeye Press Club at the Hull Cafe in Garner Saturday evening. C. D. "Chub" Elling of the Garner Leader was host, and after the meeting the members visited Mr. Ellings new newspaper plant.

There were fifty persons present at the meeting and it was one of the best meetings held this past year. The Club will meet the latter part of October at Charles City.

Junior High Lost Two Ball Games

The Klemme Junior High boys lost two thrilling baseball games to Hayfield the past week.

The first game was played at Hayfield. The Klemme boys were leading through-out the game and were leading 9-3 going into the last inning. Errors, walks and all sorts of bad luck took place in that inning. Hayfield tied the score 9-9 and went on to win 10-9 in tht extra inning.

Klemme out hit Hayfield 9-3.

The second game was played last Thursday at Klemme with Hayfield winning 7-3. The score was tied going into the last inning, when Hayfield went wild and scored 4 runs. Klemme gave up three hits five walks and struck out 10 batters.

The Hayfield pitchers allowed 7 hits, 3 walks, and 6 strike outs.

The boys are getting some valuable experience in these games.

REGULATIONS FOR HUNTING SEASON

Here's a brief rundown on Iowa hunting prospects:

Squirrels— Season lasts until November 15. Slight increase in squirrel population promises good shooting.

Rabbits—Season extends to January 31, 1953. Late fall and winter should be the best in several years.

Ducks—Season is October 8 to December 1. Increased season indicates more ducks—nothing phenomenal but there is a slight increase in populations.

Geese—Same season and situation as ducks.

Quail—Season November 1 to December 15 in long zone; November 1 to November 15 in the short zone. There has been a slight decrease in quail population, but nothing critical.

Pheasants—Long Zone season November 11 to December 5; short zone season November 11 to November 22. Although early census counts showed a few less birds, reproduction was good and all indications point to shooting at least as good or a little better than last year.

DYNAMITE

Ed Wild, of near Waukon, 66 year old farmer, was hurt recently as he blasted stumps with dynamite. Caught in one of the blasts, he received injuries to his eyes and chest.

Handy Duplicates Save Steps

Every so often, if you are like most homemakers, you take stock of your kitchen equipment and discard items that do not seem to be "paying their way." But before you do away with duplicates, ask yourself if it wouldn't be good working strategy to have the same piece of equipment on hand several places.

Frequently similar items are needed in two or three different places in the kitchen, says U. S. Department of Agriculture household equipment specialists. You use measuring cups and spoons at mixing center, range and sink. Supplies like salt, sugar, flour, seasonings cereals, cocoa and cooking fats are used at both range and mixing center. If you keep the large containers of these staples at your mixing center, and small ones near the range, you'll save yourself time and trouble.

Help make your kitchen more convenient than ever by having what you need - where you use it first. This may mean getting rid of some items but adding others.

NO POWER

Seymour was without electric power for three hours recently. Water which had condensed in the storage tanks reached the diesel engines, causing the shutdown.

OCTOBER 7 MEETING DATE FOR IOWA SYNOD

The Northeast Section of Iowa Synod will hold its Fall Meeting at Immanuel Evan. and Reformed Church on Tuesday, October 7 with registration to begin at 9:15 a. m. Delegates representing congregations, consistories, Sunday Schools, Youth Fellowships, Brotherhoods and Women's Guilds along with the pastors of some 34 congregations will attend this annual meeting.

Iowa Synod will be represented by Rev. Joseph Newgard, president and by Rev. Ernest Press, Chm., of the committee on Kingdom Service. The denominational representative is Dr. R. C. Stanger of Chicago. Dr. Arthur Krueger, President of Mission House College and Seminary will represent the Commission on Higher Education. Dr. Henry I. Stahr will represent the Committee on Business Management. Rev. Robert Fauth of Detroit, Michigan will represent the Board of Christian Education and Publication. Rev. Fauth formerly served as pastor of the church in Tripoli, Iowa.

The women of the church will serve the dinner at noon and a luncheon following the sessions at 5:00 p. m. Immanuel church extends a cordial invitation to the community to visit these sessions. Many of the messages will be of general interest. Special music will be provided by the Women's Chorus of Immanuel Church.

This map shows proposed routes for new high voltage lines of the "Iowa Grid," a network of 161,000 volt lines which will inter-connect Iowa's eight major producers. The solid lines on the map are existing circuits which will be incorporated into the grid: dotted lines show planned new construction. The exact routes of the new transmission lines are the subject of engineering studies now being made..

Des Moines, Iowa—Eight major electric companies are planning a $38,000,000 statewide high voltage transmission grid which will be another step in an Iowa power pooling and generation system that is estimated to cost $268,000,000 by 1965.

Sutherland Dows, Cedar Rapids, president of both the Iowa Utilities Association and the Iowa Electric Light and Power Co., disclosed the plans and said the companies have already started on initial construction phases of the transmission grid.

The grid, a network of 1,2- additional miles of 161,000 volt electric lines, will be an "ex pressway" for movement of large quantities of electric energy between the companies.

All financing for the transmission grid and new generating facilities will be done by private investors, many thousands of them Iowans, and will make no use of government funds.

The "Iowa Grid" will link the major power companies of Iowa. These companies generate about 85 per cent of the state's electric energy.

The companies are: Iowa Public Service Co., Sioux City; Iowa Power and Light Co., Des Moines; Iowa Electric Light and Power Co., Cedar Rapids; Intersate Power Co., Dubuque; Iowa-Illinios Gas and Electric Co., Davenport; Iowa Southern Utilities Co; Centerville; Union Electric Power Co. Keokuk, and Peoples Gas and Electric Co., Mason City.

Two east-west and three north-south routes have been outlined. Interconnection of the companies under the grid plan would permit power to be fed into any section of the state from at least two directions. The 161,000 volt lines would not provide direct service to any individual customer, but substations along the main routes would permit power to be fed into existing distribution systems.

The grid would utilize 356 miles of existing 161,000 volt lines which extend from Davenport to Des Moines. A leg of that system extends from Des Moines to Fort Dodge, and anther from Des Moines to Clarinda and then on to St. Joseph and Kansas City, Mo. A 115,000 volt line from Cedar Rapids to Boone also would be incorporated into the statewide system.

When Missouri river hydroelectric power becomes available, the grid will be ready to make connections at Sioux City and other points to transmit such power to Iowa users.

Dows said the participating companies have agreed on interconnection principles and will welcome power interchange agreements with other producers.

"Interconnection with the existing municipal plants is included in the planning for the statewide power system," he said. "The grid companies will be glad to negotiate interchange agreements with the municipal systems and REA cooperatives."

"Such interconnections are held to be mutually advantageous in reducing the investment required for generating reserves and by providing continuous service in emergencies," he explained.

Work has already begun on two lines that will become a part of the grid system. Iowa Public Servile Co. has begun a line from Sioux City to Fort Dodge where it will connect withthe present 161,000 volt line of the Iowa-Illinois Gas and Electric Co. Iowa Power and Light Co. has received authorization and is preparing work on a similiar line which will connect with the existing 161,000 volt line at Clarinda. The new line will extend from Clarinda to a new generating station under construction at Council Bluffs and then to Avoca.

Engineers consider the interconnection plan as a "modernization" of electric transmission in Iowa. A survey of the state's anticipated power needs indicates an investment of $230,000,000 in new generating stations will be required between now and 1965 in order to meet the demands expected then. Power companies have projects toalling more than $100,000,000 now underway in Iowa.

The initial phase of the grid construction calls for new lines, in addition to those under construction, from Fort Dodge to Iowa Falls and on eastward to Dubuque; from Iowa Falls to Mason City and then on to Albert Lea, Minn., and from Oelwein north to near Decorah, making 575 miles of new electric "expressways" over the state.

An additional 684 miles of the grid will provide for electric "super-highways" from Sioux City southeast to Avoca ant then east to Des Moines; from west of Storm Lake north. From north of Mason City east to Decorah; north from Keokuk to either Iowa City or Davenport; from Iowa Falls to Marshalltown. Another line would connect the new Iowa Southern Utilities Co. plant at Eddyville into the grid at Des Moines or Searsboro.

Flow of power over the lines would be controlled from central dispatching offices. Generating loads at each station would be coordinated so that customers of the grid companies would get the advantage of the cheapest power and fuel available. The more expensive fuels and generating units would be used only to meet peak loads or emergency demands.

The interconnection will provide better service during emergencies because any of the companies may, if necessary, draw upon the reserve generating capacity of all the others. This ability to meet short time needs by power interchange improves the quality of service while reducing the investment in standby and emergency generation units.

The central dispatching offices will have instant communication with all generating stations in the grid by means of "carrier current" channels over the transmission lines, and other such carriers will transmit continuous reports of production and use in each of the cooperating company systems.

This ambitious program contemplates meeting all of Iowa's future power needs. Present loads of nearly 900,000 kilowatts are expected to more than double in the next ten years.

GOOD ATTENDANCE AT BIBLE OBSERVANCE

Folks of the Klemme community met in the Immanuel Evangelical & Reformed Church on Tueday in a recognition service of the publication of the Revised Standard Version of the Bible. This was one of five such services in Hancock County and 201 in the state of Iowa and some 6000 across the nation.

The service included a devotional message by the Rev. J. Herber Miller of the Methodist Church at Belmond. The theme of the national observance, "The Living Word in Living Language," and the presentation of copies of the new translation to Mr. Virgil Cook, mayor of Klemme, Superintendent T. G. Ahrenkiel of the Klemme Public Schools, and lay representatives of the three churches cooperating, Raymond Barz of the Immanuel Evangelical and Reformed Church, Everett Guth of the Klemme Methodist Church and Elmer Beier of the Liberty Methodist Church.

The Rev. Vernon Jaberg was in charge of the service assisted by Rev. E. Morris Egeland. Mrs. E. A. Gerardi was organist and special music was by the Men's Chorus of the Immanuel Church and Mrs. Vern Bisom of the Klemme Methodist Church. Mrs. Bisom sang a special hymn written for the occasion, "The Divine Gift."

Copies of the Revised Standard Version went on sale officially on Tuesday, September 30 the day of the recognition service and are available in three editions, a $6 buckram edition, a $10 leather edition and a $5 two-volume Old Testament Edition. A one-volume New Testament is priced at $2.50.

Deadline For Craft Sign-Up

October 10th is the deadline for sign-up for the Farm Bureau Craft Classes to be held in Klemme, Kanawha, Hayfield and Crystal Lake in November.

Any women in Hancock Co. who are interested in participating in the crafts should call or write to the County Farm Bureau Office before the deadline.

Four crafts will be offered. They include Swedish Weaving, Textile Painting, Candle Making and Glass Etching. Women from the Farm Bureau Groups will be instructors. Each craft will be under a dollar.

Return From Colorado Trip

Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Beier and Mr. and Mrs. Will Riemer of Miller, left Friday September 19th for a trip to Colorado. Their first stop was at Straton, Colorado where they visited at the home of Mr. Beier's niece. On Monday they went to Hugo, Colorado and visited with the Ray Yeager family. In the afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Yeager took them to see the ranch where Herb Stille had lived about 30 years ago. There was not much left of the place, just a pump, well, silo pit and a little old machinery.

When the ranchers want to built a barn on their place they just go and tear down the ones not in use and built it up again. This is in the wheat country and being a dry year the crop wasn't so good. The corn grows only four feet high and cannot be compared to good Iowa corn. They do however, have a few silos in which they put the maize. The next stop was at Colorado Springs where they visited the Garden of the Gods and up Pikes Peak, where they enjoyed throwing snow balls at one another. From the Peak they went onto the Royal Gorge where they saw the largest hanging bridge in the world. The next couple of days were spent sight-seeing around Denver arriving back in Klemme on Saturday September 27.

Klemme's History To Be Revealed In The Columns Of This Paper

HISTORY OF KLEMME

Compiled and edited by Arthur Wellemeyer

The Civic Club of Klemme, put on a Celebration August 8, 1939, commemorating the 50th anniversary of the founding of Klemme, Iowa, and the writer was appointed to gather material for a history of Klemme.

The thought was that such a history would be valuable for future reference, and should be obtained at this time while several of the old settlers were still with us. Much credit is due the older residents for their co-operation in getting the facts. We want especially to thank, Lew Lewis, Henry Wille, T. Blank, Mrs. Amanda Kirkwood, E. A. Suckow, J. J. Stille, Lew Avery Mrs. Martha Bredbenner and Henry Galbreth for their help.

THE BACKGROUND

We must go back further than the year 1889 to start the history of Klemme, because there were a few things which had to be attended to before a live trading town like Klemme could be put on the map.

1st - We must organize the State of Iowa.

2nd - We must get rid of the Indians.

3rd - -We must bring in the First Settlers.

4th - Hancock must be organized.

5th - We must build a railroad.

Let us consider these things briefly.

The State of Iowa was admitted into the Union in 1846, the 29th star in our national flag.

THE INDIANS

When the first white settlers arrived in Hancock County, the state of Iowa still had quite a population of Indians. They usually had their villages in the natural timber along rivers and lakes.

The Sacs and Foxes, a very warlike tribe of Indians, occupied the eastern part of the state along the Mississippi. and formerly lived east of the river but were forced West by the Whites for a thousand miles or more, a little at a time, fighting every step of the way until they were west of the river in Iowa.

The Iowas for whom the state was named, lived in the territory where Des Moines now is. They were a small tribe in numbers and were later destroyed by the Sacs and Foxes.

From PILOT KNOB east and north lived the friendly Winnebago Indians. The settlers had little trouble with them.

The north central part of Iowa was occupied by the Sioux Indians. Their hunting grounds extended from Clear Lake to Fort Dodge and northward and included Hancock County.

The last Indian settlement in Hancock County was at "Sioux Island". Here in the northern part of Liberty township, nature had allowed a hill to remain in the middle of a wet peat swamp. The swamp itself, before it was drained with tile and ditch, contained possibly 400 acres, and the hill contained several acres. This hill was called Sioux Island. Being surrounded by water the prairie fires could not get at it and it was completely covered with trees. The Indians built a raised earthen path to the island through the swamp and lived there at the time Garner was platted in 1870. They gradually moved away and disappeared.

The Sioux Indians were a sneaking bunch of thieves, something like the gypsies of today. The young men would rob the traps of trappers, and the older Indians would roam about on horseback begging from the scattered early settlers.

Mrs. Henry Griewe, late, of Liberty township, told the writer of an experience she had with the Sioux Island Indians. It was in the spring of 1880. Her husband was away on a 20 mile trip by team, taking grist to the mill at Belmond. She was at home alone with the children when a party of several Indians called, tied their horses to the fence, came into the houseyard, kickd over milk pails and made considerable noise. Mrs. Griewe came to the door and asked what they wanted. They said, "Eat", and would have pushed past her into the kitchen, but she pointed to the smoke house and told them to help themselves. She barred the door and watchd them through the window as they carried away all her meat for summers use, bacon, hams dried beef, sausage and so forth.

Many of our residents of today have a few arrow heads which they have picked up from time to time, but the largest collections of arrow heads, stone hammers, and Indain relics in this community is owned by Roland Runge of Klemme, Ia. Many of the pieces in his collection were picked up at Sioux Island.

EARLY SETTLERS

In the early fall of 1853,, two young men arrived from Michigan to trap and take furs. They set up their camp in the Goodell Woods" and stayed all winter. They were Charles Philo, a brother of Mrs. Anson Avery, and Charles Avery, a brother of Anson Avery. In the spring of 1854 they broke camp, loaded their furs and equipment on a raft and floated down the Iowa river to the nearest large settlement where they sold their furs. They got back to Michigan in time to help the Anson Averys move.

The first white settlement in Hancock County was made by Mr. and Mrs. Anson Avery. They arrived on September 14, 1854, and located at "Upper Grove" on the east fork of the Iowa river the north-east quarter, section 28, Avery Township. From Klemme this is 5 miles south and 1 mile east.

Mr. Avery was was a native of New York state, and Mrs. Avery was born at Sandusky, Ohio. Mr. Avery was 31 years of age and his wife was 23 when they hauled their household goods and supplies to Hancock county from Cass county, Michigan, in two covered wagons drawn by six yoke of oxen.

The farm which our first settler chose, is about a mile from the river, a nice piece of level land with few trees on it. Between his farm and the river there was a small forest of natural timber. Thus he had water for his live stock and timber with which to construct buildings.

On arriving, he cut sufficient grass with a common hand scythe to build a hay shed. Here they lived for several weeks while Mr. Avery built a log house, size 16 feet by 18 feet In this they spent their first winter.

BY BOB HULLIHAN

When the gun went off ending the game, every rational mind in the stadium seemed to take off with it like a flock of frightened birds. People stood beating each other on the backs crushing hats and screaming like universal disaster. They had just seen a stunning football victory racked-up in the last seconds of defeat.

As the crowd pressed out the gates the excitement began to die in the adults but it still razed among the young people. Dozens of cars filled with teenagers roared out of the parking lots and headed for the business district.

Behind them, lost in the noise, the public address system droned out something about safety... careful driving... "The life you save...."

In minutes, the downtown streets were filled with racing cars, blaring horns. The outnumbered police were virtually helpless and pedestrians kept to the sidewalks knowing they risked their lives in the streets.

While the demonstration went on, parents walked, took cabs or found rides to their homes. The night, they felt, belonged to the youngsters and they had to have the cars to celebrate.

The traffic riot continued for nearly an hour in the streets and no one noticed one car, painted with dire threats to the opposition, that slipped out of the parade and raced out of town to the open highway.

The car was crammed with six teen-agers driven to spread the feeling of victory into the countryside, into surrounding towns. They weren't heard from again until well after midnight.

Then, the lights in six homes came on as parents received calls from the highway patrol. The car had been found nearly 300 feet off a curve. A boy was dead, three youngsters were injured and two were in a state of shock.

Friday night the team plays again and, if it wins, perhaps very few will notice one less car in the victory parade that will overrun the town again.
